PREFACE

More than twenty-five years ago my kinsman, Canon Arthur Roland Maddison, commenced the publication of these CHURCH NOTES in Lincolnshire Notes & Queries, but he died before he had finished his task. To have them all printed in book form has long been my desire. My grandfather's love for all things connected with Lincolnshire and Lincolnshire folk was so great that I feel that such a publication will form a fitting memorial to him. I owe the realisation of this wish to the courtesy of the Lincoln Record Society and to the encouragement, advice, and help of my friend, Canon C. W. Foster, Hon. D.Litt. It has been a great privilege for me to have had him as guide, mentor, and untiring collaborator in the production of this volume. Canon Foster's patience and ever helpful kindness have been inexhaustible, so I gladly take this opportunity to pay an affectionate and grateful tribute to him for enabling me to produce the volume and make it fit for the special purpose I have in view.

To the Members of the Record Society I express my thanks for their long-suffering patience during the delay in the appearance of the volume. This delay has been due to my desire to see that, by careful checking and counterchecking, the greatest possible accuracy should be obtained. That the Society should permit these CHURCH NOTES to appear as one of their volumes has been a particular satisfaction to me, for I feel certain that had the Society been in existence during my grandfather's lifetime, he would have been an enthusiastic supporter of it in every way in his power.

To my friend, Mr George Gibbons, M.A., F.S.A., I tender my warm thanks, not only for the immense trouble he has taken in checking the inscriptions in many of the churches, but also for his invaluable assistance in a large part of the heraldry. The efficient treatment of this aspect of the NOTES has called for much specialised knowledge, and I have therefore been very fortunate in securing his co-operation. Without the labour bestowed on the heraldry the volume would have lacked much of its usefulness and interest. Mr Gibbons has also read the proofs.

The Incumbents of the two hundred and twenty-seven parishes mentioned in the NOTES have almost without exception given me every help in the tedious work of checking the inscriptions. To them I tender my sincere thanks for the interest they have shown in seeing that the inscriptions in their churches are correctly recorded. Amongst the many kind friends who have also rendered efficient help in checking inscriptions, I should like especially to mention Captain W. A. Cragg, M.A., F.S.A., who verified a number of the inscriptions in his neighbourhood. His assistance has been particularly valuable, for he was able to refer to the notes made by his great uncle, Mr John Cragg, in the nineteenth century, whose burial is recorded at page 385.

Amongst others whom I should like especially to thank are, Mrs Rudkin, of Willoughton; Miss Kathleen Major, B.Litt., Librarian of St Hilda's College, Oxford; Miss M. Wood, of Sleaford; Canon Foster's nieces, the Misses Sybil Ingoldby, and Margery, Marion, and Barbara Wilson; Captain J. W. Hayes, of Spalding; The Reverend C. A. Norris, rector of North Witham; and Mr Hugh Paget, of Aswarby.

I also desire to record my sincere thanks to Miss Florence Thurlby, Canon Foster's most efficient private secretary. To her I owe much for the valuable assistance she has given in checking, correcting proofs, and compiling the indexes, as well as in carrying out many of those countless duties which fall to the lot of an Editor. To the Hereford Times Company also I am indebted for the care and patience which they have bestowed upon the work.

Churches contained in the CHURCH NOTES

The Council of THE LINCOLN RECORD SOCIETY wish to make their grateful acknowledgments to Lord Monson, the Society's President, for generously defraying the cost of printing this edition of his Grandfather's CHURCH NOTES.

The five years that Monson spent at Mitcham laid the foundations of no small scholarship, so that in going to Eton in May 1809 he took Upper Remove, and passed into the Fifth Form in June of the same year. He was more than half way up the Upper Division in 1812 when he left, after three happy years, notwithstanding Keate's rigid rule.

He went to Christ Church, Oxford, in January, 1814, and took his degree in November, 1816. He began his Oxford Memoirs the last year of his life, but they were never finished. This is to be regretted since they would have formed, with the Mitcham and Eton Memoirs,¹ an interesting trilogy of early nineteenth century school and college life. The more so, since he retained up to his death a vivid recollection of the appearance, character, and peculiarities of the boys and men who were his contemporaries, and with whom he associated in those early days. It is well to emphasise this, for his remarkably tenacious memory played a great part in all his research work, and was of great assistance in his passion for accuracy.

In February, 1817, he was admitted as a student of Lincoln's Inn, just before he began a series of journeys to the Continent, which lasted, with short intermittent periods in England, until 1825. During these journeys he visited the greater part of northern, central, and southern Europe. That these prolonged tours were deliberately planned and carried out with a view to continuing his general education, and that he was not purely 'on pleasure bent', is very evident from his diaries and letters. These papers show a very observant nature and a strong desire to profit by the opportunities which travel afforded. It is also apparent from various sources that he was soon considered an authority on art, history, and archæology by those with whom he was thrown during his travels.

That from an early age he developed a special taste for genealogy and archæology and other antiquarian subjects is evident, and that his interest therein was serious is proved by the fact that, not long before his twenty-second birthday, he was elected a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, an honour vouchsafed to few of his age even in those days.

In 1828 he married Eliza, daughter of Edmund Larken. The honeymoon was spent travelling through England; and ended with a visit to Lincolnshire to see the various parishes and churches associated with the Monson family. This resulted in the first CHURCH NOTES being made. The daily entries in his diary indicate clearly that Mrs Monson shared wholeheartedly his antiquarian interests, a happy opening to what was to be a happy married life.

There can be no doubt that these first CHURCH NOTES were made with a view to obtaining material for his Family History, but by the time he had finished these early visitations he realised what vast sources of information Lincolnshire churches could supply for the compilation of a County History of a really comprehensive character. It is certain that, up to the time of his succession to the title in 1841, the idea of writing such a history so deeply attracted him that he lost no opportunity of collecting information on the subject from many different sources. In this he was aided by a peculiarly retentive memory. For instance, it is related that after reading a will over a few times, he was able to commit its substance to writing—a very useful gift in days when the slightest attempt to make notes of the contents of a will at Doctors' Commons was at once checked by vigilant officials. The voluminous correspondence and mass of documents that he left, carefully classified, in the family library bear witness to his ceaseless studies, and the high esteem in which he was held by his many correspondents on all matters connected with archæology, heraldry, and antiquarian subjects. He was fortunate in enlisting the help of his brother-in-law, Arthur Staunton Larken, who later became Porteuillis Pursuivant of Arms, and afterwards Richmond Herald; and of John Ross, a Lincolnshire antiquarian of considerable ability.

Shortly after his succession to the title Monson started on a three years' tour to the Continent with the whole of his family. During his travels he wrote at least two volumes of the six large manuscript tomes of his Family History. This work became of such absorbing interest to him that he eventually abandoned the idea of writing the County History which he was continually pressed by his contemporaries to undertake. It is however clear from Ross's letters to him that he allowed Ross access to all the materials he had collected, and there is at Burton to-day a splendid manuscript history of the City of Lincoln, written in Ross's beautiful hand and illustrated by him with water colour drawings of no mean artistic merit, as well as a great collection of notes and drawings relating to almost all the parishes in Lincolnshire arranged according to the wapentakes.

Monson died on 17th December, 1862, in his sixty-seventh year ; old for his age, judging from present day standards, but still full of enthusiasm for all matters relating to his life's hobby. In consequence of his almost complete deafness in later years, he seemed to be out of touch with ordinary life, though in reality, thanks to his very observant nature, he was very much alive to what was going on around him. His favourite room at Burton was his Library overlooking the cricket ground that he made, well known in those greater days of Lincolnshire cricket, where an England XI once played XXII of the County. Here in this library one can picture him sitting all day, surrounded by his beloved books and papers, answering in his fine handwriting his many correspondents.

His manhood had been passed during the period of strong religious revival, which included a great movement for the restoration and even rebuilding of the ancient churches in England, many of which had fallen into a sad state of disrepair, if not of ruin, in the eighteenth century. It is estimated that some thirty millions sterling were spent in this work, much of it being unwisely spent, as we now realise. Every age however has its period of vandalism and neglect so far as churches and their monuments are concerned. John Weever, referring to their condition in 1631, says,

‘ And also knowing withall how barbarously within these his Maiesties Dominions, they are (to the shame of our time) broken downe, and utterly almost all ruinated, their brasen Inscriptions erased, torne away, and pilfered, by which inhumane, deformidable act, the honourable memory of many vertuous and noble persons deceased, is extinguished, and the true understanding of divers Families in these Realmes (who have descended of these worthy persons aforesaid) is so darkened, as the true course of their inheritance is thereby partly interrupted.¹

Monson's CHURCH NOTES were compiled before the nineteenth century spirit of renovation became active in Lincolnshire. Hence their value ; for much of what he records disappeared during the passion for restoration. What he himself thought of this zeal for restoration, and how much he disapproved of it, is shown by the following extract from a letter written by him in 1860 :

' I want to go to Lincolnshire as early as I can even if I return, for they are pulling down an old Church, a family Church I was going to call it since it has a chapel attached to it that for centuries has been used for our last home, and the incumbent is a violent Utilitarian and wants to destroy a noble screen and probably other dear old relics, which I must endeavour to rescue. I am Protestant to the back bone and if it served religion would be an iconoclast, but it does not, and that is the honest truth. To introduce new fangled paraphernalia and to destroy old memorials to which the honest parishioners attach no improper notions are two very different things.'

And rescue them he certainly did, for what was removed in 1860 was carefully stored by him at Burton, and, in 1914, long after his death, replaced in the church, where his body rests.

Such was the man. It has been thought desirable that the reader of the CHURCH NOTES should be given some idea of the character of their compiler, so that he may the better understand how a work of this kind, unusual even in those days, came to be undertaken. The portrait of Monson, which forms the frontispiece of this work, was painted in his thirtieth year. It is one of several at Burton and has been especially chosen as representing him at the time he began the CHURCH NOTES. The artist, Yellowlees, who according to Bryan was known as the little Raeburn, became popular as a portrait painter both in Edinburgh and London during the first half of the nineteenth century.

The CHURCH NOTES are contained in twelve small volumes with paper-covered boards, measuring $7\frac{1}{4} \times 4\frac{5}{8}$ inches. They are preserved in the library at Burton, and consist of copies of monumental inscriptions, to which particulars of coats of arms and extracts from parish registers are added. They deal with two hundred and twenty-seven parishes, the distribution of which is shewn in the map at the end of this volume. The twelve volumes are evidently a fair copy of the original notes, which were probably written in pencil in the several churches, since the days of the fountain pen had not yet come. Monson's intention was not to print them as they stand, but rather, as has been stated, to use them as a body of evidence for the purpose of Lincolnshire history and genealogy.

Most of the NOTES were made by Monson himself. Sometimes he was accompanied by Arthur Larken. Occasionally he seems to have depended upon other people, and this applies especially to the churches in Holland. The NOTES made by Monson himself were carefully done, though no doubt they contain mistakes which are due, sometimes to difficulty in reading the inscriptions, and sometimes to mere human fallibility. Some of the other NOTES shew less care. The copying of inscriptions is not so easy a matter as might be thought; and many a time when the copyist is making his fair copy at home, he will wish that he had noticed this or that detail more closely, and that he could look at the monument again. The present editor therefore decided to have the NOTES checked so far as possible, and a manuscript copy of them relating to each church was sent to the Incumbent of the parish for his perusal and verification. Then again, when the manuscript had been set up in type, a proof was submitted to the Incumbent, except in those instances where it was possible to have the work done by another competent person. Many of the monuments have disappeared and many inscriptions have become illegible since the NOTES were made, and a good deal of time has been spent in checking the statements in these inscriptions by pedigrees, by parish registers, by the bishops' transcripts of parish registers in the Diocesan Registry, and by the available printed sources. Some of the printed sources, however, have proved somewhat unreliable, as for instance, Jeans' Sepulchral Brasses, and Churches of Holland, published by T. N. Morton in 1843, both of which contain many surprising errors.

The NOTES do not profess always to be literatim copies of the inscriptions. For instance, there are many unimportant variations from the originals as e.g. son for sonne, daughter for davghter, wife for wyfe, Jan. for January, 1st for 1st, 5 for 5th, the for y^e. The punctuation also of the inscriptions has not always been followed, and the use of large or small capitals or of Old English characters has not been strictly observed. These variations have not been corrected except in specially important inscriptions. With these exceptions pains have been taken to secure accuracy. It might sometimes appear that here and there an inscription involved a physiological improbability or even an impossibility. In such instances the dates have been checked by entries in parish registers, or in the bishops' transcripts, or by other evidence. If in this way the improbability or impossibility has not been resolved, sic has been added after the date which causes the difficulty. Some instances may be given. At Haugh (page 177) it is stated that a daughter of the Reverend William Oddie and Martha his wife was born 4 February, 1766, and that another daughter was born 12 August in the same year. No other evidence is available, and therefore sic has been printed after the latter date. At Horbling (page 198) it is difficult to reconcile some of the numerous dates relating to the Tomisman family. Here the difficulty is resolved by the parish register which shows that there were three successive generations in which the husband and wife were named William and Elizabeth. At Stragglethorpe (page 346) an inscription records that Sir Richard Earle died 25 March, 1667, aged 60, while the next monument states that another Sir Richard died 13 August, 1697, aged 24. Is there here, it might be asked, a mistake in the age of the second Richard? The pedigree of the Earle family, however, shows that there were two more Sir Richards, who died in 1678 and 1679 respectively, between the two whose inscriptions are printed here.

In the printed text, when a monument has been removed to another position in the church since Monson's day, the fact has been indicated by R enclosed in round brackets; when it has disappeared by D, and when it is probably covered by seats, organ, etc., by C, similarly bracketed. Additions to the author's NOTES have been enclosed in heavy square brackets.

It is important to remember that the NOTES do not always contain all the memorials in a church. In some instances monuments which are visible now may have been hidden a hundred years ago : but it is impossible to account for all the omissions in this way. At Louth, for instance, many important monuments are passed over. The plan, which was originally entertained, of supplying in this edition the inscriptions omitted from the NOTES had to be abandoned, since it would have increased the size of the volume unduly.

In the library at Burton there is a fine copy of Gervase Holles' Lincolnshire Church Notes,¹ with the arms in colours, which was presented to Monson by Archdeacon H. K. Bonney, D.D., in 1853. In these notes, which were made in the years 1634-1642, Holles gives descriptions of some of the older monuments in the churches, and these have generally been omitted from Monson's NOTES ; thus conclusively showing that he purposely did not note features and facts, details of which could be found elsewhere ; and that the NOTES were compiled rather in the nature of an aide-memoire.

Monson was an expert in heraldry, a subject which a hundred years ago was part of a polite education more often than it is at the present day. In editing this volume, a large amount of research has been expended on the armorial bearings. The arms have been identified so far as possible, and the names of the families which bore them have been added within square brackets. For this purpose works of reference, which did not exist in Monson's day, have been available, such as Burke's General Armory, Papworth and Morant's Ordinary of British Armorial, and Fox-Davies' Armorial Families. From these sources it has been possible to correct various obvious errors in the NOTES. Where more serious emendations have been made the corrections have been enclosed in square brackets. It has not been, however, always possible to give the names of the families to which the coats belong. This is so because it is sometimes impossible to tell what the arms depicted on a monument really represent, unless they are familiar. For instance, the different kinds of beasts, birds, and fishes cannot always be distinguished, and sometimes a charge may be any one of half a dozen different objects. Or the tinctures or colours may not be given, or may perhaps have perished. The difficulty is increased when there are quarterings, for then the arms cannot be blazoned with confidence until it has been ascertained, from an examination of the pedigree of the owner of the principal coat, what arms he was entitled to quarter. In monumental heraldry there occur many instances of arms being assumed, with or without variation from authentic coats, by persons who are not entitled to bear them, seeing that they are neither descended from an ancestor who was entitled to bear those arms, nor have they themselves obtained a grant of arms. In such instances it has seemed advisable to make as few corrections as possible, but rather to let Monson say what he saw.

As regards the memorials and inscriptions themselves, apart from their genealogical and antiquarian interest, the ordinary reader will find some entertainment in perusing them. They vary much according to their date, and frequently throw some light on the condition of life and the mentality of the period to which they belong. At times they are quaint and even comic: thus at Fiskerton (page 123), in 1806, there died George Harrison, 'who, during the short period of a bustling life, endeavoured to bestow the means of happiness on those he knew,' and at Langtoft (page 221), in 1703, there died William Hyde, who

'labour'd the greatest part of his life with unparalleled chearfulness and courage, under the most exquisite torments of the gout, in hope of a blessed resurrection.'

Crowland supplies several quaint inscriptions, such as the tomb of Mr Abraham Baly (page 101), who was buried in 1704 with two children who died in 'enfantry':

'Mans life is like unto a winter's day.
Some brake there fast & so departs away.
Others stay dinner then departs full fed.
The longest age but supps & goes to bed.'

This verse is repeated with some verbal changes at Holbeach (page 192).

At Long Sutton (page 357) a stone records:

'Here lyeth the body of John Bailey, surgeon, who was murdered in the Spring of 1794. Alas poor Bailey and Rebekah his wife.'

There also (page 358) is another small stone :

' In memory of Walter Johnstone gent. and drover from Dumfries in Scotland ; he was a good companion, a faithful friend, and a fair dealer. He died November y^e 21, 1747, aged 51.'

At Belton in the Isle (page 39) it is said of Jane Penelope Steer, who died in 1826, at the age of twelve :

' Her course was gentle as the newborn babe
Her mind more noble than the towering wave
Her heart was wrap'd within a charming frame
It burst !! she died !! but spotless was her name.'

At Lutton (pages 256-7) is found :

' Thy busy and inquisitive eye
Seems to demand what here doth lye
If that I must disclose my trust
Tis great lemented prudent dust
If yet unsatisfyed thou'lt know
And eurg me further read below
Here lyeth the body of Mr Rubeⁿ Parke of Lutton who deceased the 10 of July 1659, in the 63 yeare
Of his age.
Hence Quarrell Nature tell she shall Repeate her clymactericall.'

At Claxby by Normanby (pages 87-8) an inscription to William FitzWilliams, who died in 1634, contains the quaint exhortation :

Weepe, poore men, weepe here our mortality Laied a Maister in Hospitality.
How he was religious, faithfull, constant,
Twenty seauen Quietus est's demonstrant.
From wordly troubles he nere found true rest,
Untill from God he had Quietus est.

Quietus est, i.e. 'he is quit', a formula, which appears as early as the reign of Henry I in the rolls of the Exchequer, signifies that a debtor has discharged his debt. The liabilities which FitzWilliams discharged were, no doubt, the debts of poor persons.

The memorial tablets to the women record virtues so many and charms so great that space does not admit of extensive quotations, but the tribute to Elinor Ball in Holbeach church (page 190), in 1718, may be cited :

' Say marble or at least weep out the praise
Of the deceased fairer her character
Than thy smooth polish. Pen of steel can nere
Her vertues write nor poets loftiest layes.
Pure as thy spotless gloss her love will shine
Both conjugal and filial and adorn

Thy monumental trophy. Never urn Held mortal ashes truly more divine.
 In her no place could envious censure find
 Her generous birth nere to ambition fired
 The beauties of her person but conspired
 To enhance the charming beauties of her mind.
 Innocent as the babe that caused her death.
 Her charity diffusive as the sun
 And active equally. Tread lightly on Her grave for such was she lyes underneath.'

Long Sutton supplies two remarkable illustrations of large families, namely, Mary wife of Nicholas Wileman (page 355), 'who died in childbed November the 30, 1740, in the 40 year of her age, after bearing him twenty two children, of whom eighteen all died very young.'

And (page 359) :

'Elizabeth the wife of John Sowter who departed this life May 26, 1701, in the 28 year of her age, who had 9 children, sons and daughters, and 6 of them lye very near her in this alley.'

But Lincoln Cathedral supplies, on the monument of a former Dean of Lincoln, what is probably the most remarkable record of this kind (page 245) :

'Here lyeth the body of Michael Honywood, D.D., who was grandchild and one of the 367 persons that Mary the wife of Robert Honywood, esq., did see before she dyed lawfully descended from her that is 16 of her owne body 114 grandchildren 228 of the third generation and 9 of the fovrth.'

At Goxhill (page 150) there is the following charming inscription to Mary Ann Pearson, who died in 1800, aged 15 years :

'How happy is the child of grace
 Who knows her sins forgiven
 This earth she cries is not my place
 I'd rather go to Heaven.'

An inscription which will be of interest to many in New England is found at Walcot by Folkingham to the memory of John Quincey, junior, who died in 1773 (page 397) :

'Think nothing strange Death happeneth to all My Lot's to day
 Tomorrow thine may fall.'

In fact the CHURCH NOTES reveal many links existing between Lincolnshire and New England, for the index contains such other well-known names as : Bellingham, Bradford, Grant, Lee, Mather, Pelham, Pell, Shaw, Standish, Whiting.

Monson, when compiling his NOTES, did not confine himself to the memorials of members of the county families, but included all and sundry, much to the advantage of the genealogist. For in Lincolnshire, after the convulsions caused by the Wars of the Roses, the Suppression of the Monasteries, and finally the Civil War, many of the old families sold or lost their properties, or even themselves disappeared, being superseded by prosperous yeomen and merchants. The NOTES consequently provide, in a handy form, interesting evidence of the gradual fall of the old order and rise of the new, over a long period of years. This is sad reading in some cases, but at least the NOTES bring back to living memory some of the great names of the past, otherwise long since forgotten and now only living, as Lord Chief Justice Crewe eloquently said, 'in the urns and sepulchres of mortality'.

A very handsome monument south of the chancel: on an altar tomb lie the figures of a knight and his lady in the costume of the middle of the 17th century. He in cuirass and cuisses, large boots, bands, and flowing hair. She with a hood and long tresses. Above them against the wall on a black slab is an inscription in gold letters which has been restored, but not well:

Here lyeth the body of S^r | Robert Christopher knt, who | finished this life on the 16 day | of February 1668, in the 63 | yeare of his age, and of Dame | Elizabeth his wife who dyed | on the 21 day of November | 1667, in the 50 year of | her age. | They had issue Elizabeth their | onely child, now wife of the | Right Hon^{ble} Bennett Lord | Sherard of Stapleford in the | county of Leicester.

A parallel black marble slab has been left blank on the east side. These arms above—Argent, a chevron gules between 3 torteauxes [Sherard]; impaling—Argent, a chevron between 3 pineapples gules [Christopher]; on a chief sable a crescent or. Crest—A peacock's tail erect, issuing from a coronet gules. At the west end of the altar tomb is the above impalement alone with the crest—An arm couped above the wrist, holding a pineapple [Christopher]. Since the arms above the monument are those of Sherard impaling those of Christopher, it is not unlikely after all that the monument was that of Lord Sherard and his wife.

On the opposite north wall of the chancel (R) is a stone tablet with the bust above of a female in the costume of the 17th century with necklace round her neck. The monument is surmounted by a coronet and these arms at the bottom of it, viz., 3 coats, apparently a husband impaling 2 wives, one on each side. The centre is—Gules, a saltier argent [Nevile]; the dexter—2 bars or, a chief ermine [for Hardinge]; the sinister—Argent, a saltier engrailed gules. The inscription has been painted over so much that very little of it is now legible, what can be decyphered is:

Near to this | place lyeth the | body of Eliz.¹ the | daur
 (the rest illegible).

In the chancel (R) a white and grey monument with an urn over it:

In memory of | Samuel Duckering | who was lay rector of this parish | 39 years | and departed this life | the 9 day of March, 1800, in the 55 | year of his age.

On a flat stone within the altar rails (D):

Tho^s Hamson [rectius Harrison] | gent. departed this | life July 12, 1722.

On a black stone next to it (R):

In | memory of | Rev. Abraham Walker | vicar of Alford | who died the 27 day of August | 1777 | in the 62 year of his age.

On a stone in the chancel at the entrance (D):

In | memory of | Will. Field gent. | ob. Dec. 5, 1791 | ætat. 55.

On a stone in the chancel (D):

In | memory of | John Baldock | who departed this life | the 23 of Feb. 1778 | aged 81.

On an old stone just under the screen is carved the figure of a priest under a Gothic arch, with this round the verge in church text:

[Hic] iacet dominus Ricardus de Walton [rectius Watton] quondam vicarius istius ecclesie qui obiit an' d'ni MCCC
. . . . cuius anime propicietur deus.

On a black stone in centre aisle:

Thomas Wayet gent. | died 12 April 1796 | aged 73 years. |
Ann his wife | died 7 August 1785 | aged 71 years. | Edmund
Wayet | died 15 May 1804 | aged 55 years.

Next to the last to the west has been an old stone with 4 shields at the corners cut but now almost obliterated—the first to the east has been quarterly of 4. The second is—Ermine a buck's head cabossed [? Parker]; the two to the west are defaced. There have been 3 inscriptions but now illegible: on one apparently are these letters CLL YL.

On nearly the next stone have been brasses of two figures kneeling and an inscription now gone.

On a black stone between the two last:

Here lies the body of | Mr Thos Williamson | inter'd 31
March 1766, | æt. 74. | Also | Mary his widow | inter'd 29 June 1778, æt. 86.

On a stone to the west:

In memory of Mr | Thomas North | of Wainfleet All Saints | who departed this life | February the 28, 1731, | in the 60 year of his age.

On a brass plate in the cross passage of the nave (R):

Here and nigh unto this | place lieth the body of | Mr Will^m
Key who died May | y^e 7, 1753, aged 61. Also Mrs | Elizth
Key his wife who di | ed Dec 20, 1761, aged 67. | Also Mr
Thos Key son of | the above Will. and Eliz. | Key who died
Feb. 27, 1764, | aged 47. Also Mary Key | daughter of Tho^s and | Dorothy Key who died | May y^e 30, 1765, aged 2
years.

On a white marble tablet in the north aisle :

To the memory | of Thomas Williamson gent. | who died on the 28 day of March 1766, | in the 74 year of his age. |
This monument is erected by his widow. | She died on the 26 day of June 1778, | in the 86 year | of her age.

On another to the west of the last :

In memory of | Emman : Dewsnop clerk | who was vicar of this church 48 years | and departed this life April y^e 11,
1753, | aged 87 years. | Also of | Mercy his wife who died
May y^e 17, 1747, | aged 79 years. | They had seven children two of which viz. | John & Mercy lie interred with them | near this place and the only surviving ones | Charles Joshua and Martha | out of a due regard to their memory | have erected this monument. | Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord | For they rest from their labours.

Rev. 14, 13 Verse.

On another more to the west :

Near | unto this place | lieth amongst her | ancestors the body of | Elizabeth Lake | who departed this life | May the 19, 1752, | aged 21 years & 5 months. | Preserve me O God for in thee have I | put my trust. Psalm xvi & verse y^e 1st. |
Also | Ann Lake | sister to the above Elizabeth Lake | who dyed the 9th of May 1794, | aged 71 years & 10 months. |
Lord have mercy upon us }
Christ have mercy upon us } Litany.

On a tablet next against the south wall above the letters Alpha and Omega and XP (for Christ) ; the inscription in capitals :

Sacred | to the memory of | Richard Harby Esquire | who died on the 1 day of July 1822, | in the 60th year of his age. |
Also | of Matilda his wife | who died on the 18 day of July
1812, | aged 62.

On a small brass plate in the cross passage of the nave (D) :

J A² | born at Addlethorpe | in 1721, | died at Alford |
in 1789.

A tablet against the south wall commemorates that Mrs Mary Wayett of Stamford gave by will dated 5th Oct. 1831 to the Minister and Churchwardens of Alford £200 to be laid out for the poor, and the interest to be given to them on St Paul's day.

The church consists of a nave and 2 aisles divided from it by 4 pointed arches, supported on lofty octagonal columns with capitals worked in foliage. The chancel is separated by a lofty pointed arch, the head of which has been walled up. There is a carved screen of 5 arches, and the chancel windows are decorated with a few fragments of painted glass, one of which seems to be a chevron gules. The pulpit is carved in oak in the style of the 17th century. The font is modern. There is a large south porch with a room over it, and the tower is at the west end faced with brick and contains five bells. Outside the north east corner where the chancel abuts on the nave and north aisle are the remains of three steps seeming to be part of the steps to the rood loft, and the appearance of a door blocked up with new brick work.

NOTES

¹ Probably Elizabeth daughter of George Nevile of Ragnall, co. Nottingham, who married, first, William Hardinge of Foss, and, secondly, John Hopkinson of Lincoln's Inn, and was buried at Alford 13 November, 1636. ² The initials are those of John Andrews.

Algarkirk

Notes taken in the church, 4 August, 1834—

In the recess of the window north of the altar is a large marble urn surmounted with the crest of a griffin issuing from a ducal coronet. The pedestal is of grey marble bearing this inscription on a white slab:

M. S. | Caroli Beridge LL.D. | hujus Ecclesiæ Rectoris | qui obiit die 12 Junii |

Anno { Domini MDCCLXXXII.
Ætatis LXXI.

To the west of this is a handsome pyramidal monument of marble with these arms below—Argent, a saltier engrailed between 4 escallops sable [Beridge]; impaling—Paly of 8 azure and argent, on a chief gules 3 talbots' heads erased or [Marsh]. Crest—A griffin's head erased sable, issuing from a ducal coronet or:

Near this monument lie the remains | of the Rev. Basil Beridge, rector | and patron of this church, who died | the 2^d of Nov. 1678, aged 65 years, | Goodeth the relict of Basil Beridge, | who died the 25 of Nov. 1681, | The Rev. Basil Beridge M.A., who died | the 28 of Dec^r 1686, aged 25 years, | Ann the daughter of Charles and Barbery Beridge, | who died the 27 of April 1693, aged 4 years, | The Rev. Charles Beridge, rector and patron | of this church, who died the 2^d of Dec. 1693, aged 35, | Rev^d. Basil Beridge, rector and patron of this | church, who died the 13 of Oct^r 1739, | aged 53 years, | Charles Williamson, son of Charles and Lettice Beridge, | who died the 7 of Oct^r 1744, in his infancy, | The Rev^d John Beridge, vicar of Worthington in Essex, son of Basil Beridge, | who died the 18 of Oct^r. 1744, aged 32 years, | Mary the relict of Basil Beridge, | who died the 10 of Jan. 1752, aged 65

To the west of the last is a grey and white marble monument with these arms over, Beridge impaling—Sable, 2 bars argent; on a canton of the last a stag tripping of the field [Buckston]. The crest of Beridge :

To the memory of | John Beridge M.B. | late of Derby | [son of the Rev^d John Beridge] | who died Oct. 17, 1788, | in the 45 year of his age, | after a lingering illness | which he supported | with religious fortitude and resignation, | This marble was erected | by his afflicted widow | Martha daughter of George Buckston | of Bradbourn in the county of Derby esq.

These hallowed stones an English heart infold,
Warm tender steady simple just and bold.
A Christian who observed his Saviour's law,
To man with charity to God with awe.
This tribute Beridge to thy tomb is due Pure as thy virtues as thy friendship true.

William Hayley.

To the west is an oval grey tablet with the arms of Beridge and this inscription in capitals :

Leonardus Beridge S.T.P. | Vicarius de Sutterton | obiit
1^{mo} April 1791, | Ætat. 53.

Still more to the west is a sarcophagus of white marble with Beridge, impaling—Ermine, on a bend gules a sword proper, pomelled or, a chief azure [Gladwin]. On an inescutcheon—Argent, 2 chevrons between 3 mullets azure [for Tanfield]. Above the sarcophagus is an obelisk adorned with an urn and bearing this inscription :

Sacred | to the memory of | the Rev^d Basil Bury Beridge, | patron & rector | of Algarkirk cum Fosdyke, | and | Prebendary of Sleaford | in the church of Lincoln, | who | died Feb. 23, 1808, | aged 71 years.

On the sarcophagus in continuation :

Also of his first wife Dorothy Beridge, | daughter of Henry Gladwin, esq., of Stubbing in the county of Derby, | who died June 4, 1792, aged 58 years. Also of Frances Beridge his second daughter, | who died October 10, 1808, aged 13 years, | and whose remains are interred in the church of Abbots Leigh | in the county of Somerset. | This monument in testimony of her affection | & respect for their memories | is erected by his widow Dorothy Beridge, | daughter of John Tanfield, esq., | of Carthorp in the county of York.

[Inscription on brass in the south transept :

Here lies buried Basil Beridge, of this Church, alike Rector and Patron, and one of the Clergy of Convocation or the Assembly Ecclesiastic, who married Goodethea, daughter of Thomas Brook, Knight, by whom he had two children, to wit, Basil and Anna ; they however died in childhood and are buried near this spot as is also the aforementioned Thomas Brook. The aforementioned Basil Beridge was Rector of this Church for 42 years, full of zeal for his flock, for his loyalty to the King and the Anglican Church long time sore afflicted by the Rebels, of a devotion and piety unfeigned, highly esteemed by his fellows, kindly to his household, and to all men of discernment acceptable. Alas ! he died on the 2nd day of November, in the 65th year of his age, 1678.

Go, traveller, and follow in his steps.

To the memory of this devout and learned man, Charles Beridge, his adopted heir and successor in this Church raised this monument.

His successors pray that (if so may be), their bones may rest undisturbed until the Resurrection Day.]

Albingham

Notes taken in the church, 24 August, 1835—

Outside the church on the south side, within rails, on a flat stone :

Here lieth the body | of Humphry Maddison | late of Alving-ham Abbey, | gentleman, deceased, | third sonn of S^r Ralph |
Maddison of Fonnaby | in the county | of Lincoln, knight, | who departed this | life January the | nineteenth 1671, | aged 70 yeares. | Also Nath^l son of the above | Humphry, who dyed Oct. 1709. | Also Nath^l grandson of the | above
Nath^l, he dyed April | the 25, 1737, in the 26 year | of his age.

On an altar tomb, close by, within the same rails :

In memory of | Sarah Maddison | wife of John Maddison, |
Esq., of Gainsborough, and | daughter of William Pur | ver,
Esq., of Hull, de- | parted this life May y^e 7, 1767, | aged 39
years. | She was a most dutiful daughter, tender & | affectionate wife, a sincere friend, charitable | to the poor, beloved by all who well knew her | when living, and lamented by all when dead. | Here lieth the body of the | above named
John Maddison, Esq., | who died July y^e 5, 1785, aged 66
years. | And also of Elizabeth Maddison | relict of the above
John Maddison, Esq., | she dyed July 15, 1801, aged 55 years. |
Also Mary daughter of the above named | John & Elizabeth
Maddison. | She died January the 9, 1802, aged 22 years.

In the church on a neat grey and white marble monument surmounted by an urn against the north wall of the chancel :

In the blessed hope of a joyful Resurrection are | deposited on the north side of this church yard the earthly remains of | John Emeris B.D. and those of his infant daughter. | He was rector of Stoughton Parva, Bedfordshire, | Perpetual curate of Alvingham and Cockerington, | and many years fellow of C.C. College, Oxford. | In him | his parishioners lost a faithful minister, | his acquaintance a benevolent and steady friend, | his wife and children a kind and affectionate | husband and parent.

On a flat stone in the nave :

In memory of John Mad | dison late of Alvingham | Abbey, gent., who departed | this life Dec^r 25, 1749, | in y^e 63 year of his age.

This church consists of a nave and chancel with a tower at the west end. It is kept in a very good state, having been rebuilt¹ in 1806. The font is octagon and plain. On an old stone over the south door are these arms painted—Or, a fesse between 2 chevrons sable [Walpole]. On a hatchment these arms—Argent, 2 battle axes in saltier sable [Maddison]; impaling—Argent, a pale sable charged with a sword in pale proper [Nelthorpe]. Crest—an armed arm grasping a battle axe [Maddison].

This church consists of a nave and 2 aisles supported upon 3 pointed arches rising from tall clustered columns; a chancel, and a pinnacled tower at the west end. The font is octagonal, panelled with shields and quatrefoils alternately. The battlements of the south aisle are curious, somewhat in the Saracenic style.

Aswardby

Notes taken in the church, 14 August, 1835—This church is no better than a barn. It is built of stone and tiled, with a wooden turret for a bell at the west end. There is no division into aisles or chancel. We could not procure the key but as we had a perfect view of the church through the windows we discovered that it contained no monumental memorial whatever.

[See also Lincs. N. & Q. xi, 41, L.R.S. i, 210-11, where some inscriptions are given. It is unlikely that W. J. Monson could obtain a complete view under the disadvantageous circumstances which he mentions.]

(MS viii, 165.)

Aubourn

Notes taken in the church of Auborne, 10 August, 1833—

On a flat black stone within the communion rails with these arms above, 1st shield—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, [Gules], a saltier ermine [Nevile]; 2nd and 3rd, [Or] fretty [gules], on a canton [per pale ermine and or] a galley [sable] [Nevile of Bulmer]; 2nd shield—[Sable], 6 escallops or, 3, 2, and 1 or (Estoft); 3rd shield—Ermine, on a fess [gules], 3 escallops [or] [Ingram]—part is broken off:

Here lyes the body of | Sir Christopher Nevile, kt, | who married first | Katharine the daughter | of Thomas Estoft of | Estoft, Esq. She dyed in | the year 1668 & lyes | very neare | is Katharine | [daught]er of Sir Arthur | Ingrame of Temple Nusome | now survivinge, but dyed | without children the 18 | day of November An' Dom' | 1692.

On a black stone next to the south :

Here lyeth y^e body | of Catharine Dame Nevile only | daughter of Arthur Ingrame, Bart., | of Temple Newsam in Com. Ebor. | by his last wife, second wife | and relict of Sr Christopher | Nevile, knight, of Aubour. None | can well describe with justice | the meekness manners piety | and charity she was so eminently | indowed with. | She departed this life | April y^e 4, 1715, an ornament | to her own and an honour | to the family she married | into. | Pity it is so mean a stone | should cover such high virtue.

On a black [stone] next, still more to the south :

Here lyeth the body of | Bryan Nevile, Esq., only son of George | Nevile, Esq., of Thorney by Sarah Copley his | last wife relict of John Copley, Esq., and | daughter of Bryan Cooke, Esq., of Wheatley | in Com. Ebor., near his beloved wife, whose | fondness to her when alive, tenderness | to his children, charity to his neighbours, | & piety to God must ever recommend him | as the best of Xtians. He deceased March | 25, 1725, ætat. 74. His 4 surviving chil | dren out of y^e duty and respect they owe him | join in this only acknowledgement left to | the memory of so worthy a father.

Elizabeth Nevile, | Nov. 30, 1745.

Christopher Nevile, | Jan. 14, 1772 | aged 60.]

A black stone to the extreme south within the altar rails. Arms above —[Gules], a saltier ermine [Nevile]; in an escutcheon [Or], on a cross [sable], 5 crescents [argent] [Ellis]:

Here lyeth the body of Martha eldest daug^r | & co-heir of Tho. Ellis, Esq., & of Jane his wife, | eldest sister & co-heir of Sir Chris. Nevile, knt. | By her husband Brian, a younger son of | Geo. Nevile of Thorney, Esq., she had a | numerous issue & continuing long in a broken | state of health made her request to him | when ere it should please God to put an end | to her being in this world to lye in her D^r | grandmother's grave under whose strict | example of piety she had had her first | impressions, w^{ch} hapning y^e 30 of March 1710, | in y^e 58 y^r of her age, her grandmother having | paid y^e same debt to nature y^e 11 of Sep^r 1683, | after a separation of near 27 years, their | bodys have here met again to mingle in | till at y^e sound of y^e last trump | they shall appear glorified in y^e presence | of y^e Lamb to joyn together in hallelujahs | to him to all Eternity.

Near this repose the ashes of | Eliza Jane daughter | of Lieut. Gen^l George Robert Ainslie | and Sophia Charlotte his wife. | At the age of nineteen her gentle spirit | passed to its Creator | August 3, 1825.

An achievement of Gules, a saltier ermine [Nevile]; impaling —Sable, 3 lions passant in bend between 2 double cottises argent [Browne]; Crest—A bull's head guardant argent, issuing from a ducal coronet or; motto—Ne Vile [Nevile].

2^d Atchievement of the arms of Nevile, impaling—Nevile of Bulmer; crest and motto the same.

In a recess in the north wall of the church are the fragments of a monument which seem once to have been in this place. An alabaster figure of a man kneeling, in armour, bareheaded, with a ruff round his neck, his legs broken off; in which are also preserved a shield of arms—Gules, a fesse between 3 water bougets ermine [Meres]. On a black marble slab this inscription in capitals :

In memoriam | Antonii Meres Armigeri Belli Ducis præstantissimi Medicis | Optimi Theologique Celeberrimi Alumnus ejus Proneposque | Maternus Henricus Sterrell posuit. | Filios habuit Johannem Kenelmum Josephum et | filias Gartrudam Janam Mariam Katherinam et Annam. | Obiit undecimo die Martii Anno D'ni 1587, etatis suæ 76.

A very handsome white marble monument against the east wall north of the altar, flanked by 2 Corinthian pillars, surmounted by an urn. The arms below—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Nevile; 2nd and 3rd, Nevile of Bulmer:

On a handsome marble monument against the north wall of the chancel with a medallion bust in profile of a Lady and these arms over—Quarterly, 1st, Nevile; 2nd, Nevile of Bulmer; 3rd, Argent, a chevron between 3 cross crosslets gules; 4th, Argent, on a plain cross sable 5 crescents or [Ellis]; on an inescutcheon—Azure, a pheon argent, and a border of the last [charged with 8 torteaux—Sharpe]. This inscription on a slab below the bust:

To the memory of Elizabeth Neville daughter of | George Sharpe Esq., of Barmby, in Nottinghamshire, | and wife of Christopher Neville, Esq., | of Wellingore in Lincolnshire. | She died the 21 day of November | in the year of our Lord 1745, | aged 30 years.

In the chancel are flat stones to the memory of:

William Lambe died May 25, 1801, aged 63.

William Lambe died 9 April 1826, aged 56.

Sarah his wife died Dec. 26, 1829, aged 56.

William son of W^m & Sarah Lambe born March 29, 1796, died May 10, 1798.

John & George Lambe sons of the same died infants.

Mary wife of W^m Lambe died Sept. 2^d, 1822, aged 34.

(MS xii, 39-46.)

Aunsby

Notes taken in the church, 12 August, 1834—This church consists of a nave, and aisles, chancel, south porch and a tower and spire at the west end. The nave is divided from the south aisle by 3 very light and elegant pointed arches springing from clustered columns with beautiful foliated capitals, and from the north aisle by 2 Norman arches, the capitals of which are adorned with figures. The arches leading to the chancel and to the tower are both pointed. The chancel is divided from the termination of the aisles on the north side by a Norman, and on the south by a pointed, arch. The font is of Norman character, round and massy, with four attached pillars. The steps to the antient rood loft are still remaining (D).

A flat stone within the altar rails with this inscription round the edge in old capitals (R) :

Here lieth the body | of John Coulthurst of Ounsby gentleman, | who was buried | the 27 day of December Anno Dom'i 1627.

To the south is another old stone with the inscription round the edge but nearly effaced :

Johan the wife of | John Colthurst | of Owensbie . . . (the rest gone)¹.

On a brass plate let into the first mentioned stone (R) :

Here lyeth interred the body of | John Colthurst of Aunsby, gent., | husband of Faith Colthurst | who departed this life on the 14 | day of October in the year of our Lord | 1678, devoutly resigning his soul | to God in perfect assurance of a happy | Resurrection and glorious immortality.

Another brass plate let into the second stone (R) :

Here lyeth interred the body | of Faith Colthurst widow, | the late wife of John Colt | hurst, gent. She departed this | life the 17 day of Decem. 1679, | to enjoy with her said
hus | band eternall Felicity at | their Resurrection.

A flat stone to the north of these in capitals :

Here lies | the Rev. Mr Benj. Stokes | the late | pious studious charitable | rector of | Aunsbye and Demblebye | A.D. 1721.

A flat stone in the chancel in capitals (R) :

of January 1678, | and Jane his sister buried the 2^d day of | August, 1680, | the son and daughter of William | Colthurst and Mary his wife.

Another to the north in capitals :

Here lieth the | body of Mary Col- | thurst the daughter of William and | Mary Colthurst | his wife. She depar | ted this life the | 16 of October | 1684.

To the west is an old stone with the inscription round in large letters, but partly effaced :

Heare under this stone lyeth the body of Elizabeth wife to William was buried 13 of Sept. 1610.

To the north is a flat stone with an inscription round the edge in old character mostly effaced but what remains is :

Hic iacet Edwardus quondam xl cuius anime propicietur deus Amen.

A flat stone more to the north, in capitals :

Here lieth interred Alice | the wife of H. Williamson. | She died March 27, 1709.

(MS v, 127-132.)

NOTE

in 1627.

Bardney

Notes taken in the church, 12 October, 1840—This has been a handsome and spacious old church, but some of the repairs which may have been necessary on account of its dilapidated state have not been conducted judiciously. The nave is separated from the two aisles by four pointed arches, but the organ loft (D) occupies as much as one at the end of the nave. The pulpit (D) is painted in a very gaudy manner, especially a figure of an angel over the sounding board with a golden trumpet and sky blue drapery. The chancel is entirely partitioned off from the nave and is by far the handsomest part now left. The roof has not been ceiled, but left with its old timbers supported on brackets of angels bearing shields. On the interlacing of the groins are some old carving of roses. The wooden tablets (R) of the benefactions affixed to the north wall near the entrance and also on the west wall of the north aisle are curious inasmuch as a rude coloured picture of the benefactor is placed before the account of the benefaction.

The first of these is of Joseph Knowles, apprentice of London, and son of Richard Knowles of Bardney deceased. This Joseph at the age of xxv years departed this life ye x day of August in the year of Grace 1603, and left £30 by his will dated y^e second of August to be laid out in land to give bread every Sunday to 12 poor people. John Knowles, senior, gave £10 to further the gift of his nephew. The second tablet runs as follows :

William Hurstcroft | late of Bardney, | who departed | this life the second | day of May in the | year of our Lord | 1630, who in his last will and testament | besides other charitable deeds did | also give one house in Boston to y^e poor | of Bardney & Newport in Lincoln | equally to be divided for ever.

There are no tombs or inscriptions in the body of the church now visible. It has been floored from the old stones. A few still remain in the chancel.

On a flat stone :

In memory | of the Rev^d | Mr G. Blennerhaysett | late vicar hereof, | who departed this life | Jan^y 26, 1778, | in the 60th year of his age.

On another :

In memory | of | Francis Brown | late of Hull | who departed
this life | 8 Sept. 1786, | aged 9 years 11 months.
How loved how valued once avails thee not
To whom related or by whom begot
A heap of dust alone remains of thee
'Tis all thou art and all that we must be.

On another stone :

In memory of | Mary the wife of | Thomas Bartholomew |
died February the 12, 1776, | aged 53.

On an old stone is carved a cross, with :

C. S.

1715.

The old stone to the daughter of Lord Willoughby and wife of [Henry] Andrews was destroyed when the church was repaired.

[Hanging on the walls of the belfrey :

Vinsent Ward died 6 March 1766. By his will dated 1760 did leave the interest of £3 to be given in bread on Candlemas Day.

Thomas Kitchen late of Tupholme. By his will dated the tenth day of Oct. 1711, he left his estates at Fulletby Moorby Belchford and Low Toynton, to found a free school for the teaching of the poor children of Bardney, Topholme, and Bucknall. Salary of the Master £20, the overplus of rent and repairs to apprentice a poor child in Southrey.

Wooden tablet in belfrey :

William Norris died Feb. 15th, 1705. He left the interest of £2 to be given in bread on Holy Thursday annually.

John Bennington died 1690. He left the interest of £8 to be given in bread on the Circumcision of Our Saviour annually.

John Lightfoot died 22 Oct. 1722. He left the interest of £3 to be given in bread on All Saints Day.]

Barholme

Notes taken in the church, [blank] August, 1831—

On a brass plate (R) set on a bracket against the chancel wall with these arms cut on it—2 bars nebule . . . , on a chief 2 arrows in saltier . . . between 3 towers . . .¹:

Reader hereunder lies my friend | who as he lived so did he end | his dayes in peace expecting then | a blessed resurrection when | his God should please so let us all. | From earth
wee come to earth wee shall | Francis Fordham gent. departed this life A^o Dⁿⁱ 1641.

On a handsome marble monument against the east wall of the north aisle with a shield of arms above, but now effaced :

Underneath | are deposited | the mortal remains of | Richard
Walburge | of the town of Stamford in this county, gent.,| and lord of this manor of | Barholme cum Stow, | which by the blessing of God upon his endeavours | he purchased himself in the year of our Lord 1705, | and | would you have a perfect image of the deceased | behold him as he was, | An exemplary faithful christian | a zealous Protestant of the Church of England, | always firm to its doctrine and discipline | and a devout and constant attendant on its service, | the best of husbands and most affectionate father, | a kind and valuable relative, | a wise master, a loyal subject, | steady to his friends & obliging to his enemies, | most industrious in his calling & just in his dealings, | an able and faithful guardian, | a true lover of learning, | an active promoter of pious charities, | and a liberal contributor thereto, | who after he had eminently acquitted himself in all these | severall characters fell asleep in the Lord on the 27 day | of May Anno Dom' 1751, and in y^e 54 year of his age, | in an assured hope of a joyful resurrection | and in expectation of being gathered unto him | when the Almighty shall appoint. | There yet remains Elizabeth his mournful widow | [eldest daughter of Ed^{md} Curtis late of Stamford aforesaid gent.], | who, in memory of her dear departed consort, and as | a pledge of her great esteem and affection for him, | erected this monument, | to whome she bare 1 son & 3 daughters all living, viz. | Simon, Elizabeth, Margaret, & Catherine, | the hope and comfort of their afflicted mother.

On a flat stone by the arch to the tower :

In memory of | Sarah, dau^r of John Dowsing clerk | (vicar of Middleton in the county of Norfolk) | and Sarah his wife | who departed this life | on the 11 day of December 1781, | aged 26 years.

On the south front of the tower under the battlement is this inscription :

1648 I H | Was ever such a thing | since the creation, | a new steeple built in | the time of vexation.

NOTE

¹Evidently the arms of Fordham, Barry wavy of six or and azure, on a chief gules two arrows in saltire between as many castles argent.

East Barkwith

Notes taken in the church, 12 August, 1833—

On an old stone in the chancel in church text round the edge :

Hic iacet Willelmus de Alford cuius anime propicietur Deus.

There are some other old stones the inscriptions effaced, one with the figure of a priest and another coffin shaped with a crescent on it.

The church consists of a nave and south aisle resting on 4 pointed arches, a chancel, and tower at the west end. The font is octagon, adorned with the Insignia of the Crucifixion.

(MS xii, 77.)

West Barkwith

Notes taken in the church, 12 August, 1833—

An old stone (D) in the chancel with this inscription round the edge in old character :

. ux: Thomæ de Ed obiit to die April A^o Dⁿⁱ MCCCCLXXX cujus anime

There is another old stone with a cross, and another now quite broken and illegible.

The church consists of a western tower, a nave, and chancel.

(MS xii, 53.)

Barrow on Humber

Notes taken in the church of Barrow, 2 September, 1835—

In the north aisle a marble monument (R) against the wall with these arms over—Argent, a chevron between 3 boars' [or, perhaps, brocks'] heads azure; crest—A boar passant azure [for Broxholme]:

Here lyeth the body of Lieut. Col. | W^m Broxolme son of
Jo. Broxolme Esq. | and Troath his wife relict of Sir Hen. |
Foulks knt Bann^{rt}. He dyed in the fifty | ninth year of his age & on the 4 day | of April 1684; he was a true son of | the Church of England in w^{ch} faith he | dyed, a loyall subject to his king w^{ch} | he manifested in several parlements, | a discreet & good magistrate in his cou | ntry, and a most worthy just friend, | reall in all true kindness without | any mixture of dissigne; in fine he | was a brave just & a generous man, | and dyed lamented by all that | knew him.

On a marble tablet more to the west in the north aisle (R):

The Rev^d John Brockbank | died Dec^r 27th, 1800, | aged 44
years. | As an able instructor of youth, | sincere clergyman, | and an upright man, | his character was respectable. | As an affectionate husband, | his memory will long be dear | to his disconsolate widow.

More to the west on a white and grey marble monument in capitals (R) :

In memory | of the Rev. Will. Trevor, A.M., | forty years vicar of this place, | who died 20 Feb. 1794, aged 74. | Also aged 42. | Of Rob^t Brook Brydges Trevor | who died 2 Oct.

1764, aged 11, | their children, and of two others | in their infancy.

Opposite these two last monuments are flat stones also to John Brockbank and Will. Trevor (D).

On a flat stone in the north aisle :

In memory of | Elizabeth Kirke | daughter of Theophilus
& Elizabeth Kirke | who departed this life | August 6, 1814, |
aged 33 years.

Within rails at the west end of the south aisle stands an altar tomb (now level with the floor) with a grey marble slab and this inscription in gilt letters :

Beneath this marble lieth interred | the remains of the | Rev^d
Mr Rob^t Kirke, A.M., | late vicar of this place. | He departed this life the 22 | of May 1755, | in the 51 year of his age.

On the front of the east end of the tomb (now on the north wall of the chancel) :

R.K. being dead yet speaketh. | Keep stedfast in the faith, |
Be constant at private and publick worship, | Be charitable, |
Do justice, love mercy, live soberly, | and the Peace of God be with you Amen.

On a similar altar tomb by its side to the south (now level with the floor) :

Here | lyeth the body | of | Mrs Abigail Kirke | relict | of the late Rev^d Mr Kirke | died | Nov. 21, 1767, | aged 56 |
years.

Above these monuments is a very neat painted glass window of the Ascension (D) given by Mr Kirke who left money to keep it in repair and if not required for that purpose to go to the poor of the parish.

There are flat stones (D) at this end of the church to Molly Kirke who died 15 Jan^y, 1800, æt. 50, Elizabeth Kirke who died 7 Dec. 1800, æt. 41, and to Abigail Kirke.

On a flat stone at the west end of the nave (R) :

Sacred | to the memory of | the Reverend | Edward Henry Hesleden, clerk, | M.A., late fellow of Mag. Coll. Oxon, |
vicar of this parish | who departed this life | February 14,
1828, | aged 53 years.

On a flat stone in the nave (D) is an inscription much rubbed to Elizabeth wife of Will. Smith daughter of Samuel and Grace Hudson who died Feb. 16, , æt. 34 years.

There is a flat stone in the nave (R) to John Brown who died 2 April, 1781, æt. 68, and on the same stone to John Wilson, died 3 March 1784, æt. 53.

Barton Saint Mary

Notes taken in the church, 1 September, 1835—

In the south chapel of the chancel against the south wall, with these arms above—

Sable, a lion rampant between eight crosslets argent [Long].

Crest— :

Near | this tablet | is interred y^e body of William Long of |
Louth, Justice of the Peace for many years. | He married
Mary daughter of John | Tripp, gent., once Mayor of Hull |

by whom he had issue 5 sons | & 7 daughters of which

¹ This name is now illegible. All the brasses are gone, but the stone may be identified with that of William Lorymer, whose will was proved at Lambeth, 19 November, 1458 (P.C.C., 14 Stokton), and he provided that his body was to be buried in the chapel of the church of the B.V.M. of Barton, before that altar of St James, under a blue stone lying in the same place. The 'south aisle of the chancel,' mentioned in the text, was the chapel of St James.

² This north aisle is St Thomas' aisle. In this aisle Richard Adinot founded a chantry at the altar of St Thomas of Canterbury, and the two figures on this stone, which lies to the north of the altar, may be those of Richard and his wife.

Barton Saint Peter

Notes taken in the church, 1 September, 1835—

Against the east wall of the chancel a marble monument of white and grey with these arms over—Argent, on a pale sable a sword proper [for Nelthorpe]:

Sacred | to the memory | of Sir John Nelthorpe Baronet | formerly of Barton, but late of Scawby, | in this county, who departed this life | the 14 day of June 1799, | in the 55 year of his age. | This marble was erected by his son | Sir Henry Nelthorpe Baronet | as a testimony of his affection | for a tender parent.

On a handsome marble monument against the north wall (R):
Below this tablet | are deposited the remains of | William Graburn, Esq., | late of Kingsforth in this parish, | who departed this life the 20 November 1826, | aged 59 years. | Upright, and of manners irreproachable, | he was respected, humane, generous, cheerful, | and sincere, he was beloved by all who knew him. | Also two children of the above, | viz. George, who died the 22 March 1822, | aged 17 years, | and Charlotte who died the 18 January 1827, | aged 24 years.

On a white marble tablet (R) beneath the above, with these arms under—Two cross bones saltierwise between four fleur de lis.
Crest—A pheasant [Gatty]:

Sacred to the memory of | Mary the wife of | Robert Gatty, Jun^r, Esquire, | of Finsbury Square, London, | eldest daughter of | William Graburn, Esq., of Kingsforth, | who departed this life 10 March 1823, | aged 28 years, | and was buried in St Andrew's church | Holborn, London.

On an old stone at the east end of the chancel round the verge:

On the south wall of the chancel is an elegant monument of white marble in the ancient English style, formed by a canopy of three ogee arches, crocketed, trefoiled, with finials :

In memory of | William Gildas Esq. | who died on the 5 of November 1780, | aged 70 years. | This marble was erected by his | granddaughter Sarah the wife of | George Uppleby, Esq^r, of

Barrow, | in testimony of his merit and | her affection. | Sarah Uppleby, | who inscribed the above memorial, | departed this life | on the 3^d day of January 1832, | aged 74 years. | By pure and exalted wisdom, gentle charity, | and self renunciation, by Holy Love | for the Lord God her Creator and Saviour, | and by a cheerful resignation to his will, | we humbly believe her happy Spirit | was prepared for the everlasting joys of Heaven.

A small yellow and white marble tablet having a white sarcophagus, surmounted by an urn from which hangs a broken flower. On the urn is inscribed the words MARIA LVCY. The inscription below in capitals :

Sacred | to the memory of | Maria Lucy the beloved child of | Robert and Dorothea Marriott | of Barton Lodge | who to the inexpressible grief | of her afflicted parents | departed this life the 19 of July | 1823 | in the twelfth year of her age.

A modern brass plate in the chancel floor (D) :

George Graburn | the sixth son of | William Graburn, Esq. | died 22 March 1822, | aged 16 years.

A flat blue stone in the nave, the inscription round the verge in capitals :

Here lyeth the body of Anthony Empringham of Barton upon Humber, yeoman, who departed this life the tenth day of August 1698, in the sixty third year of his age.

Another stone to the south of the last :

Here lieth the body of | Simon Empringham, yeo | man, late of Kettleby Thorpe, | who departed this life y^e | 15th of Decemb^r, in y^e year 1723, | in y^e 40 year of his age.

Another stone more to the west :

William Empringham of | Barton died November the | 24, 1752, aged 64 years. | Also Elizabeth his wife who | died January the 12, 1744, | aged 56 years, | by whom he had issue four | daughters, Elizabeth, Isabell, | Ann, and Milia.

A white marble monument over a pillar of the nave looking southward, this inscription in capitals :

In memory of | Thomas Marris of Barton upon Humber | in the county of Lincoln, gent., who | died 19 December 1797, aged 92, | and of Elizabeth his wife who died 28 | January 1800, aged 73, | of Sarah their daughter who died in | June 1769, aged 13, | of Robert their eldest son who died | 19 January 1791, aged 46, | of Joseph another of their sons who | died 23 Aug. 1808, aged 58, | and of seven of their children who | died in infancy, all of whom are interred | near this place. |

And also in memory of John another of | their sons who was on board the Repulse | Frigate when lost at sea in the year | 1777 ; he was then in the 22 year of his age.

There are flat stones below to the memory of :

Mary dau^r of Thomas & Mary Marris, died 4 Dec. 1772, æt.
9 months.

Sarah dau^r of the same, died 20 April 1783, æt. 6.

Thomas Marris, died 3 Jan. 1794, æt. 65.

Mary Marris, died 3 Dec^r. 1807, æt. 73.

On a modern brass plate in the nave in capitals :

Beneath this stone | are deposited the remains | of the | Reverend William Uppleby | late vicar of this church | who departed this life | on the seventh day of April | A.D. 1834, |
æt. 74.

In the eastern window are 2 figures in painted glass, one of which is a knight in white armour bearing on his shield and cuirass—Argent, a plain cross gules. This most probably represents St George. The other figure is clad after the manner of a pilgrim in a blue robe covered with a white mantle, his head covered with a cap bearing an escallop shell. In his right hand is a sword and in his left a book [for St James of Compostella].

In the east window of the south aisle remain 2 shields : (1)—1st and 4th, Gules, a saltier argent charged with a rose (?) of the field [Nevile] ; 2nd and 3rd, Gules, on a fesse between six cross crosslets or a crescent sable [Beauchamp] ; (2) Quarterly, but the first quarter is nearly gone ; part of a cross engrailed or remains, and the rest has been filled up with a piece of blue glass ; 2nd and 3rd—Gules, a cross sarcelly argent [Bek] ; 4th, Gules, a water bouget argent.

[Near this window is a tomb slab of blue stone. All that remains of the brass upon it is a piece containing the feet of the figure, and another piece with the following inscription :

Hic jacet Robertus Barnetby de Barton armiger qui obiit xx die mens' Septembr' a' d'ni mill'o cccc XL^o cujus anime propicietur Deus Amen.]

On the north wall of the chancel are four atchievements (D) :

I. A lozenge of arms, Nelthorpe with the Ulster coat, impaling—
Or, two bars gules, a bend over all azure.

II. Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Nelthorpe, as before ; 2nd, Sable, a cinquefoil argent, a chief checquey or and azure [Hobson] ; 3rd, Gules, a saltier argent, surmounted of another azure [Andrews] ;
impaling 2 wives, the 1st wife, in chief—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Argent, 3 bars wavy azure, over all a bend or ; the 2nd wife—Argent, a fesse gules between three rooks proper ; 3rd, Argent, three martlets within a double tressure flory argent, in base or two bars gules, over all, a bend azure. Crest of Nelthorpe.

III. Quarterly 1st and 4th, Nelthorpe; 2nd, [Hobson]; 3rd, [Andrews]; an inescutcheon bearing the arms of the first wife in the last achievement.

IV. Nelthorpe, impaling—Or, fretty gules, on a chief azure three water bougets or [Willoughby]. Crest of Nelthorpe.

Another achievement (D) is at the end of the south aisle, viz. Nelthorpe, impaling—Or, a bend sable charged with three roses proper [Cary].

NOTE

¹ This is evidently Robert Saltmerssh (de Salso Marisco), chaplain, who was instituted to the vicarage, 18 June, 1424 (Lambeth Register, Chichele i, f. 240d.).

Bassingham

Notes taken in the church of Basingham, 10 August, 1833—

On a flat stone in the chancel (D):

Elias Bishop, Batchelor | of Divinity, late rector | of this parish, died Jan. | 18, 1742, aged 52. | Elizabeth his wife | died Jan. 10, 1735, | aged 31.

On the next flat stone (D):

Hic jacet Jacobus Metford | A.M., per sexaginta fere annos | rector hujus ecclesiæ, obiit | 4^{to} die Januarii A.D. 1720, | ætatis suæ 88.¹

On another flat stone (D):

Here | lies the body of | Sophia Jane | eldest daughter of the Rev. D. S. Wayland, A.M., | vicar of Kirton in Lindsey | and perpetual curate of | Thurlby in this county, | and Jane his wife. | She died on Sunday Feb. 13, | 1825, aged 77 years. | The ornament of a meek and quiet spirit | is in the sight of God of great price.

On another flat stone (D):

Ursley Thompson wife of | Will. Thompson gent. | departed this life Nov. 22, | 1721, | in the 44th year of her age.

On a board against the north wall of the church are the names of the benefactors (R):

Sir William Thorold, Knt & Bart, & Lady Anne Thorold his wife, gave by deed, dated Sept. 21st, 1670, the sum of forty shillings yearly for ever to be distributed to eight of the poorest people of this parish on St Thomas's day by the minister, churchwardens and overseer of the poor, or any three of them, so that the minister be one, to be paid out of the close commonly called Tuft Hill.

John Lambe of this town, by his last will 1670, gave twelve pounds, the interest of which was to be paid by the rector & overseers to the poor at Christmas & Easter by equal portions.

John Garnet of this town, by his last will 1672, likewise gave twelve pounds, the interest of which was to be paid by the rector & overseers to the poor at Christmas & Easter by equal portions.

The parishioners with these legacies and their own contributions, bought the poore Close.

Sir Christopher Nevil Kn^t 1692. gave to this parish thirty pounds, the interest of which was to be paid by the Rector & overseers to the poor at Christmas & Easter by equal portions. The money was laid out in the purchase of Harrisons Moor, north of the Fen lane.

Robert Jessop left to the poor of this parish by will dated Jan 4th 1714, a rent charge of Ten Shillings a year for ever to be paid on St. Thomas's day, out of a close known by the name of the four Acres, which lyes south of Linga Lane.

Poole Savage, Gentleman, late of Lincoln by his last will dated 31st July 1823 gave £200 the interest of which was to be distributed every Christmas by the minester & churchwardens amongst the poor of the parish of Bassingham whom they should think fit objects of Charity.

On a handsome white marble tablet against the north wall of the chancel in capitals (R) :

In memory of | Poole Savage, gentleman, | who after having for the space of thirty five years | fulfilled the duties of a confidential situation | in the city of Lincoln | with exemplary faithfulness and ability | And | having adorned his Christian profession by his | Decided piety his unostentatious benevolence | and uniform consistency of conduct | departed this life the 28th August 1828. | In humble yet firm hope of a happy Eternity | through the alone merits of an ever blessed |
Redeemer | ætat. 50.

On a flat stone in the chancel (D) :

Here | lyeth the body of Martha widow | of the late Mr John
Grant | and daughter of Joseph Farmory | of Normanton in the county of | Nottingham, gent.; she died the | 12 of
March, A.D. MDCCXL^{II}, aged | 60 years.

This church consists of a nave and south aisle supported on three pointed arches with round columns, a chancel, and north aisle used as a school, a screen from the nave to the chancel, and a tower at the west end. There has once been a north aisle which appears from the piers and arches in the wall. The pulpit is carved and has on it I M D R 1674. There are some old pews and benches, and the poor box is very curious; it is inscribed W S 1668. The font is octagon, pannelled in quatrefoils and shields.

(MS xii, 35-38.)

NOTE

¹ He was instituted 15 March, 1660-1, which makes an incumbency of 60 years.

Bassingthorpe

Notes taken in the church of Basingthorpe, July 12, 1834— This church consists of a nave and south aisle divided by three Norman arches and a tower and spire at the west end. The chancel is divided from the nave by a fine Norman arch with the billet moulding. The arch between the nave and tower is sharp pointed. There is a south porch, and in the south aisle a piscina. On the south side of the church yard stands a fine old manor house of stone with bay mullioned windows, the chimneys tall, and the gables ornamented with battlementing. A. L.¹ could not learn if this was the house of the Coneys of Basingthorpe.² It is and was inhabited by M^r Gibson for thirty years, and is used as a farm house.

There is only one monumental memorial in this church on a flat stone in the chancel (R) rather rubbed:

In memory of | Mr Edward Powers | who dep^{ed} this life |
Dec. xxii, MDCCIX | in y^e 67 year of | his age.

(MS v, 15-16.)

NOTES

¹ That is Arthur Staunton Larken, W. J. Monson's brother-in-law.

² This was the house of the Coneys.

Baston

Notes taken in the church, [blank] July, 1833—

On a flat stone in the chancel:

Here lieth the body | of Thomas Norton | who died Sept.
y^e 23, 1751, | aged 49 years. | Also Fra^s his wife who | died
May y^e 2^d, 1759, aged | 68 years.

On another stone:

Here | lieth the body of | George Norton, Esq. | who died |
June 15, 1823, | aged 56 years.

On another stone :

Here | lieth the body of | T. G. Norton | who died | November
28, 1831, | in the thirteenth | year of his | age.

On a black stone in the chancel :

Here | lieth the body of | Jacob Sawbridge, Esq. | late
Lieutenant Colonel | in the first troop of | Granadier Guards | who died May 26, 1796, | aged fifty two years. | He was the only son of | Jacob Sawbridge, Esq. | of Canterbury, and |
Ann Brodnax his wife | both deceased.

Another flat stone to the south much rubbed (D) :

Hic jacet Edwardus | Stokes quondam vi | carius ecclesiæ |
. . . . Sep. 7, | Anno Do' 1638.

Another flat stone to the south of the last (D) :

Here lieth the body of | Elizabeth Standish who departed |
this life April y^e 3, 1750, in | the 45 year of her age.

On a black stone tablet on the east wall of the chancel (R) :

Sacred | to the memory of | William Hunt, Esq. | who died | April 5, 1823, | aged 70 | years.

On a tablet on the north side of the nave (D) :

Sacred | to the memory of | Ann Tidswell | wife of | Benjamin Tidswell, Esq. | of Chorlton House | near Manchester | who departed this life | January 21, 1830, | aged 57 years.

On a black and white tablet against a pillar on the south side of the nave :

Sacred to | the memory of | Edw. Johnson who died | February 1st, 1824, aged 74 years.

Flat stone in the nave, at the west end, rubbed (D) :

Here | lyeth the body of | George Fo . m . .¹ yeoman | who departed this | life November the 6th, | 1679. | Near also lyeth | Catherine his wife | who departed this | life November the 26,

In the south aisle is a stone in which have been brasses of 2 figures with labels from their mouths and an inscription under, but now all gone.

At the east end of the same aisle has been another brass inscription now also gone (D).

NOTE

¹ This inscription was evidently difficult to read in W. J. Monson's day, and it has now disappeared. The surname should probably be Banner, for the only burial about that time is that of George Banner on 6 November; and it was a common practice at that time to bury a person on the day of his death. George Bonner had 4 hearths in the Hearth Tax Return of 23 Charles II. The burial of his wife Catherine is not to be found at Baston.

Baumber

Notes taken in the church, 17 October, 1840—This is a good modern built brick church, consisting of a nave separated from a north and south aisle by three pointed arches, and a chancel. It is entered at the west end by a neat Norman door.

On a flat stone in the north aisle (R) in old text :

Orate pro animabus Johannis Eland armigeri Alicie et Elizabethæ uxorum eiusdem qui Johannes obiit xix die Marcii Anno domini millesimo cccc^o lxxij cujus que animabus propicietur deus [sic].

This inscription is cut round the stone.

In the chancel on a grave stone on the south side :

Here lieth the body of Priscilla | the wife of Francis Clinton alias | Fynes, Esq. who departed this | life Feb 15, A.D. 1679.

On a grave stone on the north side of the chancel :

Here lieth the body of Francis | Clinton alias Fynes, Esq., grandson | of Henry Lord Clinton, Earl of | Lincoln, who departed this life | Feb. 5, A.D. 1681.

On a tablet on the south side of the arch between the church and the chancel :

In a vault beneath near his beloved wife | lie the remains of John Willson, Esq. | for many years a resident of this parish. | He married Nov. 9, 1780, Mary | youngest daughter of John Tunnard | of Frampton Hall in this county, Esq. | By her he had 7 children, | six of whom survive him. | After suffering for some years | by a paralytic affection, | he was suddenly removed | from this mortal scene | at his house in Broadgate, Lincoln, | Feb. 1, 1816, aged 61 years.

On a tablet on the north side of the same arch :

Near this place | lieth interred the body of | Mary the wife of | John Willson | who departed this life Aug. 9, | 1789, | aged 35 years. | Also | Elizabeth their daughter | who died in her infancy | March 27, 1785.

On a tablet in the south wall of the church :

Sacred to the memory | of Joseph Barker | who was interred near this place | March 10, 1776, aged 50. | Likewise of Sarah Rowlands | relict of the above Joseph Barker | who was interred April 7, 1795, aged 53. | Likewise of the Rev^d Ellis Rowlands, | many years minister of this place, | who was interred Nov. 13, 1797, | aged 52.

On a grave stone on the left hand immediately on entering the church :

Here lieth the body | of Mr Robert Southwell | Inter'd Aug. 8, 1724, | aged (the rest effaced).

Beckingham

Notes taken in the church, 10 August, 1833—

A brass plate in the floor of the chancel the inscription in capitals :

Thomas Williamson sacræ theologiæ professor | Roberti
Williamson sacræ theologiæ professoris | filius natu maximus et rector ecclesiæ de | Beckingham resurrectionem pie
expectat. | Obiit anno ætatis suæ XLVIII et salutis nostræ | MDCXXXIX.

On a black tablet against the south wall of the chancel :

Near this place lyeth | the body of the Rev. Mr | Thomas
Robinson | Master of Arts late of | St Johns College Cam | bridge & curate of this | parish who departed | this life ye
5th of March, | 1769, | aged 61 years.

On a brass plate is a stone tablet against the north wall of the chancel in capitals :

Near | this place lies the body | of Mr Robert Hacket A.M. | of the Society of Magdalen | College in Oxon and | Rector of this church. | He was a descendant of | that worthy and learned | Prelate of the Church | Dr John Hacket Bishop of | Litchfield and Coventry. | He died December | the 19,
1733, | aged 29 | years.

This church consists of a nave, two aisles supported by four pointed arches springing from clustered columns, a chancel having in the east window some good painted glass at the top, the lower part blocked up by the altar screen; in the other windows are some painted glass. The south porch is a fine Early English one, with the chevron and dog-tooth moulding. At the west end is a pinnacled tower.

Belton in the Isle of Axholme

Notes taken in the church of Belton, 10 September, 1835—

An altar tomb¹ in the north aisle with a black table slab surrounded by iron rails. Arms—Three crescents [Ryther]; impaling—A saltier engrailed [Francke]. [Above the arms are two crests—(1) A jack boot spurred (Ryther); (2) A hawk (Francke)]:

Here lyeth the body of Rob. | Ryther Esq. jun., who departed |
March the 7, Anno Dom' 1695, | in the 44 year of his age.

On a similar altar tomb¹ next to the last with the arms and crest of Ryther:

Here lyeth the body of Rob. | Ryther, Sen., Esq., who departed | Octo. the 18, Ann. Dom. 1693, | in the 62 year of his age. | Also | to the memory of Rebecca Barton widow | one of the daughters of Rob. Ryther, Esq. | and Margaret his wife, | which Rebecca married to her first husband |
Edward Hartopp, Esq., and to her second husband | John Barton, Esq., both of London, | by neither of whom she left any issue living. | The s^d Rebecca died the 4 day of January
1741, | aged 77 years, | & lies buried in St Andrews Church
Holbourn | London.

On a white marble tablet against the north wall with these arms quarterly—1st and 4th, Or, on a bend sable 3 eagles displayed [for Popplewell]; 2nd and 3rd, Or, a mullet sable [Steer]; impaling—
. . . . a tree, on a chief or a mullet. Crest—A greyhound's head:

Sacred to the memory of | Robert Popplewell Steer | Esquire of Doncaster | in the county of York, | who departed this life | on the 28 day of | September, in the year | of our Lord 1826, | aged 45 years, | and whose remains lie | interred near to this monument. | He was an amiable man | in private life, and distinguished as | a kind husband | an affectionate father, | and a sincere friend.

On a monument against the east wall in the Bellwood burying place, as well as the last, with an urn over:

In | memory of | Katharine late wife | of Alan Johnson Esq.
of | Temple Belwood in this | Parish, who was the elder of | the two daughters and coheirs of | Richard Poplewell
Esq. late of the same place, by Elizabeth his | late wife, whose maiden name was | Smith of Newland Park near | Wakefield in Yorkshire, which | said Katharine died 31 Jan^y 1786, | aged 69 years | and lies interred in this chancel.

The old altar tomb of . . . Belwood stands on the north side of the chancel, between it and the present Temple Belwood burying place. On it lies a figure, but the face quite mutilated, down the breast is a cross, there are three pannels on the south side of the tomb, in each of which a shield; the most western has this coat—A fess embattled between three escallops . . . The next shield has a bordure engrailed, but no bearings; and the third is quite plain :

On a flat stone (D) in front of the Belwood burying place, and at the end of the north aisle; the inscription runs in double lines and capitals round the verge and is very deeply cut :

Here lyethe Robert Movnsovn [esq., late of Belton, and was buried the third of Avgvst, A.D. 1555, whom God] hath called to his mercy. Also here lyeth Margaret Movnsovn [his wife only daughter and heiress of Francis Belwood, esq., bvried 24th] of Ivly A^o Domini 1570.

The spaces left blank² are where the edge of the stone is under the raised floor of the Belwood chapel.

An ancient flat stone in the north aisle (R) has had an inscription round the verge, the south side of which has been shamefully destroyed by the laying down of a pipe for the stove; what remains is :

Hic jacet Willelmus Evers Armiger et Agnes uxor eius filia et heres Willelmi Gardiner [qui obiit 3 die mensis Feb. et Agnes 16 die mensis Nov.] MCCCC.

A flat stone in the north aisle in capitals (D) :

Hic jacet corpus sub hoc | Tumulo Johannis³ Sheffield | Armigeri nuper de Beltoft, | secundi filii Roberti Sheffield | militis qui obiit 6^{to} die Novembris | Anno D'ni 1526, et Corpus | Janæ Sleford nuper de Beltoft | senioris filiæ Johannis Sheffield | quæ obiit 27 die Novembris, A.D. 1588.

Below in more modern characters :

Here lyeth the body | of Richard | gentleman.

The rest is hid under the iron rails of y^e Belwood burying place.

Another old stone (D) has an inscription in two lines round the verge in old capitals, but much defaced what remains is :

Hic jacet Robertus Ca[ister] . . Braken qui obiit . . . die Januarii Anno Hic jacet Robertus Caister filius prædicti Roberti sui animam exanimavit Novemb. die 5, an

A flat blue stone in the Belwood burying place, being a chapel partly railed off, north of the chancel. These arms cut over—Popplewell impaling Ryther. Crest—a cubit arm embowed . . . , holding a javelin. Below this inscription in italics :

Hic jacet Catherina uxor | Rob^{ti} Poplewell Arm'i | filia Rob. Ryther Arm'i | Quæ obiit 9^o Jan'i 1711, | 50 ætatis suæ, | ex qua Rob. Poplewell natus | et Ric. Poplewell hæres | solus superstes.

Below in common characters :

Also here lieth the body of Robert | Steer, Esq., late of Santoft. He | departed this life y^e 24 of October | 1773, aged 60 years.

Another to the north, arms the same as the last, in italics also :

Hic jacet Rob. Poplewell arm^r | 12^{us} Davidis Poplewell | qui obiit 24 10^{bris}, Anno Dom. 1720, | ætatis suæ 69^o. | Etiam Rob. Robⁱ Poplewell qui | ob. Lond. 170², 15 Ætat. suæ. | Juvenis multis num^s absolutus. | Etiam Rob. Ricⁱ Poplewell | Arm. qui ob. 2^{do} 7^{bris} 1719, | 4th Ætat. suæ.

Below in common characters :

Here also lies interred the body of Elizabeth Steer | relict of Robert Steer, Esq., late of Santoft Grove and one | of the coheireses of Rich. Poplewell, Esq^r, late of | Temple Belwood in the parish of Belton. She departed | this life on the 11 day of March, in the year of our | Lord 1780, & in the 61 year of her age.

Another to the north, arms Poplewell impaling—Per saltier . . . 2 trefoils slipped palewise [for Smith] :

Here | lies y^e body of Richard Poplewell, Esq. | late of Temple Belwood in y^s Parish, | who departed this life 16 April 1752 | in the 64th year of his age. | He was 2^d son of Robert Poplewell | late of Temple Belwood aforesaid, by | Kath^e his wife, one of the daughters of | Robert Ryther, Esq., of Belton. | The s^d Richard was sheriff of y^e County | of Lincoln in y^e year 1739, and by | Eliz. his wife, one of the daughters | of John Smith of Newland near | Wakefield in y^e county of York, Esq. | which s^d Eliz. died at Wakefield y^e 22 | Oct. 1751, aged 56, & is buried in Wakef^d | church. He had three children vid^t., | Robert, Kath^e, & Elizth.

On another more to the north :

In memory | of Frances the wife of | Richard Ryder Poplewell Steer | of Santoft Grove, who departed | this life the 22^d day of May | 1784, in the 25 year | of her age.

On a brown stone more to the north, in capitals :

In memory of W. P. B. Johnson Esq. | born 18 of April 1788, | died 3^d of April, 1831.

A white marble tablet against the south pillar of the arch to the north aisle, in capitals :

Sacred | to the memory of | Jane Penelope, | eldest daughter | of Robert Poplewell | and Elizabeth Steer, | who died in the 1 day of | March 1826, | aged 12 years and 2 months. | Her course was gentle as the | newborn babe | Her mind more noble than the | towering wave | Her heart was wrap'd within | a charming frame | It burst!! she died!! but | spotless was her name.

[On the east face of the westerly of the two pillars dividing the chancel from the north choir is a small brass tablet with the inscription in italic letters :

Here lieth the body | of Eliz. wife of Mr Rich'd | Taylor of
Hyrst, who | departed this life | the 30th Nov. 1728, |
Aet. 50.]

(MS vii, 91-100.)

NOTES

¹ The two tombs have been lowered, and the railings removed, to make way for the organ.

² The missing words have been supplied enclosed in square brackets from the collections of John Ross.

³ John Ross gives this name as Roberti.

Bicker

Notes taken in y^e church, 30 September, 1839—This church is built upon a curious plan. The west end of the nave rests upon two fine Norman arches decorated with the nail head and chevron moulding. The westernmost pier is circular, the next is clustered. To the eastward of this is the tower supported on four lofty Early English arches springing from clustered columns, and having deep architrave mouldings. Beyond the tower, the nave and aisles continue supported on three English arches on each side which have plain piers. The chancel, which is only three paces in length, is entered by a low rectangular arch (D), the top of which is only about half the height of the building, so that the east window is visible over it. This window is a fine Early English one, lancet, of three lights, having shafts and mouldings. In the north wall is a lancet, and in the south a Decorated window. On the south side are three Early English stalls. The clerestory of the western nave is Norman, and very good ; that of the eastern low, consisting of two lancet windows, and two round ones. The other windows of the church are mostly Decorated. There are no transepts, but the aisles are straight through from east to west, and are entered from y^e tower by Early English arches. There are seven bells. The south porch is Early English, and the upper part of the tower has four Decorated early windows. The Norman clerestory on the exterior northern side is very handsome and perfect, and has the cornice formed by a nebule moulding which likewise appears on the north side.

A white stone tablet against the west wall of the south aisle :

In memory of | the Rev^d Benjamin Hinckerman, | M.A., who was vicar of | this place during the | term of 28 years. | Interr'd
Aug. y^e 28, 1744. | Obiit in charitate omnibus. | Christiana his | wife died Feb'y 24, 1747.

On a black flat stone in the chancel (D) :

In memory of | the Rev^d Anthony Bailey | Minister of this church | & Gosberton 21 years, | who died Dec^r 5, 1795, | aged
50 years.

The eastern part of the south aisle is enclosed for the purpose of a school. The font is Norman.

On a stone, painted like marble, against the north west of the chancel (R) :

Sacred | to the memory of | William eldest son of the late |
William Westmoreland, Esq., | who departed this life | February
VI, MDCCCXXVIII, | aged 50 years, | beloved, respected, and lamented.

On a flat stone much defaced (D) :

ob. Dec. | . . 1714, Maria | Mart. 20, 1715, | Maria 2^{da} Apr. | 23, 1717.

There is a little more but too much defaced to be legible.

A tablet commemorates that, on 29 Sept., 1827, Thomas Buckberry of Billingborough, gent., bequeathed £100 to be distributed in bread on the first Sunday in the months of November, December, January, February, and March.

A white marble lozenge-shaped tablet against the south corner of the arch to y^e chancel, surmounted by y^e crest of a goat's head [Toller]:

Johannes Toller | Armiger | serviens ad legem | obiit decimo
quarto die Novembris, | Anno Domini 1737, | ætat. 53. |
Moritur ut vivat.

departed this life 28 Sept. 1816, | in the 70th year of his age.

Marble tablet against the south wall:

To the memory of | John Saywell, gent., | who departed this life | the 3 of April 1777, | aged 45 years, | also Lydia his wife | who departed this life | December 1st, 1796, | in the 56th year of her | age.

A handsome marble tablet more to the west, with urn over, and inscription in Gothic characters:

Sacred | to the memory of | Mary Wayet. | She was born
March 31, 1770, | and died Dec. 6, 1831.

Another tablet over the south door:

To the memory | of John Greenham | who died 11 December
1793, | aged 58 years. | Also Elizabeth his wife | who died
5th March 1795, | aged 61 years.

Another still more to the west with these arms below—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Argent, a bend wavy sable [Burton]; 2nd and 3rd, Argent, a lion rampant between 7 fleur de lis sable [Buckminster].
Crest: An armed arm holding a spear proper. Motto: Ab illustri pago:

Bitchfield

Notes taken in the church, 12 July, 1834—This church consists of a nave and north aisle divided by three Norman arches on tall columns, a chancel separated by a pointed arch from the nave, and a tower and spire at the west end. To the north of the arch to the chancel is a pinnacled small niche, and by the pillar next to it is a grotesque head supporting a bracket. The rafters of the roof are supported by figures holding shields, and at the inter-sections are ornamented. The font is octagon, pannelled with shields in quatre foyles, but it is so much daubed with paint that the bearings could hardly be discovered. These I made out : (1) a lily ; (2) a bend between three roses ; (3) a mullet ; and (4) a bend surmounted by a mullet. The east end of the north aisle is used as a vestry. The only register A[rthur] L[arken] could find in the chest was a modern one of marriages. On the communion chalice is this inscription :

Edward Saul, vicar, gave this | flagon to the church of Bichfield, | 1668.

On a blue flat stone (D) in the chancel is a brass plate, bearing a lozenge of these arms—. . . , on a chevron . . . between 3 falcons heads erased . . . as many cinquefoyls [Jackson]; and this inscription in capitals :

Here lyeth interred | the body of Elizabeth | Lack, daughter in lawe | to Phillip Dallowe, | esquire. Shee depar | ted this life
the 28th | day of September, | Anno D'ni 1661, | Ætatis
suæ 11.

On a flat stone (D) to the north of the last, with these arms cut above, much rubbed, but seem to be—on a fesse . . . between 3 lions seiant . . . as many crescents . . . ; crest—on an esquire's helmet a demy lion rampant. Inscription in capitals :

Hic jacet corpus | Philippi Dallowe | armigeri civis et |

senatoris Londinii | et hujus comitatus | irenarchæ, qui obiit | secundo die Augusti, | A^o D'ni 1666.

On another stone (D), more to the north, in capitals :

Mary the wife | of | Master John Woodroffe | was | buried
March ye 12, | Anno Dom' 1685.

On another, to the north, in capitals :

Here lieth the | body of Will | iam Woodroffe | gent. who dyed | Octob. 17, | A^o D'ni | 1652.

On a flat stone in the north aisle (D) :

In | memory of | Edward Bleuit | who died Nov^r 5, 1802, |
aged 46 years.

(followed by some verses not worth transcribing.)

In the nave is a large blue stone (R) in which have been brasses of a man and woman with labels issuing from their mouths, and of two sets of children, inscription and four shields at the corners, the whole now gone.

(MS v, 11-14.)

Blyborough

Notes taken in the church, 12 September, 1835—

A fine tomb (R) of brown sand stone under the arch which divides the chancel from the north chapel on which is the figure of a priest in cope¹ and stole with a cross down his breast, on which are 4 water bougets, his hands are clasped and his head rests on a cushion supported by two angels, whose heads are broken off. The face of the priest is mutilated, but the figure and inscription very perfect, the feet rest upon a greyhound which has also been decapitated.

The inscription runs round the cornice in church text :

Hic iacet dominus Robertus Conyng quondam rector istius ecclesie qui obiit tercio die Mensis Maii anno domini millesimo CCCCXXXIIIJ cuius anime propicietur deus amen.

At the east end or foot of the monument these arms—A cross charged with 5 water bougets ; and on the south side are three shields ; two of them are hid by a pew. The others are—(1), Quarterly, France and England ; (2), three water bougets. The cornice under the ledge of the altar slab is ornamented with roses and lions' heads.

On an altar tomb in the chapel north of the chancel (R) :

Here lyeth the body | of Edmund Southcote, Esq. | of Bly-borough in the | County of Lincoln, Junior, | who departed this life | on the 28 of March 1725, | in the 47th year of his age. | Credo videre bona Domini | in terra viventium.

On a flat stone in the same chapel :

Here lyeth the | body of Edmund | Southcote, Esq. | who departed | this life on the | XXIII of June | MDCCXV, | in the |

sixty fourth | year of his age, | Expectans | expectavi |
Dominum | et intendit | mihi.

On the next stone to the above more to the east :

Here lieth the | body of Dorothy | the wife of | Edmund
Southcoat | Esq. who died | October 19, | Anno Dom. | 1714, |
in the 60 year | of her age. | I waited long | for my | Salvacion.

On a white marble oval tablet (R) against the east wall of the chapel :

To | the memory | of | John Broadley, Esq., & Elizabeth his relict, of | Blyborough in this County. He departed this life | at Bath, the 25 of October 1794, aged 64, and was | interred in the Abbey Church of that City. His widow | died at Blyborough on the 2^d of April, 1823, in the 89 year | of her age, and her remains are deposited in | the family vault adjoining this | tablet.

On a white marble tablet (R) against the east wall of the chapel with an urn over the inscription in capitals :

In this vault | are deposited the mortal remains of | Peter
John Luard of Blyborough, | formerly Captain in the 4th
Dragoons, | who died May 23, 1830, | in the 76 year of his age, | and of his wife Louisa Luard | daughter of the late |
Charles Dalbiac, Esq. | She died January 4, 1831, | in the 70 year of her age. | To the memory of the best of parents | this monument is dedicated | by their grateful children.

An atchievement (R) against the east wall of the chapel—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Sable, a lion rampant or, holding an estoile argent [for Luard]; 2nd and 3rd, Gules, a chevron between three estoiles or; impaling—Or, a tree proper, on a chief gules a black knight issuing with arms extended [Dalbiac]. Crest: A demi lion or, holding an estoile argent. Motto: Prospice.

Another atchievement (D) of a lozenge—Or, a chevron gules between three curry combs sable; on an inescutcheon—Gules, a chevron between 3 mullets or.

The church has had a north aisle divided from the nave by three very broad arches, the columns having foliated capitals. The arch between the nave and chancel is pointed, and a low tower at the west end. There is a chapel on the north of the chancel part of which is now wholly walled up. On the north side of the Communion table has been an ogee arch with a very handsome finial. It is now blocked up, but it was under this obviously that the Conyng tomb formerly stood. The font is an octagon, and the base of the shaft is sculptured with flowers.

(MS vii, 5-10.)

Blyton

Notes taken in the church, 5 September, 1835—This church consists of a nave and aisles resting on three pointed arches on each side; a chancel divided by a low pointed arch; with a pinnacled tower, containing three bells at the west end. The chancel was rebuilt about 1822. The west pillars of the south aisle are clustered; the others are octagonal. The font is of the usual octagonal form, ornamented with foliage. There are a piscina and locker at the east end of the south aisle.

On a flat stone within the altar rails:

Sacred | to the memory of | the Rev^d John Alderson | who was 44 years curate | of Blyton. | He departed this life | March 17, 1830, | aged 84 years. | Blessed are the poor in spirit for theirs is | the kingdom of Heaven. | Also of Nancy wife of |

Boothby Pagnell

Notes taken in the church of Boothby Paynell, July 12, 1834—
This church is handsome. It consists of a nave and aisles separated by two Norman arches, a chancel, and a tower at the west end, also a south porch. The arch from the nave to the chancel is pointed, and that to the tower round. The chancel has a north aisle or chapel divided from it by two pointed arches, and enclosed by a railing close by the steps leading to the altar is in appearance the base of a cross or pillar with a hole for the insertion of the shaft. The east window is of five lights and decorated. In the chancel windows is a little stained glass but no arms. On the south west pinnacle of the tower is a shield bearing two chevrons [Paynell]. Over the chancel gable is an ornamented cross.

In the chapel north of the chancel against the north wall is a handsome monument (R) of white marble having a bust of a man in flowing wig, and a lady in the costume of Charles II time. Over them is a blank shield of arms, and the monument is ornamented with cherubs, drapery, etc. Below the busts is this inscription on a white slab :

Ex antiqua Lloydorum de Meverley apud Salopienses familia |

Of the antient family of the Lloyds of Meverley in Shropshire
Elizabeth | wife first of Francis Tyrwhit of Kettleby in this County of Lincoln, Esq., | afterwards of Abel Litchford, Esq., patron of this church, lord of this manour, | and owner of this marble monument, an excellent woman, pious, merciful, modest, | abounding in her charity to y^e poor, adorned with every virtue and with riches, | eminent for her wit and beauty, in great hopes of a blessed Resurrection, | rendered up her soul to God y^e 28 day of October 1696, aged 63 years. | Do you reader what becomes you being | Mindful of the last Judgment.

On a brass plate (R) against the wall east of the last monument with three shields of arms over—(1) [Sable], a fret [argent], a crescent for difference . . . [Harrington]; (2) the same impaling—[Gules], a fesse between 3 water bougets ermine [Meres]; (3) the impalement alone. The inscription in capitals :

Here lie the bodies of Katherine late wife | of Thomas Harrington of Boothby Paynell Esq. | and of Henry, Thomas, Margaret, & Eliza :, theire | children, w^{ch} Katherine died the 5 of May An'o | 1623, and left issue 5 sonnes Francys, | John, James, Charles, Edward, & one daughter Martha.

On a flat stone (D) in the floor below the monument :

Quod mortale est | Abelis et Elizabethæ | quibus erigitur monumentum | nobilius sub hoc uno marmore | defunctum vitam unam beatam | expectat | ad superos | prævit illa in antiqua fide | Secutus est hic in iisdem vestigiis | Vir vere justus post Deum Regem | summo semper obsequio colens | Amicus verus. | Cætera docet votiva tabula.

All that is mortal of | Abel & Elizabeth, | for whom the more noble monument | is erected, deposited under this one | marble expects one happy life, | to Heaven she went before | in the antient faith, | He followed in the same steps, | a man truly just after God, always | most religiously serving his king, | a true Friend. | The monumental tablet tells the rest.

On a flat stone (D) to the south of the last much effaced by damp : Here lieth interred the body of | Mr John Litchford alias [Row | land], heir to Abel Litchford | Esq., for whom the more [noble] | monument is erected, | who departed this life | June ye^e 9, 1718, | and in the [31st] year | of his age.

Another more to the west in capitals (D) :

On the south side of the chancel is a splendid monument consisting of an altar tomb of marble, with a large black slab at the top, on which are the recumbent figures in alabaster of a knight and lady. The former, who is raised about a foot higher than the other, is clothed in plate armour, his head bare and resting on a pillow. He has a ruff round his neck, his hands are clasped, and his sword hangs in an embroidered belt at his left side. At his feet is a peacock in its pride, thereon a crescent. His lady in a plaited gown and stomacher, with close sleeves and an embroidered mantle. She has a ruff round her neck, and her hands are clasped. Her head rests on a cushion, embroidered, and at her feet is her crest, a head crowned, coupé at the neck. At the base of the tomb are the kneeling figures of eleven sons and eight daughters ; seven of the sons wear a military habit with cloaks and boots, and two more are in civil costume. The remaining two are little ones and hold skulls, as do two of the elder ones. Three of the eight daughters are infants in swaddling clothes, and two are little, and hold skulls ; the remainder are dressed like their mother. Above the large figure is this shield of arms—Quarterly, 1st. Azure. three pelicans vulned or, with a crescent difference [Pelham] ; 2nd, Gules, two buckles and belts . . . [Pelham] ; 3rd, Fretty, azure [Willoughby] ; 4th, Gules, a saltier [Nevil]. Crest—A peacock in his pride proper. Below, the following inscription in capitals on a black slab :

Brant Broughton

Notes taken in the church of Broughton, 9 August 1833—

A black tablet against the north wall of the chancel with these arms above—Argent, two dolphins hauriant embowed proper, chained or [Colston]. And below the inscription the same arms impaling—. . . , on a bend three leaves . . . (no colours) (R):

 much as verse can sound as art can raise | He that would write thine epitaph indeed | Must take the volume of thy life indeed | How virtue had its seeds time, how it grew | How all was water'd sweetly by Heaven's dew | What a rich crop of goodness thou didst bear | Amidst thy family and friends so

deare | Must know the joyes of thy chaste nuptial bed | The comforts issuing from two sons wed | How thy indulgent eye and prudent care | Taught even at once thy children love and care | How just commands mixed with perswasions mild | Each servant made pay duty like a child | Thy peace within and they noe wars without | Thy wise resolves to every neighbours doubt | How thou could'st take up jars, make men agree | In this rough age without the law or fee |
 Then in the rich perfume of thine own praise | Embalm'd

 expenses of vain wealth. | Thy worth will be best monument to thyself. | Sic amicitiae cultorem æquissimum defuncti

Underneath is the figure of a man in a long robe, and two shields, each bearing the same quarterings of Cholmeley as those above, all in brass.

On a white marble tablet on the south wall of the chancel (R):

Sacred | to the memory of | the Rev^d John Cholmeley | second son of | the late Montagu Cholmeley, Esq., of Easton, | and
3 years & 7 months rector | of this place, where he will long

be remembered | with gratitude and affection | as the faithful pastor of the flock committed to his care. | His ministry was short, like a warning voice it was heard, | it is gone, | be ye also ready. | He died on the 4 of November 1814, | aged 41, | and left a widow, one son & two daughters | to lament his loss. | 'Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, | for they rest from their labours.'

There are brasses fixed in the wall, under the south window of the chancel, of a knight and his lady, their hands clasped as if in prayer, and between them a shield of the four quarterings of Cholmeley, impaling— . . . on a saltier engrailed, five roundles . . . , between four lions passant [Lacy] (R).

A white marble slab in the floor of the chancel of a lozenge shape (D) :

Augustus Fredericus | filius | Francisci et Saræ Randolph | obiit Febr^{arii} die 20^{ma} | An. Dom. 1818, | mensem agens quin^{imum}.

In the chancel are the effigies in stone of two knights in mail, and cross-legged, but the bottom of the legs are broken off. One of them is with hands clasped and in the attitude of prayer; the other is drawing his sword and bears a shield (R).

On a monument in the south aisle, of white and grey marble, with an urn over (R) :

Sacred to the memory of | John Hopkinson, Esq., | who died Sept. the 16, 1777, | aged 50 years, | and | Mary Hopkinson his wife, | who died Dec. the 27, 1785, | aged 64 years. | Their remains are deposited | under the two adjoining gravestones | beneath this tablet, which is here | erected as the last tribute of | filial affection and gratitude.

There is a wooden tablet which commemorates that John Speight by his last will, dated 20 July 1734, gave certain lands for instructing the poor (D).

Burton by Lincoln

Notes taken in the church of Burton, 5 August 1833—

On a flat stone within the communion rails (R):

Christopher Randes Esq. y^e sonne of | Tho^s y^e eldest sonn of Hen. Hol- | bech alias Randes, D.D., BPP of Roch- | ester &
 Lincoln, Reg. Hen. 8, | leaving y^e hopeful progenny | of 5

sonnes & 3 daughters by | his virtuous wives Faith Dighton |
& Katherine Moundeford, Feb. y^e 4, Anno | D'ni 1639. Fell asleep in y^e Lord | ætatis suæ 66.

On a flat stone, an inscription partly round the rim and partly extending into the centre of the stone on a label, the characters in good preservation, but one end is hid under the altar step. It differs, as will be seen, from Hollis' copy :

Hic jacet Robertus Suttun armiger nuper maritus d'næ Margarete filie Edwardi Suttun militis domini . . . relictæ Joh'is
Gray militis d'ni Powys, qui quidem Robertus obiit xxv die Novembris, Anno d'ni M^o. D^o XLV^o quorum animabus pro- picietur Deus amen.

Four shields. The first—Quarterly, 1st, [Or], on a chevron gules 3 crescents [argent], between three annulets [gules] [Sutton] ; 2nd, chevron between three garbs [Sheffield] ; 3rd, three boars' heads coupé ; 4th, [Argent], fretty [gules] [Boys]. The second shield is the arms of Sutton above, and the boars' heads below ; impaling—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, [Or], a lion rampant [vert] [Sutton] ; 2nd, Quarterly, (1 and 4), two lions ; (2 and 3), a crosslet ; 3rd, Quarterly, (1 and 4) ; (2 and 3), a saltier.

Against the north wall of the chancel is a handsome monument of black and white marble. In a recess kneel the figures of a man in armour, save the head, and his lady opposite, before an altar on which are books. Behind him are the figures of four sons and behind her four daughters. On the ground in the front of the altar is an infant. Over the man and over two of the daughters is a scull. Above his head are these arms—Azure, on a chevron or three roses gules [Rands] ; impaling—three fleur de lis [Moundeford]. Over her, five fleur de lis [for Moundeford]. At the top are the arms—Azure, on a chevron or three roses gules [Rands], between two pyramids of blue marble.

Below this in two columns are the following lines :

Tu quisquis fueris dives sapiens generosus | Sis patiens clemens
sis liberalis amans | Dona tot hoc uno tumultu sunt clausa
viator. | Ara fuit miseris area et aperta bonis | Quid tua deliquit pietas non conscia culpæ | Hoc nisi culpa fuit te potuisse mori.

In the second column :

En quam terra sinu defunctum læta recepit | et tumet adventu
facta superba suo | Tu Rosa Christe Rosis clypeo nil aptius
Urnam | Christopheri suavem nomen honosque dabunt. |
Friend I desire noe needless Prayers of thee | But prayse
God for his Saints and soe doe wee.

Below the figures is this :

To the pretious memory of hir dearest husband. | Neare unto rest the bodys of Christofer Randes Esq. & Katheren his | wife, daughter of Tho : Moundeford of Lon, Dr in Phy.; by whom he had | issue 5 sonnes, Tho.; X'ofer, Moundeford, Hen.; John : & 3 daughters Mary, | Briget, & Elizabeth.

The said { X'ofer. } departed { Feb. 4, A^o D'ni 1639.
Kather. }

This church is small but neat. It consists of a nave and chancel which are modern, and a tower at the west end which is antient. At the east window are the Royal arms, and those of Lord Monson with the badge of the moon and the sun in painted glass.

Burton Pedwardine

Notes taken in the church, 15 August 1836—This church consists of a small modern nave and tower, in length about twenty paces, and on the north side of the nave, at the west end, a small transept or chapel with two Decorated windows and ornamented buttresses of the same style. One window is now blocked up. There are the remains of an arch in the west wall of the chapel. The font is a plain round one, on a tall pillar. There are several old stones with crosses cut on them on the floor of the nave.

Against the south wall of the small chapel is a very fine monument of black and white marble, consisting of two arched recesses ornamented with rosettes etc., and flanked by two black Corinthian pillars with gilt capitals, and surmounted with a pediment bearing this shield of arms which is so much effaced by damp as to be scarcely discerned—Quarterly of six, 1st, [Azure, a pair of barnacles or, Horseman]; 2nd, Or, a cross vert [Hussey]; 3rd, Argent, a bend wavy, cottised sable [Nesfield]; 4th, Barry of six ermine and gules [Hussey]; 5th, Per pale chevronnee, argent and gules [Say]; 6th, Gules, four fusils in fesse, argent [for Cheney]. Crest—On a torce or and argent, a horse's head. On the monument is the recumbent alabaster figure of a knight in plate armour. His head is bare and rests on a pillow. His arms are raised in prayer, but the figure is dreadfully mutilated, and the whole monument has suffered so much from the ravages of the damp, that it seems in a fair way of being totally destroyed. There are some remains of armour placed on the tomb. On a black marble slab in the first recess is the following inscription in capitals :

Memoriæ sacrum | Thomas Horsemanus, Eques Auratus,
Thomæ Horsemani | Armigeri quondam domini hujus Manerii et Elizabe- | tæ unius filiarum et cohæredum Roberti Husei | militis, filius et hæres, | ab ineunte adolescentia | liberaliter institutus a latere fuit ornatissimo | viro Gulielmo Baroni

de Burghley summo Angliæ | Thesaurario, postea in Famulitium Reginæ | Elizabethæ adscriptus per 40 annos
Serenis- | simæ Reginæ ministravit et prægustatoris | Munere perfunctus fuit.

On a similar tablet in the other recess :

Vir summa fide eximia constantia Morumque | probitate
insignis xxvi die Novembris Anno | Domini 1610 ab hac luce
migravit plenus | dierum atque cum in Corpore per 74 annos |
tanquam migraturus habitasset . | Hujus memoriæ | Thomas
Horseman Armiger eius e | fratre Nepos et hæres hoc | Monu-mentum charissimæ | pietatis ergo dicavit.

A stone on the floor near the monument, having had the figures of a man and woman in brass. The man is gone, but appears to have been dressed in a cloak. The woman remains in the dress of Charles I's time, having a veil. The following inscription is on a brass plate below the figures in capitals :

Here lieth interred the body of Thomas Horsman | Esq^r who was Lord of this Towne, he tooke to | wife Mary the daughter of John Tredway of Easton | in Northamptonshire. He departed this life the 2^d of | Aprille in the yeare of our Lord 1631, whose wife | in her pious memorie erected this memoriall.

Under a low arch in the north wall of the chapel is a tomb, a little raised from the ground, which has a bust in brass and two shields, now all gone, and this inscription cut round the verge now much mutilated. What remains appears to be :

Dame Alice de Pettewardyn gist icy | File de | Longchampe
S. Henri. | Deu de Sa alme eyt merci.

On a flat stone in the nave with these arms cut over—. . . a saltier [Yorke], impaling—. . . a bend . . . between three garbs . . . Crest—An esquire's helmet and torce . . . and . . . a horse's head erased . . . (R):

Wilhelmus Yorke Arm : | Filius Wilhelmi Yorke de Lessing-
ham Equitis | obiit 2^{do} die Januarii | Anno 1725.

Another stone more to the east in capitals (D):

Here lieth the body of | Joseph son of Thomas Smith | and
Anne his wife interred | Jan. the 30, 1696, aged 16 years, | and by him lieth Ann Tho., Tho., | and Thorold Smith, sonnes | and daughter of Thomas Smith | and Anne his wife.

On an old stone to the west of the last in the old character much effaced, what remains appears to be (D):

✠ Hic jacet . . . | Walteri de . . . | q: obiit xi die
m . . . | mccccxxvii cui . . .

On another fragment of stone :

. . ptember y^e 30, 17 . . .

On a stone let into the wall high up on the north side of the tower arch, almost obliterated by whitewash (D):

Near this place lieth Anne | wife of Thomas Smith, the dau^r | of Mr Joseph Thorold of Boston, | and by her 3 children and | grandchildren | sisters aged years.

Burwell

Notes taken in the church, 19 August 1835—This church is prettily situated on the side of a hill and clothed with ivy on the outside. It consists of a nave and chancel separated by a Norman arch ornamented with the chevron moulding, and a tower at the west end. The chancel is on much higher ground; therefore there is a gradual ascent from the west. The upper half of the tower is brick; on the south of the altar is a water drain,¹ and on the north a large carved bracket in the east wall.

Against the south wall of the chancel is a handsome black marble monument, flanked by two Doric pillars. The arms over—Sable, a bend² between six billets, argent [Alington, of Swinhope], impaling—Ermine on a fesse sable, three mullets or [Lister, of Burwell]. The crest is gone. Inscription on a black slab in italics:

M.S. | Under this monument | lyeth interr'd the body of
Hugh | Alington³ of Stanigott in the | county of Lincoln Esq. ye son and | heir of Henry Alington Esq. | descended from ye family of ye | Alingtons of Horseth in ye county of | Cambridge who had to wife in second | marriage Jane the daughter of S^r | Martin Lister late of this place kt | by whom he had issue Hugh and Barbara. | Hugh died young in ye life time of his | father and lyeth here also interr'd | Obiit
Junii 3^o Anno Dom. 1674 | Ætatis suæ 39.

On the north wall of the chancel is a handsome white and grey marble monument with these arms—Ermine, on a fess sable three mullets or [Lister]; on an escocheon—Or, on a bend between six cross crosslets sable three garbs of the field [Bancroft]:

In memory of | Mathew Dymoke Lister Esq. | who died
February the 9, 1772, aged 39 years, | and of Lydia, | only child of Joseph Bancroft, merchant of Manchester, | and widow of the above Mathew Dymoke Lister, | by whom she had issue, Mathew Bancroft, | John Joseph, and Lydia
Boughton, | who died April the 28, 1792, aged 49 years. |
Also of Grace | widow of Sir Edward Boughton, Bart | of
Lawford in the county of Warwick, | wife of Mathew Lister,
Esq., | and mother of the above Mathew Dymoke Lister, | who died in February 1779, aged 77 years. | The above were buried in the vault underneath. | Also in memory of Mathew

Lister, Esq., | who died Jan 15, 1786, aged 79 years and 9 months, | and was buried at Brant Broughton in the county of Nottingham [sic]. | This marble is erected by their descendant, | not for the purpose of drawing forth their merits or of recording | their virtue, but as an humble and grateful tribute of | affection to their memory.

A small marble tablet to the east of the last in capitals :

In memory of | Charles James | second son of Mathew Bancroft | and Sophia Lister, | who died at Guilford April 14, 1808, | aged 9 months, | and was buried in the vault of John Martyr, Esq., | of that place.

An old flat stone in the chancel partly hid by the steps to the altar, the inscription round the edge in old character (D) :

[D'nus Will's Cope]man quondam vicarius istius ecclesie, qui obiit anno D'ni MCCCCLXXXIIIJ cuius anime propicietur [Deus. Amen].

At the west end of the nave are flat stones to the memory of :

Ann Kent died 8 July 1817, æt. 67.

John Kent died 16 Nov. 1808, æt. 72.

Elizabeth wife of John Kent died 17 June 1769, æt. 21.

Outside the church close under the south wall of the chancel is an altar tomb covered with a black slab, these arms cut on it— , three pallets , over all a bend . . . [for Barkham]. Crest—Two arms couped at elbow, holding a sheaf of arrows ; this inscription below :

Here lyeth y^e body of Robert Barkham, | Esq., second son to Sir Rob^t Barkham | of Totenham High Cross in y^e county | of Middlesex, kt, married Frances | second daughter of Sir Martin Lister | of Burwell in y^e county of Lincoln, | kt, & had issue Frances, Susanna, Mary, | Robert, Edward, & Michael, dyed y^e | 19 of May 1691, aged 47.

There are stones at the west end of the nave to :

Martha Wainwright died 6 March 1780, æt. 94.

Thomas Elvidge died 31 Jan. 1780, aged 65.

M^r James Ashby buried 8 April 1769, æt. 74.

Elizabeth his wife died Aug. 28, 17 . . .

The font is octagonal, pannelled with shields in quartrefoyles. The following inscription is round the base in old character in two lines :

Orate pro animabus Thome FitzWilliam, et Margarete ux' eius qui hunc fontem fieri fecerunt A^o D'ni MCCCC⁴LXVIII.

[See also Lincs. N. & Q. x, 202.]

(MS vi, 183–187.)

NOTES

¹ This is a double piscina. ² The bend should be engrailed. ³ For Hugh Alington, see Maddison, i, 7. ⁴ This part of the date is rather doubtful as the stone has been damaged, but the style of the font renders it probable that it was the fifteenth century.

Castle Bytham

Notes taken in the church, 16 July, 1834—This church consists of a nave and north aisle divided by three pointed arches, a chancel, north transept, and tower at the west end. At the end of the transept is an early English lancet window of three lights. It has a north porch, and in the church are some remains of old pewing, but it is generally removed, the church having been newly pewed. The chancel is large, and on the north side is an altar-tomb under a very large and beautiful ogee quatrefoiled arch ornamented with the ball in hollow moulding, with a fine crocketed canopy surmounted by a very handsome finial. The font is adorned with niches in trefoiled ogee arches divided by pinnacles. There is neither figure nor inscription remaining :

A white marble tablet north of the altar :

Sacred | to the memory of | the Hon^{ble} William Moore | who departed this life | Nov^r 20, 1810, | aged 72 years.

A flat stone below commemorates the same.

A neat white marble tablet against the north wall of the chancel, the inscription in capitals :

Sacred | to the memory of | Lucy wife of Walter Larkham, Esq., Surgeon, | and 6th daughter of Henry Hopkinson, Esq., | who died in London of malignant cholera, 6 August 1832, | aged 29 years | and in the 7th month of her marriage. | This tablet was erected by her husband | in this place for the more durable record of his affection | amidst her new and attached relatives. | Her remains are deposited in the vault of St John's church, | Waterloo Road, Lambeth, Surrey.

A tablet of stone against the south wall of the chancel :

Little Bytham

Notes taken in the church of Bytham Parva, 16 July, 1834—
This church is curious. It consists of a nave and south aisle divided by round arches resting on plain columns with nail-head moulding, a chancel, south porch, and tower of Norman character at the west end, with a Decorated (late) spire with windows. The cornice of the tower is curiously ornamented [with quatrefoiled circles on the east side, and with diamonds on the south side]. The chancel is divided from the nave by a pointed arch, and on the north side there has been a tomb under an arch with a crocketed canopy over adorned with the hollow and ball moulding, and flanked by two pinnacles one of which is broken off. A stone seat runs round the chancel—[a very rare feature]—and in the place where to appearance the altar has been are two pieces of stone projecting out of the wall. On the south side is a double piscina, and at each corner is a bracket. It is also separated from the nave by an old screen. In the north wall of the nave is a niche with a crocketed canopy and finial. In the south aisle is a trefoiled piscina. The font is a plain octagon. On the south side of the chancel, blocked up, is a Norman door with the billet moulding, and in the head of the arch are two birds. The outer moulding of the door is diaper fashion. There is a door to the north aisle, blocked up, also Norman, with the nail-head and zig-zag or chevron moulding, very handsome. These two doors are worthy of examination. There is no monumental memorial of any description in the church.

(MS v, 41-42.)

Cantwick

Notes taken in the church, 7 August, 1833—

On a white marble monument against the north wall of the chancel with an urn above :

Near this place | is deposited all that was mortal of | Coningsby
Sibthorp, Esquire, LL.D, | who having long endured | the extremity of pain with exemplary patience | at the age of 75, on the 13 day of August A.D. 1788, | placidly resigned the breath of life | to Him who gave it. | He was an active and upright magistrate of this county, | Colonell of the southern regiment of its militia, | and thrice chosen to represent the ancient city of Lincoln | in Parliament, | throughout life in every social relation | his character and manners inspired respect and love, | to his neighbours he was hospitable, | to his tenantry indulgent, | to all kind and beneficent, | but chiefly he was endeared to the children of his brother | whom being himself unmarried | he cherished with an affection scarcely less than paternal. | He was a true old English Country Gentleman, | a character in these times rare in all times highly estimable. | To his memory | in obedience to the last will of his brother | Humphry Sibthorp, M.D., | this monument | is with pious respect erected | by Humphry the sole surviving nephew son and heir. | Such has been the dispensation of Providence | of their collected fortunes | A.D. 1800.

On a flat stone :

Mr W^m Wetherall | died 22 July 1785, | aged 56 years. | Benjamin Wetherall | died March 10, 1799, aged 65 years. | Clarissa Wetherall | his daughter | died March 7, 1786, | aged 20 years. | Margaret & Sabina died in their infancy.

On a flat stone partly defaced :

Here lyeth y^e Body | of Nath. Clarke | rector of Cannick who | dyed July 31, 1683, | & Eliz. his wife who | dyed Sept. 18, 1684, | in y^e hope of a joyful | & glorious resurrection. | Here also lieth the | body of Susanna Clarke | daughter of the a Bove-mentioned | who departed October | 29, 1721, ætat. 77.

Next to the last another flat stone :

Here lyeth the body | of Susanna Clarke | of the city of Lincoln, spin : | who departed this life | Dec. 25, 1771, | aged 75 years.

An atchievement against the north side of the nave—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Argent, two bars gules in a border sable [Sibthorp]; 2nd and 3rd, Or, a bend azure between three leopards' heads cabossed gules [Waldo]. First crest—A demi lion argent, holding a fleur de lis sable [Sibthorp]. Second crest—A monkey proper, chained azure. Motto : Nil conscire sibi.

On a hatchment against the south wall the four quarterings of Sibthorp, impaling—Gules, a chevron argent between three griffins' heads erazed or [Ellison]. Crest—A demi-lion argent, holding a fleur de lis.

On a marble tablet against the south wall of the chancel, in capitals :

Near this place | are interred the remains of | the Rev^d John

Sharrer | vicar of Canwick for upwards of 25 years. | He departed this life on the 25 day of April | in the year of our Lord | MDCCCXVIII, | aged 72 years.

On a flat stone within the altar rails :

Here lyeth the | body of Thomas | Lodington gent. | de Merton Coll. in | Oxon., obiit 3 die Jan. | 1694, ætat. 21 years.

On the same stone :

Here lieth the body | of Mr John Wetherall | one of the sen^r alderⁿ | of the city of Lincoln, | who departed this life | Sep. first, 1750, | aged 67.

On a blue stone to the west of the last :

Here lieth the body | of Sarah the wife of | John Wetherall of the | city of Lincoln, who dyed | March 28, 1720, in | the 36th year of her age, | was grand-daughter | of the Rev. Mr Nath: Clarke | Rect. of Canwick. | Here also lieth Ann the | wife of John Wetherall | one of the sen^r aldermen | of the city of Lincoln, was | granddaughter of the | Rev^d Mr Nath. Clarke Rect. | of Canwick, died July 16, | 1745, aged 49.

Another more to the south :

In memory of Ann wife | of Mr Thos Wetherall | merchant of Gainsbro' | who departed this life Jan. 30, 1793, | aged 52 years, | also | Mr Tho. Wetherall | who died Dec. 29, 1795, | aged 60 years.

A flat stone under the Communion table partly broken :

. | daughter of | Sarah Wetherall of . . . | city of Lincoln who | died July 31, A.D. 1714, | aged 4 years. | A child of Love a child of Grace | Who now beholds the blessed face | Of its sweet Jesus blessed above | And reigning with ye King of Love | Pitying her parents for their grief | And pointing to their sole relief | Calling Pappa and Mamma to her. |

A flat stone in the south (R) :

Here lieth the body | of Margaret Reid | who died Jan. the 11, 1773, | aged 66.

(MS iii, 167-174.)

Careby

Notes taken in the church, July 16, 1834—This church consists of a nave and south aisle divided by three pointed arches resting on tall columns, a chancel, south porch, and a tower at the west end. The arch from nave to chancel is blocked up. At the west end, in a neat loft, is a well toned organ presented by the present rector the Rev. J. R. Deverell, who has also given the pulpit and reading desk. Over the altar is a copy by the rector of the picture at Burleigh of our Saviour blessing the elements, and the east window has been put in by the rector who has painted the glass in it.

North of the altar is an ancient tomb, the upper part of which is hollowed out, and has the half figures in relievo of a knight in chain mail with a coif or chapeau of the same, his hands crossed on his breast, and at his left side is a lady in robe and wimple, her hair fastened on each side of the face in rolls, her hands similarly clasped. The lower part is solid and on it is a shield bearing these arms— . . . two bars . . . in chief three escallops.

To the west of the last, without the rails is a tomb, a little raised from the ground, bearing the effigy of a knight in chain mail with a chapeau of the same, with brassards and genouailes of plate, his legs are crossed and hands clasped. He wears a surcoat open at the bottom of the front, and his sword hangs at the left side, his head is supported by a pillow held by angels, but their heads are lost, his feet on a lion. His spurs are gone, but the leathers by which they were fastened are visible. These two monuments are in beautiful preservation, especially the latter, and well worthy of attentive examination.

Against the north wall of the chancel is a handsome marble monument with these arms above (they are painted in utter defiance of Heraldic rules, but the colours may be known from a hatchment near)—Azure, a chevron between six escallops argent [for Hatcher]; impaling two wives—(2nd wife), Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Or, a plain cross vert [Hussey]; 2nd and 3rd, Barry of six ermine and gules [Hussey]; (1st wife), Gules, on a bend wavy argent three shovellers sable, beaked gules [Rede]. Crest—A cubit arm gules, fretty or, holding a laurel branch proper [for Hatcher]. This inscription below in italics :

Underneath lieth the body of | Thomas Hatcher Esq. | descended of that antient family of the | Hatchers, for many generations Lords of | this Manour. | He was born November
the iii^d, MDCLX | and dyed September the vith, MDCCXIV. |
He had 2 wives but no issue ; the first was | Grace daughter of William Harbord, Esq., | the second was Jane daughter | of Sir Charles Hussey of Caythorpe in this | county, Bart., | who surviving him, | in memory of her indulgent husband, | erected this monument | Anno Dom. MDCCXXXI.

This follows in plain characters :

Here is also interred the body of | Jane relict of the said
Tho. Hatcher | who departed this life June the 3, 1735, | in the 80 year of her age.

On a flat stone in the floor below in capitals :

Sepulchrum | Hujus Familiæ | ex Impensis | Thomæ Hatcheri |
Armigeri | Anno Domini 1711.

On a modern brass plate in the chancel floor (D):

Here lie the bodies of Margaret | and Mary Watson whose sincere | friendship and goodness was | a valuable treasure. |
Mary Watson died the 10 of March, | 1726, | in the sixty sixth year of her age.

In the chancel is a large blue stone which once had the brasses of a woman and inscription now gone (R). At the west end of the nave is a stone with a cross cut in it.

Carlby

Notes taken in the church, 20 July 1833—

On a flat stone in the chancel to the north:

Here | lyeth interred the | body of Vrsula | relict of Captain |
Edward Holford | who departed | this life the tenth | day of May 1704, | & in the 43 year | of her age.

On a flat stone next to it on the south:

Here | lieth interred the body | of Captain Edward Holford | who departed this life | the 9th day of February 1699, | in the 67 year of his age.

T. B. | died 1769, | aged 66 years.

On a grey marble monument with white slab against the wall south of the altar:

Beneath this marble lies the body | of Elizabeth Clarke | late the amiable and beloved wife | of John Clarke of Stamford Baron | who died on the 8th day of Dec. 1792, | aged 56 years, | was by the infinite mercy and goodness | of the Almighty translated from | a world of pain and trouble | to a world of endless joy and happiness, | where with other blessed spirits | she's celebrating her Maker's praise. | Blest be the Bark which wafts thee to the shore | Where death divided friends shall part no more | To join thee there here with thy dust repose | Is all the hope thy hapless husband knows.

On a flat stone within the altar rails:

Here lieth interred the | body of Mary relict of | Lister Tighe
Esq. | who departed this life | the 20th day of Dec. | in the year of our Lord | 1709, | and in the 70th year of her age.

Upon another to the south almost obliterated what is legible is:

Frances Tighe relict of | John Tighe one of y^e | daughters of Sir Thomas | Allen of Finchley Knt, | deceased the 24th of August | 1675, aged 35 years.

A flat stone in the chancel :

Here | lieth interred the body of the | Rev^d William Purkis.
D.D., | twenty six years | Rector of this parish | who departed
this life | February 25th, 1791, | aged 55 years. | John Tigh
Esq. died March 11 1780, | aged 56 years.

A black flat stone to the south :

Eliz. Clarke | died Dec. the 8th, 1792, | aged 58 years.

The church is not large or handsome. It consists of a nave and two aisles and a chancel with a tower and spire at the west end. These notes were taken with some difficulty owing to our not being able to obtain the key of the church, and therefore being obliged to copy the inscriptions through the windows.¹

¹ These inscriptions have been checked by the Reverend H. P. Talbot, and, although they were copied by W. J. Monson, under such disadvantageous circumstances, they needed but little correction, and no additions.

¹ These plates are now affixed to the south wall of the chancel, above the door. ² A skull is carved here.

North Carlton

Notes taken in the church, 2nd Sept., 1828—This day we made an excursion to North Carlton. I shall first begin with the church.
It is a very neat, small edifice, but contains only two memorials of the Monson family. These are inlaid brasses in the chancel.
One, about 12 $\frac{3}{8}$ inches by 5 $\frac{5}{8}$ inches, rather to the south of the chancel, is as follows in capitals:

Here lieth the body of S^r Robert | Mounson k^{nt} the 3 sone of S^r John | Movnson of Sovth Carleton in the | covnty of Lincolne who | was the last pyrcheser of | North Carleton
after the | death of his father.

In the right hand bottom corner are the following arms—Or, two chevronels gules, with a mullet for difference [Monson]; impaling—
. . . , a cross between four cinquefoils . . . [for Clayton].

The other brass, measuring 22 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches by 5 $\frac{5}{8}$ inches, is rather to the northward, in capitals:

Here lieth the body of Edward Monson | Esq. the eleventh son of S^r John Monson | Jvn^r late of Bvrton Barr^t who departed | this life Sept^r 7th Anno Dom: 1714, aged 46
years.

Above the inscription are the arms of Monson, with a martlet for difference.

(MS Supp., 28-29.)

South Carlton

Notes taken in the church, 1st September, 1828—The church is a very neat building and the approach to it down the hill, pretty.
Over the porch of entrance is an old cross. In the aisle is a stone with an inscription round it but now almost illegible, a little further on one from which brasses of inscription and arms have obviously been torn, and nearer the chancel another in which also there has been a brass for an inscription. All these probably were Monson monuments. In approaching the chancel is a handsome old oak screen, and over the arch in the carving are four shields, the two centre are obviously the Monson arms impaled with those of Anderson and Oxenbrigg, but those at the side, in being repainted, are left only Monson, impaled with argent and with azure. In the two first mentioned only is the bloody hand.

The Monson burial chapel is on the north of the chancel. The first object on entrance which must attract the eye is the splendid marble standing tomb to Sir John Monson. The knight and his lady, the former in complete armour, lie extended, their heads resting on cushions; one of his arms falls over his thigh, the other is at his side, as are both of hers. He has both beard and moustachios, the legs have been broken off; her figure is more perfect; she is in a figured dress, and the length is about $5\frac{1}{2}$ feet. They lie under a canopy supported by six grey marble columns. It has been richly ornamented in the ceiling and with the following decorations on each side: On the east the monument is surmounted by the arms of Monson impaled with—Argent, a lion passant between three crosses patee fitch [gules] for Dighton. Beneath, on the pediment, in a small shield are the arms of Monson impaled with Anderson. At the base of this side are two figures, male and female, kneeling at a desk with books before them. They are mutilated, the male figure being partly divided. On the south side the canopy bears the inscription, and on the frieze of the pediment are the arms of Monson, impaled with—Per bend indented or and azure, two crosses patee counterchanged (Smith). The next shield, Monson, impaled with—Argent, a saltier between four martlets gules [Clayton]. And the last shield on this side, being the Monson arms, with—Argent, a bend undee sable (Wallop). No doubt these are the coats of Anthony, Sir Robert, and Sir William Monson. On this side are at the base two female and one male figures. The female figures, one in particular, are very perfect, but the male is without his head. The height of the most perfect figure (they are all kneeling) is three feet. The west side is surmounted by the Monson quarterings, as thus, Monson, Hussey, Nesfield, Hussey, Say, and Cheney. These are in a large shield. Beneath was a coat of arms on the frieze, but now broke down; there are no figures on this side. On the north side are the arms of Brown, Reresby, and Dymock, impaled with Monson on the frieze. On this side also there are two women and one man, but much mutilated. The length of the monument where the pillars rise is 7 feet 4 inches, but from the base 9 feet 10 inches. The breadth 6 feet above, below $8\frac{1}{2}$ feet. The kneeling figures are as to the men in ruffs and half armour, the women in frills with a head-dress thrown over the head. There were more figures round it. Three men and two women are lying in the corners of the chapel.

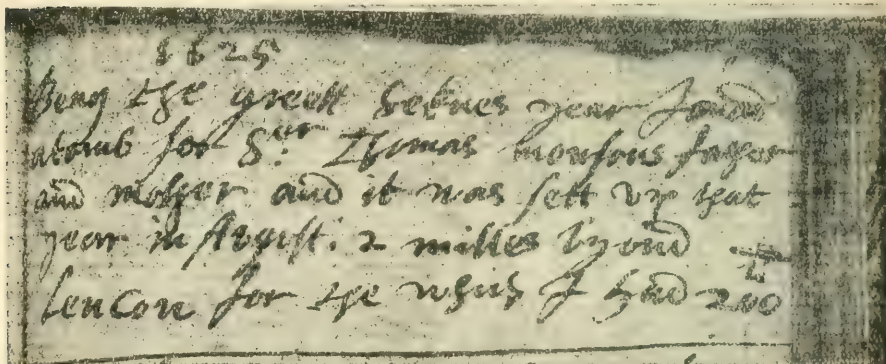

In the inner part of the chapel are the tombs of Sir H. Monson and Lord Monson and the achievements of the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th Lord Monsons. In the outer part of the chapel are two iron helmets and two iron gauntlets.

NOTE

The great tomb, which is described above, was the work of Nicholas Stone, statuary and master mason to James I and Charles I, and architect, as is shewn by an entry in one of Stone's note books in the Soane museum, a copy of which was sent to the present Lord Monson by Mr Walter L. Spicer in 1913.

Stone, who was born near Exeter in 1586, and died in London in 1647, studied for his craft in London under Isaac James, and in Holland under Pieter de Keyser, son of Hendrick de Keyser, the famous sculptor. Returning to London in 1614, Stone executed various works in London. He is best known by his monuments, which are in the late debased Renaissance style, known as Jacobean. Among the tombs made by him were those of Thomas Sutton in the Charterhouse, Sir Thomas Bodley at Oxford, Dr John Donne in a winding-sheet in St Paul's cathedral, and Lord-chief-justice Coke at Titteshall in Norfolk. An account-book of Stone's, containing details of many such works, which had been purchased by Horace Walpole, was sold at the Strawberry Hill sale to Sir John Soane, and is now in the Soane museum, Lincoln's Inn Fields.

Here is the body of Daniel | Hussey son of S^r Edward | Hussey and Charlotte | Hussey, he departed out | of this life Nov. 1696, in the | 4th year of his age.

A handsome marble monument against the east wall of the north aisle, ornamented with cherubs and garlands, these arms above—Quarterly 1st and 4th, Barry of six argent and gules [Hussey]; 2nd and 3rd, Or, a cross azure, a crescent sable [Hussey]; impaling—Or, 3 caltrops and a chief sable [de Vic]:

Underneath | lies the body of | Sir Edward Hussey of Welbourne, Bart, | son and heir of Sir Charles Hussey of the second branch | of the antient and noble family of the Husseys, | a gentleman of great learning, virtue, integrity, | and singular love to his country, which he served | many years in parliament with honor | as one of the representatives of the city of Lincoln. | He had by his first [wife] Charlotte, only daughter of | Daniel Brevint, D.D., Dean of Lincoln, eleven children, | who all dyed unmarried except two, viz. | Charlotte late wife of Thomas Bochin¹ Esq., | and Sarah, first the wife of Robert Cawdron, | and now of Weston John Smith, Esq. | By his second wife Elizabeth daughter of Sir Charles de Vic, Bart, | (son of Sir Henry de Vic, Bart), | he had three sons and one daughter, viz. | Anne Charlotte, Henry, Robert, and Edward. | Sir Edward dyed February XIX A.D. MDCCXXIV aged LXV. | Henry succeeded him in his honour and estate, and dyed unmarried | February XIV, MDCCXXIX, aged XXVII. | Anne Charlotte, Robert, and Edward dyed young. | In memory of her husband and children who all lie here | Elizabeth his widow set up this monument | A.D. MDCCXXXII intending it both for them and herself. | Near this place lieth the body of the said | Elizabeth Lady Hussey. | She died January the XXI, | A.D. MDCCCL aged LXXVIII.

On a white tablet against the north wall :

Rebecca Pickworth Atkin | sister of the late Capt^d Pickworth
Horton and wife | of Mr John Atkin who was of Asgarby
in this county, | died at Lambeth in Surrey, | August 7, 1817, | aged 35 years, | her remains being deposited near this place. | We wept when we remembered Zion. Psalm CXXXVII.

On a small monument adjoining :

Sacred to the memory of | Pickworth Baxter Posthumus
Horton Esq. | son of Pickworth Horton | late Captain in the 61 Regiment of Foot, | who at the age of 28 years | fell in the arms of victory | at the battle of Salamanca | on July 22, 1812, | as he lived honorable & beloved | so he died glorious. | Art thou indeed dear youth for ever fled | So quickly numbered with the silent dead | Yet though we now lament with deepest woe | We patient bow for God ordained it so.

On another monument with these arms—Argent, three martlets in pale sable between two flanches or charged with two lions passant of the 2^d ; crest—A buck's head erased [the arms of Browne] :

Lincoln, Bart., Lord of | this Mannour and one of the Gentlemen of his Majestys most Hon^{ble} Privy Chamber in | extraordinary, and dear husband of Elizabeth eldest daughter of S^r William Brownlow | of Humby in the said county, Bart., by whom he had seven sons and eight daughters | who, serving his country in Parliament Anno XIII^o of king Charles the II as knight of the shire | for the said county, departed this life at London, December II in the XXXIX year of his | age, and was interred here December XVI, A.D. MDCLXIV. | And near him lye the bodys of his said wife Elizabeth who was born August IX, | MDCXXX, and dyed at London, December
XXV, A.D. MDCLXXXVIII, | whose extensive charity and affection to her children nothing could exceed. | And of Mrs Anne Brownlow XIX child of the same Sir William Brownlow, Bart., who died | August VI, MDCCXX, aged LXVIII, | whose whole life was employed in doing good to the afflicted and distressed. | And of Mrs Anne Hussey a maiden daughter of the said S^r Charles Hussey who died | August VI, MDCCXXVII, aged LXXII. | She was steadfast in the Religion of the Church of England, a true lover of her family, | and her sincere friendship and goodness made her justly valued by all that knew her.

A brass plate in the floor of the pew below :

A. H.² ob. Aug. 6th, 1727. | She was a daughter to S^r Charles |
Hussey of Caythorpe, knt and bart. | He was one of the Bed
Chamber and Privy Councillor to his sacred | Majesty King
Charles y^e second. He married Elizabeth y^e eldest | daughter of S^r Will^m Brownlowe, | bart., of Humby in the county | of Lincoln, by whom he had | seven sons and eight daughters.

On another near (D) :

Thomas Hussey Esq. son of S^r | Edw. Hussey, Bart., by his first | wife Charlotte only child of Dan^l | Brevint, D.D.

and Dean | of Lincoln, departed this life May | the 30, 1720, in the 25th year of his age.

On another more to the west (D):

Here lyeth the body | of Anne Brownlow daughter | of Sr
William Brownlow of | Humby in the county of Lincoln,
Bart., | who departed this life on ye 5th day of | August 1720,
aged 72 years.

Another near in capitals partly hid by a bench (D):

Here lieth the body of Augustine Reed | who departed this life | the 23 of April 1687, ætatis suæ 39.

On a black tablet against the south wall:

Near | this place lieth the body of | John Holmes gent. | who departed this life May 14, 1783, | aged 83 years. | Also Millicent Holmes relict of | the above who died Jan^y 24,
1795, aged 88.

On a white stone tablet more to the west:

Also near this place lyeth | the body of | Henry Dawson, gent., | nephew and devisee of the | abovesaid Robert, who | departed this life Nov. 19, 1738, | aged 32 years. | And also near this place lyeth | the body of Frances daughter | of Henry Dawson, gent., and | Mary his wife, who departed | this life Feby 8, 1739-40. | And Robert son of the above Henry | died June 15, 1758, aged 25 years. | Also Sarah daughter of the above Rob^t | and Sarah his wife, died June 27, 1759, | aged 10 months.

This church is curious from having no nave but two aisles resting on three handsome pointed arches with lofty pillars. The tower is between these, and the chancel and the four arches that support it are lofty and fine. Above it is a tall spire. Over the arch from the body to the tower is a curious painting partly covered by white wash, representing the Last Judgement. Over the Hussey monument in the north aisle are five pennons of their arms.

North Cockerington St Mary

Notes taken in the church of South [sic] Cockerington, 24 August, 1835—This church has been rebuilt by the late Mr Emeris, and consists of a nave and south aisle, which are parted by two pointed arches, chancel, and tower at the west end of the south aisle. The church is in an unfinished state, not being floored as the munificent rebuilder did not live to complete it. In it remains the figure of a knight which is much mutilated; the legs and arms are gone. He is in plate armour with a gorget of mail. It is ascribed to Sir John de Cockerington, but more probably was one of the family of Scotney.

(MS vi, 109.)

Coleby

Notes taken in the church, 8 August 1833—

Against the south wall of the chancel a white marble monument, with an urn above, and these arms below—Ermine, on a fess [sable], three mullets or [Lister]:

Sacred to the memory of | Mary Lister | second daughter and coheir of Thomas Lister of Coleby | in the county of Lincoln, Esq. | She was a woman of very good sence, | submissive and condescending to her superiors, | affable and courteous to her equals, | easy and humane to her inferiors, agreable and obliging to all, | of strict virtue and singular piety to her great Creator | to whom she rendered her soul
 the 6th of March A.D. 1734. | She was the last of the antient family of the Listers of Coleby, | and left her estate to her nephew Thomas Scrope, | son of Gervase Scrope of Cocker-ington in the county of Lincoln, Esq., | who in gratitude to her memory erected this monument.

On a flat stone in the aisle:

To the memory of | Susanna the wife of | John Oxby | who departed this life | the 13 day of July 1812, | aged 50 years.

A blue flat stone within the altar rails :

Here lyeth the body of | Mary Lister | the 2^d daur and coheir
of | Thomas Lister of Coleby Esq., who departed | this life
March the 6, A.D. 1734, | aged 47 years.

The church is curious. It consists of a nave separated from the north aisle by two Norman arches with the billet moulding, resting on plain round columns, and from the south aisle by two arches pointed springing from clustered columns with foliated capitals. At the east end of the chancel are three lancet windows and a pointed arch from the nave to the chancel. The south porch is Norman, and the font also of that style, being square on a base, and ornamented with a range of intersecting arches having a pillar at each corner. At the west end is a tower with a crocketed spire. There are some old benches.

(MS iii, 163-165.)

Corby

Notes taken in the church, 26 July, 1833—

On a stone in the chancel floor (R) :

To the memory of | The Rev^d John Hutchins A.M. | late master of the | Grammar School | of this town, Rector of | Foldingworth and Harston, | Chaplain to his | Grace the Duke of Rutland, | and one of his Majesty's | Justices of the Peace | for this county, | Died the 7 day of March | 1797 |
in the 42 year of his | age.

In the chancel is a stone in which have been the brasses of two figures, with inscriptions, and four shields of arms, but now gone ; and a second stone close by which has also had similar brasses.

Upon a stone at the east end of the north aisle (D) :

Mr Richard Cony of London, | son of | Major Richard Cony
of Corby, | grandson of | S^r Thomas Cony of Basingthorp, |
was buried here | Sept. 15, | 1704.

On a black monument against the north wall of the north aisle, with these arms under—Sable, a fesse between three cocks or [Wilcox] :

M. S. | Francisci Wilcox A.B. | Hujus ecclesiæ ministri et |

A stone tablet against a pillar at the west end of the nave :

Rich^d Kirk son of | Rob^t & Mary Kirk | departed this life
Feb. 16, 1793, | aged 57 years. | Mortals be wise, | Remember judgement | and learn to die.

On another more to the south :

To the memory | of Robert Kirke | who departed this life
October 30, 1776, | in the 66th year of his age. | Also Mary wife of Robert Kirke, died | May 4th, 1783, in the | 72 year of her age.

On a flat stone below :

Sacred | to the memory of | Mary Williamson | wife of | Curtis
Williamson | who departed this life | May 17, 1800, | aged xxxi years. | A lingering illness did me seize | which wore my strength away | which made me crave eternal rest | which never will decay.

A stone tablet against the wall of the north chancel :

Erected to the memory of | Mrs Ann wife of | Mr John Wade, gent., | and daughter of Mr | George Morris, gent., | of Barrowby. She departed | this life March 1, 1772, | aged
81 years.

A brass plate in the floor below :

Mr John Wade, | died Nov. 22, 1794, | aged 76 years.

On a flat stone within the altar rails in capitals (D) :

Exuvias hic reliquit | Edwardus Woodroffe generosus | quas
deposuit evadens teris | 26^{to} die Februarii | Ano D'ni 167 $\frac{3}{4}$. |
Dum jubente Christo | Resurgant immortales.

The church consists of a nave and two aisles supported on four clustered columns with pointed arches, a chancel, and north aisle. In the east window are these arms—Azure, two bendlets between six martlets argent [for Luttrell]. At the west end a tower.

(MS ii, 195–200).

Corringham

Notes taken in the church, 5 September, 1835—This church consists of a nave and aisles resting on the north side on two Norman and two pointed arches, and on the south on four lofty ones of the latter style, a chancel which is divided from the nave by a Norman arch with receding mouldings, a south porch, and a tower at the west end. The font is massive and ancient, some old benching remains, and part of the north aisle is divided off by a screen of good style ; it is now used as a school.

On the north wall of the chancel is a flat-headed arch with corbelled heads to support it, and over the centre a bust or head of a priest. Below the arch is an altar tomb, covered with a black slab, round which an inscription is cut in Saxon letters. It is now much defaced and all that can be decyphered is as follows, but Holles has given the inscription entire :

Hic : Iacet : Willelmus : De : Lagare : Quondam : Archidiaconus : Lincolnie : et : Prebendarius : huius : ecclesie ✠

A grey marble monument with a white sarcophagus against the south wall of the chancel, these arms over—[Gules], a fesse between three boars' heads coupéd [ermine], on a canton the arms of Ulster [Becket]; impaling—. . . a lyon¹ rampant, in chief three mullets . . . [Wilson]. Crest, a boar's head :

Sacred | to the memory of | Sir John Beckett, Bart, | of Somerby Park in this parish | and of Leeds | in the county of York. | He died Sept. 18, 1826, | in the 84 year of his age. |
His remains are deposited in the choir | of the parish church of Leeds.

A grey tablet with a white urn over against the opposite wall :

Sacred | to the memory of | Richard Beckett | of the | Coldstream
Regiment of Guards | who fell at the Battle of | Talavera de la Reyna in Spain | on the 28 of July 1809, | aged 27 years. | He was killed by a musket shot | while actively discharging his duty as | Brigade Major to the Brigade of Guards | which formed part of the British Army | in that memorable engagement. | Dulce et decorum est pro Patria mori. | This tablet is erected | by the afflicted father | of a dutiful and dearly | beloved son.

A flat stone in the chancel :

Here lyeth the body of | Mary the wife of William | Fulbeck of Dunstall, Gent., | dyed November the 5, 1690, | aged 34 years. | Here lyeth the body of | William Fulbeck of Dunstall, | gent., dyed October the 3, 1717, | aged 73
years.

Another collateral :

Here lieth the body of Mary the | wife of John Wells, who departed | this life the 20th day of August 1770, | aged 50 years. | In memory of John Wells who | departed this life April 15, 1791, | aged 69 years. | Also Elizabeth Wells daughter of Francis & Mary Wells who | died an infant.

On another :

Here lyeth the body of | John Wells of Dunstall, gent., | dyed
January the 8th, 1795, | aged 55 years.

A stone also to Francis Wells and Mary his relict.

A brass plate against the north wall of the chancel. Arms below—
Argent, three boars' heads erased vert [for Broxholme]:

Anno D'ni MDCXXXI. | To the Glorie of God and for the pious remem | brance of their dear brethren Robert and Thomas |
Broxholm, gent., late of Corringham in the countie of |
Lincolne, deceased, and here interred. Henry and Mary | Broxholme (yet surviving) have erected this memorial, | who with their deceased brethren aforenamed having | lived together above 60 yeares, and for the most part of | this time in one famely and most brotherly concord, | comfortable to each other, beloved of their neighbours, cha- | ritable to the poor, constant in the profession of the | true Religion, doe suppose (by the favour of God) to dye | in the same Faith and here to rest together with them in | one and the same hope of a Glorious Resurrection.

Though to be four in person they were knowne,
Yet both in will & minde they were but one.
One father on one mother them begot,
And they made up one fourefold true-love-knot.
They kept one famely, and which is rare
They had no jarrings neither discords there.
None of them were agreeu'd or discontent,
What either or the other gave or spent.
In one plaine path they walked all their daies,
Nor judgeng nor inuieng others waies,
Nor so much seeking for the worlds esteeme
As to be truly that which they did seeme.
One Faith, one Hope, one Love they (living) had,
Which them the members of one body made.
Though none of them had husband, child or wife,
They mist no blessing of the married life.
For to the Poore they ever were instead
Of husband, wife and parent to their need.
This they who knew them witness and beleewe,
That when immortal bodyes these receive,
They shall make up the Vergine traine of those Who wait upon the LAMB where'er he goes.

On a brass plate against the wall over the old tomb, on which are cut two figures of a man and woman kneeling at a desk or table on which is a skull, and three children below. Above the man is the shield of arms— . . . , three eagles displayed gules. Above the figures is written:

Mortvorvm monvmenta Vivorvm Docvmenta.

[Issuing from the mouth of the man are the words: Morte quæsiregnum, and from the woman's mouth the words: Quæsi spero semper habere dotem. Under the skull is written Sequentvr, non præcessere.]

On the table is inscribed :

Det Deus ut sit hæreditarium.

Below the figures is this inscription :

¹ This should be a wolf. Mary the wife of Sir John Becket was the daughter of Christopher Wilson, bishop of Bristol.

Cotes by Stow

Notes taken in the church of Coates near Stow, 4 September, 1835—

On a brass plate in the wall on the north side of the chancel with these arms—Or, on a chevron sable, between three demi-lyons passant guardant gules, crowned or, as many cups covered of the last [Butler]; crest—A horse's head coupé quarterly . . .
and . . . :

Here lyeth the body of Mr Anthony | Butler son of Anthony
Butler of | Coats in the county of Lincolne, | Esq., who dyed the ninth day of Aprill | in the yeare of our Lord 1673, being | the last heire male of this family.

On a brass plate in the south wall of the chancel there are engraved figures of a man in armour and a female in ruff and dress of the end of the fifteenth century, kneeling at an altar. Over the man are the Butler arms and crest ; over the female the Tirwhit, viz.— Gules, three lapwings or, a mullet for difference ; and between these coats, one of the Butler and Tirwhit arms impaled. These arms have all originally been coloured. Beneath the two principal figures are five sons and three daughters kneeling at an altar. The sons have these names over them, (1) Joannes, (2) Gulielmus, (3) Carolus, (4) Antonius, (5) Thomas. John and Charles carry skulls in their hands. The girls have these names over, (1) Helena, (2) Martha, (3) Helena. The first Helena carries a skull. This inscription beneath :

Carolus primogenitus Antonii Butler de Cotes juxta | Stowe
beatæ Mariæ armigeri duxit Douglassiam | Marmaduci Tirwhit de Scotter armigeri tertiam filiam. | Obiit Aprilis xvii, mdcii, annum agens xlii.

Another brass on the south wall of the chancel represents a man in armour and a female in a ruff with hands clasped ; and between them is a babe placed upright in swaddling clothes, and over it the arms of Butler impaling—A saltier (Yorke). Over the Butler arms is the Butler crest ; over those of Yorke a monkey's head erased. Above the shield is this legend in church text :

Non habemus hic manentem ciuitatem | sed futuram inquirimus.

Under the baby is this inscription :

Priscilla unica | eorum proles | obiit infans.

And under the whole is this inscription :

Hic subtus requiescit Gulielmus Butler filius Antonii | Butler
de Cotes in comitatu Lincoln armigeri natu | secundus qui duxit in uxorem Elizabetham Georgii | Yorke de Ashby in Kesteven eiusdem comitatus | armigeri Filiam Qui quidem
Gulielmus immatura | morte præreptus obiit uicesimo octauo die Aprilis | Anno domini 1590, et sue ætatis 26.

On an altar tomb on the north side of the chancel a brass of the Butler arms, impaling—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, On a chief three martlets [Wogan] ; 2nd and 3rd, Paly of six, on a fess gules three mullets [? Meyrick]. This altar tomb is obviously the one of Henry Hansard.

On a flat stone in the nave an inscription is thus far legible. It is round the verge :

Hic simul humati jacent

Generosi prostrati

Hansard Henricus uxor [Joanna] Ricardus

[Filius, et hæres eorum],

Cui detur Nardus.

[Cælicus] rex Jh'us quibus [sit] modo propitius. Amen.

In the south window of the nave is some painted glass of the Tirwhit arms, and to the west of the mullion—Argent, a fleur de lis sable [Fishbourne]. In one of the panes above is an R. On the north side of the nave in a window are the Butler arms.

On a stone in the chancel an inscription (R) of which all that is legible is as follows :

Hic quon[dam in orbe vivens] Hansard Henricus [humatur, Armiger, arma gerens, honor sic cito superatur.

Uxores binas habens, Joanna Aliciaque] vocantur

Sub lapide [que latens, horum et] corpora in pace locantur.

There is a beautiful carved oak screen and over it a rood loft quite perfect. The church consists of a nave and chancel, and bell turret at the west end. There is a recess on the north side of the nave which has held a tomb. It is altogether a very interesting little building, and owes probably to its secluded situation the preservation of its brasses and old flat stones. Not many years ago I understand the windows were full of painted glass which were wantonly shot at and broke by a resident at the farm.

Cobenhām St Bartholomew

Notes taken in the church of Covenham St Barth^w, 24 August, 1835—

On a stone at the west end in the wall is an inscription to John Wallis who died Dec^r 27, 1773, æt. 73, and Mary his wife died May 15, 1776, æt. 76.

In the chest in the church are preserved the brasses¹ which had been taken from an old stone in the chancel, one is the brass figure of a man in plate armour with his hands clasped before him, and a lion at his feet, the other has this inscription in church text :

Hic iacet Joh^{es} Skypwyth armiger qui obiit xv die mensis |
Julii Anno Dⁿⁱ Mill^{imo} ccccxv cujus anime propicietur
deus. Amen.

This church consists of a nave, chancel, and south transept rather small, with a wooden low tower at the intersection. In the chancel is a stone (R) in which has been a figure and two shields now taken out, and another smaller one similarly deprived. The font is curious, though not nearly in such good preservation as in the sister church. It is an octagon, having the representation of the Trinity on one and the Virgin on another pannell, and in the other the apostles in pairs, St Peter with his keys, St Andrew with his saltier. The base is supported by four angels each holding a shield, but the bearing effaced. There is a south porch and three bells.

(MS vi, 111-112.)

NOTE

¹ These brasses are now affixed to a stone in the floor of the chancel, which covers the grave of John Skipwith, 1415.

Cobenham St Mary

Notes taken in the church, 24 August, 1835—This is a handsome church, though small. It consists of a nave and chancel, with an embattled tower at the west end, and a south porch. The windows are perpendicular and contain remains of painted glass. In one is a turreted tower depicted. In the north wall of the chancel is a cinquefoiled ogee arch, seemingly a tomb, but no figure is remaining. In the south wall is a piscina in which it is said the water rises in summer. The font is very beautiful and curious. It is octagonal, supported on a fluted shaft and bearing the emblems of the Crucifixion on shields. On one shield is a lantern (?). It is ornamented round the lower edge with a border of strawberry leaves very beautifully sculptured, and at the upper edge with the ball and hollow moulding. It is altogether in very beautiful preservation. A stone in the chancel has had an inscription and two shields in brass now gone.

On another is cut :

. MCCCCXXI cuius anime propicietur deus

Cowbit

Notes taken in the church, 6th August, 1835—The church consists of a nave and chancel, the former of brick only, and a tower of stone, which is thatched, at y^e west end. The tower leans slightly to the west as if the foundations had sunk. In it are a good perpendicular door and window, and above the window is a tabernacled niche from whence a statue has been removed. In the chancel are four grotesque heads supporting the ribs of the roof. On the south side of the altar is a piscina. In the vestry is the fragment of a cross which appears to have been removed from the churchyard.

On a flat stone in the chancel (D) :

To the memory | of | Mrs Elizabeth wife of | the Rev^d Joseph
Mills, | who died Aug^t 8th, 1763, | Ætatis suæ 25. | Also |
two of their sons who died | infants. | St John 5th, ver. 28-29. |
The hour is coming in the which all that | Are in the graves shall hear his voice | And shall come forth.

Close inside the south porch is the fragment of an old stone (D) which has once had an inscription round the edge in y^e church text.

Creeton

Notes taken in the church, 15 August, 1837—This is a small church consisting of a nave, chancel, a small south transept, and a tower and spire of Early English character at y^e west end. The general character of y^e church is Norman. The arch separating the nave from y^e chancel is of that age and there is a curious south door in y^e same style. There has been formerly a north aisle as appears from two Norman arches bricked up in y^e wall. The window of y^e transept is lancet, and y^e east window modern in imitation. The arches in the wall have low plain columns. The arch from y^e nave to y^e tower is between Norman and Early English. There are two bells. The font is octagonal on a round pillar. The church contains no monumental inscription of any kind, but there has been a brass plate in a stone now gone (D). In the churchyard is the lid of a stone coffin. The church is prettily situated on a hill looking over the few houses that compose the village.

Croft

Notes taken in the church, 21 July, 1834—This is a handsome church. It consists of a nave and aisles divided by five pointed lofty arches resting on octagonal columns, a chancel, south porch, and pinnaced tower at the west end. The chancel and east end of the aisles are divided off by a very beautiful carved screen. The pulpit is of carved oak, very handsome, bearing the date 1615, and the inscription 'William Worship Doctor in Divinitie'. In the nave is a brass eagle and stand for the lesson reading; there is a considerable quantity of antient pewing; the font is octagonal pannelled with shields in niches on a very large basement stone. In the wall south of the altar is a plain piscina. On the door of the south porch is this inscription in capitals outside, 'God save the King 1633', inside 'Harbar: Newst Eade: Gorge Whiting, church wardones'.

On the south-west buttress of the tower high up is this inscription cut in capitals:

Mr John Person | And Richard | Corbett | churchwarde | ns,
Mr Everard | Deighton vicar | A^o Dⁿⁱ 1656.

On the north side of the chancel is a very handsome monument of marble. On an altar tomb under an arch is the figure of a knight in half armour, bare headed, with peaked beard, kneeling before a desk, and his lady opposite to him in black gown with leading strings, and at the top are these arms—Argent, three martlets in pale sable between two flaunches of the last each charged with a lion passant guardant of the field [Browne]. Crest

—A griffin's head ermine between two wings sable. At the base of the tomb are the sculptures of eight sons and seven daughters. This inscription on a black slab in capitals over the heads of the large figures :

Memoriæ sacrum | Heere lyeth Valentine Browne, knight, |
sonne & heire to S^r Valentine Browne, | which was treasurer and vitteler of | Barwicke, & dyed treasurer of Ireland | in y^e Raigne of Queene Elizabeth. He mar | ried Elizabeth
Monson one of y^e daughters | of S^r John Monson of North
Charlton. They | lyved together 25 years & had yssue | 8
sonnes & 7 daughters, S^r Valentine, John, | Thomas, William,
Henery, Edmond, Antho | ny, & Robert, Elizabeth, Mary,
Jane, Ann, | Isbeth, Margaret, & Katharine. | Thys tombe
was erected by John Browne | second son to S^r Valentine
Browne | at his own proper coste & charge.

A black tablet at the side of the monument bears this in common character :

Prædicat iste lapis quod tu moriari Viator | Qui subtus jacet
hic venere te docuit | Fortis erat prudens bene largus
Religiosus | Sic sibi sicque suis vixerat atque Deo | Cui lavs et honor in æternum.

On the eastern pillar on a similar tablet nearly illegible is this in capitals :

All buildings are but monuments for Death,
All cloths but winding sheets for our last knell,
All daintes fattening for the worms beneath,
All curious musick but a passing bell.
Thus death is nobly waited on for why
All things we have is but Death's livery.

A monument apparently copied from the last, being exactly similar, having the arms and crest of Browne above, and the two kneeling figures with the inscription on a black slab :

Memoriæ sacrum. | Here lyeth Jo. Browne second sonne of | S^r Valentine Browne, knt, & servant to | Kinge James in his Privy Chamber who | had two wives, y^e first was Cicely
Kirkman | one of y^e daughters & heires of Willi | am Kirkman of Easter Keale in the | covntie of Lincolne gent. She lived | with him but 20 weekes, & dyed with | out issue, ætatis 21, 1614. | The other wife was Francis Herbert | one of y^e daughters of Richard Herbert, | Esq., of Montgomery Castell, she lived
& | had issue by him [blank].

At the south east corner of the nave is a large monument of stone flanked by two pillars, and surmounted by these arms—Sable a fesse or [Bond]. Crest—A saracen's head in profile proper ; with this motto—' Plus splendet in Atro '. Below is a skull and the arms are repeated on the pillars and the frieze. The inscription is in capitals :

Here lyeth Willyam Bonde gentlman | who dyed Anno Dom. 1559 leaving two | sonnes Nicholas Doctor in Divinitie | and George Doctor in Physicke, the | elder sonne who dyed the . . . | . . . et etatis . . . And here is buried, | which in remembrance of his most kynd | father haith erected this lytle moniment. | Bondus eram doctor medicus nunc vermibus esca | Corpus terra tegit spiritus astra petit | Ardua scrutando, cura, morbis, senioque | Vita molesta fuit mors mihi grata quies.

On the floor at the entrance to the chancel is a large stone having once had the brasses of two figures with inscription, and a smaller one close by with one figure and inscription, all now gone.

A lozenge shaped canvas framed tablet (D) against the south wall bears this inscription in capitals, the date is torn :

The Reverend | and learned Dr | William Wor- | ship, S.T.P., De- | ceased Dec. 24, | 1625.

On a brass plate in the floor below in capitals :

Here lyeth the body of Agnes Worship | a woman matchless both for wisdom and | godlyness. She was the wyfe of William | Worship, doctor of Divinitie, and | minister of Croft, and departed this | life the 6 daie of Maye Anno 1615.

At the east end of the south aisle is a large stone having in brass the bust of a knight in hauberk and chaperon of mail with his hands clasped ; two shields below now gone ; and an inscription round almost effaced, and what is left illegible.

his daughters who | died infants.

In the space under the tower are stones to the memory of the Hurry's, Knighton's, Harrison's, Cowling & Robartts.

Over the inner door of the porch of the tower, outside, is a wooden tablet with the following inscription painted on it in some parts very faintly :

William Hill sexton 32 | years, lost his sight by walking in snow when 40 | years of age, & yet he acquir^d all the facili- | ties of those who meet this malady in youth. | His acuteness almost superseded this loss, since | he could walk in and about the town, & could | go in the churchyard and find each & every | grave he was desired to point out. He died | Jan^y 27, 1792, aged 65 | years. |
Deus nobis haec otia fecit. | To record his singular faculties & their esteem | The parishioners erected this tablet in 1818.

Deeping St James

Notes taken in the church, 21 July, 1831—This church has been lately repewed and floored. The pews are neat and adorned with tracery work. The pew belonging to Mr Pawlett has the arms of Sir Thomas Whichcote on small shields round the pew, viz.—
Ermine, two boars passant [gules] ; on an inescutcheon—the arms of Ulster. The pew of Mrs Greaves has his arms in the same manner. The font has been moved from its original situation under which there was a well of water.

On a black marble tablet against the wall at the east end of the south aisle with an urn over and a cherubim under :

Near this place | lieth interred the body of Jane | the wife of y^e Rev^d David Walker, | clerk, vicar of Baston & curate | of this parish, daughter & only child | of Thos & Sarah Bailley of this | parish, whose ingenuous mind, gentle | manners, religious disposition, | filial piety & conjugal affection, | rendered her the delight of her | parents, the joy of her husband, & | a pattern for all, she lived much | respected
& died greatly & deservedly | lamented May the 22^d, 1752, |
aged 21 years.

On a black tablet, close by the south door, of marble :

Near this place | are deposited the remains | of Samuel Sharpe.
gent., | late of this parish, | who departed this life in peace |

the 5th day of October, | in the 64 year of his age, | Ann. Dom. 1765. | With him expired a sincere friend, | a desirable companion, and an honest man.

On a black and white stone tablet over the south door :

Near this place lie the remains | of William Buck | who died March 29, 1778, | aged 59 years, | Anne his wife who died June 1st, | 1768, aged 33 years, | Thomas their son who died | June 21, 1780, aged 21 | years.

In the vestry room is a stone tablet, the upper part of which is hidden by the ceiling; what is visible is (D) :

Also Mary his wife died | June the 3rd, 1800, | aged 60 years.

On a handsome grey marble pyramidal monument against the wall at the west end of the north aisle, with an urn above and these arms under—Azure, an estoile or [Hogard]; impaled with—Argent, on a bend gules three boars' heads of the first. Crest—A boar's head argent. The inscription is on white marble in two compartments :

(1) Sacred to the memory of | John Deanes Hogard Esq. | who departed this life June 9th, 1798, | aged 45 years. | He was one of his Majesty's | Deputy Lieutenants for the | County of Lincoln, also a Lieutenant | in a troop of Cavalry, | raised by the Hundred of Ness, | in defence of monarchy and for | the protection of property. | His mind was adorned with much | useful knowledge & in him shone | with peculiar brightness the valuable | qualities of hospitality, generosity | and integrity. | His widow, Susanna Hogard, sensible | of his merit and out of pure conjugal | affection, has caused this monument | to be erected to his memory.

(2) Also to the memory | of Thomas Hogard, gent., | who died May the 31st, 1794, | aged 77 years. | Also of Ann his wife | who died April the 27th, 1785, | aged 69 years, | father & mother of the | said John Deanes Hogard, Esq. | Also of Sarah Hogard former wife | of John Deanes Hogard, Esq., | who died January the 16, 1790, | aged 32 years. | Also of Thomas Hogard his | brother, who died April 22nd, 1782, | aged 32 years, | and of Ann Sharp | his grandmother, | who died March 4th, 1774, | aged 86 years, | Also of Elizabeth Kingston | his aunt, who died January the 7th, 1785, | aged 54 years.

Here lieth interred | the body of | Mr Thomas Hogard | who departed this life | April the 22nd, 1782, | aged xxxii years.

On another more to the eastward :

Here lieth the body of | Mrs Elizabeth Kingston | wife of Mr Edward Kingston, | and preceding him the wife of | Mr

Henry Hogard. | She departed this life | January the 7th,
1785, aged 54 years.

On another to the eastward of the preceding :

John Deanes Hogard | died June 9th, 1798, | aged 45.

In the chancel are these grave stones :

Beneath this stone lie interred | the remains | of Ann relict of | John Pawlett | who departed this life | August ye 26th,
1798, | aged 61 years.

On another stone with these arms cut above—Per fess crenellé
. . . . and in chief a dove rising, in base a fleur de lis [for Mason] :

In memory of | Thomas Mason, gent., | who died March 27th, |
1765, | aged 75.

On another stone :

Here's | buried the remains of | John Pawlett, | who died
Nov. 27th, 1786, | aged 50. | Also John son of ye said | John &
Ann his wife, | who died in his | infancy.

On another stone :

Here lieth the body of | Ann wife of | John Pawlett | who departed this life | February ye 18, | 1777, | in the 60 year of her | age.

On another stone :

In memory of | Joseph Fairchild | who died | May ye 27,
1802, | aged 64 years.

On another stone :

Near this place lieth | the | remains of | Samuel Pawlett who died | June ye 24th, 1782, | aged 28 years.

On another stone :

In memory of | John Fairchild | who died | June ye 17, 1812, |
aged 17 years.

On another grave stone :

In memory of | Fra^s Fairchild | who died | March ye 10th,
1794, | in the | 25th year of his age.

The living of Deeping St James is in the gift of Sir Thomas Whichcote, Bart., and the incumbent is the Rev^d [Christopher] Whichcote.

Close by the south wall of the chancel, under some tracery work on a raised slab, is the figure of a knight cut in stone, but it is so much effaced that nothing can be discovered but the rude shape of the figure.

Dembleby

Notes taken in the church, 11 July, 1834—This church is small and of no beauty. It consists merely of a nave and chancel, with a bell turret of wood at the west end. The arch between the nave and chancel is Norman, of which character is the font, which is square and small on a tall column. The windows are all modern but the east one which is decorated and of two lights. The house of the Pell family is said to have stood close by the church yard, and is now pulled down, and a small farm house, built seemingly of the materials, is inhabited by Mr . . . Cox. It is a rectory and the incumbent is the Rev^d John Neville Calcraft of Hayseby.

On a flat stone within the altar rails in capitals, much rubbed :

Here lyeth the body | of Richard Pell, esq., | who | departed this life | Novemb^r the 27, | Anno Domini 1690, | ætat.
suæ 45(?).

On another more to the north also in capitals :

Here lyeth the body of | Anne Pell relict of | Henry Pell,
esq., | who departed this life | the sixteenth day of | Sept.
Anno Dom. 1733, | ætatis suæ 67.

Another more to the north in capitals :

Here lyeth the body of | Henry Pell, esq., | who departed
this life | September the 27, 1730, | aged 60 years.

More to the north :

In memory of | Katherine the wife | of John Buckworth, | citizen and linnen draper | of London, daughter of | Henry Pell, esq., of this | Parish, and one of the three | sisters and remaining | coheiresses of that most | antient and worthy family, | who departed this life | the 30 day of April, in the |
33 year of her age, | Annoque Domini 1742.

On a flat stone in the chancel :

In memory of | Elizabeth Pell | daughter of Henry Pell, esq., | late of this parish, and one of the | three sisters and remaining | coheiresses of that most ancient | and worthy family, | who departed this life the 30 day of | October 1767, in the 71
year of her age. | Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, |
Call ye upon him while he is near.

Another more to the north in capitals, much rubbed :

Here resteth in hopes of | a joyful Resurrection y^e | body of
y^e Rever^d M. Richard | Moore, late minister of the | Gosple in this parish, | who departed this life | Janu. y^e 8, Anno
Dom. 1715 | ætatis suæ 77. | Also Mary his wife and | three of their children | who died infants.

More to the north in capitals, rubbed :

Here lyeth y^e body of | Jane daughter of | Anthony Boryton esq., | and Elizabeth his wife | who departed this life | Febr y^e 7, 1735, aged 33.

Upon the three steps to the reading desk is this inscription in capitals ; but they have been taken up and put down in no order :

M^{RS} Margaret Pell, | daughter of | Richard Pell sq . . . | and Jane his wife, | who dyed | Sept. y^e 18, 1671, | ætatis 15, |
lyeth here | interred.

On a flat stone in the nave in capitals :

Richard Pell | son of | Henry Pell, esq., | and Anne his wife, |
dyed | an infant | Sept. 5, 1699.

On another stone to the west of the last, with this inscription in capitals in double lines round the stone, partly hid by a pew :

Here lyeth the hard Pell, esq., and Elizabeth his wife, who departed this life the 9th day of September Anno D'ni 1662.

Donington in Holland

Notes taken in the church of Donington, 4 August, 1834—This is a handsome church. It consists of a nave divided from its aisles by seven narrow pointed arches rising from octagonal pillars, a chancel entered by a fine pointed arch, the head of which is blocked up, and a tower and spire at the south side, lofty and handsome. The east and west windows are similar, Decorated with five lights. There is a gallery running along the north aisle, appropriated to the partakers of Mr Cowley's charity, as appears by an inscription thereon. In the wall north of the altar is a niche with four steps in it, for what purpose it is not easy to conjecture. In the opposite south wall is a piscina. By the easternmost window of the north aisle is a small female figure in relief, in an attitude of prayer. The font is octagonal, adorned with arches and columns of the Early English style ; it stands in the south-west corner of the church.

Against the north wall of the chancel is a neat white marble tablet surmounted by an urn, with this inscription in capitals :

In memory of | Captain Mathew Flinders, R.N., | who died
July 19, 1814, | aged 40 years, | after having twice circumnavigated the globe, he was | sent by the Admiralty in the year 1801 to make | discoveries on the Coast of Terra
Australis. | Returning from this voyage, he suffered shipwreck, | and by the injustice of the French Government | was imprisoned six years in the | Island of Mauritius. | In 1810 he was restored to his native land, and not | long after was attacked by an excruciating disease, | the anguish of which he bore until death | with undeviating fortitude. | His country will long regret the loss of one whose | exertions in her cause were only equalled by | his perseverance, | but his family will more deeply feel the | irreparable deprivation. |
They do not merely lament a man of superior intellect, | they mourn an affectionate husband, | a tender father, a kind brother, | and a faithful friend.

At the bottom is a bas relief of a ship in full sail.

A tablet against the wall above the last :

In memory of | Mr John Flinders, | Farmer & Grazier, |
formerly of Ruddington near Nottingham, | but afterwards of this parish, | who died April the 13, 1741, | aged 59
years.

A similar tablet to the west of the larger one :

In memory of | Mr John Flinders, Surgeon, | of this parish, |
who died December the 26, 1776, | aged 63 years.

Another to the east of the monument :

In memory of | Mr Mathew Flinders, Surgeon, | of this parish, | a man of exemplary life, | amiable manners and superior abilities. | He died May the 1, 1802, | aged 52
years.

A small round tablet against the south wall of the chancel (D) :

Sacred | to the memory of | Hannah Charlotte wife of | the
Rev^d John Wilson, | who died April XXVIII, MDCCCIX, | aged
XLII years. | She was a humble yet firm believer | in Jesus. |
From him she received such talents | as rendered her life | honorable, exemplary and useful. | In Him she rejoiced as her strength | and portion while living, | and when dying
she triumphed | through Him | over her last enemy.

On a flat blue stone in the chancel :

Here lyeth the body of | Jane the wife of Mr John Cole | who departed this life the 22 | day of Oct^r 1741, | aged 25
years.

Another more to the west (D) :

In memory of | Mr John Cole who departed | this life the 13 day of January | 1735, aged XLV years. | Also Mary his wife who died the | 22 day of July 1736, aged 37 | years.

On another still more to the west :

Hic jacet | Thomas Pooles | agri Lincoln indigena et incola |
cohortiumque civicarum | ibidem per annos 55 | E Ducibus |
qui satur dierum | huic maligno valedixit mundo | quinto die mensis Novembris | Anno D'ni MDCCXVI, | ætat. suæ xcviii. | In cujus memoriam | hoc quaecunque | gratæ mentis μνημόσυνον | mærens posuit | consanguineus ejus et hæres | institutus | Johannes Belgrave.

On another stone to the north :

Here lyeth the body | of Mrs Anne Barnes | who died in the year | 1693.

A neat white and grey marble pyramidal monument against the wall at the south east corner of the nave in capitals :

In | memory of | Mary Holland | who died August 16, |
1836, aged 25 years. | Also 5 children who died | in their infancy.

Between two of the clerestory windows on the north side of the nave is a white marble monument (R), bearing this inscription in capitals :

Sacred | to the memory of | Ann the wife of | Jonathan
Gleed | who died 27 October 1813, | aged LXXI ; | Also Thomas

Arnall Gleed | their eldest son | who died 13 February 1814, |
aged xxxix; | Also Jonathan Gleed, gent., | who died 17
March 1820, | aged LXXII.

On a stone set up against the last pillar of the nave westward :
In memoriam | Johannis Poole | Generosus [sic] | obiit Maii
29^o, | Anno Domini 1722, | ætatis suæ 31.

A stone monument against the wall at the west end of the nave :
This is | in memory of | Mary the beloved wife of | M^r Robert Long who departed | this life the 29 day of Jan^y 1716, | in the 31 year of her age. | A wife most faithfull, virtuous, and fair, | A mother tender of nine children dear. | This also is in memory of Robert, Mary, | Penelope, Miles, and Elizabeth Long, five of | their children who died in their infancy. | Such innocence no doubt is ever blest | In Heaven their souls, in earth their bodies rest.

A stone tablet against the wall of the south aisle :
The remains of | Antony Birks, | author of | Arithmetical
Collections | and Improvements, | were interred | near this place | Sept. 9, 1769, | in the 68 year | of his age. | The remains of Elizabeth Birks, | relict of the above M^r Anthony Birks, | were interred near this place | Nov. 11, 1774, | in the 75 year | of her age.

At the west end of the nave is a flat stone which has had once a brass of inscription, but it is now gone.

On a flat blue stone in the nave :
Here lieth the body of | Thomas Cowley, gentleman, | interred
the 17 day of July 1721, | aged 96.

On another blue stone more to the east :
Here lie the remains of | M^{rs} Jane Wetherall, | whose friendship was steady & sincere, | her charity private yet diffusive, | her conversation easy and agreeable, | and | as she lived respected, so she died lamented | by her acquaintance, |
October 23, 1753, | aged 39.

Another stone to the east of the last with these arms cut over—
., a stag at gaze . . . within a double tressure flory
Crest—An escallop . . . [for Ward] :

Sacred | to the memory of | John Ward, gent., | Attorney at Law, of | this town many years, | who departed this life |
December 31, 1773, | in the 62 year of his age, | eminently conspicuous in his profession.

To the east of this last is a large stone which has once had in brass the figure of a man between his two wives, and an inscription below, the whole is now gone.

On another blue stone still more to the east in capitals :

John Holland | died December | the 28, 1791, | aged xxx years. | Also | Mary relict of | John Holland | died November |
the 10, 1807, | aged XLII years. | Also | Biddy daughter of |
John and Mary Holland | died February | the 1, 1811, | aged XXIII years.

(MS iii, 117-120.)

Dunsby

Notes taken in the church, [blank] August, 1831—This church is small but neat, the tower is very handsome of the florid Gothic style of architecture. Round the font is this inscription in old character :

Jh's X'ps Maria Baptista (with the letters each placed in a little circle) R I | |
C

The living is in the patronage of the Charter House and the incumbent is the Rev : W. T. Waters.

On a black marble tablet against the south wall of the chancel :

Near | this place lieth y^e body | of the Rev^d | Irton Murthwaite
| who departed this life Dec. 4th, | 1793, | in the 44 year of his age. | Also | two children who died infants.

On a white marble tablet to the west of the last :

Sacred | to the memory of | Eliz. Fothergill | who died July
31, 1811, | aged 65 years. | Also of her grand-daughter
Catherine | the daughter of | the Rev^d W^m & Catherine Waters.

On a white marble tablet against the north wall of the chancel :

H. S. E. | Martha | Uxor Johannis Baskett | Hujus ecclesiæ
Rectoris | Quæ egregiis animi | Corporisque | Dotibus
instructa | bonæ spei | vitam bonam fundamentum | feliciter

Edenham

Notes taken in the church, [blank] July, 1833—The fine monuments of the Bertie family within this church are fully described in the Gentleman's Magazine for Jan. 1808, vol. 78, part i, pp. 17-22, with the exception of the following:

On a tablet of white marble against the wall at the east end of the south aisle:

In memory of | the Rev^d John Bland, M.A., | Chaplain to his Grace Peregrine | third Duke of Ancaster, | rector of Willoughby and of | Theddlethorpe St Helen's, | and one of His Majesty's Justices | of the Peace for this county. | He lived many years | with his truly noble Patron | and received signal marks | of his favour, friendship, | and confidence, | and died the 19 day of January | 1761, in the 67 year of his age, | and desired this inscription | to perpetuate his grateful sense | of the favours | he was honoured with.

South Elkington

Notes taken in the church, 14 August, 1833—

A flat stone to the memory of John Oldham who died Oct. 8, 1801, æt. 65 (D).

A flat stone to the memory of Samuel Trout who died July 19, 1792, æt. 84 (D).

A flat stone to the memory of Elizabeth relict of Samuel Trout who died Sept. 15, 1832, æt. 75.

In the nave are also flat stones to the memory of (D) :

Mary Chatterton who died Oct. 21, 1805, aged 31.

Robert Chatterton who died April 6, 1822, aged 46.

William Alcock died July 24, 1791, aged 47.

Robert Alcock his brother died March 31, 1797, aged 71.

And in the south aisle a flat stone to the memory of Samuel Trout died May 7, 1804, aged 71 (D).

This church consists of a nave and south aisle resting on four pointed arches springing from plain round columns, a chancel, and a tower at the west end opening to the nave by a sharp pointed arch. There appears to have been once a north aisle from the clerestory windows remaining on that side. The font is an octagon, pannelled in quatrefoils. The church has lately been repaired.

On a flat stone in the altar rails (R) :

Here lyeth the body of the | Reverend Mr William Paley, A.M.,
| vicar of this parish upwards of | fifty too years, who departed this life June the 10, 1757, aged 77. | A friend sincere who never flattery knew | Pays what to merit and desert is due |

When on this stone what yet few marbles can | He truly says here lies an honest man | Who justice and mercy loved |
And walked humbly with his God.

These two achievements are against the north wall :

(1), A lozenge of arms gules, a cross between four fleur de lis, argent [Ashhurst]; impaling—Or, on a fesse dancetty azure three estoiles argent; on a canton of y^e second a sun proper [Thompson].

(2), Quarterly 1st and 4th, Or, a crow proper [Corbett]; 2nd and 3rd, A fesse dancetty, and a canton [Thompson]; impaling—Or, a cross fleury gules [Ainslie]. Crests—1st, on a torse argent and sable an elephant argent; on his back a tower or [Corbett]; 2nd, On a torse azure and or an armed arm, vested gules, cuffed argent, holding four ears of wheat or [Thompson].

This church consists of a nave and chancel not divided, with decorated windows, and an Early English tower at the west end, the door of which is old carved oak, carved with arches foliated. The font is plain and octagonal. The sculptures mentioned by Weir cannot be better made out.

Evedon

Notes taken in the church, 16 August, 1836—This church consists only of a nave and chancel, separated from each other by a pointed arch, springing from short round columns perfectly plain, and a tower at the west end with a gallery for singing. In the north wall are two pointed arches with columns similar to the former, and in the south wall one arch into which a window has been introduced. There have therefore been aisles on both sides. The east window is modern. The font is octagon, pannelled with shields, (1), J. H. S.; (2), the arms of Hardeby; (3), pannelled with niches; (4), A fesse dancette between five talbots' heads, apparently [? Spayne]; (5), AR (conjoined); (6), Hardeby again; (7), is hid by a pillar of the wooden gallery; (8), . . . , a chevron between three escallops apparently.

Against the front of the wooden singing gallery is fixed a brass plate, in which are the figures of a man in a long gown, and a woman in a ruff and stomacher, with five sons and eight daughters attired after the same fashion, kneeling at a desk. Above are these arms— . . . , a fesse dancette between ten billets 4 and 6 [for Hardeby]; impaling—On a fesse three fleur de lis [Disney]; and below the figures the following inscription, the first part in capitals :

Memoriæ Sacrum | Danieli Hardeby de Evedon in com.

Lin | coln armigero Uni Justiciar' D'ni | Regis ad pacem

in com. præd. | Just did this justice lieue and dying just | As all good mortalls ought, sleeps here in dust | Blest sleepe where dying ashes do receive | A Heavenly Body from an earthly grave.

Filii	{	John, Bryan,	}	Filiæ	{	Elizabeth, Mary, Katherine,
		William,					Mary, Susan,
		Charles, Edward,					Ann, Susan, Judith.

A white marble monument against the north wall of the nave with these arms— three battering rams . . . [Bertie]; impaling—Azure, a fesse dancette between ten billets or [Hardeby].
Crest—A saracen's head affronté proper :

Here lyes the | Bodys of the Hon : | Sir Peregrine Bertie
3^d son to | Robert earl of Lindsey and Lord Great | Chamberlain of England and Governor | of the City of Lincolne in the Civil Wars | under King Charles the first, & Ann his | wife, daughter and coheiress of Daniel | Hardeby of Evedon, Esq.,
by whom he | had sole issue Elizabeth married to y^e | Right
Hon : William Lord Widdrington | Baron of Blankney now deceased, who to | perpetuate the memory of her father | and mother erected this monument in | the year of our Lord 1705.

A tablet of stone against the north wall of the chancel :

Near this place lyeth y^e body | of y^e Reverend | Mr Rowland
Fox late rector | of Evedon, Master of Arts, | who departed this life | on the seventeenth | day of February | in y^e year of | our Lord 1722, | in the 48th year | of his age.

On the opposite wall is another common stone tablet having three inscriptions, the first on the left hand is as follows :

Near this place lieth | interred the remains | of William Bailey, gent., | who died June 26th, 1801, | in the 78th year of | his age.

On the right side :

Near this place lieth | interred the remains | of Elizabeth wife of | William Bailey, gent., | who died Jan: 29, 1750, | in y^e 33^d year of | her age.

The third inscription is as follows :

Near this place lieth interred the | remains of Maria the daughter | of John & Anne Bailey of Thorney | who died
May 4, 1804, | aged 24 years.

Beneath is a flat stone to Anne wife of William Bailey, but it is mostly hid by a pew.

On a flat stone at the entrance to the chancel :

In memory | of Mrs Barbara Heffield | who departed this life |
Novemb^r 19, 1743, | in the 28 year of her | age.

On a flat stone under the altar :

Catharine Dubar Bailey | daughter of | William Bailey,
Esq., | and Catharine Dubar | his wife, | ob. May 30, A.D.
1806.

A flat stone at the west end rubbed :

Here lyeth the body of Mar | garet daur of James and |
Elizabeth Boulton who departed this | life the 25 of May (? 1761).

On another stone :

Here lieth the body of Ann | daur of James & Elizabeth |
Boulton who departed this | life y^e 24 of October | 1757.

Fiskerton

Notes taken in the church, 6 August 1833—

On a white marble tablet (R) against the east wall of the chancel with these arms, the colours of which are nearly gone—A cross [for Sedgwick]; impaling—On a fess three bucks' heads cabossed. Crest—A garb :

Josephus Sedgwick | hujus ecclesiæ rector | et Lincolnensis canonicus, | ob^t 22 Sept. An. Dom. 1702, | ætat. suæ 74.

On a flat stone in the south aisle (R) :

In memory | of | Peter Lely, gentⁿ, | late of Lincoln, who died | August 1761, æt. 63. | Also of M^{rs} Frances Lely | his widow who died | May 16, 1782, æt. 79. | Near this place also are | interred the remains of | M^{rs} Bridget Mapletoft | aunt of the above nam'd | Frances Lely.

The following stones are both adjoining (R) :

To the memory | of | Anne Field wife of | Jonathan Field,
esq., | and eldest daughter of | Peter Lely, gentⁿ, she died
Dec. the 11, 1797, aged 74 years.

To the memory | of Sarah Lely | neice of Robert Lely, esq., |
who died July the 1st, 1798, | aged 23 years.

On a flat stone to the west of the last three :

In | memory of | Original Skepper | who departed this life |
June the 7th, in the year | of our Lord 1811, | aged 59 years.

In the school room which occupies the east end of the north aisle there are two stones which have had inscriptions round the edge but now quite erased.

A tablet of wood records that Robert Parkinson of Reepham, gent., by will dated 1 May 1819, left to William Greetham of Stainfield Hall co. Linc., esq., £40 in trust to be distributed to the poor in bread on St Thomas' day.

A flat stone at the west end of the nave :

Here | lieth the body of | William Hurd, gentleman, | late of Ketsby in this county | who departed this life | the 23^d of March 1763, | aged 66 years. | Also the body | of Jane Hurd his wife | who died May 1st, 1774, | aged 79 years.

On two other stones to the south :

Here lyeth the body of | Farmery Robinson | who departed this life Sep. y^e 6th, | 1741, aged 41. | Also adjoyning | the body of Anne Robinson | his wife who died Feb. the 10th, |
1745, aged 39.

Here lyeth the body | of David Robinson | jun^r who departed | this life Sept. y^e 17, | anno D'ni 1715, | in y^e 28th
year of | his age.

A stone at the west end of the south aisle :

Here | lie the remains of | Robert Parkinson | who departed
this life | at Reepham on the | fifteenth day of June
MDCCCXIX, | aged LXXIII.

A large blue flat stone to the east of the last :

Here lies the body of | George Harrison, esq., | late of this parish, who, during the short | period of a bustling life, endeavoured to | bestow the means of happiness on those | he knew. That his nobler part now | rests in peace is the humble hope | of Mary Harrison | his only surviving daughter, | who has placed this stone to his memory. | He died December
the 1st, in the year 1806, | aged 57 years. | His infant daughter
Sarah Harrison | is also buried in the same grave.

This church consists of a nave and two aisles ; on the north side they are supported by two Norman arches and on the south side by two pointed arches, a chancel and two aisles, the north used for a school, and a pinnacled tower at the west end. The font is curious ; it is an octagon supported on a circular pillar and four smaller ones surrounding it.

ob^t 18 March 1682. | Here also lyeth the bodies of Thomas and | Elizabeth the daughter and | son of the above said
Richard | Parke, gent., and Ann his wife.

At the entrance to the chancel is a stone from which the brasses have been taken seemingly of a priest with an inscription.

On a grey and white tablet against the wall north of the altar :

Beneath is interr'd all that was mortal | of the Rev^d James Ashley, | twenty two years rector of this parish. | A man whose admirable and highly cultivated powers of mind | were only equal'd by the generosity and goodness of his heart, | who, after a life spent in the conscientious discharge | of the sacred duties of his profession, | tho' worn down with continued affliction, | which he bore with Christian fortitude, | calmly
resign'd his soul into the hands of his Maker | August 7th.
1806, aged 63 years. | Be ye also ready, for in such an hour | as ye think not the Son of Man cometh. Matt. ch : 24th
v. 44th.

A neat marble tablet against the north wall of the chancel :

Sacred to the memory | of Mary, the wife | of the Rev^d Rich^d
Dods, A.M., | Rector of this parish | who departed this life
the 9th of Nov^r 1812, | in the 21st year of her age. | Piety sincere and fervent, | Humility deep and unaffected, | an unreserved devotedness to the service of God, | and an earnest and unceasing solicitude | for the temporal and spiritual interests | of her fellow creatures | were the graces which marked and adorned her character ; | and these were derived from faith in that Saviour | Who loved her and gave Himself for her.

On a flat stone in the chancel these arms cut over— , on a fesse . . . between three roundles each charged with a lion's head erazed, . . . a griffin passant between two escallops . . . [Green] ; impaling— . . . , on a pale . . . three stags' heads . . . [for Parke]. Crest—An ostrich :

Here lyeth the body of | Elizabeth the wife of John Green | of this parish, Esq., who departed | this life the 19th day of January | Anno Domini 1729, | ætatis suæ 30, | which said
Elizabeth was the onely | daughter of Reuben Parke of Lutton, Esq., by | Mary Hoste one of the daughters of James |
Hoste, Esq., of Sandringham in the county | of Norfolk.

Upon another close by :

John | son of John & Susanna Jay, Esq., | ob^t 28 Dec. 1691.

Across the last mentioned stone :

Adjacent lyeth John son of Wm. and Eliza. | Jay, Gent., ob^t 13 May 1697, ætat : 10 weeks.

Over the entrance to the chancel is this inscription :

Rev^d James Ashley, rector, John Winchley, John Ashfield, churchwardens, 1787.

The church is small, consisting of a nave separated from the north and south aisles by five arches pointed with high columns, a chancel with the east window blocked up ; most of the windows are modern but in one at the east end of the north aisle remains a shield of arms viz., England with a labell of five points, B. The tower and spire stand at the south side of the church and are entirely separated from it and seem to have been thus built originally.

In the account of Fleet in the Gentleman's Magazine, alluded to below, are also these further particulars—The church is dedicated to St Mary Magdalen and is a rectory. It is a neat stone edifice having lately been very much repaired and beautified. The steeple is distant about twenty feet south west from the west end of the nave ; it contains five bells with the following inscriptions :

1. Joseph Mallows of East Derham in Norfolk 1758.
2. Jhesus be our spede 1589.

3. Fili Dei vive Anno Domini 1573. I's miserere nobis.
4. William Denniss and William Winkley, churchwardens, Lister and Pack of London fec^t 1766.
5. Thomas Norris made me 1652.

It mentions that on the label in the arms painted on the glass each point is charged with three fleur de lis.

On a slab in the church yard near the north door in Saxon capitals (R), and then nearly defaced, was the following :

Priez : pvr : les almes : Richard : Attegrene : Agneys : sa femme :
priez : quatre : vinz : iovrs : de : pa

(MS iii, 241-254.)

Fulstow

Notes taken in the church, 17 August 1833—The church is at present a mean building, consisting of nave and chancel, no tower. The bell hangs over the west end.

There is an old stone in the chancel, but the inscription which runs across the stone is illegible.

Placed upright against the wall of the west end is the figure (R) of a Knight Templar, his legs crossed, but broken at the bottom, his hands clasped, a shield on his arm. Over his head a lion couchant which may probably have been removed from under his feet. The whole is covered over with yellow ochre.

Next is the figure of a female (R), also placed upright against the west wall. There are the remains of a canopy over her head and the hands are clasped. It is covered with whitewash.

Gedney Hill

Notes taken in the chapel, 30 August, 1836—This chapel consists of a nave with aisles, chancel, and a tower of the perpendicular style at the west end, divided by a pointed arch from the nave.
The aisles are separated from the nave by wooden supports without arches. No arch to the chancel. The windows are modern, and those of the clerestory garret. Font—octagon, pannelled. A south porch, and in the tower five bells, three old and two new ones. In the churchyard is the handsome shaft of a cross on a pedestal and basement of two steps.

A stone tablet against the north wall of the chancel : on a book this :

“Be not slothful but followers | thro’ faith and patience to inherit the promises.”

Above a crown, and this inscription :

In memory of | Mary Kingston, | a sincere Christian. | How loved, how valued once avails thee not | To whom related or by whom begot | A heap of dust alone remains of thee |
’Tis all thou art and all the proud shall be. | She died, the 16 day after the birth of her 2^d child, | the 8th of May 1815, |
in the 26 year of her age. |

Life how short, Eternity how long.

A white and grey marble tablet opposite :

Glentworth

Notes taken in the church, 14 September, 1835—

On the south side of the chancel a white marble monument, representing a canopy under which are three heads, and on each side stands a cherub in attitudes of grief. The pediment is supported by two Corinthian pillars and over it are these arms—In a lozenge paly of six argent and azure, on a bend sable three annulets or [Saunderson]; impaling—Azure on a chief or three martlets gules (Wray), but much defaced. Above, the crest—A talbot argent, spotted sable [Saunderson]; below, at the base, this inscription in two compartments :

(1) D O M | S | near this place lies the body of the Hon^{ble} |

Elizabeth Saunderson, widow of Hon^{ble} Nicholas | Saunderson, eldest son of the R^t Hon^{ble} George Lord | Viscount Castleton of the kingdom of Ireland, | by whom she had only one son, Wray Saunderson, | who dyed without issue in her life time. | She was the only daughter and heir of Sir John Wray | of Glentworth, Baronet, | who was great grandson of S^r Christopher | Wray, Lord Cheif Justice of England | in the reign of the renowned | Queen Elizabeth. | She had great virtues | and a greater desire of concealing them | was of a severe life. | (2) Yet of an even conversation, | courteous to all, but strictly sincere, | humble without meanness, | liberal but not profuse, | devout without ostentation, | to her friends and relations beneficent, | to the poor charitable | even beyond her death. | She exchanged her earthly for an heavenly habitation, | at the city of Yorke the 7 day of April | Anno Dom. 1714, in the 50 year of her age, | having settled a good part of the estate of the Wrays | of Glentworth in the counties of Lincoln, Norfolk and Yorke, upon her next | Heire male Sir Cecill Wray, Baronet, | who out of respect and gratitude has caused this | monument to be erected | to her memory.

On a tablet against the north wall :

This monument was erected by the Hon. & Rev. J. Lumley, | to the memory of his late worthy & much esteemed friend, | the Rev. George Bassett, | who died at Bath the 16 of December 1796, | aged 57. | Near this place are also interred | his parents the Rev. William Bassett | who died in 1765, aged 63, | archdeacon of Stowe, & 40 years vicar of Glentworth, | and Elizabeth his wife, the daughter of | George Whichcot of Harpswell, Esq., | by whom he had 13 children, | she died in 1774, aged 71. Ed. Hurst fecit.

The monument to S^r C. Wray will be found described in the interleaved notes to Weir's Lincolnshire.

The church consists only of a nave separated from the chancel by a handsome pointed arch resting on dwarf columns with trefoil capitals. The church has been quite modernised with circular headed windows and ceiled roof, the floor paved with red tiles, and no flat stones whatever.

of his age.

A stone monument, partly painted, against the north wall of the chancel : there is a coat of arms underneath—A bend papillionis, and over the shield an arrow and human bone saltierwise :

Near | this place lies interred | the body of | Mary Ann Pearson | daughter of John & Ann Pearson, | she died Dec. 4,
1800, | aged 15 years. | How happy is the child of grace |
Who knows her sins forgiven | This earth she cries is not my place | I'd rather go to Heaven. | Also the body of Ann
Pearson | their daughter | who died in her infancy.

On a white marble tablet against the wall of the south aisle :

Nigh this place | lieth interred the body | of Mr Thomas Wyer
who | departed this life May the 2^d, | 1787, aged 40 years. |
His Hands while they his alms bestowed | His Glory's future harvest sowed | The sweet remembrance of the just | Shall flourish when he sleeps in dust. | In the same vault are interred
the remains | of Mary Ann daughter of the said Mr | Thomas
Wyer and Ann his wife, she | dyed the 24 of October 1800, in the 16 | year of her age. | Like some fair flower the early spring supplies | That gaily blooms yet e'en in blooming dies.

Grainsby

Notes taken in the church, August 25, 1835—This church, which was rebuilt about a year ago, is a small building consisting of a nave and chancel, between which is an old screen, and a tower at the west end, in which are three bells, and a south porch. The font is a plain round one. The church does not contain a single monumental inscription.

Peter Layng, | M.A., rector of Everdon | and Farthingston
in the | county of Northampton, | she died in this parish |
April the [9th, 1803].

At the east end of chapel or north transept is a handsome monument of white marble, with the bust above of a man, ornamented with books. It was sculptured by Nollekens : in capitals :

Sacred to the memory of | the Rev^d Francis Willis, M.D., | who died on the 5th of December 1807, | in the 90th year of his age. | He was the third son of the Rev^d John Willis of Lincoln, | a descendant of an ancient family of the same name | that resided formerly at Fenny Compton in Warwickshire. | He studied at Oxford, was fellow & some time vice-principal | of Brazen-Nose College where, in obedience to his father, | he entered into Holy Orders, | but pursuing the bent of his natural taste & inclination | he took the degree of Doctor of Physic | in the same University | and continued
the practice of the profession | to the last hour of his life. |
By his first wife Mary, | the youngest [daughter] of the Rev^d
John Curtois | of Branston in this county, | he had five sons who survived him. | By his second wife he had no issue. |
Initiated early in the habits of observation & research, | he attained the highest eminence in his profession, | and was happily the chief agent in removing the malady | which afflicted his present Majesty in the year 1789. | On that occasion he displayed | an energy and acuteness of mind |

which excited the admiration & procured for him | the esteem of the nation. | The kindness & benevolence of his disposition | were testified by the tears and lamentations | which followed him to the grave.

On another close by against the same wall, with an urn at the top, by the same sculptor and in capitals :

Sacred to the memory of | Mary | the youngest daughter of the Rev. John Curtois | of Branston in this county. | She married the Rev. Francis Willis, M.D., in 1749, | and was the mother of five children, | Francis, John, Thomas, Richard, & Robert Darling, | she died on the 17th of April 1797, | in the 73 year of her age. | Her manners were gentle and unassuming | and her whole life was worthy of imitation.

On a small marble slab between the two :

These monuments | were erected by the surviving sons, | a pious testimony | of their affectionate regard & esteem | for the memory | of their revered and much honoured parents.

The arms on a black slab above—A chevron . . . between three mullets [Willis]; impaling—Paly a fesse chequy [for Curtois]. Crest—A mullet within an annulet. Motto : Integrity.

On a black stone at the entrance of this chapel :

Mary Maria Millington | wife of Langford Millington, Esq., | of Berners Street, London, and | Rushford Lodge, Suffolk. | She was one of the daughters | of the late Thomas Warren, Esq., | special pleader of the Inner Temple ; | she died 24 May 1801.

There was an old octagon font.

Greetwell

Notes taken in the church, 6 August, 1833—

On a black stone within the altar rails with these arms over—Three crescents, a canton ermine [Dalyson] :

Here lyeth Robert Dalyson | of Greetwell in the countie | of Lincoln, gent. the second sonn of | William Dalyson, one of the | Justices of the Kinges Bench | in the time of Queene Mary, w^{ch} | Will' was second sonne to Will' | Dalyson of Laughton in ye said | countie, esq. and ye said Robert | died the 25 day of Aprill in the | yeare of our Lord 1620.

On a flat stone in the chancel adjoining the last (D) :

John Bullen, gent., | obiit July 4th, 1800, | aged 33 years.

A small flat stone also within the chancel rails (D) :

Conradt Week Lely | the youngest son | of Rich. Lely, esq.

There are some old stones with bits of inscription round the edge, but quite broken up, and there is a black stone with white letters, but now almost entirely obliterated.

On a white stone fixed into the south wall of the chancel (R) :

H. E. | Anna Lavinia Lely | Rich. Lely Ar. | filia | Natu 2^{da} |
Ipsissima (pene dixeram) venustas | Ob. x^{bris} die 21, 1733, æt. A^o 5^{to}. | Snatched from my ravished eyes becalmed to rest | Here sleeps the lovely Fondling of my breast | Just shewn the world but destined not to stay | Her reason's dawn diffused too bright a ray | Perfection's bloom see, see! she wings her flight | A radiant Angel to the realms of light |
Heaven claims the pretty charmer, Heaven she's thine. |
This tear no more—and patient I resign. | Scripsit | posuitque
Pater | saxum.

A grey tablet against the north wall of the chancel (R) :

A flat blue stone (D) in the nave with two shields or arms over—1st
. . . three crescents . . . a canton ermine [Dalyson] ; 2nd, . . .
two lions passant [for Littlebury]. Inscription in capitals (D) :

Here lyeth S^r Thomas Dalyson of | Greetwell in the county of Lincoln, | knt, third son of Will^m Dalyson, esq., | one of the Justices of the King's Bench | in y^e time of Queen Mary,
w^{ch} William | was second son of Will^m Dalyson | of Laughton in y^e said county, esq. | Here also lyeth Dame Anne, wife | of y^e said S^r Thomas one of y^e daughters of Humphrey Little-bury | of Stansby in ye county aforesaid, | esq., w^{ch} Thomas dyed y^e 20th | of March in ye yeare of our | Lord 1625, and ye said Anne | dyed ye 9 of May following, they | had between them . . . children | whereof two were daughters. | They left alive . . . their | eldest son George Charles & Martha.

This church is small, consisting only of a nave and chancel, and a tower at the west end. The font is curious.

(MS iii, 143–148.)

Haceby

Notes taken in the church, 11 July, 1839—This church is small, consisting only of a nave with a south aisle, south porch, chancel, and tower at the west end. The aisle is divided from the nave by two Perpendicular arches with octagonal piers. The chancel, which is entered by a Norman arch, has two small lancet windows set deep in the wall, and a square east window of a modern date. The arch entering the tower is four-centred, with massy round piers having plain capitals; and the tower itself is very thick, the two lower stages, apparently Norman, having two small windows of that period, and the upper storey decorated, of no beauty. It contains two bells. The few windows in the church are perpendicular, of which character is also the porch, the inner door of which is square headed, having quatrefoyles in the spandrils of the arch. The font is a plain octagon. The church is neatly kept.

On a flat stone in the chancel in capitals :

Rebecca Baseley | Oct^r 7th, | 1716. | James Percival | died
Feb^y 7, 1757, | aged [66].

Another to the south of the last, also in capitals (D) :

Carolus Baseley A.M. | Hujus ecclesiæ Rector | obiit 4^o die
Octobris.

Anno { Domini 1731.
 { ætatis suæ 65.

Another stone more to the west :

Here lieth the body | of Catharine the wife of | James Percivall |
and daughter of | Charles & Susannah Beasley | who died
Sept. 17, | 1771, | aged 75.

[In the chancel :

Reliquiæ Rich. Charles, Art. Mag. ob. Nov. 5th, 1690.

Susanna uxor primo Richardi Charles, deinde Caroli Baseley, A.M. ob. 6th May 1729.

Haconby

Notes taken in the church of Haconby, 27 July, 1833—

On a flat stone at the west end of the nave much defaced (D) :

Susanna Coning[ton] | of Leake | departed this . . . | . . .
Jan. 8, 1714.

Just before the altar is an old stone but so defaced now as to be almost illegible. The following appears to be part. It is in very old character (D) :

. de . . . vii. Joh'is de Thorp | propitietur.
An : D : MCCCC : XXIII

In the schoolroom, which was once a chapel north of the chancel, is an old stone with the following inscription in the south wall (R) :

An Epitaphe on | Invested with white robes a priest divine |
 One who in doctrine and in life did shine | He was to all a patterne of true love | Now is posses'd with blise in Heaven above | Alas my brother oh ! his glories great | Unvalued
 pleasents with a windeing sheet | Delights immortal spring where mortal ends | Lament we not o're much who be his friends | In faith he lived unwearied of his paines | Eternal joyes in Death seene are his gaines. | Our faithful | Steward deceased 8^{bris} 3

The schoolmaster says the date was originally 1510,¹ but broken off in moving the stone. It will be perceived that the verses form an acrostic of John Audlie.

A black tablet against the north wall of the chancel (R) :

Augustus Henry Hopkinson | born 20 June 1798, died 10 Oct.
 1801. | Tho' cut off as a rose in the morning | Tho' his years were as a shadow | Which passeth away his memory | Smelleth sweet for ever.

A wooden tablet over the north door of the chancel sets forth that Henry Fryer, Esq., of Stamford Baron Northamptonsh: bequeathed by will, dated 10 Jan. 1828, £30, the interest to be distributed in meat about Xmas annually for ever amongst the poor at Stainfield, at the discretion of the minister of Morton (D).

The church consists of a nave, and two aisles resting on three pointed arches, a chancel, and south aisle now used as a school. At the west end is a handsome tower and spire, the windows of the latter have crocketted canopies ending in a finial. At each angle is a pinnacle crocketted. Over the gable at the east end of the nave is a curious old cross. In the chancel is a very ancient chest adorned with carved work worthy of attention.

Hainton

Notes taken in the church, 12 August, 1833—

On an altar monument, on the north side of the chancel, these shields of arms—First shield : 1st and 4th, Or, a greyhound current between three leopards' heads cabossed sable, in a border gules [Heneage] ; 2nd and 3rd, Gules, three garbs or [Preston]. Second shield : the same, impaling—Argent, three bars gules, in chief a greyhound current sable [Skipwith]. Under, is the figure in brass of a man kneeling, but the head is gone ; there is this label however left, which issued from his mouth—‘Pater de celis deus miserere nobis’. On his tabard are the quarterings above given. Opposite, is the figure in brass of a woman with the arms impaled in the second shield on her cloak ; and this label from her mouth—‘Jh’u redemtor mundi deus miserere nobis’. Behind her, is the figure, also in brass, of her daughter with the Heneage quarterings on her gown. The inscription is as follows in old character :

Here under lieth Sir Thomas Heneage, knight chief gentil-man of the prevey Chamber to ye | kinge of famous memorye
King Henry th’ eight sonne & heyre of John Heneage Esq. | who married Kateryne daughter of Sir John Skipwith knight whiche Sir Thomas and Kate | ryne had isshu Elizabeth nowe being wyffe to the right honourable the Lorde Willoughbye | of Parham the said Sir Thomas Heneage departed this liffe the xxi^{th} daye of August in the | yere of our Lorde God MCCCCLIH uppon whose soule Jh’u haue mercy Amen.

An elegant marble monument against the north wall of the chancel, an urn below, round which five young children are grouped decorating it with garlands and in attitudes of grief. Above is the figure of a female emerging from clouds and borne up by two cherubs. The inscription is at the base :

This Monument is erected | by G. R. Heneage Esq^{re} of Hainton-Hall, Lincolnshire | to the memory of his deceased
Wife, | Frances Anne | second Daughter of the late Gen^l
Ainslie ; | as a mark of his affection and respect. | She was born October 12th 1781 | died March 12th, 1807 ; | leaving
Issue | Georgina Eleanor, George Fieschi, | Edward, Frances
Anne, | Catherine.

A handsome grey marble monument against the east wall of the north chapel (R), consisting of an arch supported by Corinthian pilasters. The arms are nearly effaced, but supposed to be Heneage ; impaling—Or, [a fesse] between three wolves’ heads erased proper [for Hunloke]. In the centre is the bust of a gentleman as large as life, and below the two busts of his wives. This inscription is under the male bust :

This monument is erected to the memory of George Heneage, |
Esq^r whose remains are laid in the vault within this chapel | being the repository of the ashes of his ancestors for many centurys | He was a person of strict justice and unblemish’d integrity, | an indulgent father, a tender husband, and a constant true friend. | His conversation was easy, agreeable and innocent, his wit lively, | and his judgement sound, improv’d and enlarg’d by a generous | education, a perfect knowledge of mankind, and of the manners | of the politest countrys in Europe, he had a natural candour | and sweetness of temper which inclin'd him to compassionate the | poor and distress'd, and which made his charity always both | large and extensive. He deserv'd well of, being a friend to all | mankind and dy'd much valu'd and lamented Dec^r 31 :

1731 | aged 57.

Underneath is the following :

Annos natus LVII, | MDCCXXXI^o

And between these two previous inscriptions are these lines :
Quorum animabus | propitietur deus Amen.

On the north of the monument is a tablet with this inscription :

On his right hand is plac'd the effigies of his first | wife Mary,
the only daughter and heiress of the | Rt Hon^{ble} William
Lord Petre, Baron of Writtle | in the county of Essex, a lady of uncommon merit & | great beauty, humble pious & Charitable, adorn'd with | all those accomplishments which became a person of | her birth and fortune, as well as those priuate vertues | which were requir'd in a wife and parent. She dy'd June | 4th 1704, and is buried in the vault within this Chapel. He | had Issue by her, George Heneage ; William | who dy'd an infant, and Mary Bridget who dy'd | and was buried at Pontoise in the year 1717, Aged 14.

On the south of the monument is another tablet, with the following inscription :

On his left Stands the Busto of his Second Wife, Elizabeth | daughter of S^r Henry Hunloke of Wingerworth in the | county of Derby, Baron^t, by Catharine the sole daughter | and heiress of Francis Tyrwhit of Kettleby in the | county of Lincoln, Esq. This lady the truly mournfull | relict of her deceased husband desired (tho' yet living) | that her effigies might be placed by his, as a token of her | Conjugal Affection. She was a faithful obliging and | obedient wife, and received for twenty six years | the deserved return of her late husband's most constant | and tender affection. She had issue by him six sons | and three daughters, all now living, except Ursula | the second daughter who dy'd an infant and was bury'd | within this chapel. | She died July 3^d 1735.

In the north chapel are two stones, small, bearing the following inscriptions on them in church text :

Hic iacet Henrie Martyn cuius anime propicietur Deus Amen.

Hic iacet dominus | Will' Maltbi | | cuius anime propicietur Deus Amen.

On a brass plate in the floor of the north chapel, having above it the figures of a man in gown with loose sleeves, and a lady in a long gown and square cap, a shield of arms over, but now gone :

Hic jacet Joh'es Henege et Alicia uxor eius qui obiit xxii die mensis Septembris anno D'ni mill'imo ccccxxxv, cuius anime propicietur Deus Amen.

Against the north wall of the chapel is an altar tomb on which are now placed two old helmets and some other pieces and fragments of armour.

Hic jacet Joh'es Hennage Armig. et Katerina uxor eius | qui quidem Joh'es obiit ult. die mensis Marcij A^o D'ni M^o | ccccc^o xxx^o quorum animabus propicietur Deus Amen.

On the west side of the chapel is a very fine monument of white stone. In a recess formed by two fluted Ionic pillars is the figure of a man in armour, bareheaded, with a ruff and peaked beard, kneeling on a cushion before an altar, on which is a book. His lady is opposite him, kneeling in a similar recess, and dressed in a long gown and ruff. On the pediment above are three shields of arms. In the middle one—Quarterly, 1st, Or, a greyhound current sable between three leopards' faces azure, a border engrailed gules [Heneage]; 2nd, Gules, three garbs or [Preston]; 3rd, Argent, two bars and a canton gules [Buckton]; 4th, Gules, a crosse flory between four trefoils or. Crest—On a torce or and gules, a greyhound current sable [Heneage]. On the south side, the four quarters just mentioned; impaling—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Vert, on a fess argent a boar passant sable [Cope]; 2nd and 3rd, Argent, a cross botony sable. On the north side, this last impalement alone. Below the figures this inscription, in capitals, in two columns :

(1) Here lyeth John Henneage | late of Haynton Esquier
 & | Anne his wife y^e daughter & | Heyre of John Cope of
 Hel- | meden in y^e countie of Norht : | Esquier || (2) w^{ch}
 John Henneage died y^e last | of July 1559 & y^e said Anne |
 y^e 5 of February 1587, & had | issue betwixt them living at | their death, George, John, & | William, Katharine & Mary.

Below are two shields of arms—(1), Heneage ; impaling—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, three garbs or [Preston] ; 2nd, Argent, two bars and a canton gules [Buckton] ; 3rd, Gules, a cross flory between four trefoils or. (2), the four quarters of Heneage ; impaling—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Azure, a lion rampant argent [Wymbish] ; 2nd and 3rd, Argent, three cinquefoils gules [Darcy]. On the south side is a shield much defaced, but the bearings appear to be the four quarters of Heneage, impaling the boar on a fesse and the cross botony. In the centre of the chapel is a beautiful altar tomb of marble, which has been coloured, on which is the recumbent figure of a knight in plate armour, much ornamented and damasked with gold, bareheaded, lying on a mat, his head on a cushion, and at his feet his crest, a greyhound courant sable on a torce or and gules [Heneage]. His hair and beard are black, and his hands are clasped over his breast in prayer, his sword is gone. At the base of the tomb on the south side are two shields of arms—(1) the four quarterings of Heneage with the addition of these two—5th, Vert, on a fess argent a boar passant azure [Cope] ; 6th, Argent, a cross botony sable ; impaling—Quarterly, 1st, Argent three cinquefoils gules [Southwell] ; 2nd and 3rd, Quarterly, i and iv, Azure, on a fesse between two chevrons sable three crescents argent [? Tending] ; ii and iii, Or, a chevron between ten crosslets gules [Holbrook] ; 4th, Ermine, two annulets interlaced sable, on a chief of the last three crosses patee argent [Wychemingham]. At the south side of the chapel is a splendid monument of marble. In a recess before an altar, on which is a cloth fringed with gold, is the kneeling figure of a man bareheaded with a falling collar on a cushion ; opposite him are his two wives dressed in ruffs and long gowns, one with a stomacher, and each having a long veil fastened round the head with a fillet of gold. The altar is inscribed, 'Deus propitius esto | michi peccatori Luc. 18. 13 | Jesu fili David Miserere Mei | Luc. 18. 38.' Before the man is a book inscribed in capitals, 'Miserere mei | Deus secundum magnam misericordiam tuam et secun | dum multitudinem miserationum | tuarum Dele iniquitatem meam, Ps. 51. 1.' Before the woman, 'Adjuva nos Deus salutaris noster et propter gloriam nominis | tui Domine libera | nos et propitius esto peccatis nostris propter nomen tuum Psal. 79. 9.'

On the pediment are the arms, six quarters, of Heneage, their crest, and over the crest on a pedestal is the figure of an angel with gold wings ; the pedestal inscribed in capitals, 'Surgite mortui venite ad judicium.'

At the east corner is a representation of Adam and Eve before the tree of knowledge, and below, 'Sicut in Adam omnes moriuntur ita in Christo omnes vivificabuntur 1 Cor. 15. 22.' At the west corner the Resurrection ; and below, 'Ubi tua O mors Victo | ria Ubi tuus O Sepul | chrum stimulus 1 Cor. 15.' On the east pillar of the recess is a lamp burning, below written, 'Post tenebras | spero lucem'. On the west is an hour glass. In the recess over the man are these arms—the six quarters of Heneage ; impaling—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Argent, a fleur de lis sable [Fishbourne] ; 2nd and 3rd, Or, on a bend [wavy] azure three fish naiant argent.

Over the woman the impalement just mentioned. Above the figures this inscription in capitals in two columns :

(1) Peccatum tua Mors Mors XPI, | Pæna Gehennæ, judicium, vita tibi | sunt hæc sex memoranda | (2) Omnia transibunt,
nos ibimus, ibitis | ibunt Nam simul omne perit, | Quod fuit, est, et erit.

Between the figures is this inscription on a black slab in gold capitals :

Here lyeth William Henneage of Haynton | Esq. whose

Below these, at the base of the monument, are two figures of their sons in armour and cloaks, and two daughters, dressed as their mother, kneeling before an altar. Over the first son, the arms of Heneage; impaling—Or, a saltier between four martlets sable [Guyldford]. Over the second, Heneage; impaling—Argent, three bars sable [Bussey]. Over the first daughter—Sable, a wolf salient, and a chief or [Wilson]; impaling—Heneage. Over the second, some bearing effaced; impaling—Heneage. On a black slab over the altar, this inscription in gold capitals :

The above named Thomas Henneage is | now maryed to

Great Hale

Notes taken in the church of Hale Magna, July 14, 1834—This church consists of a nave divided from each aisle by five lofty pointed arches, springing from plain round columns; a south porch; and pinnacled tower at the west end; but no chancel. The tracery has been removed from the east window and several others, what remains is of a Decorated character. The font is a handsome octagon with niches set in square quatrefoyles in a peculiar style, worthy of remark; it has a modern oak cover. At the west end of the north aisle is a handsome oak screen.

Against the wall of the north aisle is a handsome monument of alabaster, consisting of two compartments; in the upper one are the small figures of a gentleman in cloak and doublet, and a lady opposite, kneeling at a desk. Above—Argent, a chevron between three martlets sable [for Cawdron]; impaling—Sable, a cross flory, between four escallops argent [Samson]. In the lower compartment are two female figures kneeling at a desk; above the one the arms of Cawdron; impaling—A chevron engrailed between two bucks' heads cabossed [Nedham]; and over the other—Cawdron; impaling—A lion rampant [Fauckonbridge], this inscription below:

To y^e sacred & perpetual memory of | Robert Cawdron of Little Hale in y^e Coun. of Linc. | gent. who departed this life y^e 30 day of Decem | ber 1665, Ann. ætat. suæ LVI, being three times | married, first unto Katharine daughter of Edward | Nedham of Elston in y^e Coun. of Leices. gent.;

gent.; lastly unto Elizabeth Sansome y^e relict of | John
Woods gent., now living, which said sorrow | ful widow, out of tender affection she beareth | to her deceased husband, caused this monument | to be erected at her own proper charge and | cost, this 20 day of May 1668. | The memory of the just is blessed, but y^e name of y^e wicked shall rot. |
Virtus post funera | Nil desperandum Christo duce auspice Christo.

On a brass plate set in a stone tablet west of the monument, these arms over—On a chevron engrailed . . . three escallops [King]; inscription in capitals:

Here lyeth interred the body of Ann | Cawdron wife of Robert Cawdron of | Great Hale, Esq., one of the daughters | of Edward King, Esq., who was buried y^e | xviii of July 1625, w^{ch} said Robert | Cawdron had by the said Ann his wife | x sonnes and vi daughters.

On another brass plate set in stone, below the monument, in capitals:

Hic requiescit in Domino Franciscus Cawdron | Filius Roberti
Cawdron Armigeri qui ob Fæli | cissimam Indolem moresque suavissimos magnum | sui apud omnes desiderium relinquens
corpus | humo dolorem Amicis Cælo animam commendavit. |
Hoc monumentum Amoris et Mæroris perpetu- | um Testem
charissim' eius Frater Anthonius | Cawdron posuit | obiit
An^o 1660, | ætatis suæ 31.

To the east of the larger monument is a white marble tablet, with the arms of Cawdron above, and below Cawdron, impaling two wives—(1) Sable, on a chevron argent three escallops [King]; (2) Argent, a lion passant between two bars gules [for Williams].

On the tablet are cut the figures of a man in half armour kneeling at a desk, and behind him nine sons, and opposite his two wives, followed by six daughters; before them three sons lye in grave clothes with their heads on skulls, and one daughter likewise. Above is this inscription in capitals:

Memoriæ Sacrum | Roberti Cawdron Armig. vitæ integerr^{mi}
in egenos | largiss^{mi} in Patria fidiss^{mi}, uxores duos habuit |
1^{am} Annam natam Edwardo King Armig^o quæ peperit | ei

e qua 3 filios et 1^{nam} filiam. mortuus est | die 11^{mo} Martii A^o
1650, ætatis suæ 73. | Eleonora filia obsequentiss^{ma} parenti |
amantiss^{mo} lugens posuit. | Antoni' fil' fecit.

In the north east corner of the aisle is a small monument of stone, with two black columns, with the arms nearly effaced, but seemingly Cawdron impaling—Two lions passant [Dymoke]:

Here lieth the body of | Robert Cawdron Esq. who by Jane | his wife one of the daughters of | Sir Charles Dymoke, knt, left issue | five sons [viz^t] Robert, Dymoke, | Edward, Lewis, &
George, & three | daughters [viz^t] Jane, Eleanor, & | Anne, & departed this life the 11 | of July 1714, to whose memory |
this monument was erected | by Jane his widow.

Opposite to the last is a stone tablet with this inscription in gold letters on a black ground:

Near this place lies interred | Jane relict of Rob^t Cawd- | ron,
Esq., late of this | parish. She was daugh | ter of the Hon^{ble}
Sir | Charles Dymoke, kt, | Champion of England, | a most loving wife, a kind | & tender mother, an excellent | mistress, &
a sincere friend. | This small monument is most | gratefully erected by her oblig'd | son & serv^t W^m Lomax. She died |
y^e 22 May 1733, aged 67.

On a flat blue stone in the floor below these monuments (R):

Here lyeth the body of Robert | Cawdron, Esq., who by Sarah his wife | youngest daughter of S^r Edward | Hussey of Welborn, Baronett, had | issue one daughter, viz. Elizabeth.
He | departed this life October y^e 18, 1728, | in the 41 year of his age. | Here lieth the body of Mrs | Sarah Smith, wife of Weston John | Smith, Esq., of this parish. She was | the youngest daughter of S^r Edw^d | Hussey, Bart., of Welborn in this | county, who departed this life | the 17 of May 1767,
in the 80 year of | her age.

To the south is another blue stone with the arms of Cawdron cut on it, impaling—On a chevron . . . three pears . . . (seemingly):
Resurgemus | Uterque.

Near is another large blue stone which once had the brass of a large cross with long stem, and above the bust of a priest. Inscription round the edge; in it is cut R. C. 1665. The brasses are all gone.

On two flat stones parallel, close by :

Here | lyeth the body of | Samuel Sanson, | gent., who departed
this | life August 7, 1769, | aged 63 | years.

Here | lieth the body | of Mary relict of | Samuel Sansom, |
gent., | who departed this life | December 23, 1790, | aged
70 years.

In the south aisle at the east end is a large stone which has once had an inscription round it, but it is worn quite smooth except at the south east corner where this is visible in church text 'VI, MCC . . .'. On the stone is cut :

Here lieth the body | of Maria Gaskarth, widow, | who departed this life the | 3^d of May 1737, aged 36.

Halton Hologate

Notes taken in the church, August 15, 1835—

On a flat stone in the chancel :

In memory of | Jane the wife of Mr Jno. Brackenbury | of this Parish, | who died sincerely lamented by all | her friends & acquaintance | the 5th of Aug. 1786, aged 29, | after a long and painfull illness which | she bore with the greatest patience | and resignation. | Also of | John Brackenbury, gent., | equally regretted and respected, | who departed this life | on the 21 of August 1826, | in the 73 year of his age.

Near this is a stone in which has formerly been a brass of a long stem and tabernacle work at top, all now gone.

At the east end of the south aisle is a low kind of altar tomb, the top of which is covered by a very large black slab, which has once been nearly wholly inlaid with brass, the whole of which has been torn out. On this slab is laid (having been evidently removed from elsewhere) the recumbent figure of a knight in mail hauberk, and gorget or coif of the same, with a helmet of plate, the visor open. The brassards and genouailles are also of plate, as are the gauntlets, and his armour from the foot to the knee is of the same, lined with mail. Over his hauberk is a surcoat confined by a belt crossing the shoulder and buckled at the hips, whence the sword hangs. The belt is studded with cinquefoyles, his hands are clasped over his breast, and on his left arm hangs his shield, heater shaped, bearing a lion rampant [perhaps for Halton]. His head rests on a pillow, and his feet, which are crossed, on a couchant lion. On the whole, the figure is in a good state of preservation, except the face, the features of which are much mutilated.

Near this on the floor is a coffin-shaped [stone] which bears round its edges, in Saxon characters, which are in perfect preservation, the inscription to 'Sir Water Bek', mentioned by Holles.

At the east end of the north aisle, which is separated by a screen from the other part, is an old stone with the figure of a female in brass in the costume of Charles I reign, viz., the boddice and falling collar. One of her hands is crossed over her breast, the other hand holds a book. This portraiture is executed in very good taste, and is much like Hollar's figures. This inscription on a brass plate below in capitals (R) :

Here lies buried the body of | Bridgett the wife of John |
Rugeley, daughter and heire | of Thomas Thorey who de- | ceased the 15 day of May in y^e | yeare of our Lord 1658, |
ætatis suæ 21.

The stone in which this brass has been inserted has had formerly an older inscription, and canopied cross in brass, now gone.

On a flat stone next to the last :

Here lyes y^e body | of Sarah Smith late | wife of Benjamin
Smith, | gent., who departed | this life y^e 17 of March | Anno Dom. 1699.

On another much rubbed (D) :

Here lyeth y^e body of Benjamin | Smith, gent., who departed |
this life y^e of | An. Dom. 1708(?).

On a brown stone to the west of the last (D) :

Here lyeth y^e body | of Katherine Smith | late daughter of | Benjamin Smith, | gent., & Sarah his | wife who depart- | ed
this life January | the 29, Anno Dom. | 1697.

This church consists of a nave and aisles, resting on four pointed arches which spring from octagonal columns, a chancel, and tower at the west end. Both of these are separated from the nave by pointed arches. There is a south porch which is of the Perpendicular style, and very handsome, having a square-headed door with quatrefoyles in the spandrils of the arch, and a parapet which is very beautifully pannelled in quatrefoyles in squares, with a dripstone below ornamented with y^e ball in hollow moulding. Below it is a vacant niche and above a shield having the rebus,

The font is circular, supported on four massive short pillars on a basement of two steps. There remains a good deal of old pewing and screenwork. There has formerly been a south aisle to the chancel of two arches, which are now blocked up, and the aisle removed. The character of the church is Perpendicular apparently, though the windows are mostly despoiled of their tracery, and the roof of the chancel having been lowered, blocks up the head of the east one. In the tower are six bells.

Harmston

Notes taken in the church, 8 August, 1833—

A handsome white marble monument against the south wall of the chancel between two Corinthian pillars, the bust of a gentleman in a peruke and the dress of the time of George I; on each side an angel in an attitude of grief. Above are the arms, but the colours nearly obliterated—Quarterly, 1st, Argent, three goats salient sable [for Thorold]; 2nd, Three bars gules on a canton vert, [a martlet—Hough]; 3rd, Argent, a cross potent sable between four pellets [Brehaugh]; 4th, [Argent, a bend between six pellets—Marston]. Crest—A stag passant:

Here lies the body of Sir George Thorold, knt & bart, who built new this church and chancel | in the year 1717, and was Lord Mayor of the city of London in 1720. | He was 4th son of Charles Thorold, esq., of London, who was 2d son of Thomas Thorold, esq., of Harm | ston and of London, who was 3d son of W^m Thorold, esq., of Harmston, who died in the | year 1616, who was eldest son of W^m Thorold, esq., of Harmston, who died in 1586, and they | both lie buried near this place, who was 2d son of Sir W^m Thorold of Marston, who died in the | year 1569, and left the Lordship of Harmston to the abovesaid W^m Thorold his 2d son who was only | brother to Sir Anthony Thorold of Marston. | The above Sir George Thorold married Mrs Eliza. Rushout in 1713 daughter of Sir James Rush- | out, bart, of Northwich in Worcestershire, by whom he had a daughter who died young, and he | departed this life the 29 of October 1722, aged 56.

On a flat stone in the chancel close under the last monument (R):

Sacred to the memory | of | Isabella Margaret Thorold | who died March 13, 1832, | aged 30 years.

On a grey marble monument on which has been a white slab, now fallen off and broken, but the inscription still remains perfectly decipherable; above this is an urn (R):

To the memory of | Samuel William Thorold an infant | who was born on the XXXIst day of October MDCCLXXVI, | and died on the XXVI day of February MDCCLXXVII. | Accept sweet babe what only we can give | Thou in our tender bosoms long shall live | Thee fairest flower just opening into day | Death cruel death untimely snatched away | With plaintive accents we weep o'er our love | Tho' heaven invites thee to its joys above. | Samuel and Anne Thorold his afflicted parents | have erected this monument.

Stones in the north aisle (D):

Sacred | to the memory | of | William Millington, | aged 55, | who died March 1, | 1812.

Sacred | to the memory | of | Eleanor the wife | of | William Millington, | aged 51, | who died June 7, | 1810.

On another stone (D) :

In memory | of W^m Millington | who died November 7, 1761, | aged 40 years ; | also W. Wattson | who died November y^e
23, 1762, | aged 76 years.

On another flat stone (D) :

To the memory of | Susanna Millington relict of | William
Millington | who died November 21, 1783, | in the 67 year of his age. | Laden with years by sickness prest | This pious matron came to rest | A fair example of good life | She was a chaste and loving wife | Her house did shew her prudent care | She knew both how to spend and spare. | Mourn not, she's gone where tears do cease | Her upright life did end in peace.

A very beautiful monument of grey veined marble, about twelve feet high from the ground, against the north wall of the chancel, between two Corinthian pillars, on a pedestal is the bust of a man, and at the sides are two weeping boys winged, one having his foot on a scull. On the pediment, a shield of arms partly defaced—quarterly, 1st, Sable, three goats salient argent [Thorold]; 2nd, Argent, three bars gules, on a canton azure a martlet or [Hough]; 3rd, [Argent, a cross potent between four pellets—Brehaugh]; 4th, Argent, a bend raguly sable between six pellets [Marston]. At the bottom of the monument is this inscription on a white marble slab :

M. S. | Here lieth the body of S^r Samuel Thorold, bart, who was seventh son of | Charles Thorold, esq., and brother to
S^r George Thorold, bart, who | is also here interred, of whom it may with strict justice be truly said that as he | was blest with a very plentiful estate so he wanted not a heart to make a | proper use of it, for notwithstanding his natural inclination directed him to y^e choice | of a retired life, he was never more delighted than when proper opportunities | presented for his shewing his benevolence to mankind by endeavouring to make others as | happy as he himself desired to be, and tho' the world might have a loss from his | retirement in y^e want of that sincere & friendly converse which he always practised, | yet as it did not proceed either from pride or moroseness but merely from a studious | disposition and a disapprobation of all vain ostentation in public life, every wise man will | readily excuse him. He departed this life the 1st January 173⁷/₈, in the 65 year of his age.

On a brass plate against the east wall of the chancel north of the altar in capitals (R) :

Here lyeth the body of Mrs Margaret Thorold, widowe, |
sometimes the wife of William Thorold of Harmston, esq., | deceased, by whome shee had 19 children whereof 8

were | sonnes, viz., William, George, Richard, Anthony, Edmond, Thomas, | Phillip, and Henry, and eleven daughters, viz., Jane, Anne, | Mary, Susan, Fravncis, Sara, Elizabeth, Fravncis, Judith, | Prudence, and Martha. Shee departed this life the 20th | daye of April Ann^o D'ni 1616, being aged 80 yeares.

A similar one below in capitals also (R) :

Here lyeth the bodye of William Thorold, esq., the | eldest sonne of William Thorold of Harmstone, esq., | deceased, who was second brother unto S^r Anthony Tho | rold of Marstone, knight, deceased. He departed this life y^e 8 | daye of August Anno D'ni 1616, being aged 59 yeares & 7 months.

On a flat stone at the west end of the south aisle (R) :

Here are deposited the remains of | Samuel Thorold, esq., | for many years lord and possessor | of the manor of Harmston, | who was born December | the twenty ninth, 1749, | and died January the 19, 1820, | aged 70 yeares. | Also the remains of his | beloved infant | Samuel Jane [sic] Thorold | who was born February the tenth, | 1819, and died November the twelfth | the same year.

Between the two Thorold monuments are hung up two helmets with the crest of Thorold, a stag tripping, two pair of gauntlets, a sword, and two pair of spurs, and a shield of arms, but not to be made out.

The church consists of a nave and aisles supported upon three pointed arches resting on plain columns, a chancel, and a tower at the west end. The font is hexagonal, ornamented with grotesque heads and roses alternately. Over the arch between the nave and chancel is a picture (R) of the adoration of the Magi.

Harpwell

Notes taken in the church, 29 August, 1828—

There are two monuments to the Whichcote family ; one is a flat stone in the chancel inscribed thus :

Here lyeth the body of | George Whichcot, Esq., who | departed this life Sept. the 7th, | 1720, | aged 67 yeares.

The other is a marble monument on the southern wall of the chancel, with the following inscription :

To the memory of Thomas Whichcot, Esq., | who died October 3rd, 1776, aged 76. | He was the son of Colonel George Whichcot, | Esq., who died September 7, 1720, aged 67, |

and his wife Frances Catharine, | daughter of Sir Thomas Meres, knight, | of Kirby Bellers in the county of Leicester, | and Kirtou in Holland, Lincolnshire, | who died August 1731, aged 62. | His first wife was Elizabeth Maria | daughter of Francis and Mary Anderson | of Manby, who died April 1731, | aged 21. | She left him two daughters | viz. Frances Maria and Catharine. | His 2nd wife was Jane the daughter | of John Tregagle, Esq., | who died Jan. 2, 1764, aged 61. She left him | an only daughter viz. Jane Whichcot.

There is also a written copy, hanging on a pillar in the church, of a deed of gift which accompanied a clock presented in 1746 by Thomas Whichcot, in which grateful allusions are made to the suppression of the Scotch rebellion and the hope expressed that the clock whenever it struck would remind the parishioners of their deliverance.

(MS Supp., 14-15.)

Notes taken in the church, 14 September, 1835—

On an old stone just before the altar rails in church text (R) :

Hic iacet dominus | Will'm's de Beachaump | rector istius eccl'ie.

On the north wall of the chancel are two brasses seemingly let into wood, one of a man in armour, standing on a lion, with his sword crossed before him, the other a female in the dress of Henry 6th time, with the extraordinary cap that projects behind and is peculiar. These brasses were formerly in a stone in the church, and were placed here by Dr Bailly.

On a tablet against the south wall (R) :

Sacred to the memory | of | the Rev^d Thomas Dawson, | late vicar of North Kelsey | and perpetual curate of Harpswell 30 years, | who died March 25, 1804, | aged 58 years. | Also Mary his wife who died March 2, 1822, | aged 72 years. | Likewise Edward their son who died Sept. 28, 1823, | aged 37 years. | And Elizabeth their daughter who died Feb. 12, 1789, | in the third year | of her | age.

In the south aisle (R) :

A flat stone to John Wallace who died 20 April 1786, æt. 44.

Near this is a stone which had a brass now gone.

Under an arch in the south aisle a figure on an altar tomb of the size of life, with hands clasped across the breast, in a long robe plaited; but it is uncertain whether a man or woman. On the head appears something like a caul or tonsure. [It represents William de Harrington, rector of Harpswell, circa 1346.]

The church consists of a nave and south aisle separated by two Norman arches and one pointed. One of the pillars is round, and one octagon. In the east window of the south aisle are some fragments of painted glass (R). The font is round, with a range of sharp pointed arches encircling it. There has been a north aisle but now gone.

On a stone in the tower under the clock is this inscription :

Upon | the 9 of Oct^r | 1746, | T. Whichcot Esq., | gave this clock to | y^e parish of Harpswell | in memory of the | victory obtained | by his Royal Highness the | Duke of Cumberland | over the Rebels in | Scotland at the battle | fought
Ap^l the 16, 1746, | near | Culloden.

Here lieth John Copledike, esquire, sonne and ayre to Sir John Copledike, knight, late of Harrington, deceased, Who dyed the 4^{to} April 1585, and Ane Etton his wyfe who dyed the x^o June 1582.

On the north of chancel, a mural memorial marble and slate, with Copledike arms above, a knight in armour and lady kneeling, with two children (all marble figures), with the following inscription :

Here lyeth the body of Francis Copvldyck, esq., brother and next heire of John Copvldyck, esqvire, which John Copvldyck was sonne and heire of Sr John Copvldyck, knight, of Harrington in ye county of Lincolne, w^{ch} foresayd Francis dyed the xxixth of December 1599, which foresayd Francis married Elizabeth one of the daughters of Lionell Reresby of Thrybargh in the county of York, esq., and had issue by her one sonne and a daughter which died in theyr infaney.

In the tower—there is evidence of its having been removed from the chancel—a grey marble tomb, with a brass set in mural tablet over, with Copledyke arms, and this inscription :

Here lyeth Sr John Copledike, knight, late of Harrington, deceased, who died the twelfth of December 1557, and Elizabeth Littlebury his wife who died the 12th July 1552.

There are still two bench ends in the presbytery with the shield of Copledike, and one complete bench in the quire.

In the nave, on the south, a recumbent stone figure of a knight in mail armour, legs crossed, hands upraised ; may be this represents Sir John Harrington.]

This church consists of a nave and chancel, and a tower at the west end built by Mrs Cracroft within a short time. The font has eight shields on it—[(1) Huntingfield impaling Rokeley. (2) Copledike quartering Rokeley. (3) Huntingfield. (4) Copledike impaling Tilney. (5) Copledike impaling Leake. (6) A quatrefoil pierced between three crosslets [? for Umfraville]. (7) Blank. (8) Copledike.]

Haugh

Notes taken in the church, [probably August, 1835]—

On an old stone in the chancel, round the verge, in church text :

Hic iacet Johannis Hagh armigeri qui obiit xviii die mensis Julii anno d'ni [M]cccc[LVIII] cuius anime propicietur deus Amen.

These arms are in the centre of the stone, a chevron between ten crosslets [Haugh].

On another to the west of the last, round the verge, in church text :

Hic iacet Isabella quondam uxor Radulphi [rectius Ricardi] de Hagh fil' Johannis Belle de Boston que obiit Sept. die Febr. a^o D'ni. m^occccxvii cuius anime propicietur Deus Amen.

On an old stone more to the north, in lines :

+ Hic iacet | Agnes Clouc [for Clour] s'e'da | uxor Johannis de Hagh.

On an old stone to the east of the last, round the verge, in old character :

Hic iacet dominus Robertus de Wynceby quondam vicarius istius ecclesie qui obiit iii kal. Marci anno D'ni millesimo ccccxxv cuius anime propicietur omnipotens Deus.

On an old stone in the nave, in lines, in church text :

+ Hic iacet | Johanna de Welby | prima uxor Johannis | de Hagh.

On a flat stone in the chancel :

To the memory of | Martha | the wife of the Rev. William Oddie, | who died the 13 of September 1773, | in the 37 year of her age.

On a stone next to it :

In memory of | Martha daughter | of the Rev. W^m Oddie | and Martha his wife, | born August y^e 12, 1766 [sic], | died Feb. 6, 1771, | in the 5th year of her age.

Next to it :

In memory of | Ann daughter of | the Rev. Will. Oddie | & Martha his wife | born Feb. the 4, died | Sept. the 24, 1766. | Also | of William their son, | who died April 20, 1774, | aged 15 months.

On a broken stone, in church text :

+ Hic iacet Thomas de Ha propicietur Deus Amen.

On another, in church text also :

Radulphi Hagh cccc

An old flat stone under the Communion table, with an inscription round in old church text :

+ Hic iacet Thomas de Hagh qui obiit xxiiij die Decem. anno D'ni mcccc[xx] cuius anime propicietur Deus Amen.

Close under the south wall of the chancel is a similar stone, with the inscription round the edge, but so mutilated and defaced by damp as to render nearly the whole of it illegible ; what remains is :

xii die Aprilis mcccc

To the west of this is a stone having a cross cut on it, which once had an inscription round its edge in Saxon characters, but it is now so broken and worn by damp as to be illegible ; perhaps the word 'HAUG' may be decyphered.

The church consists of a nave and chancel, separated by a Norman arch, with a brick turret for a bell at the west end. In the east wall north of the altar is a niche. The font is octagonal, with the window pannelling of decorated character.

Haydor

Notes taken in the church, 12 August, 1834—This is a very handsome church. It consists of a nave and aisles divided on each side by four pointed arches springing from clustered columns, a chancel with a north chapel, a south porch, and elegant tower and spire at the west end. The font is a handsome octagon with niches and pannelling. There are but one or two pews in the church, the plan of benching being with good taste preserved, though the seats are not old ones. There is a great deal of painted glass remaining in the windows, particularly in those of the north aisle. In the first window westward of that aisle are three figures, the first crowned in armour of gold, bearing on his shield and surcoat—Azure, a cross flory between four martlets or, from which it may be conjectured to be the figure of Edward the Confessor. The second is the figure of St George in white armour, bearing on his shield—Argent, a plain cross gules. The third is another crowned head, attired in golden armour, the arms on his shield appear to be—Azure, three crowns, two and one or, which were the bearings of King Arthur. The window is filled up above with architectural designs. In the next window are three figures of saints, and a small figure in a round pane of a female on horseback, her veil streaming behind. At the top is a representation of the Trinity ; at the bottom of the window is this legend as far as it could be decyphered from the mortar and dirt with which it was encrusted :

Orate pro anima Alfredi sororis sue.

In the south aisle is some more glass, but none of consequence. The font is handsome, octagon, pannelled in niches.

In the chapel north of the chancel against the west wall is a very beautiful monument, reaching nearly to the ceiling, composed of grey marble, the work of Scheemakers. On a black sarcophagus in the midst is the bust of a lady, and on each side is a boy weeping. Above are these arms—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Argent, on a chevron azure three garbs or [Cradock]; 2nd and 3rd, Sable, two cross bones in saltier argent [Newton]; an inescutcheon—Or, on a chevron azure a martlet between two pheons of the field [Warton]. Below the sarcophagus this inscription on a white slab:

Near this place lies the body of | Susanna Lady Newton. | She was daughter of Michael Warton of Beverley in the county | of York, esq., and sister and coheirress of S^r Michael Warton of the | same place, knt. She married first sir John Bright of Badsworth in | the county of York, baronet, by whom she had no issue, and after | S^r John Newton of Barrs Court in the county of Gloucester, bart, | by whom she had one son the Honourable Sir Michael Newton, | Bart & Knight of the Bath, married to the Rt Hon^{ble} the Countess of Conningesby, | and one daughter Susanna married to William Archer of Welford in the county of Berks, esq. | She departed this life April the 19, 1737, in the 86 year | of her age. | Having ordered by her will a monument, this was in obedience | to her command erected by her daughter and executrix, Susanna Archer, | in the year of our Lord 1737.

To the north of the last is a handsome mural monument of a pyramidal form, composed of grey and white marble, with the arms of Newton, and an inescutcheon as in the former one; below this inscription:

Here lies the body | of Sir John Newton, baronet, | who departed this life February the 12, 173³/₄, aged 83, | By his first wife Abigail | daughter of William Heveningham, esq. | he had issue one daughter named Cary, | married to Edward Coke esq. of Holcomb in Norfolk, | and by his second wife, | daughter and coheir of Michael Warton, esq., | of Beverley in the county of York, and widow | of Sir John Bright of Badsworth in the same county, | he had issue one son named Michael [married to Margaret Countess of Coningsby, and one daughter Susanna, married to] William Archer, esq., of Welford in Berkshire. | This monument was erected in memory of the deceased | by the Lady Newton his widow.

Against the north wall of the chapel, close by the last, is a very handsome monument of light grey marble and white, flanked by two Corinthian pillars, and surmounted by an urn and wreaths of flowers. Below are the arms—Cradock and Newton quarterly, impaling— . . . per cross . . . and . . . a bordure entoyre of escallops [Heveningham]. It bears this inscription :

Here lieth in hopes of | a glourious resurrection | Abigail | the wife of John Newton of Thorpe | in y^e county of Lincoln, esq., | daughter of William Heveningham of Heveningham, | Suffolk, esq., and Mary daughter and | heiress of John earl of Dover. | She lived soe as if she meant to die young. | Even her youth was pious & exemplary, | In w^{ch} she diligently hearkened to y^e law of God & her maker, | And by y^e same steps with a gentle hand | She led into the way of virtue her own offspring. | John her eldest she prepared betimes for heaven | And for griefe almost followed, & now lyes buried by him. | She left a daughter Carey, | about six years of age, | In whom it appeared what the prudence of a mother, | Neither fond nor severe, could effect even in so tender years. | By a peculiar art her children both stood in awe & loved her. | After a tedious sickness she died big with child, | And was to the last more desirous that should live than she. | She had all y^e virtues that became a wife a mother & a child. | She deserved a longer life here, but more an eternal one. | She died May 11, in the year of our Lord 1686, [and] of her age 26. | John dyed July 18, in y^e year of our Lord 1681, of his age 4 years.

To the east of the last is a splendid monument of white veined marble, reaching nearly to the roof, the production of Scheemakers. In the middle is a sarcophagus crowned by an elegant urn ; on each side is a female figure, the one with a book and the other in a desponding attitude holding an inverted torch. It is very beautifully executed. In the front of the sarcophagus is this inscription :

Near this place is interred the body of S^r Michael Newton, bart, Knight of the most honorable order of the Bath. | He was the son of S^r John Newton, bart, of Barrs Court in y^e county of Gloucester, by Dame Susanna the widow | of S^r John Bright Bart of Badsworth in y^e county of York, and sister and co-heiress of S^r Michael Warton of | Beverley in y^e said county. | He married in y^e year 1730 Margaret Countess of Coningesby, daughter & coheiress of Thomas earl of Coningesby | By his wife Frances, daughter of Richard Earl of Ranelagh, & he had issue one son John viscount Coningesby | who died an infant in y^e year 1733, aged about two months. | He represented y^e boroughs of Beverley & Grantham in four different Parliaments and discharged | y^e trust reposed in him by his constituents wth a steady & uniform regard to y^e real interests of his country. | Nor did y^e example of a corrupt & venal age, enslaved to ministerial influence, mislead his | judgement, nor did y^e offer of an honourable employment divert his resolute attachments | from y^e pursuit of patriotism. He died April 6, 1743. This monument | was erected in the year 1746 by his sister and heiress | Susanna Archer of Welford in y^e county of Berks.

To the east of this against the wall is a plain but elegant monument of white marble, the work of Rysbrack; below is a countess's coronet and the letter C :

To the memory | of | Margaret countess of Coningesby | who departed this life | June 12, 1761, | aged 52. | Lady Frances Coningesby | with whom from their childhood | she had always been connected | by the strictest union | of kindred & concordant hearts | inscribes this marble | as a lasting testimony | of the unutterable grief | inviolate friendship | and tender affection | of an only & inconsolable sister, | lost to all comfort | but from the hope | of their being happily reunited | in a better world, | in Love | indissoluble & eternal.

A flat stone on the floor in capitals :

Here lies the body | of John Newton son | and heir of John | Newton, esq., who | was born the 26 | day of October 1677, | and died the 18 | day of July 1681.

A stone to the west bears the name of John viscount Coningesby, son of S^r Michael Newton, born 16 Oct. 1732, died 4 Jan^y 1732-3.

On another stone to the west in capitals :

August 2^d, Anno D'ni 1671. | Here lieth buried the body | of Dame Elizabeth Eyre | wife to Sir Jervaise Eyre | of Rampton in y^e county | of Nottingham.

There are a few other stones bearing the names and deaths of those who are also commemorated on the monuments.

On a brass plate in chancel floor in capitals :

Hic jacet resurrectionem justorum expectans Henricus | Pight clericus Artium Magister rector ecclesiæ de Hayder in | agro Lincolnensi nec non prebendarius prebendæ de Hayder | cum Walton in ecclesia cathedrali beatæ Mariæ Lincolnensis. | Obiit Martii 29, Anno Dom. 1675, et ætat. suæ LXX.

On another brass plate in capitals :

Hic jacet resurrectionem jus- | torum expectans Isaacus Carter | clericus Artium Magister rec- | tor ecclesiæ de Hayder in agro | Lincolnensi necnon præbendarius | præbendæ de Hayder cum Walton | pertinentis ad ecclesiam cathe- | dralem beatæ Mariæ Lincolnien- | sis. Obiit vicesimo nono die Novem- | bris Annoque Dom. 1687, ætatis suæ 40.

A flat stone more to the west in capitals rubbed (D) :

Josephus Weld A.M. | Postquam huic ecclesiæ per | annos
39 incubuit rector | quam moribus et doctrinis | ornavit, |
Hic tandem placide obdormivit | Summo [blank] rationem | redditurus vol Anno Ætat. 79. [Anno] Dom. 1726.

In the south aisle is a brass plate which records the death of Gervase Barker, gardener to Sir John Newton, bart., 34 years, died Nov. 4, 1724, aged 57 years, & Elizabeth his wife, who died May 22, 1731, in the 70 year of her age.

In the chancel is a curiously carved old oak chest, and hanging from the walls are the tattered remnants of banners, helmets, escocheons, &c., of the Newton family with their crest, a blackamoor's head.

Hekington

Notes taken in the church, [blank] August, 1831—

In the chancel under an arch is the recumbent figure of a priest in his robes, his feet resting on a lion, his face is mutilated.

On a brass plate in the nave near the entrance to the chancel, with the inscription in old character :

Helpringham

Notes taken in the church, 14 July, 1834—This church is very fine. It consists of a nave and aisles divided by four pointed arches springing from clustered columns, a chancel, with a lofty tower, and pinnacled and crocketed spire at the west end, entered by a very beautiful door with receding mouldings of great depth.

It has a south porch. Between the nave and the chancel is a handsome decorated oak screen, but the head of the arch is blocked up with the King's arms, Commandments, etc. At the west end of the nave is a gallery (D) of oak in the modern style, but handsome of its kind, for the singers. In the south wall of the chancel are three stone stalls with round arches trefoiled, and a piscina. In the south aisle is a piscina with crocketed canopy; and against the first pillar on the north of the chancel is a similar one, but blocked up. Near it is a grotesque figure supporting a bracket. The font is circular, on a massive black marble basement. It has a range of arches round it, but has been daubed to look like veined marble. There were four pillars round, but one only remains.

A brass plate within the north wall of the chancel, within the altar rails, the inscription in capitals:

Here lieth the boddie of An | thonie Newlove, the elder, | patron of the vicaridge of | this church of Helpringham |
whoe departed this world ye | fift day of October 1597.

A marble tablet against the east wall north of the altar:

In memory of | Boaz Baxter late of | this place, gent., who died | Aug^t 31, 1804, aged 74 years. | Likewise of Frances his wife | who dyed Dec^r 18, 1814, | aged 80 years. | Also |
seven children and | two grandchildren | who died infants.

On a flat stone within the altar rails in capitals:

Here lyeth ye body of | Mary the daughter of | William
Cawdron, gent., | and Mary his wife | buried March ye 14,
1719, | aged 28.

Another more to the north in capitals:

Here lieth | the body of | William ye son | of William |
Cawdron, gent- | til., and Mary | his wife who | was buryed |
the 7th day of | September 1695.

Another to the west of the last in capitals:

Here lyeth ye body of | William Cawdron, gent., | who was buried | August ye 29, | 1720, | aged 54.

Another to the south in capitals rubbed:

Here lyeth ye body of | Elizabeth the wife of | John Craven |
who was buried | Jan. ye 18, 1719, | aged 21.

Another more to the south:

In | memory of | William Shilcock | who died Sept. 2, 1829, |
aged 31.

On another stone:

In memory of | John Baxter, gent., | who died August the
7, | 1757, aged 57 years.

On the floor are more stones to the same family.

On a wooden tablet against the south wall of the chancel in gold letters on a black ground :

Near | this place | lyeth Constance wife | of John Springthorp | died August 28, 1741, aged | 69 years, also three of his sons, | viz. Thomas, John, and Sam^l. | Thos died April 28, 1740, | aged 26, John died Augu^t | 4, 1740, aged 24, Samuel | died Oct. 28, 1740, aged | 19 (followed by the trite verses beginning 'Affliction sore', etc.).

On a similar one more to the west :

Near | this place lie | interred the bodies | of John, William, and Anne, | sons and daughter of John | and Mary Allen who died as | follows, John Allen 24 April | 1749, aged 16 years, Anne | Allen 13 May 1749, aged 22 | years, William Allen 26 May | 1749, aged 18 years. (Some verses not worth transcribing follow.)

There are flat stones in the chancel to the memory of :

John Milner died May 25, 1786, æt. 37.

Ann relict of John Willbourn, & formerly wife of John Milner, died June 26, 1809, æt. 54.

John son of Samuel and Elizabeth Milner died 28 June 1804, æt. 1.

On an oval black tablet against the wall of the north aisle :

Near this place | are deposited the remains of | Susannah | the wife of Geo^e Mitchinson of Grantham, | eldest son of the Rev^d T. Mitchinson vicar of this parish. | She died in the full assurance of Faith April 5, 1820, | aged 29 years. | For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, | even so them also who sleep in Jesus | shall God bring with him. 1 Thess : 4 : 14.

Another tablet to the west of the last in gold letters on a black ground :

In memory of | Catharine the wife of | Rev^d Thomas Mitchinson | vicar of this parish | who departed this life | after a long and severe illness, | borne with Christian patience | and resignation, | on the 13 day of April 1821, | aged 60 years.

On a flat stone near the entrance to the chancel :

In memory of | Mary the wife of John | Springthorp who was buried | Nov. the 2^d, 1754, | aged 51 years.

Hibaldstow

Notes taken in the church of Hibaldstow, 2 September, 1835—
This church, which is a mean modern building, rebuilt to an old tower in the year 1799, as is mentioned in a gallery at the west end. In the tower are three bells. The font is octagonal, with strawberry leaves down the lower edge. There is no monumental memorial whatever, except an old stone (D) near the pulpit, having had an inscription round the edge, entirely defaced.

Holbeach

Notes taken in the church, 22 July, 1833—

On a white marble monument on the south of the chancel, the arms carved above, but too high to be in sight, two cherubs under in alto relievo :

In memory | of Samuel Richardson, Esq., | an upright magistrate | tender husband indulgent parent | generous friend | & benevolent to all mankind. | He married Elizabeth | the second daughter & coheiress | of Benjamin Sanderson, gent., | by whom he left two children Sigismund & Mary | and departed this life | the 10 day of Febr^y | 1736, aged 56.

On a stone monument with a marble slab next to the last, with these arms under—Sable, a chevron between three crosslets fitch argent [for Richardson]; impaling—Sable, a griffin segreant between three mullets argent [Short]:

In memory of | Sigismund Richardson, gent. and | merchant, | in all stations of life for his | amiable behaviour greatly | and justly esteemed. | He married Carew the eldest | daughter of Edward Short of | Litchfield in Staffordshire, | gent., | by whom he had two sons | and one daughter viz. John, | Sam^l, and Elizabeth. | He died Jan. 4, 1747, | aged xxxii.

On the north wall of the chancel on a stone painted like marble, with law books above :

Near to this place lie interred the remains | Mr Philip Ashley, attorney at law, | and steward to the Right Hon^{ble} Lord Eardley, | who died the 19 day of Dec^r 1794, | aged 50 years. | Vir bonus erat. | Also of Margaret the wife of the said | Philip Ashley | who died the 11 day of May 1788, | aged 47 years, | and of Mrs Levina Davey Foster | widow of Mr W^m Foster of Stamford | who died the 4th day of Sept^r 1793, | aged 56 years.

On a black stone in the chancel (R) :

M. S. | Radulphi Peirson Armigeri | qui obiit | 21 Martii A.C. 1711, | ætatis 65. | Item Susanna Peirson | uxoris suæ quæ obiit | 13 Febr^l A.D. 1713.

Near this there has been a brass of an inscription now gone.

Against the south wall, in the corner of the north aisle, a white marble monument with these arms under—Quarterly, 1st and 4th,

Argent, a double-headed eagle displayed sable [Stukeley]; 2nd and 3rd, Argent, two bars [sable] charged with six escallops of the field [Flete]; impaling—Sable, a chevron engrailed between three swans' heads erased argent [Squire]:

Here lieth the body of | Sarah Stukeley the widow of Adlard Stukeley late of | Holbeach, gent., | who died the thirty first day of | January 1730, | in the sixty eighth year of her age. | A mother who with every grace was blest | With all the ornaments of virtue drest | With whatsoe'er religion recommends | The best of wives of mothers and of friends | And tho' by death her body's turned to dust | 'Tis fitt we still commemorate the just | 'Twas here she did adore the highest Lord | Who to her soul great comfort did afford | 'Twas here she did with pleasure and content | Receive God's holy word & sacrament | Since then she loved this sacred place so well | 'Tis very meet that here her name should dwell.

On a monument of grey and white marble against the east wall of the north aisle, with the arms of Stukeley under, with this escucheon over—Argent, two talbots passant sable:

Sacred | to the memory of | Adlard Squire Stukeley, Esq., | for many years one of his | Majesty's Justices of the Peace | for these parts. | He died June the 13, 1768.

life the 15 day of Nov. | Anno Dom. 1711, | in the 46 year of his age.

On another flat stone :

Here lieth the body of Mrs Jane Ampleford | who departed this life the 3 day of October | 1700, | in the 39 year of her age. | Though for our loss we cannot chose but grieve | This comfort shall our passions yet receive | That Heaven is joyful and thy blessed state | Shall be a means our griefs to mitigate. |
O what a happy state it were if we | Had no more cause of sorrow but for thee.

On another flat stone partially rubbed (D) :

Here lieth the body | of Martha the wife | of John Bennet, clerk, | who departed this life | the 19 of July Anno | Dom.

A demi-lion rampant sable, holding (R) :

In memory of Elinor | the wife of Philip Ball, gen., | of this parish, and daughter of | Christopher Rands of South
Hyckham in the county of Lin | coln, deceased, ye 24 of
Jan. 1718, | aged 42 years. | Also Mary their daughter an | infant buried with her. | Say marble or at least weep out the praise | Of the deceased fairer her character | Than thy smooth polish. Pen of steel can nere | Her vertues write nor poets loftiest layes. | Pure as thy spotless gloss her love will shine | Both conjugal and filial and adorn | Thy monumental trophy. Never urn | Held mortal ashes truly more divine. | In her no place could envious censure find | Her generous birth nere to ambition fired | The beauties of her person but conspired | To enhance the charming beauties of her mind. | Innocent as the babe that caused her death. |
Her charity diffusive as the sun | And active equally. Tread lightly on | Her grave for such was she lyes underneath.

Below is a hand pointing to the stone underneath.

On the second pillar is a similar monument; above, the arms of Ball, impaling—Sable, a chevron between three lions' heads, erased or. Ball crest above (D) :

Near | this place lies interr'd | the body of Richard | Ball

tage thereof to the place | of his residence, | a laudable example for | posterity, he departed this | life June the 21, 1721, | ætat. 68.

A hand also here pointing down.

Against the west wall north of the tower this monument :

To the memory | of | Joseph Harrisson, esq., | who | departed this life | on the | 11 of Nov. 1809, | in the | 41 year of his age. | In the midst of life we are in death.

The arms under—Azure, a fleur de lis argent [for Harrison]. It is executed in yellow and white marble.

Under the preceding a white sarcophagus :

Charles Harrisson | of | Jesus College Cambridge | died the 9 of April 1825, | aged 22. | Weep not for him, in his spring time he flew | To that land where the wings of the soul are unfurled | And now like a star beyond evening's cold dew |
Looks radiantly down on the tears of this world.

On a black stone at the west end of the north aisle :

In memory of Jonathan Barnard, gent., | who departed this life the 13th of | April Anno Domini 1721, in the 28th | year

A similar one on the south corner of the arch, arms below—Azure, a chevron ermine, cotised or, between three martlets of the last [for Northon] (D) :

Near this place lie the remains | of Edward Northon, esq., | late major of the Royal South Lincolnshire Militia, | in which regiment he served upwards of thirty years. | He departed this life the 25th of April 1797, | aged 60 years. |
This monument is erected to his memory | by his affectionate and only sister Ann Buckworth | wife of Theophilus Buck-worth | of Spalding in this county.

This is a very beautiful church. The nave is separated from its two aisles by seven fine pointed arches springing from lofty clustered columns. The style of the church is of the Decorated period and the windows very handsome. The clerestory has fourteen. The arch to the tower is open and very lofty. The tower has a groined roof, and is surmounted by a spire. On the north side is a porch flanked at the entrance by two curious round towers. On the south side is another porch which has a very remarkable acute pointed arch, more so than any I remember to have seen. The spire is crocketed, and the whole church presents a beautiful example of the architecture of the reign of Edward III. At the west end of the north aisle is a very handsome altar tomb, on which is the recumbent figure of a knight clad in plate and mail, his hands clasped over his breast, with his feet resting upon a lion, and his hand upon what is apparently a crest, being the head and neck of a man clothed in a coif or garment of net work. Round the tomb are eight shields, viz.— , three lions passant [Littlebury]; and three bars ermine (Kirton), alternately. This monument is ascribed to a Sir Humphry Littlebury, and the arms are those of the family.

On a brass plate in the nave much rubbed is this inscription in the old character, now hardly legible. The parts, now obliterated, have however been preserved by an entry of one of the vicars in the register, in the third volume, on the flyleaf:

Orate pro anima [domine] Johanne Welby [quondam] filie Richardi [Leake], militis, [nuper uxoris Thome Welby, armigeri, que obiit xviii die mensis Decembris], an[no domini MCCCCLXXXVIII, cujus anime propicietur] deus, Amen.

There is a curious font in the church; it is octagon, supported on a pannelled basement, and raised by two steps from the ground. On each face of the top is the figure apparently of a saint, but too much mutilated to be discovered with certainty.

Holton Beckering

Notes taken in the church, 15 October, 1840—This is one of the handsomest churches in the prettiest village in this part of Lincolnshire. It is entered by a very handsome porch on the south side, with a Gothic doorway beautifully crocketed and lighted by side windows of three mullions. Carved outside on the stone wall of the church are two shields; one to the west of the porch bears—Three water bougets [? Roos]; impaling two lions passant; the other on the east, just where the nave joins the chancel, bears—Three water bougets; impaling—Checquy [Bekering]. Inside, the church consists of a nave divided from a north and south aisle by three pointed arches on each side, and a chancel. In the windows are some fragments of painted glass, and there are some old flat stones (D) which have had inscriptions, but now defaced.

Against the north wall of the north aisle is a marble tablet with these arms—Party per pale or and azure, on a chief gules three leopards' heads cabossed or [Caldecot]; impaling—Party per chevron engrailed gules and argent, three talbots' heads, erased counterchanged (Duncombe):

In memory of Gilbert Caldecot Esq^r | Colonel of the Royal North Lincoln Militia | who died July 6th, 1796, | aged 86 years. | Also of Thomas Caldecot, Esq., M.D.: F.A.S.: | who died at Bath January 15th 1802, | aged 63 years. | Also of | Sarah Caldecot daughter of Gilbert Caldecot Esq^r | and wife of Thomas Caldecot, | who died at Llanbedrog, Caernarvonshire, N. Wales, | January 9th 1825, aged 62 years.

This last monument is close to the vault of the Caldecot family which is under a chapel north of the chancel, and the roof of which causes the floor of this chapel to be elevated some feet above the flooring of the chancel. One stone in the north aisle has had a brass now gone.

On a marble tablet on the north side of the chancel:

Sacred to the memory of | Mary Margaret the beloved wife of the Rev. John Hale A.M. | rector of this parish, | who departed this transitory life on the 22 Feb. A.D. 1817, | aged 36 years. | Not more as a testimony of his sincere affection and regret | than solemnly to warn the thoughtless | that in the midst of life we are in death, | and to make known to posterity a singular pattern of | blameless and endearing manners and of every domestic virtue | her afflicted husband hath caused this | monument to be erected.

N.B. Mr. Hale rector of Holton gave me the following few particulars of the Caldecots, lords of Holton, whose place is close by and now tenanted by Mr Burton. Gilbert Caldecot had only one surviving daughter, his heir, by his wife who was a Duncombe of y^e present Lord Feversham's family. This daughter married contrary to her father's wish, a Dr Reid who took the name of Caldecot after Gilbert's death; by her he had issue, and his eldest son, the present Mr Caldecot, owner of Holton, married a daughter of Mrs Hale. Mrs (Reid) Caldecott, after her husband's death, remarried, at Bath, Mr Wm Lloyd Jones who married her for her money, and to whom the present Mr Caldecot pays £200 per An. to keep him from cutting down timber at Holton.

Holywell

Notes taken in the chapel, 16 July, 1834—This church contains no monumental memorial. It is prettily situated in the midst of trees in the park of General Reynardson and consists merely of a nave, and a tower at the west end supported on four arches. The door is of Norman character and curious. The east window is filled with pieces of old painted glass put together confusedly, and at the top are three shields. The first bears the arms of Reynardson viz.—Or, two chevrons engrailed gules, on a canton gules a mascle argent; crest—A tiger or leopard's head erminois, murally crowned or. The second bears Reynardson—impaling—Argent, on a chevron sable five horseshoes or; crest—A cameleopard statant chained or [Crispe]. The third is Reynardson—impaling—Three eagles displayed in fesse or; crest—An eagle displayed or [Wynne].

Howell

Notes taken in the church, August 11, 1834—This church consists of a nave and north aisle, divided by two round Norman arches resting on plain columns, a chancel, and north chapel, with a bell niche and gable double at the west end. The font is octagonal, with shields in quatrefoyls, the bearings that remain are :

- (1) [Or], a bend [azure] between six martlets [sable—Luttrell].
- (2) . . . a plain cross.
- (3) Ermine five fusills in fesse gules [Hebden]; impaling—Gules, a bend ermine [Rye].
- (4) Ermine five fusills in fesse [Hebden].
- (5) . . . , a chevron . . . between three chaplets.
- (6), (7), and (8) are effaced.

On the step leading to the altar are these words plainly to be perceived, 'Hic Deum adora'.

In a wall south of the altar are two square recesses going far back.

In the chapel north of the chancel, under a low arch in the north wall, is a stone with the half figure of a female, executed in the sunken style, in a wimple, with her hands clasped; a little lower on the stone is a similar figure of a smaller size, appearing to represent an infant, but on opening the tomb some ten years back the remains of two skeletons of equal size were found lying back to back.

Opposite to this is a mural monument of marble, much dilapidated, flanked by two Corinthian pillars, having the figures of a knight in half armour kneeling before a desk, with his lady opposite in a black plaited robe, veil, and ruff. The arms are effaced, and below the figures is this inscription in capitals in two columns :

- (1) Here lieth Sir Charles Dymoke of Howell, knight, | second son to Sr Edward Dymoke of Serielsby, | knight, Champion to y^e Crowne of England, w^{ch} Sr | Charles married Margaret widow to Mr Anthon : | Butler of Coates, esq., who also here lieth, | by whom first shee had five sonnes viz. | Charles, Will^m, Anthony, John, & Henry, & one | daughter Katherine, wife to Sr John Langton, | knight, & by Sr Charles had one dau'r | Bridget who died in | her infancy.
- (2) To whose memory | in grateful testimony of his love & | reverent respect Sr Edward Dymok, | knight, nephew to y^e sayd Sir Charles | hath made & erected | this monument.

There is no date nor do I see any place for one.

An old flat stone at the west end of the nave with this inscription round :

Hic iacet Ricardus Boteler de Howell qui obiit 2^o die mens'

Augusti anno domini MCCCCLVII et Matilda uxor eius que obiit VI die Januarii anno supradicto quorum animabus propicietur Deus.

Another stone in the chancel has this inscription round :

[Nicholaus de] Hebden miles qui mensis Aprilis a^o d'ni MCCCCXVI cuius anime propicietur Deus [blank] Katerina [blank] mensis Novembr' a^o d'ni MCCCCXXVII.

To the north of the last is another stone, but the inscription is effaced, and still more to the north is another stone which has on it, still legible, 'obiit xv die'; the rest is effaced.

Another further to the north is quite illegible.

A stone within the altar rails bears the figure of a priest in his canonicals cut on it; with this inscription round :

Hic iacet magister Joh'nes Croxby quondam rector istius ecclesie qui obiit die mensis a^o d'ni MCCCC . . . cuius anime propicietur Deus.

On a flat stone in the chancel in capitals :

Here lyeth | y^e body of Joseph | son of y^e Reverend | Mr Joseph Greenhill | & Catharine his | wife, he dep^d this | life Jan. y^e 12, | 1719.

In the possession of Edmund Brookes, esq., of Howell, is a fragment of painted glass which was dug up near his house; it bears two swords and two griffins' heads or. It is understood that they have no old register or records, they being taken away by the Dymoke family, as it is reported, about half a century ago.

Ingoldsby

Notes taken in the church, 30 July, 1833—

On a flat stone in the nave (R) :

Here lies the body | of Mr Fortunatus Hew- | et son of John Hewet, | gent., and Eliz. his wife | who died May the 21, 1701, ætat. 66.

The font is octagonal, with a shield on each side; but they are all plain except on the east, where is a chevron charged with three crosses botony.

Flat stone in the nave (R) :

Here lieth the | body of pious Mrs | Mary Paget who | was exalted to the | Great God and | Our Saviour Jesus | Christ on the day | of his Ascension | May 6th, 1725.

This church consists of a nave and two aisles, separated on the north by three Norman arches with round columns, on which are foliated capitals, and south by three pointed arches, a chancel, and a tower at the west end. Painted glass in the east window of the south aisle, and arms—Argent, a chief dancee azure [Nevile]. Argent, three cinquefoils azure. Very old north and south doors and old pewing.

On a black stone in the floor under the above monument:

✠ The Hon. Dorothy Thimelby | daughter to the Rt Hon^{ble} Robert | Lord Petre dyed the 9 of Dec^r | 1720, aged 86 years. and | is here interred. | Requiescat in pace.

On a similar black stone next to the last:

✠ John Thymelby, Esq., | the last heire male of his | ancient family died 25 | of June 1712, aged 78 years, | and is here interred. | Requiescat in pace.

On a white marble oval monument against the north wall of the chapel with these arms under—Per fesse argent and gules, a lion rampant per fesse sable and argent [Percy]:

Juxta sepelitur corpus | Gulielmi Percy ex antiqua | familia apud Stubs Walden | In agro Eboracensi obiit 18^o | Junii Anno Domini MDCCXIX | ætatis 59^o | Cui propitiatur Deus |

In memoriam charissimi patris sui | hoc posuit | Unica ejus
filia | Elizabetha Percy.

On a stone under the above monument :

Here | lyeth the body | of William Percy, gent., | who dyed
June y^e 18, | 1719.

On a stone also in the pavement of the north chapel :

✠ To the memory of | the Reverend | Mr Henry Brent | many years chaplain | to Lord and Lady | Arundell | who departed this life | the 9 day of January 1787, | aged 70. |
Requiescat in pace.

In the centre of the pavement is the brass of a knight under a canopy, with his feet on a lion, and this inscription in old character :

Hic jacet Andreas Loutrell miles dominus de Irnham qui obiit vi^{to} die Septembr' a^o domini millesimo ccc^o nonagesimo cuius anime propicietur Deus.

In the north aisle on a flat stone :

chaplain | to Lord and Lady | Arundell | at Irnham | who departed this life | on the 14 day of May 1797, | aged 60 years. |
Requiescat in pace.

On a flat stone in the middle of the nave :

Be it remembered | that the tomb stone | which was over the | remains here | interred of | S^r Andrew Lutterell | knight |
Lord of Irnham | who departed this | life in the year of | our Lord 1394 [sic], was | in 1788 removed into | the family chappell | in this church.

There is in the chancel the brass of a knight, but the lower part of the legs with the inscription are gone.

On the floor of the chancel :

✠ Her lyeth the body of | Edward Ignatius | Newton, esq., | who departed this life | the thirty first of January | 1795, | ætat. suæ 42.

A very handsome canopied tomb (R) still remains on the north side of the chancel. There are three ogee arches crocketted above, and adorned with pinnacles between. The fretwork is very beautiful, and in tolerable preservation. No figure or inscription.

An atchievement (D) against the south wall of the chapel—Quarterly, argent and sable, a label gules for difference [Conquest] ; impaling—Azure, on a chief or, a demi lion gules, with a border argent [Markham]. Crest—apparently a tree but torn.

In the chapel north of the chancel, against the south wall, is a handsome monument of yellow and white marble ; at the top a medallion in basso relievo of Faith, Hope, and Charity, this inscription below in capitals :

Benedict Conquest of Irnham | in the county of Lincoln, Esq., | ob : the 27 of October 1753 æt. 45. | And Mary his wife daughter of | Thomas Markham of Ollerton | in the county of Nottingham, Esq., | ob. the 2^d of February 1745, æt. 38.

Upon another white slab below also in capitals :

Stop and attentive view this scene of death | Another lies this hallowed earth beneath | Happy in virtue calm resigned serene | Tho' doomed by sickness to a life of pain | A father lies whom rich whom poor approved | In death lamented as in life beloved | Five children once to bless their lives were given | Two rapt in infant innocence to Heaven | Two more Thus God resumed the gifts he gave | Met just in opening youth an early grave | One only one remains with weeping eye | The spot to point out where their relics lie | Christina pays this duty to their fame | And marks the marble with a parents name | Hail shades for ever honoured lov'd & mourn'd | Tho' what was dust be now to dust returned | All is not dead, gone is the vital breath | But virtue lies immortal e'en in death | Blest are those hearts which felt the poor mans woe | Those eyes whence charity taught tears to flow | And tongues which once could misery beguile | Make orphans happy and the widow smile | Rest here, cries hope, in mercy rest secure | Parents of Arundell and of the poor.

On a white marble monument against the south wall of the chapel above is a woman weeping over an urn :

✠ | D. O. M. | Near this place | are deposited the remains | of the honourable | Maria Christina Arundell | eldest daughter and coheir of | Henry Lord Arundell, 8th Baron of Wardour | and Count of the Sacred Roman Empire, | by Maria Christina only daughter and heir | of Benedict Conquest, Esq., of Irnham Hall | in this county. | She married February 3rd, 1785, James Everard | eldest son of the honourable Everard Arundell | by Ann only daughter and heir of John Windham, Esq., | of Ashcombe in the county of Wilts. | After a long and painful illness | she closed a life of charity benevolence and virtue | by a pious death February 14, 1805, | aged 40 years. | She hath opened her hand to the needy | And stretched out her hand to the poor. | The woman that feareth the Lord | She shall be praised. Proverbs chap. 31. | Requiescat in pace. | Henry Lord Arundell dying Dec. 4, 1809, | was succeeded in his titles | by James Everard Arundell, Esq., | now ninth Lord Arundell of Wardour | who erects this monument | to the memory of | his deceased Maria.

On a neat marble tablet below :

rest broken).

(MS vii, 153-165.)

Kirkby Laythorpe

Notes taken in the church, 16 August, 1836—This church consists of a nave and north aisle, resting on four Early English arches, which spring from plain round columns, a chancel divided from the nave by a small screen, a tower at the west end. The font is octagonal, of a pattern similar to that at Evedon, but the bearings of the shields are defaced. In the east window of the north aisle is the following coat of arms—Azure, a chevron between three trefoyles, slipped or [Sleaford]. In one of the nave windows are some slight remains of painted glass. A few of the steps to the rood loft yet remain, and some ancient benching. The arches lean excessively northwards, and are supported by props.

A brass plate in the window sill south of the chancel in capitals :

Here lyeth y^e body of y^e learned & pious | Tho: Meriton,
B:D:, late rector of this | church, & Asgarby. & prebend of y^e church | of Lincoln | donor of a charitable bequest to y^e poore | of each parish, also y^t of his birth for ever. | He married Elizabeth Pearks of a good family | in Worcestershire, by whom he had | one only son who, dying in his infancy, | was here also interd July y^e XI, MDCLXXXIII. | He lived belov'd & reverenc'd for his great learning | and exemplary vertue; & dyed y^e XIIth of Jan^y An'o Domini | MDCLXXXV, in y^e XXXXVIIIth yeare of his age, much la- | mented, especially by his deare & loving wife, who | cavs'd this inscription in memory of him.

Another on the opposite side of the window :

Resurgemus. | depositum Mariæ | conjugis chariss. Jacobi |
Adamson de Sleaford | filiæ Roberti Garland | hujus eccl'ie
nuper rectoris | obiit VII Augvsti | MDCLVII.

A plain black tablet on the east wall south of the altar (R) :

In memory | of Gascoigne son of the | Rev^d Mr Gascoigne
Wright | and Penelope his wife | who died July 31st. 1767. |
aged 22.

Under the altar is a large stone which has had on it two half length figures, an inscription and shield in brass, all now gone.

A flat stone in the north aisle :

Here lyeth y^e body of | Robert son of Robert | and Dorothy Sanderson, their | third son, who deceased | Feb. y^e 13, 1722.

Another to the east of the last :

Here | lyeth the body of | Faith Sanderson the | wife of Robert San | derson who departed | this life Janu. the 19, | 1704.

At the west end of the north aisle a flat stone, with the following inscription round the edge, much rubbed :

Here lyeth the | body of Master Thomas Pylate who | departed this | life March y^e 14 (the rest effaced).

Another flat stone, more to the east, in capitals, rubbed :

Here lyeth y^e body | of Mr John C . . . it | who departed this life | March y^e . . , 1688.

On a flat stone by the south door is this inscription in capitals round the edge :

Here lyeth the body of Christian late wife of Mr Georg Sanderson who departed this life Decem. y^e 11, 1681.

There is another stone on the step of the door, but it is too much defaced to be decyphered.

Another flat stone in the north aisle :

Here lyeth y^e body of | Robert y^e son of Robert & | Dorothy Sanderson | who deceased [December 12] | 1720.

Kirkby Underwood

Notes taken in the church, 29 July, 1833—

On a wooden tablet against the north wall :

Whereas some well disposed person did formerly give | to the parish of Kirkby Underwood the sum of £32 | to remain a town stock for ever, the interest thereof | to be distributed by the discretion of the overseer to | the poor of this parish 20 shillings, part of the said | interest to be given on Xmas day yearly and 12 shillings | the residue on Easter day. This inscription was in | the year of our Lord MDCCLV made and in this | church affixed for the better establishing and perpetuating | the said charity. The Rev^d John Jones, LL.B. rector | Rev^d Charles Hyett A.M. curate &c. | Generous benefactor that did this gift bestow | Altho' forgot nor we thy name do know | Yet in those happy realms above thou'rt known & blest | In the peaceful mansions of eternal rest.

The church is small and poor. It consists of a chancel, rebuilt in 1826, a nave and south aisle, supported by three pointed arches with clustered columns. There appears to have been once a north aisle from an arch which is left built up in the north wall. A tower at the west end with a pinnacle at each angle. Font, octagon. Many old benches in the church. It contains no monumental memorial whatever.

Kirton in Holland

Notes taken in the church of Kirton, 4 August, 1834—This is a very beautiful church. It consists of a nave divided from its aisles by six lofty pointed arches and pillars, a chancel, and tower at the west end, with a south porch. It has once been larger, having two transepts and the tower at the intersection, but in 1820 they were pulled down, and the tower rebuilt at the west end. The font is octagon, handsome, pannelled with shields in niches, having this inscription on the basement stone in the old character :

Orate pro anima Alani Burton qui hanc fontem fieri fecit
A.D. MCCCXV.

The altar piece is a painting of the Adoration of the Magi, but is by no means excellent. On a pew in the nave on the south side are these arms— , a bend of three mascles . . . ; crest—A demy swan [? Browne].

A grey and white marble pyramidal monument against the wall north of the chancel, surmounted by an urn, with this inscription in capitals :

Near this place | are deposited the remains | of William
Watson gent. | who departed this life | February 1, 1805, | in the 73 year | of his age. | Also of Mrs Mary Watson | the relict | of William Watson gent. | with whom she lived | in the happiest union | forty nine years | and having for a short time | survived him | she passed from | this vale of mortality |
December 14, 1805, | aged 70 yeares.

A stone tablet to the west with an inscription on a black marble slab :

Near this place | are deposited the remains | of Jane wife of | Edw. Watson gent. | She departed this life | on the 27 day of May | A.D. 1806 | Ann. Ætat. 34.

A white marble tablet against the south wall of the chancel with these arms below—Azure, a chevron between three escallops, within a bordure all or [Colby] :

Near this place lyeth | Dixon Colby M.D., | ob^t 21 Nov.
1756 | ætat. suæ 77, | and likewise | Elizabeth his wife | ob^t
21 Oct. 1739 | ætat. suæ 59.

A blue flat stone in the floor partly hid by a pew, the inscription in capitals :

Samuel Bridg son of Step . . . | Bridg departed this life

May 1, 1787, æt. 39.

Christopher Footit who died March 10, 1805, æt. 19.

Robert Stow who died 31 Jan^y 1738, æt. 29.

A black tablet records that Mr Joseph Turner who died Dec^r 9, 1743, gave by his will £3 to be distributed yearly to the poor, half on Good Friday, half on St Thomas' day. He also gave a silver flagon for the service of the altar.

The church consists of a nave divided from its two aisles by four pointed arches on each side. The columns on the north side are round, with the exception of one which is octagon with a capital ornamented with birds and beasts. On the south side the pillars are octagon. The tower is of Early English, with lancet windows, and a door with toothed mouldings. Two low arched doors lead from the tower into the nave. There is a good screen of the Perpendicular style before the chancel, but the chancel has been fitted up in extremely bad taste. The east window has been blocked up by an altar piece attempted in the Italian style, gaudily painted, the capitals of the pillars gilded. The table of common wood painted in imitation of stone, and at the back of it, between the columns, the panel is painted like a curtain, not unlike the drop scene of a theatre. The roof of the chancel is unceiled, except over the altar which has a sort of canopy or half ceiling over it, painted blue. The whole indeed is in miserable taste. The font is extremely plain with an octagon top.

Laceby

Notes taken in the church, 29 August, 1835—

On a flat stone (R) in the chancel, within the altar rails; arms cut above—A griffin segreant. Crest—A demi griffin [Battell]:

Here lieth the body of | Ralph Battell, clerk, A.M., | late rector of Somersby | and Bag Enderby who | died the 9 of February 1780, | in the 83 year of his age. | Resurgam.

On an old stone (R) in the chancel, with inscription round the verge, partly hid by the step to the Communion table:

Robertus Laund qui obiit xx die Augusti A' D'ni MCCCCXXVII.

On a marble tablet on the north side of the chancel (R):

John Holmes | ob. 4 April | 1788, | æt. 40. | He was true &
just in all his dealings, | a social companion, | and the poor man's friend. | Also | Katharine Holmes | wife of the above |
ob. Feb. 6, 1798, | aged 63.

At the west end of the north aisle on a stone (R) in a pew there is an inscription to Nathaniel Taylor, who died 26 May 1808, æt. 64, and Sarah his wife who died July 16, 1825, æt. 79 years.

Also on a flat stone in the north aisle an inscription to Frances wife of Joseph Nainby, who died 22 March 1804, aged 76. Also to Joseph Nainby who died 6 April 1786, aged 64.

On a flat stone within the altar rails (R):

Here lyeth the body of | Jonathan Winship A.M. | late rector of this parish and | vicar of Grassby who died | the 25 January 1783, | aged 46 years. | This stone is placed | in grateful remembrance | of a tender husband | by his affectionate wife | Thomazyn daughter of the | Rev^d Ralph Battle. | Resurgam. | Also the body of Thomasyn | Winship his widow who died | 30 January 1799, aged 66.

A flat stone in the chancel (R):

In | memory of | Vincent Grantham Esq. | the last male heir of the | Grantham family who | died the 10 of December | 1758, in the 66 year of | his age.

This church consists of a nave, and north aisle resting on five arches, the middlemost of which is a fine Norman one ornamented with the embattled and chevron mouldings. It is altogether a handsome specimen of that style, and is singularly placed as the two on each side of it are pointed. There is a chancel, and a tower at the west end. The font is octagonal with shields in quatrefoyles. There seem to have been aisles to the chancel, as on the north side are two blocked up arches, one of which opens into the vestry, and another has a door in it; and on the south side a similar low arch. At the west end is a small organ.

Langton by Wragby

Notes taken in the church, 13 October, 1840—This is a good old church with modernised windows ; it is not ceiled, has a handsome tower, and consists of nave and chancel. It is entered at the west under the tower. There are four ancient stones (D) in the nave which have had inscriptions, but now defaced, and there is one modern stone (D) in the chancel, also defaced.

On a black flat stone (D) in the chancel under the Communion table, with these arms cut in on three shields—(1) the centre bears—Semée of cross crosslets, three cinquefoils (Saltmarsh) ; (2) the dexter has—Saltmarsh, impaling—A chevron between three lions rampant [Blythe] ; (3) the sinister—Saltmarsh, impaling—On a chevron three martlets, with this inscription under (D) :

Here lieth the body of | Anthony Saltmarsh of Strubby | in this parish, esq., who departed | this life y^e ninth of June, [16]75, | in the 34th year of his age. | He had two wives, the first Jane | daughter to W^m Blythe of Stroxtan | in this county, esq., his second wife | Elizabeth daughter of Michael | Anne of Broughwallis in the county | of York, esq. She dyed March y^e 28, | 1672, and lyes buried under this stone. | This stone is laid in their memories by | Robert Saltmarsh their obliged kinsman.

On another stone (D) before the altar rails :

Here lieth the body of Will. Jenkinson son | of William Jenkinson, gent., | and Jane his wife | who departed this life Dec. y^e 6, 1726, | in the 9th year of his age.

On the east wall of the chancel north of the Communion table is a neat marble monument with the arms of Saltmarsh above—Argent, semée of crosslets gules three cinquefoils of the second [Saltmarsh]; and on the dexter side of the inscription is—Saltmarsh, impaling—Quarterly or and gules, over all a bend sable, charged with three water bougets argent [for Eure]. On the sinister side—Saltmarsh, impaling—Argent, on a chevron sable three quatrefoils or [Eyre]. In capitals :

Nere this place lyeth the body of William | Saltmarsh of Strubbie in y^e countie of Lincoln, | esq. whoe in y^e 36 yeare of his age married | Barbara the ladie and relict of S^r Peter Evre | of Washingbrooke in the sayd countie of Lincolne, | kt: by whome he had issue Edward, Tho', William, | Anthony, Elizabeth, Ann & Barbara, Barbara only | surviveing was married to William Godferey of | Thoneoke, Esq. and left issue to him William and | Barbara Godferey, the Ladie Evre dying in | An^o. 1642 He married Martha Eyre daughter | of Anthonie Eyre of Rampton in y^e Countie | of Nottingham, esq. and by her had one | only daughter named Iane, and beinge aged | 80 yeares was on the 4th of October An^o 1657, | to the Glorie of his God & in y^e good esteeme | of all good men, honorably interred. | To whose memorie his beloved wife | erected this memoriall.

Laughton by Gainsborough

Notes taken in the church of Laughton, 5 September, 1835—

An altar tomb at the east end of the south aisle, but it has been removed there, as it formerly stood in the centre of it. On it the arms of Dalison—Three crescents, on a canton five escallops; impaling—A lion rampant [? for Deane]; with this inscription in church text cut under in stone:

*Hanc tumbam fieri fecit Willelmus Dalison pium in patrem
gerens affectum | filius secundus huius hic humati Willelmi
ac unus Justiciariorum dominorum Philippi | regis et Marie regine ad placita coram illis tenenda anno domini MCCCCCLVI.*

On the table stone is this inscription in brass:

*Hic jacent Willelmus Dalison armiger quondam vicecomes et eschætor comitatus | Lincoln' ac unus Justiciariorum
pacis & quorum in eodem comitatu et Georgius Dalison | filius et heres eiusdem Willelmi. Qui quidem Willelmus obiit decimo octavo die mensis | Decembris anno domini MCCCCXLVI et a^o regni nuper regis Henrici octavi XXXVIII | et dictus
Georgius obiit XX die mensis Junii Anno domini MCCCCXLIX & anno | regni nuper regis Edwardi sexti tertio quorum animarum propicietur Deus Amen.*

Above on the same slab is the figure in brass of a man in armour under a canopy, and at the side of the tomb under the first inscription mentioned is this coat—Three crescents on a canton five escallops [Dalison]; impaling—An antelope tripping, on a chief two crosslets fitch [Dighton]. Over the tomb is a wooden tablet on which are painted three coats; and as the sinister side is occupied by one coat, whereas the other two divide the dexter between them, it appears like the arms of a wife impaled with two husbands. The first on the dexter side is—Gules, three crescents or, on a canton ermine five escallops of the 2nd [Dalison]. The second is—Sable, on a chevron argent five escallops between three lions or [James]; the coat on the sinister half is—Azure an antelope tripping argent, on a chief gules two crosses pate fitch or [Dighton]

Over the above tomb, but it is doubtful whether belonging to it, is the bust (R) of a female in a circular recess with chincloth and wimple, and her arms clasped, and above her is a stone bracket (R) supported by a head and two hands upraised.

On a white marble tablet against the east wall of the chancel (R):

Sacred | to the memory of | Thomas Everatt | of Laughton | who departed this life Oct^r 24, 1828, | aged 57 years.

On a black flat stone in the chancel:

Here lies the remains | of | Philip Wilkinson esq. | son of
Philip Wilkinson esq. of Hull | and of Elizabeth Helena
Beverweek | of an antient family in Holland. | He was born at Amsterdam | and died at Laughton | May the 17, 1768, | aged 70 years. | His half sister Jane Wilkinson | daughter of the above Philip Wilkinson | and of Elizabeth daughter of Richard Buck esq. | the unhappy survivor of all her family | placed this in remembrance of him.

On a stone in the chancel (R):

Underneath | this stone are deposited | the remains of John | son of the late Rev. I. | Cheeseborough incumbent | of Stoke near Chester | who departed this life | January the 22, 1830, |
in the 21 year of his | age.

There is an old stone in the chancel, but all that can be decyphered is round the verge (R):

. Joh^s Dalison iti

The church consists of two aisles, and a nave separated from them by four arches, those on the north side circular, those on the south side pointed. There is a large pointed arch between the nave and chancel, and a place for holy water remains on the south side of the Sacrament table. The tower is at the west end. The font is octagon, ornamented with quatrefoils and shields and a hollow moulding round the rim. There was some painted glass in the east window, but removed to Messingham by Dr. Bayly.

Labington

Notes taken in the church, 30 July, 1833—

A most magnificent and elaborate monument of alabaster stone against the north wall of the chancel, and reaching nearly to the ceiling. It consists of two tiers, each tier decorated by three elegant Corinthian columns dividing it in two compartments, the whole surmounted by a rich carved pediment. In the compartments of the upper tier are these inscriptions in capitals:

(1) Fide conjugali | secundum Christi redemptoris | adventum

Chr. Beresforde | of Fulbeck, | Esq.

A very elegant monument against the north wall of the chancel, being a Gothic arch, angels supporting it from under ; the arms are—Gules, a chevron between three lions' paws erased argent, on a chief of the second an eagle displayed sable [Brown] ; impaling —Azure, a chevron ermine between three swans argent [Swan].

The inscription in Gothic character :

Charlotte | wife of the Rev^d Tho^s Brown | rector of this church, | and daughter of | the Rev^d Francis Swan and | Maria his wife, | died April XXVII, | MDCCCXXXI.

On a black stone in the chancel, the arms cut above—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, A bear rampant chained [Beresford] ; 2nd, Per chevron . . . and . . . three pheons [Hassal] ; 3rd, A saltier engrailed [Tyringham] :

Here lyeth the body of | Christopher Beresford of this parish
Esq. | the only Son of William Beresford | late of this parish,
Esq., and Jane his wife, | only daughter of John Tying-ham | of Lower Winchendon in the county of Bucks, Esq. |
He was a youth blest with | a sprightly Genius, | a lively wit and | an early good sense : | All which were so crown'd with | a natural sweetness of temper, | a pious sense of every duty and | a thorough virtuous disposition : | and so happily placed | in the best way of improvement, | that he greatly promised, in his future life | to add to the honors of | the ancient families from whence he sprung : | and to be, in an eminent degree, | of ornament and service to his country. |
But as it pleased God without further proof, | to take him to himself : | his mournful mother | bore this sudden and severe tryal | with an amazing steadiness, | which only religion could support : | and piously submitting to the will of Heaven, | placed this stone for him and herself. | He died Mar : 23,
MDCCXL, | in the 16 year of his age.

A white marble monument at the entrance to the chancel on the north side, these arms above—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Argent, two bends wavy sable [Key] ; 2nd and 3rd, Argent, three lions' paws erased, in a border azure [Brown] :

Near | this entablature lie the remains | of William Key | late of Nottingham, gent. : , | who died May 1 : 1752, aged 64. | He was a most tender husband, | a most indulgent father, | and a most sincere friend ; | and to every person with whom conversant, | affable, courteous, and benevolent. | He was ever steady to his principle, | a zealous defender of the church, | a strenuous assertor of Liberty : | but what was above all | (and must ever prove most worthy imitation, | and be revered by posterity) | He liv'd and dy'd, | not only in profession, but also in practice, | a truly religious, and sincere Christian.

On a similar monument exactly opposite on the south side with the same arms over :

Near | this entablature lie the remains | of Ellis Key | son of William and Ann Key | late of Nottingham | who died Dec^r 25 : 1756, | aged 37.

On a flat black stone in the nave, arms quarterly of Key :

Legsby

Notes taken in the church of Legesby, 14 October, 1840—The church is a tolerable size, but thatched, except the chancel. It consists of a nave, south aisle, and chancel ; there is a covered porch on the south side. The font, which is plain, has sunk down on one side.

On the east wall of the chancel is a tablet with this inscription (R) :

Near | this place lie | the remains of | William Branston
Gen^t | who died Nov^r 19, 1778. | Also of | Leah his widow | who died July 17, 1806, | aged 81.

In the aisle there have been some old stones ; one has had a small brass plate, but now gone ; and another has had an inscription round the edge, too much worn to be decipherable.

(MS ix, 227-228.)

Limber Magna

Notes taken in the church, 30 August, 1835—

On a tablet against the south wall of the chancel (R) :

4 months. | In memory of the Rev^d | Mr Richard Mattison, clerk, | who departed this life | May 5, 1762, aged 29 years.

This is a handsome church; it consists of a nave and aisles, a chancel, a tower at the west end, with a modern south porch. The nave and aisles rest upon three pointed arches on each side, rising from clustered columns. The arches by which the nave is divided from the tower and chancel are pointed. The chancel is of Early English style, and the east window is lancet of two lights. The roof seems to be in its original state, of very handsome oak. The windows on its north side are lancet, on the south side Decorated. The roof of the nave is also open to the timbers, but it has been lowered. The font is a plain octagon. The tower is a handsome one of Perpendicular style; it contains three bells. On the south of the altar is a double piscina, one arch being ogee the other round. There remains the old benching with which all the church is filled up, and it is kept in very good order. The east end of the south aisle is used for a school.

Maria 7 Agnes quondam uxores Joh'is Chilton, que quidem Maria obiit anno Domini MCCCCIII 7 Agnes obiit A' Domini MVC quarum animabus Deus omnipotens misereatur.

There were two female figures engraved on the stone, but the heads have been erased by the inscription to Rachel Wimberley.

In the middle aisle is a black stone, most probably to one of the Parkes, but almost quite concealed by the pulpit stairs. All that remains is "Heare lyes Mrs Dorothy deceas . ."

On an old stone in the south aisle partly hid by a pew :
. . . jacet Tome Harcroft qui obiit xxii die mensis Octobris
Ano Domini MCCCC^o xxij. cuius anime propicietur D^s amen.

This inscription is round the verge and the figure of a man in the centre.

A white marble monument against the south wall of the chancel, these arms over— , a pale of lozenges [Danyell] ;
crest—A horse's head erased . . . :

To the memory | of Austine Danyell, gent., | whose body is of his age.

A lozenge-shaped stone under the pulpit (D) :

Here | lieth the body | of William Coxon, | gent., from the parish | of Caythorpe in this County. | He was nephew and heir unto Mr | John Robinson, gent., of Fulbeck in | the said county, and departed this | life at his habitation in this parish | on the 11 day of Aug^t 1726, | in the 18 year of his age.

A flat stone in the north aisle in capitals (D) :

Here lieth | Joseph and John | y^e sonnes of William | and
Jane Nicholas, | they died infants | Anno 1661 & 1665.

This church is built partly of brick, but old. It consists of a nave divided from each aisle by four pointed arches with plain columns, a chancel, with a plain tower and spire at the west end ;
the steps of the rood loft still remain on the north side of the arch entering the chancel. The pulpit is of very handsome old oak, said to have been presented by the celebrated Dr Busby. The font is octagonal on a plain basement of two divisions parted by rosettes. It has a large oak cover. There are many remains of old pewing about the church.

Mablethorpe

Notes taken in the church, August 18, 1835—

In the centre of the chancel floor a figure of a female in brass (R), with this inscription under, in church text, also on brass :

Here lieth Elisabeth dowghter of George Fitzwilliam of | Malberthorp, Esquier, wich George married Elizabeth dowghter | of S^r Thomas Barneston of great Coot', knight, the said Elisabeth | the younger decessed the iiij day of May the yere of o^r Lord God | m^o ccccc^o xxii On whose soule Jh'u have mercy, Amen.

On a stone (R) in the middle aisle, which has had shields at the corners, but now all gone, this inscription in brass in church text :

Hic jacet Thomas Fitzwilliam Armiger | qui obiit primo die
Novemb' Anno d'ni m^o | ccccc^o iii^o cuius anime propicietur
Deus Amen.

North of the altar in the north wall is an altar tomb of stone with a canopied recess, in which have been figures of brass, labels, inscriptions and shields, all now gone ; in fact the monument itself till lately has been so obscured with whitewash, two inches thick, that the beauty of the carving and freshness of the stone is quite destroyed. Over it hangs a fragment of an old helmet which has also suffered from the mania for whitewash, being deeply cased therewith. In the tomb, when it was cleaned, were found several bones and a skull with six teeth yet remaining.

Below is a large flat stone having a brass with this inscription in old letters :

Here lieth George Fitzwilliam, knight, son of Thomas Fitzwilliam | of Malberthorpe, knight, wiche George dyed y^e
xixth day of y^e moneth of | September in y^e yere of o^{ur} Lorde
God a. m ccccc xxxvi, on whos sowle | Jhesu have mercy,
Amen.

There have been two shields above the inscription and one below.

On a flat stone in the nave (R), a brass plate with this in old character :

Hic jacet Elizabetha nuper uxor Thome Fitzwilliam | et filia Joh'is Askt que obiit nono die Junii Anno D'ni |
m^occcc iiij cuius anime propicietur Deus, Amen.

Below are two shields. The dexter one—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, . . . , a chevron . . . , within a bordure . . . entoyre of roundles [for Mablethorpe]; 2nd and 3rd, Two bars engrailed [Stayne]; impaling— . . . , three barrulets . . . , an annulet for difference [Aske]. The sinister one (D) bears—Quarterly, 1st, Three barrulets an annulet for difference [Aske]; 2nd and 3rd, . . . , five fusils in fesse.

This church consists of a nave and aisles divided by four pointed arches, a chancel, and a low tower at the west end. South of the altar are three stone stalls.

Marsh Chapel

Notes taken in the church, 17 August, 1833—

Over the south door is the following inscription cut on the stone :

Orantibus in loco isto Dimitte Domine peccata.

Over the north door of the entrance is cut this in the stone :

Non est hic aliud nisi domus Dei et porta celi.

On the wood of the north door is carved (D) :

Ano D'ni | 1606 Walter Harpham Es.

On a stone at the east end of the north aisle round the edge (R) :

*Hic jacet Johanna uxor Wyllelmi Cowper sexto die Martii
a. domini MCCCCVII^o cujus anime propicietur deus amen.*

On a partially defaced stone to the west of the last (D) :

. Willelmus Cowper de Sout Stockwith qui obiit MCCCC eu

On another old stone near the last, very much defaced (D) :

. acet. Thomas Garbara

On another only the date is decypherable (D) :

"MCCCCVI."

And on another the inscription is thus far legible (D) :

Hic jacet Joh'es Pepyson qui obiit vi die

Against the south wall of the chancel is a small white marble monument. In two recesses formed by a pillar are the kneeling figures of a gentleman in a gown and ruff, and his lady opposite before a desk; at her feet a child. The heads of the man and child are gone. Above are the arms— , a mullet , in base a fleur de lis [Harpham]; at the top is an hour glass. Below the figures is this inscription in capitals on a black slab :

To the sacred memorie of | Walter Harpham, gent., & Anne his wife whoe lived & | died in God's feare & favour. He
March the 23, 1607, aged | 60 years, She March the 15, 1617, aged 76, and had issue | Alice married to Tho. Phillips, gent :
who by him had | issue Willoughby whoe died childlese, and
Eliz. | married to William Wesled gent : & by him had issue |
7 sones & 3 daughters and by Chr : Broxholme, gent., | her
2^d husband had issue one sone, and died | July the 20, 1628,
aged 33 years.

On a flat stone in the chancel (R) :

In memory of | Mary the daughter of | John and Mary Loft | who departed this life | May the 2d, 1794, | aged five months.

Marton

Notes taken in the church of Marton, 15 September, 1835—This church consists of a nave and aisles, the north divided by two round arches and columns having foliated capitals, and the south by two pointed ones springing from plain octagonal pillars and capitals. The chancel is divided by a plain Norman arch, and has had a north aisle now used as a vestry ; it is divided from it by a Norman arch. The chancel seems to have been lately modernised. The windows of the rest of the church are perpendicular. In the churchyard is the shaft of a cross.

A flat stone in the nave :

In memory | of Hall Bellamy who departed | this life January
17, 1799, | aged 53 years. | Also Mary wife of the above | who died August 8, 1795, | aged 38 years.

A flat stone in the chancel (R) :

In memory of Rob't | Banks who died the 21 | day of August in the year | of our Lord 1748, aged | 51 years. | To speak
Thy praise let this suffice | Thou wast a loving husband discreet and wise | Till death did ease thee of thy pain | I hope in Heaven we shall meet again.

(MS vii, 145-146.)

Messingham

Notes taken in the church, 11 September, 1835—This church has been greatly repaired and ornamented by Archdeacon Bayley, the late rector. It consists of a nave, and aisles which rest on four pointed arches on each side ; a chancel ; and a pinnaced tower at y^e west end. The east window is perpendicular of three lights, and is filled with old painted glass taken from other churches. There are several shields—(1) Gules, four fusils in fesse argent, a border engrayled or [Nevile] ; (2) the same ; (3) Gules, four fusils in fesse argent, a label of five azure [Nevile] ; (4) Argent, two bars gemelles, and a chief sable, a border engrayled gules. The remainder of the window is filled up with figures of saints, and very handsome ; two more shields of the fusils, and some modern bordering. The east window of the south aisle has also painted glass filling it, in which are two shields—(1) Or, a cross engrayled between four martlets . . . , partly broken ; (2) Quarterly argent and sable, a cross flory pierced counterchanged.

The other windows of the chancel have a few pieces in them of antient and modern glass, as also most of the windows in the church. The font is modern, octagon, small, with a shaft of the same plan, and a carved oak cover. It stands in the centre of the chancel. The pulpit is very handsome, of carved oak made from a clock case in Lincoln Minster. The reading desk and clerk's desk are also made from very fine old carved oak stalls from the church of Althorpe in Axholme. A full description of the painted glass in the windows, and from whence each piece came, also of the pulpit, etc., is to be found in the register of the church.

A white marble tablet against the north wall of the chancel :

Sacred | to the memory of | Francis Roadley | son of | Richard
& Mary Roadley | who departed this life | December 12,
1796, | in the 25th year | of his age.

On another near to the last :

Sacred to the memory of | Richard Roadley | who died
March 10th, 1812, aged 71 years, | of Mary his wife | who died
January 28th, 1781, aged 38 years, | of Mary Roadley his sister | who died January 18th, 1808, aged 77 years, | And of | Sarah, Carr, John, and Sarah | children of R. and M. Roadley | who died in their infancy.

A brass plate against the wall of the south aisle in capitals :

In spe Resurrectionis. | Here lyeth interred the bodies of Martin Gravyner, | gent: and Effam his wife who lived in y^e Consecrated | estate of matrimonye 36 yeares, and had issue | eight children, viz. 2 sonnes & 6 daughters, which |
Martin died y^e 2 of June 1616, and the said Effam y^e | 3
of Sept. 1616. | (A crowned skull) Veni uidi uici. | Thus Death tryumphs and tells us all must die | Thus we tryumph by death to Christ to flye | To live to die ; is not to die but live |
To die to bliss is blessed life to give | Aske how they lived and thov shalt know their ends | They dyed saintes to God ;
to Poore true friends.

A black marble monument to the west of the last :

Sacred to the memory | of the late Rev^d John Ferrand, M.A., | who was vicar of this parish near 28 years | and died Jan^y 16, 1759, aged 52, | not to mention the several parts of his private | character which was remarkably amiable and | exemplary, he was a truly pious and judicious | Divine, an able and instructive preacher, | faithful and diligent in the discharge of his | ministerial functions, and being possessed of | an handsome fortune and happy in a good | understanding with a peculiar sweetness | and evenness of temper, was not only | extremely liberal to the distress'd, | but also a great promoter of peace and charity | and very successful in reconciling differences | among contending neighbors, | and as he was deservedly beloved so he died | greatly lamented by all that knew him. | He married Mary daughter of Thomas Hatchett | of Southwell, Esq., and Mary his wife, | by whom he had | Gerard Thomas born 2^d Dec^r 1751, now living. | John born 2 Sept. 1753, died 11 Oct. 1753, Mary born 27 July 1755, died 10 Aug. 1758, both interred near him.

A marble monument to the west, these arms under—Per fesse gules and argent, in chief three crosses flory or [Ferrand]:

Near this place | are deposited the remains of | Mrs Mary Ferrand relict of | the Rev^d John Ferrand | late vicar of this parish. | Also of Gerrard Thomas Ferrand, Esq., | their only son. | She died at Cambridge Jan^y 2, 1776, | aged 55 years. | He died at Bristol July 10, 1779, | aged 27 years. | They were possessed of all the virtues and | affections which could possibly adorn the | characters of the parent and son. | This monument | was erected by Stephen Ferrand, Esq: | as a testimony of his respect | to the memory of his | sister and nephew.

A white marble tablet against the east end of the south aisle:

To the memory of | Mr Thomas Raven | who departed this life | the 15th of May 1800, | in the 49 year | of his age.

A flat stone on the floor of the south aisle:

In memory of | Richard Gravenor | of this parish who died | December the 23, 1778, | aged 48 years. | Also of Elizabeth wife of | the above who died at | Edwinstowe in the county | of Nottingham | May the 26th, 1815, | aged 82 years.

On a flat stone in the nave:

Sacred | to the memory of | the Rev^d Edward Horden | vicar of this parish | 26 years | who died 28 April 1811, | aged 56 years.

Minting

Notes taken in the church, 12 October, 1840—The church of Minting is a small old building consisting of a chancel, nave, and north aisle, the nave being separated from the aisle by three Saxon arches with clustered columns. There is a small piece of painted glass (D) in the window of the north aisle which appears to bear a portcullis or, but it is only a fragment. The chancel is divided off by a carved Gothic screen and before the altar is an old stone which has had both brass figure and inscription, now gone.

The only monument is against the north wall of the chancel—a brass oval convex plate with this inscription:

Gulielmus Chapman | Probus doctus lepidus facundus | Hic

jacet | Pietate fidelitate benignitate modestia | Nulli secundus |
 Hanc vicariam bis 20 | et octo annos tenuit | Clarus in umbra |
 Rara in senectute emicuit | Die 14 Aprilis decessit | Anno ætat. 82, annoque Dom. | 1722.

There is a south porch (R) in the east wall of which is embedded a well-carved old stone of oblong form with the figure of Christ on the Cross between two figures. There seems to have been a brass plate above.

(MS x, 19-20.)

Morton by Bourne

Notes taken in the church, [blank] August, 1831—This is a large cross church with a fine tower at the intersection, and a handsome west window and porch, the other windows are fine. The living is in the gift of the Bishop of Lincoln. The incumbent is the Rev^d Samuel Edmund Hopkinson.

On a flat stone in the chancel (D):

Here | lies interred the body of | George Mitchel | eldest son of | Rob^t Mitchel Robinson, | Esq., and Jane his wife | who died March the 19th, 1789, | aged 17 years. | But there's a power above us nature | Proclaims thro' all her various works | Who doth delight in virtue & those | Whom he delights in must be happy.

On another flat stone more to the north (D):

Here | lies interred | Jane the wife of Rob^t Mitchell Robinson, Esq., | and one of the two daughters & co-heiresses | of George Robinson late of the Bail of Lincoln | & of Fiskerton in this county, | Esq., deceased, who died June y^e 20th, | 1778, | aged 27 years. | She was Religious, Charitable, Polite, without Affectation, Ostentation, Adulation, an affectionate wife | a tender mother | and a sincere friend.

Moulton

Notes taken in the church, 23 July, 1833—

A white marble tablet on the north wall of the chancel:

Sacred | to the memory of | Helen Jenkyns | daughter of | the Rev. Samuel Elsdale, M.A., | (Master of the Free Grammar school in this parish), | and Catherine his wife. | She died on the 9th March 1818. | She was a most heavenly minded, tender hearted child, | ever dutiful to her parents, loving & beloved. | The Lord gave & the Lord hath taken away, | blessed be the name of the Lord. | Ere grief could blight thy op'ning bloom | Or sin thy charms destroy | Thy Saviour called an angel home | To realms of peace and joy.

On a similar tablet against the wall :

Sacred | to the memory of | the Rev^d Samuel Elsdale M.A. | late fellow of Lincoln College Oxford, | and master of the free Grammar School | in this place. | He died the 13 of July 1827, | aged 47 years. | Give alms of thy goods and never turn thy face from | any poor man and then the face of the Lord shall not | be turned away from thee. Tobit, chap. 4, | ver. 7.

On a marble monument against the south wall of the nave, at the entrance to the chancel, with these arms under—Azure, three bird-bolts in tun argent [Boulton]: the inscription is in capitals (D) :

Sacred | to the memory of | Alice the daughter of | Henry and Alice Boulton | late of Stixwold | in the county of Lincoln, | who was born Sept. 1, | 1722, | and died Dec^r 6, | 1784.

On a stone in the south aisle :

Juvenis eximiis animi dotibus | ornatus florenti ætate | e
vivis sublatus triste | sui desiderium reliquit | obiit 2 die
Octobris | Anno Ætatis 23 | [Anno] Dom. 1723, Edwardus
Staunton A.B.

There is a singular font at the west end of the nave, said to have been executed by a travelling artizan about fifty or sixty years back ; it is made of wood, and represents Adam and Eve standing by the tree of knowledge, the upper branches of which enclose the basin. Eve is just gathering the apple. On the basin are carved these three subjects, 1st, the baptism of our Saviour by St John ; 2nd, the dove returning to the ark with the olive branch ; 3rd, the baptism by Philip of the Eunuch. The carving (especially of the last in its carriage and horses) is very grotesque, and is rendered by painting still more ridiculous. The cover is suspended over, with the flying figure of an angel which seems to support it.

On a white marble monument at the west end of the south aisle, with arms over—Azure three bird-bolts or ; crest—A bird-bolt in tun proper [Boulton]. In capitals :

In the family vault beneath lie the remains of | Henry Boulton, Esq., | Many years a magistrate for the counties of | Lincoln and Rutland, | and formerly resident in this parish. | He died in December 1788. | He married first Susanna Beridge, widow, | who died in November 1749 ; | secondly, Sarah | daughter of Theophilus Buckworth, Esq., | of Spalding ; | she died in January 1754, | both of whom lie buried here. | He married lastly, Mary daughter of | Darcy Preston, Esq., of Askham in the county of York. | She died in February 1779, | and was buried at Uppingham in the county of Rutland. | Also of Henry Boulton, Esq., eldest son of | the above, who practised some years | at the Chancery Bar. | He died March 11, 1828, at Geddington House | in the county of Northampton. He first married Susanna eldest daughter | and coheiress of Mr Serjeant Forster ; | she died on the 5th of September 1788, | and was buried at Hampstead | in the county of Middlesex ; | secondly, Mary daughter of John Francklin, Esq., | of the county of Bedford ; | she died September 4th, 1795 ; | thirdly, Harriet daughter of | the Rev^d Baptist Isaac of the county of Dorset : | she died March 3rd, 1806 ; | fourthly, Mary Winifreda daughter of | Lieutenant Colonel Durell ; she died April 9, 1808. | These three last lie buried here. | Lastly he married Emma fourth daughter of | Thomas Lane, Esq., formerly of | Selsdon in the county of Surrey who survived him. | This monument was erected by the surviving widow | and the children of the respective marriages.

On a blue flat stone below on the floor :

In memory of Sarah | wife of Henry Boulton, gent., | (daughter of Thomas Buckworth of Spalding, | gent., & Elizabeth his wife). She died | January the 17, 1754, N.S., | in the nineteenth year of her age. | Henry son of the above Henry and Sarah | died May 8, 1754, N.S., | aged 17 weeks.

Another collateral to the last to the north in capitals :

Here lyeth the body of | John Rea, gent., who | departed this life | October the 29, 1676.

On another more to the north :

This is a large and handsome church. The nave and aisles are supported by six pointed arches springing from massy clustered columns. There is a screen between the nave and the chancel ; and the roof of the tower, which is open to the nave by a fine pointed arch, is handsomely groined. The tower and spire at the west end are of peculiarly fine proportions and form a most beautiful object. The windows are very fine. In the rest of the church they are all despoiled of their tracery.

The church consists of a nave and aisles resting on three pointed arches. The chancel is very beautiful; it opens from the nave by a fine lofty pointed arch rising from a single column on each side. It is as large as the body of the church, and has once been very lofty, but the roof has been lowered. It is of the Decorated style, and the windows are very fine. The east window is of six lights, but the head of the tracery has been shut out and filled up by the lowering of the roof. On the north side of the chancel is a beautiful arch seemingly over a tomb, but the lower part is blocked up; it is cinquefoiled and has over it a crocketed canopy ending in a very handsome finial. The canopy springs from crocketed pinnacles at each side. To the east of this is a beautiful niche in the wall, below which are three standing figures of men in armour with shields, the heads broken off. The arch of the niche is ogee and trefoiled, the canopy crocketed ending in a beautiful finial. At each side is a pinnacle, and between either of them and the canopy are two female figures. This is like the sepulchre in Heckington Church, but on a smaller scale, though very beautiful. In the south wall is a fine piscina, with a crocketed trefoil cut arch, and over it a canopy crocketed the finial broken off. To the west of this are three stone stalls formed by trefoiled ogee arches crocketed with rich finials, and separated by pinnacles. In the chancel is an old stone said to have been dug up out of a grave twenty five years ago, having an inscription in Saxon characters upon it, but illegible.

Newton on Trent

Notes taken in the church of Newton, 15 September, 1835—

This is a very mean church, modern, being rebuilt about eighteen years back, and added to the old tower which has an Early English west door bearing marks of being once handsome. There are three arches of a north aisle still remaining in the wall. These were taken in and built up at the rebuilding of the church. They are good equilateral arches with clustered columns. There is a chancel half of which—the east part—is blocked up for a burial place for the Stow family. There is no monumental inscription. On the north wall is this atchievement—Azure, a cross between four leopards' heads cabossed or [Stow]; impaling—Gules, a chevron argent between three heronshaws of the last, a cinquefoyle for difference sable [? Armstrong]. Crest—A leopard's head cabossed between a pair of wings endorsed or; (Stow impaling Armstrong according to the information of the clergyman).

(MS vii, 149.)

Northorpe

Notes taken in the church, 27 August, 1828—

The following monuments to the Monson family are in the chancel—

On a brass, measuring 18 inches by 7 inches, let into a stone in the middle of the chancel, is the following, in capitals :

Here lyeth bried the body of Anthony | Monson of Northorp in the covnty of | Lincolne, Esq., fowrth sonne of Sr Iohn |
Monson of Sovth Carlton, knight, | who departed this life
the 17th | day of November 1648.

Below are the following arms, on a brass measuring 8½ inches by 10 inches—Two chevronsels, a mullet for difference [Monson].

On a brass plate measuring 8½ inches by 17½ inches, which is now fixed into the bottom of the partition of a pew, but before the repair of the church in 1820 was in the floor of the chancel, a few feet from where it now is, is the following, in capitals :

Here lyeth y^e body of William Monson | eldest sonne of
Iohn Monson of North | orpe in y^e Covnty of Lincolne, esq :
& | of Mary his 2nd wife daughtre to William | Fitz Williams of Claxby in the said | covnty, esq : who died y^e xxviii of |
Febrvary A^o D'ni MDCXXXVIII.

The following is an inscription on a stone, measuring 17½ inches by 3 feet, in the floor of the chancel close to the south wall. Some of it is written in the centre of the stone, and some round the edge, in capitals :

Here lyeth | the body of George Mon | son sone of | Anthony and Francis | Monson who | dyed the 2 of Ianvary 1654 | ætat. mens.

The church of Northorpe was repaired in 1820, and is now a very neat edifice ; the side door is curiously carved in oak.

Norton Disney

Notes taken in the church, 16 August, 1833—

A brass plate fixed upright in a stone frame between the north chapel and the chancel. At the top this shield of arms—Quarterly of six, 1st and 6th, A fess charged with three fleur de lis [Disney]; 2nd, A fess dancette between three escallops [Dyve]; 3rd, Three lions passant in pale [Amundevill]; 4th, A chief on which two mullets []; 5th, billetty a lion rampant; [impaling—Per chevron [vert] and ermine, a chevron [or], in chief a pelican in her piety proper [Joyner]]. The shield is between two crests—1st, A lion passant guardant [Disney]; 2nd, A hind lodged under a tree, gorged with a ducal coronet and chained [Hussey]. Underneath, the half lengths of a knight, bearded, in armour and helmet, and his lady, both with their hands clasped, with this on a label between them, 'Sufferance doth ease.' Behind the man are half lengths of four sons; behind the woman of five daughters. The names are on labels from their mouths, (1) Richard, (2) William, (3) Thomas, (4) Frances, (1) Ann, (2) Mary, (3) Margaret, (4) Katherine, (5) Briget. Under the middle figures: 'Will'm Disney, esquier, and Margaret Joiner.' In the next row under this group are three shields: (1) the centre one with the above six quarterings of Disney; (2) the 2nd on the left—Quarterly of six, 1st, a cross [Hussey]; 2nd, Five lozenges in fesse, charged with escallops [Cheney]; 3rd, A bend wavy between two bendlets; 4th, Barry of six ermine and gules [Hussey]; 5th, Per pale three chevrons counterchanged, fimbriated [Say]; 6th, A chevron between three garbs, over all on an inescutcheon a chevron between three squirrells [Lovel]; (3) the third shield on the right is—Quarterly of four, 1st, A fesse between three asses passant [Ayscough]; 2nd, A saltier, on a chief three escallops [Tailboys]; 3rd, Three chevronels in a border [Charnel]; 4th, A cross chequy [Cokefield]. Beneath these shields, in the centre, is a man full faced in armour and helmet, between his two wives, all with their hands clasped. Behind one wife, seven sons and five daughters. All the figures are half lengths. Under the man is 'Richard Disney'; under the first wife, 'Nele daughter of Sr Will'm Husey, knight'; under the other 'Janne daught^r of Sr Will'm Ayscough, K[night]'. The names of the sons which were over their heads have been cut out. Those of the girls remain, and are in old English, Sara, Ester, Judeth, Judeth, Susan. Under all this, inscription in old English:

The lyfe, conversation, and service of the first abovenamed Will'm Disney, | and of Richard Disney his sonne, were comendable amongst ther neig- | bours, trewe and fathefulle to ther prince and cuntrey, acceptable to th' al- | mighty of whomme we trust they are receved to salvation accordinge to the stedfast fayth | Which they had in him throughe the mercy and merit of Christ o^r | Savior. Thes trutthes ar

thus sett fyrthe that in all ages God may be thankfully | glorified for thes and suche lyke his gracijs benefites.

[About 1780, this brass was sent up to London to be engraved for Gough's Sepulchral Monuments, and it was discovered that there was on the back an inscription in Dutch, referring to the founding of a chantry in Holland. See Jeans, pp. 48-9, where a translation of the inscription is given.]

In the north chapel are these other monuments of the Disney family. On the south side of it, in the easternmost of the two arches which separate it from the chancel, is an altar tomb on which is the recumbent figure of a knight armed, whether in plate or mail is indistinguishable. He wears a conical helmet, and his throat is covered by a gorget of mail, his hands are clasped over his breast, and he has a shield on his left arm charged with—Three Lyons passant [Amundevill]. His sword is at his left side, the lower part broken off. His feet rest on a dog. On each side of the tomb are three shields, the charges gone. There is no inscription remaining. [Perhaps Sir William Disney, circa 1340.]

Below this, on a slab raised about two feet from the ground, is a coffin-shaped stone, on which is sculptured in relief, under a canopy a female figure, her hands clasped; the lower part of her is covered over, and a cross sculptured on it having a long stem; at the bottom is a dog. At the top are two shields: (1) Disney, (2) Three pallets, over all a bend [Langford]. At the bottom is the same. This inscription round in old Saxon character, partly illegible:

. vst la femme Moun' Gillam Disni et la fille Moun' |
Gil de Langford

To the north of this, on a stone slightly raised from the ground, is a figure of a woman in a long plaited gown fitting tight to the neck, and covering her feet, which rest on a lion. She has loose sleeves, and her hands are clasped. Her head is dressed in a reticulated cap, and rests on a cushion supported by angels and a lion. Arms on each side her head— . . . , two bars . . . [Grey]; in the middle, on the right Disney, on the left— . . . , three pallets, over all a bend [Langford]. At the bottom, the same. At the south side is this inscription in church text:

Hic iacet Hantacia filia | Will'i Disni domini de Norton.

To the north of this, against the wall, is a large altar tomb on which has been a fine brass of a man cross-legged, with sword and shield, under a canopy, and an inscription round, also in brass, the whole now gone. [Perhaps Sir William Disney, 1276-1300.]

To the west of this, under a low arch in the north-east wall, is a female figure in a plaited robe, and a mantle gathered over her in folds, held by her hands which are clasped over her breast. Her headdress covers her chin, and her head rests on a pillow, and her feet on a dog. In the wall above are two shields bearing the arms of Disney, viz. three lions passant.

The church consists of a nave and north aisle separated by three pointed arches, the chancel having a north chapel, and a tower at the west end, a screen between the nave and chancel. The font is octagonal on a round pedestal and pannelled in quatrefoils and shields. A hatchment against a pillar of the nave bears—Argent, a bear rampant sable; impaling—Vert a lion rampant or, a chief gules.

On another to the west, all that is legible is :

MCCCC . . . cujus anime propicietur deus.

On the floor of the chancel is a large blue stone on which are the portraitures in brass of a knight and lady standing under a double canopy pinnacled ; the knight is armed save the head in plate, his hands are clasped, and at his feet is a dog. At his left side hangs his sword, his dagger on his right. The lady is dressed in a long plaited robe, confined round the waist by a cord and tassells. Her head is covered by a coif. Over these have been two shields, that above the knight is gone, and of the lady's the impalement only remains, which is . . . three barrulets [Constable]. Below the figures is this inscription in old character :

Orate pro animabus D'ni Will'i Skypwyth militis et Agnetis vxoris eius qui | infer iacent qui quidem Willi'us obiit xxvii die Nov. | Anno D'ni Mill'imo cccc^olxxx^oii^o quorum animabus propiciet' [Deus].

Below are the figures of one son and two daughters, the latter in square head-dress. On one of the steps to the chancel remains half of the figure in brass (R) of a lady dressed in a gown, with long open sleeves, and the flat square head-dress, jewelled at the edges, her hands are clasped over her breast, and at her feet is a small dog having a collar ornamented with bells about his neck. This dog resembles much our present pug dogs in head and nose.

A flat stone in the chancel in capitals (R) :

Here lyeth y^e body of Eliza | beth the wife of Thomas |
Taylor rector of Authorpe | and daughter of William | Azlack late rector of | South Ormesby, she died | August the 11,
1700, | in the 30 year of her age.

On a brown stone to the east of the last (R) :

Mrs Margaret Harris | daughter of | Mr Humphry Harris | and Philippa his wife | died August XIX, MDCCLVII, aged xxxv. | This monumental stone | is inscribed to her memory | in testimony of her | affection and regard | by her | relation and friend | Philippa Massingberd.

Against the north wall of the chancel, a plain black and white tablet bearing this inscription in capitals :

In memory of | the Rev. W^m Burrell Massingberd, A.M., | 42 years rector of this parish | who died May 5, 1823, | aged 66 years.

A handsome white marble monument against the south wall of the chapel, this inscription in capitals :

Harriet Mundy | eldest child of Charles Godfrey Mundy | of Burton Leicestershire, Esq., | and Harriet his wife, | granddaughter of Charles Burrell Massingberd, Esq., | died at Ormsby, January 17, 1824, in her 17 year. | In her was strongly marked the triumph of religious principle | over selfish and worldly feeling, | possessed of all the world admires, she resigned | its fairest prospects without a murmur, | and supported by faith in her Redeemer | beheld the approach of Death with tranquillity. | Her afflicted parents while they bitterly lament her loss, | sorrow not as others which have no hope, | for they trust that the Grace of God will enable them | to follow her example, | so that they may die like her | and may again be blessed with her society, | never more to suffer the pangs of separation.

A flat stone in the church is inscribed to the wife of . . . White who seems to have died æt. 77, but the inscription and date are entirely illegible.

The church, which stands in a beautiful situation, consists of a nave and chancel, to which is a south aisle or chapel divided off by two pointed arches, and a tower at the west end. There has formerly been a south aisle to the nave separated by two Norman arches, which still remain in the walls, having round columns.

At the west end is a small gallery containing an organ ; on the front is inscribed :

This organ | was the gift of | Mary Jane Massingberd | the wife of Charles Burrell Massingberd, Esq., | to this church of South Ormesby, | August 12, 1810.

The font is octagonal, and on each side is the following device in basso relievo : 1. Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Three lucies [Lucy] ; 2nd and 3rd, A lion rampant [Lovain]. 2. Four plain crosses. 3. I H C. 4. A vase with a flower and the letters A.M. 5. In God is al godnes. 6. I.H.S. 7. The cross with the crown of thorns, nails and scourges. 8. S.N. At the foot is very legibly cut, Orate pro animabus Radulphi Bolle uxoris eius qui fecerunt fieri hoc baptisterium.

Hall | in this county, and formerly Fellow | of Kings Collage,
Cambridge, | who departed this life on | the 14 of Dec^r in the year | of our Lord 1795, | aged 55. | Slowly his earthly frame decayed | His end was long in sight | Nor was his steady soul afraid | To take its awful flight.

On another next to it :

This stone | was laid down by S. Smith as | a tribute of her affectionate regard to the | memory of the late Thomas
Pindar, Esq., | of Brumby Wood Hall | in this county, and late a fellow of | Magdalen Collage in the University of Oxford, | who departed this life on the | eighth day of May in the | year of our Lord 1813, | aged 78. | Forgive blest shade
the tributary tear | That mourns thy loss from a world like this | Forgive the wish that would have kept y^{ee} here | And stayed thy progress to y^e realms of Bliss.

On another collateral (D) :

In memory of | the Rev^d Thomas Clarke | forty three years
vicar of | Owston, who died on the | first day of November
1820, | aged 82 years.

Panton

Notes taken in the church, 11 October, 1840—This is a small church of nave and chancel, the bell hanging over the entrance porch at the west. In the north wall of the chancel is embedded the statue of a knight in armour ; only half of the body is visible, and it is much encrusted with white-wash, a small figure of an angel appears over the right shoulder, and on the shield, which is only half visible, may be perceived a bend, on the dexter side of which are two mullets pierced [for Breton] ; the rest is concealed in the wall (R).

There are some flat stones to the family of Gace, and one mural slab, in the south wall of the chancel, to the same ; but none earlier than the 18th century.

On a flat stone also before the altar is the following (D) :

Hic jacent reliquiæ | Johannis Holland | Hujusce Ecclesiæ
Rectoris. | Pastor fuit pius et sedulus | Conjux amantissimus |
Amicus fidelis | Pauperibus munificus | Obiit 14 Junii | Anno salutis 1737, | ætatis 62.

Quadring

Notes taken in y^e church, 12 September, 1839—This church, which stands about a quarter of a mile from the village, is large and handsome. The general character is Perpendicular. It consists of a nave and aisles, which are separated by four lofty perpendicular arches resting on plain shafts, the capitals of which are embattled with a very curious effect; a chancel, south porch, and tower with a spire at the west end. The clerestory windows, which are eight in number, are lofty and handsome, of the Perpendicular style. The nave is of a good height, and there appears to have been preparation for a stone roof as the springers for the groining still remain in the walls. Two of these on the south side terminate in shields, one bearing a rose, y^e other a bend ragule. The rest are supported by grotesque heads finely carved. The springers of the timber roof are also carved in like manner, and all are different, producing a very fine effect. The chancel is parted from the nave by a pointed arch, partly blocked up, and a screen of good perpendicular wood-work (D), and on y^e south side is the entrance to y^e staircase of the ancient rood loft, having a very beautiful doorway, which is an ogee arch, with a crocketed canopy and finial flanked by pinnacles, and a range of panneling which altogether forms a beautiful specimen of early Perpendicular work. The chancel windows are small, and in the eastern one is a piece or two of stained glass. The south aisle windows are Decorated, the remainder Perpendicular. The arch to the tower is sharply pointed. The tower itself as well as the spire are Perpendicular. The font is very handsome of octagonal shape at the top, which is pannelled with angels holding blank shields. It rests on a tall shaft of elegant shape which is niched and has had pinnacles now broken. Round the base is this inscription in old character:

Orate pro anima Roberti Perci qui istum ffontem fferi fecit.

At y^e eastern corner of the south aisle is a piscina having a trefoyled arch of early Decorated character. The parapet of the nave is embattled, except y^e gable which is pannelled and surmounted by a wheel cross, all of handsome Perpendicular character, of which style this church is a good specimen.

On a grey white marble monument against the north wall of y^e chancel, surmounted by these arms—Two lions passant guardant [for Browne]:

Here lyes the body of | Edward Brown, gent., | who dyed the fifth day of January | 1769, in the sixty sixth year of his age. | He delighted in being a father to y^e fatherless | And to them who had no friend, | which good offices he always discharged | with great integrity. | He was a hearty well
wisher to the establishment | in Church and State, and shewed
it on all proper occasions. | He built a house | which with some land thereto adjoining he settled | for ever for the Master of the Charity School | of this town to live in. | He died much lamented by all who | were so happy as to know him, but | more especially by his most dutiful and | affectionate daughter who caused this | monument to be erected to his memory.

On a flat stone in the floor of the chapel (D) :

The body of | Edward Brown, gent., | whose monument is erected | on the north side of the altar | was interred under this | stone.

At y^e top in capitals seemingly older than the inscription below :

As yov are so were we | As we are so yov mvst be.

A brass plate in the easternmost pillar of the north nave, close to the entrance of the chancel :

Hic jacet | Bristovius Brown | summæ puerulus spei octennis |
Parentum summæ dum vixit deliciæ | Qui obiit tertio nonas
Januarias | anno Christi MDCLXXX^v_{vi}.

At the east end of the north aisle are three vulgar looking stone tablets ornamented with cherubs and other figures ; in the middle one (D), which is stuck in the centre of the window, there is the following inscription :

Here | lyeth y^e body of | John Harryman, gent., | who had 2 wives and by | them 21 children of wick | number he left only 7 | alive at his death viz. | Marg^t by his first wife, |
Richard, John, Theophilus, | James, Dorothy, Thomas | by his second. | He dyed | October y^e 2d, | 1706, ætat. suæ 74.

On the one to the north :

Here lyeth y^e | body of Mrs Mary | Harryman wife | of John |
Harryman, gent., | who departed y^s | life Oct^r y^e 6th, 1712, |
aged 63 years.

On that to the south (D) :

Near | this place lieth the | body of Richard Harry | man,
gent., interred No- | vember the 16, 1719, | Ætatis suæ 48, |
who left Mary his | wife and four children, | Elizabeth, John,
George, & | Barrot.

On a flat stone near y^e north door (D) :

In a vault | near this place | was laid the remains of | Mr
Thos Ducket | who departed this life | on the 22 of May 1822, |
aged 57.

Raithby by Louth

Notes taken in the church of Raithby, 25th August, 1837—
This is a small church, consisting only of a nave and chancel, with a south porch, and a bell turret at y^e west end, containing one bell. On y^e north side of y^e nave are three pointed arches bricked, and the windows have been lately inserted of y^e Decorated style. Between y^e nave and chancel is a Norman arch adorned with the square headed moulding. The chancel is modern, having been lately built by the Rev^d. G. A. Chaplin. It is of a semi-circular form, having five handsome windows after y^e Decorated style. The roof is of open timber work. The font is Early English, octagonal, pannelled with quatrefoyles, on a base of clustered columns. The church is kept very neat and clean.

In the porch is an old stone which has once had an inscription round y^e edge, but it is now illegible.

On a flat stone in y^e nave :

In memory of | two sisters | whose desire it was to be interred | by the side of each other. Christease Allenby | third daughter | of | Hinman Allenby, | gentleman, | and Maria his wife, | who died 18 July | 1821, | aged 86. Ann | relict of the late | Rev^d Arthur | Rockcliffe | rector of Roughton | in this county | who died 11 Nov^r | 1824, | aged 86.

On another stone, to the west of the last (D) :

Here | lies interred the | body of Mrs | Ann Hudson | wife of Mr | John Hudson | of Orgarth Hill | who departed | this life February | the 15th, 1754, aged 49. | Also the | body of Mr John Hud- | son husband to the | above Ann Hudson | who departed this | life the 22^d of January | 1771, aged 78
years.

Another more to the west :

In memory | of Frances the wife | of William Hyde | who departed this life | March the 6th, 1783, | aged 59 years. |
Also of Ann their daugh: | who dyed May the 21, 1782, | aged 20 years.

Ranby

Notes taken in the church of Randby, 11 October, 1840—This church, which stands very prettily on an eminence with a view towards the adjacent wolds, consists of a tower, nave, and chancel. The former has been lately built, and is of handsome Gothic. The nave and chancel have been repaired.

The church contains but one funeral memorial, which is a tablet against the south wall of the nave, with this inscription :

Sacred to the memory of | Mary Denton | who departed this life 5th November 1837, | aged 68 years. | She died trusting in the merits of the | Redeemer. | Also of | Oliver Walesby | brother of the above named | Mary Denton | who departed this life 3 of January 1832, | aged 64 years. | This monument is erected in affectionate | love and regard to their memory
by | Mary Ann Fowler | daughter to the above named | Mary Denton.

From deeds now in possession of Mr Otter, the incumbent, it appears that most of the land in this parish belonged to an Edward Dicconson, Esq., who was attainted for high treason in 1716. He was a Lancashire gentleman. The forfeited estate, however, seems to have been restored, and in 1723 belonged to Roger Dicconson. Tradition says there were two brothers, one lived at the Hall at Randby, and another at the Hall at Market Stainton.

Rand

Notes taken in the church, 13 August, 1833—

A stone which has been fixed into the south wall of the chancel, the inscription in capitals (R) :

God be mercifull to me a siner. I. S. | Conditur Humfridus cineris velamine Barlow | sacrato verbi qui paverat ubere
Randos : | Fridswidam ducens, septem virtutibus omnes |
Instituit natos a casta conjuge partos | Anno 16 mense.

Next to it against the south wall is a monument of marble (R). Above have been two shields now almost obliterated. In the first shield have been nine quarters, all that now remain at all distinguishable are—1st, Quarterly [azure and argent], with a crescent for difference [Metham]; 4th, A lion rampant sable [Stapleton]. In the second shield was also—Quarterly, but now quite effaced. Under these is the small figure of a lady kneeling at a desk, and below, this inscription in capitals :

Here lyeth Dame Dorothye Leigh first wife to Sr John | Leigh of Ingolsby, knight, and after wife to Charles | Metham of Bullington, Esquire, daughter of Thomas | Flower of Langare in the county of Nott., gent : and | Katharine his wife, one of the daughters of George | Chaworth of Linbye in the said county of Nott., Esquire. | She lived in the feare of God and dyed in his fayth at | Bullington the 24 day of August
Anno Domini 1613.

A handsome white monument against the east wall of the chancel (R), but in some measure injured by the injudicious use of white-wash. At the top is the figure of Time with a scythe and hour glass ; and beneath, the words 'Pietatis Officium et memoriæ'. Just below are two shields of arms, but the colours, etc., much effaced. The first—Quarterly of nine, 1st, [Metham]; 2nd, Gules, an eagle displayed [? Illey]; 3rd, On a bend sable [three bezants—Markenfield]; 4th, Argent, a lion rampant sable [Stapleton]; 5th, Sable, fretty argent [Bellew]; 6th, A lion rampant [Brus]; 7th, Barry , a canton [Lancaster]; 8th, Four bars gules; 9th, Paly . . . and gules, a bend ; Crest—A bull's head couped. The second shield quarterly of fifteen, almost all effaced ; what can be discovered is—3rd, Three lions passant azure [Marmion]; 6th, Gules, a bend [Rye]; 9th, Barry of six argent and gules, three crescents sable [Waterton]; 10th, Argent, six martlets 3, 2 and 1 sable, a chief [Sparrow]; 12th, A saltier gules [for Talboys]. Beneath is a lady kneeling at an altar, with five sons kneeling before her and three daughters behind. Underneath this line :

Hi tantum ex 15 liberis supervixerunt.

The inscription below is in capitals :

Hic jacet Anna Metham uxor Caroli Metham de Bullington, |
Armi: filia prima (ex tribus) Roberti Dymoke de Scrielsbie |
Armi: quæ obiit vicesimo tertio die Novem. An. Domini 1602. | In cujus sanctissimam memoriam ob vitæ integretatem | morumque probitatem Ego Edovardus Dymoke miles Regius | frater (ex quinque) primus hos funebres composui versus.

On a ledge of the monument is this :

Promanans ex vero et conjugali amore Anno domini 1603.

Then follows in two columns these verses :

(1) Anna prius Dymoke Methamo juncta marito | Vixit
. . . per digne nomine stirpe sua | Methami nomen numerosa
prole beavit | Nomen utrumque suis moribus eximiis | summe
casta viro natis chara atque propinquis | omnibus et dulcis religeosa Deo | mundum spernebat vere peccata dolebat |
In Christi meritis gloria spesque fides.

(2) Vita brevis mors cita lucrum super omnia Christus : |
Lætatur superum fæmina sancta choro. | Ad sororem. | Hæc ego (chara soror) fraterni pignora Amoris | Carmina pro
justis mæsta parento tibi | Quem fateor præter sexum virtute
preiisti | Mortem (vita impar) æmulator ipse tuam.

On an old stone before the door, just outside the church, in old character :

. . . . jacet magist. Willelmus Mawe cujus anime | propitiatur
deus amen.

Against the north wall of the chancel (R) is a very fine monument of freestone. At the top are three shields of arms, that in the middle bears—Quarterly, 1st and 4th three crescents a chief ermine [Fulnetby]; 2nd, , a fesse in chief three roundles [Colvile]; 3rd, , three towers triple towered [Towers]. At the east— , three lions passant crowned [Dymoke]. At the west—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, , a raven . . . [Herenden]; 2nd and 3rd, three escallops . . . [Strickland]. Below is inscribed :

Apo. 2, ver. 17. Vincenti dabo manna absconditum.

Below are three more shields. On the west— , a chevron between three garbs . . a crescent for difference [Sheffield]; impaling Fulnetby. In the middle— , a tower triple towered . . between three covered cups [Amcotts]; impaling Fulnetby. On the east—Per fesse, a fesse dancettee [Pheasant]; impaling Fulnetby. On the pilaster at the west side are—1st, Fulnetby, impaling—On a chief three lions' heads erased Below—A lion rampant double queued, holding a club surmounted by a rose; impaling Fulnetby: the name written over, 'Maister'. At the west side of this monument is a fragment of a brass (R), consisting of the bust of a woman in a ruff, her hands clasped, set upon a man's legs in armour; and on the east side, a perfect figure of a woman in a gown with fine worked border, a ruff and cap, her hands clasped. Below is a shield of arms in brass—Metham, quarterly of 9, as above (p. 294); impaling—Quarterly of twelve, 1st, Fretty [Willoughby]; 2nd, A cross sarcelly [Bek]; 3rd, Three buckles between eight cross crosslets [Roseline]; 4th, A cross engrailed [Ufford]; 5th, Quarterly, 1st and 4th, A lion rampant [FitzAlan]; 2nd and 3rd, A fret [Maltravers]; 6th, A lion rampant [Welles]; 7th, A fesse indented between six crosslets [Engaine]; 8th, Barry of six, three crescents [Waterton]; 9th, A greyhound current between three wolves' heads crazed, a border engrailed [Heneage]; 10th, three garbs [Preston]; 11th, Two bars, a canton [Buckton]; 12th, A cross flory triple-crossed. There are two crests: on the dexter side—A bull's head couped [Metham]; on the sinister—A man's head crowned [Willoughby].

To the east of this, is a very handsome monument of marble (R); in a recess is the figure of a knight kneeling on a cushion before an altar, in armour, bareheaded; his lady is opposite him in a similar recess, in a long gown. Over him are these arms—A fret, a mullet for difference [Harrington]; impaling—Two squirrels sejant addorsed (Samwell). Over the lady these—A fret and a mullet [Harrington]; impaling—A pale between two eagles displayed [Woodward]. On a ledge below are the figures of two sons and three daughters kneeling on cushions. Two of the latter are broken. Below on a black slab in capitals:

Here lieth y^e body of S^r Sapcote Harington, knt, 2^d sonne to | S^r James Harington of Ridlington in the county of Rutland, knt & | baronet. He had 2 wives, y^e first Jane daugh. of S^r William Samwell | of Upton in y^e county of Northampton, kt, by whom he had 2 sonns | & 3 daugh^{rs}. Shee lieth intoombd at Milton in y^e co. of Northamp. | His 2^d wife Jane daugh^r of John Woodward of London, Esq., by | whom he had 2 sonnes & 3 daugh^{rs}. Y^e eldest daugh^r lieth here | buried. To the east of this is a brass plate (R) in the wall, with this inscription in capitals:

Here lyeth Willyam Metham of Bolington, Esquier, who was | the sonn of Robarte Metham, second sonne of S^r

Thomas | Metham of Cave, knight. He had 4 wyves, the 1st was the widdow | of one Good; the second was Ellen the daughter of Mr Whytting- | ton & he had by hir issue, Charles, Susan, and Anne; the | third Fraunces daughter of Edmound Lord Shefeild; the fourth Mary | daughter to Willyam Lord Willoughby of Parham, and by her | had issue Catheren and Doritie. Hee dyed the 12 of January | 1590, and the 66 year of his age.

In the east wall of the chancel (R), north of the altar, is a monument of marble, the figures of a man in a furred gown and a ruff; opposite his wife in a gown, ruff, and flat cap, kneeling before a desk. Over are the arms of Metham, quarterly of nine as above (p. 294); [impaling—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Gules, three crescents argent, and a chief ermine [Fulnetby]; 2nd, Or, a fess gules, in chief three torteaux [Colville]; 3rd, Argent, three towers gules [Towers]]. Shee did dye blessedlye | in y^e Lord at East Rason y^e first day | of October 1628, in y^e 67 year of her | age; he died y^e [blank] day of [blank].

This church consists of a nave and chancel, and a tower at the west end. In a niche in the north wall is placed a figure which seems once to have been on a tomb. It is of a female, in a long robe and mantle, and her head dress covers her chin. The hands are clasped, and the head rests on a pillow supported by angels. On her breast is a shield but the bearings are effaced.

Market Rasen

Notes taken in the church of Market Rasen, 29 August, 1828—

Most of the monuments in the church are modern, with the exception of a stone on the floor, with the arms—A cross patty fitchy within an orle of estoiles [Caldwell]. V.C. 1639. [This stone represents a child of Lawrence Caldwell of Thorganby; another child, named James, was baptized and buried at Market Rasen, 1640.]

At the east end of the chancel a stone with the arms on a lozenge—In chief, per pale three boars' heads erect [Booth], and in base—Two lions passant, crowned [Dymoke]; impaling—Paly of six, on a chief a lion passant guardant [Lodington]:

Redbourne

Notes taken in the church, 2 September, 1835—

On a marble tablet in the north chapel (R), now a schoolhouse, with a bas relief above of a ship, and distant land on which stands a pagoda :

M.S. | Rogero Carter, viro | Inter ipsas orientis opes et ille-
cebras | intemerato, integro ; | qui re modica in patriam rediens, | nec majoris appetens, | Castri St'i Georgii præfec-turam | postea sibi ultro oblatam recusavit ; | pos. frater
Robertus Carter Thelwall | obiit A.D. MDCCLXXIII, æt. . . .

On a white marble tablet north of the chancel :

Sacred to the memory of | Charlotte wife of Lord William Beauclerk, | afterward 8th Duke of St Albans, | she was the daughter of | the Rev^d Robert Carter Thelwall and Charlotte his wife, | and had issue one son by Lord William Beauclerk | who was baptized on the 11th of May 1794, | and was buried on the 13th of the same month | She departed this life on the 19th of October 1797 | and was buried in this church. | This tablet is erected by | William Aubrey de Vere 9th Duke of St Albans, | as a mark of affectionate respect | to the memory of his father's first wife.

On a white marble tablet opposite, surmounted by a ducal coronet :

Sacred to the memory of | William 8th Duke of St Albans | who departed this life the 17 July 1825, | aged fifty eight years. | Also of Maria Janetta his Duchess | who died 17
January 1822, | aged forty seven years, | leaving six sons &
six daughters. | This tablet is inscribed | to their beloved memory by their affectionate son | William Aubrey de Vere ninth Duke of St Albans.

On a white marble tablet with an urn over, thereon a man planting a tree between another carrying trees and a third bearing a spade :

M.S. | Gulielmo Carter | Duodecim liberorum patri | Qui
deo animæ terræque colendis operam dedit | pos : filius
Robertus Carter Thelwall | necnon Susannæ conjugis ejus
pientissimæ : | Obierunt | Ille A.D. MDCCXLIII æt. LXIII |
Illa A.D. MDCCLII æt.

On the north side of the chancel, set sideways in the wall, is a large black stone having the figure of a knight carved thereon in outline, gilded. He is in plate armour with peaked helm and mail gorget. At his feet is a greyhound, and his head rests on a pillow supported by two angels; his sword hangs at his left side in an embroidered belt; and at his right is his dagger. The figure is about the natural size. Below is this inscription in gilded letters of old character cut into the stone (R):

Hic jacet dominus Gerardus Sothill miles qui obiit primo die | Augusti Anno Domini millesimo cccc v. cuius anime miserere deus amen.

Above the stone is a stone crocketed canopy of ancient work, with this shield at the finial—Argent, an eagle displayed sable [for Sothill].

A white marble monument against the south wall of the chancel, with these arms cut below—Azure, a talbot passant between three buckles [for Carter]; impaling—Nelthorpe. Crest—A lion's head, gorged with a mural crown. Above is a male figure weeping over an urn, and this inscription on a black slab in capitals:

Here lyeth the body of Charlotte | daughter of Sir Henry Nelthorpe Bart: | and next to her (as he hopes) will be deposited that of | the Rev^d Robert Carter Thelwall, III^d son of W^m Carter, | who desires to record on her tomb this farther memorial | of himself (as his highest Character, Glory, & Happiness) | that from the 1st of Jan: MDCCLXVII | He was the loving | and beloved husband of the above mention'd Charlotte | a woman (according to his judgment) of most gentle | manners, mild affections, elegant accomplishments, | refined humour, and sound judgment, joined to | great piety, benevolence and charity | Heu! Charlotta Vale! morum placidissima conjux. | Mente tibi comitem me superesse dolet | Pos: R.C.T. | she died VIII March MDCCLXXX, aged XXXVIII | He died XVIII Oct. MDCCLXXXVII, aged LXVII.

Below is inscribed:

He was again made happy in a second | marriage with Hannah Spooner.

The church was rebuilt about 56 years back at the expence of Mr Carter, and has been done in good taste. It consists of a nave with two aisles formed in a circular shape, with two pillars on each side, octagonal, forming three pointed arches. The chancel is divided off by a pointed arch. There is a pinnacled tower at the west end with a porch, which is badly executed, having two arches to enter by (D). The buttresses of the aisle and chancel are pinnacled. The east window contains in modern stained glass the figures of the Apostles. The remainder are in the clerestory windows, on each side three. There are north and south aisles to the chancel entered by ogee arches, crocketed, with a finial. The southern one is used as a cemetery, and there are niches for coffins. In the window are figures of Hope and Faith. The northern aisle is used for a school or vestry. The font is of modern white marble, handsome of its kind.

On a marble tablet, outside the church, against the south wall of the chancel (D) :

Sacred | to the memory | of Hannah Carter Thelwall, | widow, who departed this life | October the 5, 1800, | aged 52 years. |
By nature formed for every social part | Mild were her manners and sincere her heart | Benevolence in every feature shone |
And virtuous friendship hailed her as her own.

On a similar tablet close by (D) :

In memory of | Jane Spooner widow of | Hungerford Spooner of St Christophers | who departed this life 27 July 1788 | in the 61 year of her age. | Reader if gentle and unaffected manners | Piety benevolence & domestic virtues | Are dear to thee | Respect her grave.

In the churchyard are these flat stones to the memory of former vicars :

The Rev^d Mr Josias Morgan Rect^r of Manton & vicar of Redbourne died 27 Aug^t 1737, æt. 58.

The Rev^d Richard Branston vicar of Redbourne 44 years died 5 Oct^r 1781, æt. 71.

Another surrounded by a rail :

The Rev^d Robert Nelthorpe Palmer 26 years vicar of Redbourne died 24 Nov^r 1821, æt. 56.

And a tablet against the south wall to :

The Rev^d Christopher Metcalfe died 20 Jan^y 1795, æt. 72, and Catherine his wife died 8 Feb. 1788 | aged 60.

Rigsby

Notes taken in the church, 19th August, 1835—

On a brass against the south wall (R) :

Sacred to the | memory of William Kingston, gent., | who departed this life the 1 Sept^r | 1792, aged 60. | At his request his remains were brought | from Alford, and interred near the body of | the Rev^d W^m Willoughby late vicar of Alford : | who died the 15 July 1792, aged 45. | With their acquaintance commenced a sincere | friendship in which by walking together in | the House of God they were confirmed ; until | translated through the merits of their Redeemer | to scenes of happier intercourse.

This church, which is in a pretty situation, commanding a fine view over the edge of the Wolds and the extent of the Marsh, is a mean barn-like building, having a nave and chancel, and a box of wood for a bell at the west end. The roof is thatched. In the east wall north of the altar is a canopied niche in which are placed an old morion of the time of Charles I, and a short sword or dagger (R). South of the altar is a piscina. On the floor is an old stone (D) with a cross cut on it of a long stem, and a head similar to this [a small sketch of a cross bottonnée or flory]. The font is octagonal pannelled in arches of the Perpendicular style.

Rippingale

Notes taken in the church, [blank] August, 1831—This church is large and handsome, with a fine tower at the west end. The living is in the gift of Sir Thomas Heathcote, and the incumbent is the Rev^d [William Thomas] Waters.

On the north side of the Communion Table is the effigy of a knight in mail, completely armed, with his legs crossed, his head resting upon a helmet, and his feet upon a lion. It is in tolerable preservation, and the rings of the mail are plainly to be distinguished. Tradition gives it to one of the Brownlow family (R).

On a flat stone to the south (R) of this last has been a figure in brass which is now gone.

To the south of the Communion Table (R) is a white marble monument with pillars and arms above—Argent, an orle of martlets sable, on an inescutcheon azure an escallop [Brownlow]:

Hic reponuntur exuviae | Liberatorum honorabilis | Richardi
Brownlowe Baroneti | et Dom. Elizabethæ uxoris ejus |
scilicet | 1^{mo} Elizabethæ natæ Septembris 6^{to} | MDCLV quæ
Martii die Octavo | moriebatur anno prædicto. | 2^{do} Mariæ
natæ 21 Sept. 1656, quæ | die Feb. 15^o moriebatur 1659. |
3^{tio} Elizabethæ natæ 20 Feb. 1657 | quæ Decem. 17 moriebatur
1659. | 4^o Richardi Brownlowe nati | Octob. 5^o 1664, qui
Oct. 29^o | moriebatur anno prædicto. | 5^o Elizabethæ natæ
28 Feb. 1666, | quæ moriebatur Martij 25, 1669, | quæ pignora
prædicta Richardi | Brownlowe Baronetti et Heroinæ |
Elizabethæ sibi conjugis, | Hæc servatures sui | præstolatus adventum.

On the base :

Epitaph | Here lies a bud soon gone whose beauty might |
Have (had it grown) outshined the splendid light | Of other flowers, but we know 'twill spring | And glory to its Gard'ner
it will bring | Its root has left a cyon, but not lost | The price

pay'd for it was of no small cost | The byer shall preserve it to his gain | Glory 'twill bring him when in bliss 'tshall raigne.

On a white tablet against the north wall of the chancel :

In memory of | Wade Gascoigne, LL.B., | who died 19 May 1801, | aged 68 years, | and of | Anne Davison his wife | who died 19 July 1792, | aged 58 years. | Also of | Wade Davison Gascoigne | who died 22 April 1784, | aged 15 years, | and of John Gascoigne | who died at sea | off Jamaica | in Autumn
1784, | aged 14 years.

In a canopied recess in the south aisle, almost entirely concealed by pews, is a stone effigy but without any inscription.

On a neat black and white marble tablet in the south aisle :

Sacred | to the memory of | John Quincey, gent., | [late of
Down Hall in this parish] | who departed this life | March 8th, 1827, | in the 80th year of | his age.

In part of the south aisle used as a school house there are two altar tombs with effigies upon them, but so obscured by whitewash as almost to be indistinguishable, and also the following on a white marble tablet (D) :

Sacred to the memory of | Richard Quincey, gent., | of Pointon, | who died on the 18 Oct. 1813, | in the 71st year of his age. | The memory of the just is blessed.

Sapperton

Notes taken in the church, 30 July, 1833—

On a stone in the east wall of the chancel (R) :

Near to this place | lies interred the body | of Susanna the wife of | the Rev^d W^m Lodge | and younger daughter of the Rever^d Stepⁿ Clark | minister of St John's in Beverley in y^e county | of York. She was born | January the seventh,
1676, | and departed this life | the 27 of March in the | year of our Lord 1736.

On a similar stone close by :

Near to this place | lies interred the body | of William Lodge | late rector of Sapper | ton, he departed this life | y^e 18 of Novem. 1737, | aged 69. | By the Bounty of Queen Ann | and the Patron this living was | augmented in 1720, two closes |
laing at Ingoldsby called Worm | sikes and one on the north side | of the parsonage house | called Church Leays.

On a flat stone which goes under a pew in the nave (R) :

Here lyeth the body | of William Doughtie late of Lincolnes
Inn, gent., | who dyed the 21 | day of July 1656, in the 62
yeare of his age.

A handsome black and white marble monument, flanked by two Corinthian columns, and in the entablature these arms—Per chevron sable and argent, three elephants' heads, erased, counterchanged [Saunders]; impaling—Ermine, on a chief sable a crown or, between two leopards' heads cabossed argent [for Taylor]:

Sacred to the memory | of y^e truly religious | and right worthy person | John Saunders, Esq., | (the dear & only husband of | Ursula Saunders | his loving wife | formerly deceased) | who died May 4th, Anno D'ni 1685, | Anno que ætatis 70. |
Here lies his body mixed with y^e dust | whose life was holy humble good and just | Scilicet exemplo tandem hoc ediscite
vivi | Ex hujus vita vivere morte mori.

Over this is a hatchment of the arms of Saunders with crest—An elephant's head (D).

A white marble monument opposite the last (R) with the arms of Saunders over:

Near this place | lyeth the body of Ursula Saunders eldest | daughter of Richard Tayler of Clapham in the county | of Bedford, Esq., sergeant at law, late wife to John Saun- | ders of Sapperton, Esq., eldest son of Sir John Saunders | of Marston in the county of Bedford, knt, who lived toge | ther most happily eight and forty years and left one son | and three daughters surviving her | John, Elizabeth, Mary, &
Ursula. | She lived and died a true daughter of the church of England. | She was | the best of wives, | a most indulgent mother, | a generous and true friend, | and for her | singular piety, | exemplary life, | great charity, | did excel most of her time, whilst living admired and beloved, since | dead missed and lamented by all that knew her. She depar | ted this life in full assurance of a better y^e 29th of May | Anno Dom.
MDCLXXXIII | [Anno] Ætatis LXVII.

This church is a very small one; it consists only of nave and chancel. The door is on the south side, and there is no orient window. In a window south of the nave are two coats of arms in painted glass—(1) Ermine, a chevron gules [? Tuchet]; (2) Azure, a fesse dancé between ten billets 4, 3, 2, and 1 or [Deyncourt]. In the next window is a shield charged with a bend.

Sausthorpe

Notes taken in the church of Saucethorpe, 17 August, 1835—

On a flat black stone in the chancel, with these arms cut above—Two lions passant, crowned, a mullet for difference [Dymoke]; on an escucheon—A fesse between three leopards' heads cabossed [Payne]. Crest—On a helm, a sword erect:

Charles Dymoke, M.D., | third son of Charles Dymoke | of this place, Esq., | departed this life | May y^e 12, 1761, | aged 56 years. | He left issue two sons | Needham and Edward. | Elizabeth the widow | of Charles Dymoke, M.D. | who departed this life | the 10 of September 1772, | aged 56 years.

On a black stone within the Communion rails :

Here lies interr'd | the Hon^{ble} Edward Dymoke, Esq^r, | Champion of England | obiit Sep. y^e 12th, 1760, | in y^e 65 year of his age.

Upon a black stone at the south end of the chancel ; a chest is over it :

Here lyes interr'd the | body of Elizabeth | Dymoke daughter of | Charles Dymoke, Esq., | and Mary Dymoke | who departed this | life July the 22, 1743, | in the 47 year of her age. | She died in London.

Upon an old stone in the chancel very much rubbed :

Here lies interr'd the | of John Dymoke | Charles | and Mary | departed | mber |

On a blue stone in the chancel partly under a pew with the arms—Dymoke, impaling—A bend engrailed between two bucks' heads cabossed [Nedham]. Crest—On a helm a sword erect :

Here lyes interred the body | of Charles Dymoke, Esq., | who departed this life | the 29 Jan^y 1724, | aged 61 years. | Here also lyes interred | the body of Mary Dymoke | the wife of Charles Dymoke, | Esq., who departed this life | the 25 of Jan^y 1756, in the | 90 year of her age | In hopes of a blessed resurrection.

In the clarke's pew is an old stone, almost entirely obliterated, of which all that can be decyphered is :

. | , gent., | departed this life Novemb^r | , aged 67 years.

On a hatchment against a pillar of the nave facing south these arms—Argent, on a cross between four doves gules as many bezants [Welcome]; impaling two wives—on the dexter side, Quarterly, or and gules, a plain cross sable [for Cammoek]; on the sinister side, Or, a plain cross vert. Crest—On an esquire's helm a dove rising argent. This inscription below in capitals :

Near unto this place lieth | buried y^e body of Thomas | Welcom, Esq^r, who departed | y^s life y^e 23 of May 1670, | Ætatis | suæ 75.

This is a small church ; it consists merely of a nave and north aisle divided by two low pointed arches, a chancel, and a low tower at the west end.

Saxilby

Notes taken in the church, 16 September, 1835—This church has been described by C. Anderson. The old figures are on a tomb in the north aisle of the chancel, which is divided from it by two fine pointed arches, but is now separated by an ugly modern deal partition, and is used as a school. In it stands the font. The tomb is of blue stone. Between the nave and chancel is a pointed arch.

On a flat stone within the altar rails :

Sacred | to the memory | of | the Rev^d Thomas Rees | late vicar of this parish | who died Dec^r the 27, | 1807, | aged 46 years. | Also | Ann his wife | who died April the 3rd, 1808, |
aged 51 years.

Another stone within the altar rails to :

Christopher Bell died 22 Novem^r 1792, æt. 52.

A flat stone in the chancel to (D) :

Elizabeth wife of William Metcalfe died 15 March 1832,
æt. 38.

On another stone in the chancel :

Joseph Younghusband | & Mary his wife who died | March 21,
1811, | aged 21 years.

(MS vii, 173-175.)

Scothorne

Notes taken in the church of Scothorn, 5 August, 1833—

There is not one single monument or inscription in this church, but there are some atchievements of the Ellison family. An atchievement on the south wall of the chancel bears—Gules, a chevron argent between three eagles' heads erased or [Ellison]; impaling—Per pale argent and gules, two men's legs armed counter-changed [Cookson]; and underneath, 'Non omnis moriar'.

A second atchievement has—Ellison, with an escucheon—Argent, a fesse embattled erminois, between three crescents sable. Crest—A griffin's head erased per fesse argent and or, collared gules; and underneath 'Pulvis et umbra sumus'.

Another atchievement against the north wall of the chancel has—Ellison, impaling—Argent, an eagle with two heads displayed sable, on an escucheon argent a saltier gules [Maxwell]. Crest—Ellison.

A lozenge of arms against the south wall—Ellison, impaling—Argent, a dexter hand couped at the wrist proper.

The tower of this church is ancient ; the remainder, consisting of a nave and chancel, is modern, built about 34 years ago. In the tower is an old stone with a cross cut upon it having a long stem ornamented with flowers removed from the old chancel.

(MS i, 219–220.)

Scotter

Notes taken in the church, 7 September, 1835—This church consists of a nave and north aisle divided by five handsome pointed arches, springing from clustered columns with foliated capitals, a chancel, a tower at the west end, and a south porch. The south door is Norman, but the porch is a modern one and bears the date 1820. The font is octagonal and handsomely pannelled in quatre-foyles. The roof is open timber and very good. The description of some of the monuments in this church not here inserted are to be found in the Gentleman's Magazine, 1806, part ii, p. 749.

On a flat stone in the nave :

Here | lieth interr'd | the remains of three of the issue | from the marriage of Chas. Aistroppe, | Esq., and Ann his wife late of | this place, to wit, Ann and Frances their | daughters, the former of whome died | in her infancy the 19th of January
1762, | and the latter the 17th of May 1768, aged | 3 years.
Also of Thomas their son who | died the 20th of Oct. 1770, aged likewise | 3 years.

On another stone :

In memory | of Charles Aistroppe, Gent., | who departed
this life the | of August Anno Dom. 176 . . . , |

An old stone in the north aisle partly hid by a pew has this inscription cut on it as far as can be decyphered :

. ate pro animabus | bart & Alici

A stone near the last to the memory of :

[Elizabeth wife of] James Herring 27 Sept. 1738, æt. 55.

There are stones near the font to :

John Drewry died 31 Dec^r 1754, æt. 71.

Catherine his wife died May 23, 1726, æt. 31.

Ann their daughter died 6 April 1725, æt. 7.

Also John their son died 10 June 1733, aged 17.

On a blackened tablet against the south wall of the chancel :

Near this place | lie the remains | of | Mrs Anne Tonge wife of Mr | Roe Tonge gentleman of | Gainsbro' : who departed |
this life Nov. 11, 1789, | aged 66 years.

Another to the west of the last :

Beneath this pew | lieth the body of | Elizabeth Smith |
relict of the Rev. Abr^m Smith | obiit Oct. 12, 1782, | aged 86 years. | Also three of their children.

A stone in the chancel with the arms and crest of Anderson cut :

Underneath this | stone are deposited | the remains of | Edwin
Anderson | of Morton, Esq^r, | who dyed the 28 day | of October
1743, in y^e | 61 year of his age. | Also | Mary relict of the above | Edwin Anderson who | died Dec. 25, 17[4]8.

On a stone next to the last in capitals partly rubbed :

Scotton

Notes taken in the church, 7 September, 1835—This church consists of a nave and aisles, resting on each side on three lofty pointed arches, a chancel separated from the nave by a pointed arch, and a tower at the west end. The church was repaired about five years ago, and the font is a modern one. The north door is Early English with a dog-tooth moulding. The roof is open timber and good. At the bosses of the north aisle are shields, one with the Dallison arms.

On the floor on the north side of the chancel is the recumbent figure of a knight, cross-legged, in hauberk and coif of mayle, with hose and gauntlets of the same. A long surcoat covers the hauberk.

His sword is broken, and the bearings on his shield effaced. His hands are clasped, and his feet rested on a lion.

On the opposite side is the figure of a lady in a long robe and mantle, with a wimple or coif covering the chin. Her hands are clasped. Her head rests on a pillow, and her feet on a dog. These two figures have apparently been removed from some altar tomb which might have been destroyed at the repairing of the church.

Near the figure of the knight is an old stone with this inscription round the edge in church text :

Hic iacet Ricardus Sawnby quondam rector eccl'ie qui obiit | die mensis . . . an. d'ni MCCC . . cuius
anime | propicietur deus.

On the floor at the entrance of the nave from the chancel is the figure in relief in a sunk stone of a bust of a priest in a cope, inscription gone except :

Hic iacet Magist. propiciet . . .

A flat stone in the nave to the memory of Elizabeth wife of Charles Astroppe daur. of Thomas Wattson died 31 March 1729, aged 29.

On an old stone in the south aisle has been the figure of a knight in brass, with an inscription, but now gone.

Marble tablet against the east wall of the chancel :

H.P.I. | Exuviæ reverendi viri Johannis Morley, S.T.P., |

A flat stone within the altar rails (D) :

Here | lieth interred the remains | of Ann the wife of William |
Forman who departed this life Dec^r 10, | 1782, aged 52 years. |

Also near this place lies Joseph Wood | former husband of the above Anne Forman | who died Jan^y 4, 1763, aged 41 years.

On a flat stone in the chancel (D):

Here | lie the remains of | Frances | wife of the Rev^d R. Empson | who died June 8th, 1830, | aged 35 years. | Also | the remains of | the Rev^d Ric. Empson | who died Jan^y 3, 1835.

Scredington

Notes taken in the church, 28 July, 1834—This church consists of a nave and north aisle, separated by three pointed arches resting on octagon columns, a south porch, and a small tower at the west end. The font is round and ancient. In the north aisle is a piscina. It is curious from the many relics of ancient monuments that remain, and stones which must formerly have covered the floor. The only registers left in the chest were modern ones.

In the wall of the north aisle, near the east end, is a handsome cinquoyle arch with canopy which is damaged; and under it, on a tomb almost hidden from view by a pew which has been built before it, pannelled at bottom, is the figure of a priest in stole and robes of office. His hands are clasped, and his feet rest on a dog. On the long sleeve of his garment near the bottom is an inscription of which from the obstacle of the pew I could only make out these words in old character:

Thome [Wyke] rector [ecclesie de Manchester]

In the north aisle on the south side is a large altar tomb pannelled with shields in quatrefoyles, covered with a large black slab on which is a brass plate with this inscription in old character:

Hic iacet Will's Pylet de Scredington | qui obiit xxviii^o die Junii Anno D'ni | Mill'o cccc tercio cuius anime propicietur deus Amen.

To the west of the last is another large altar tomb which has had an inscription cut round the edge, but so effaced and cut about wantonly as to be quite illegible.

Near the north door is a flat stone (D); all that remains of the inscription is:

Hic iacet.

On the floor at the east end of the north aisle is another large stone, with an inscription round the edge, effaced except a few words which are illegible.

In the nave are many stones which have had inscriptions on them but now lost ; one has a cross and the word ' Robertus ' apparently left.

On a flat stone in a pew in the chancel (D) :

In memory of John | son of William and | Priscilla Sumner | died August the 10, | 1733, aged 22 weeks. | Tread lightly passenger (the rest effaced).

Sempringham

Notes taken in the church, 27 July, 1833—The carvings of some of the old pews are curious.

On a marble tablet north of the chancel :

In memory of | John Robinson, Esq., | late of Pointon
Cottage, | who died the 18 of May | 1828 | aged 78.

A monument at the east end of the nave (R) ; arms below—Quarterly, argent and sable, on a bend over all gules three lions passant or [Hubbard]. Crest—On a cup of maintenance azure a lion's head erased or :

In memory of | John Hickling Hubbard, | gent., | who died the 11 of July | 1783, | aged 51 years. | Also Susannah his wife | who departed this life | March 26th, 1798, | aged 72
years.

The church bears evident marks of being considerably reduced in size. It now consists of a nave and north aisle supported on three Norman arches, a chancel, and a tower in the middle. In the south wall is a beautiful Norman door with the zigzag and other mouldings. The door itself is ancient and adorned with iron scroll work.

 Richard Cely, gent., | who departed this life | November
 the 12, 1741, | in the 78th year of his age.

This church consists of a nave and aisles, divided on each side by five Norman arches rising from lofty columns, a chancel divided off by a Norman arch, now blocked up, and a Norman (though late of its kind) tower at the west end, which is divided from the nave by a pointed arch. The roof of the nave is very lofty and open to the timbers. The font is Norman with intersecting arches, on a large pillar clustered with small ones. In the chancel are three stone stalls, and a piscina on the south side. The north door is Norman. The steps to the rood loft remain quite perfect to the top of the south side. The pulpit is of oak in the style of the 17th century. The church is kept very neat.

There is a list (D) of benefactions on each side the entrance to the chancel, by which it appears that John Melson, clerk, vicar, by will dated 4 Feb. 1682, devised lands in Kirton for an augmentation to the living. John Wrightson, by will, dated 2 Aug. 1700, gave lands for a commemoration sermon on the day of his death, 17 August, and also made a devise to the poor. John Brown of this parish and Thomas Peete of Boston, gent., devised also benefactions to the poor.

An old brick house with a porch stands to the west of the road about half a mile from Sibsey.

Skirbeck

Notes taken in the church, 5 August, 1834—This church is a poor one, but has been larger. It consists of a nave and aisle divided by three pointed arches rising from clustered columns, a chancel, north porch, and tower at the west end. On each side of the chancel seem to have been aisles as there are the remains of the arches in the walls. The font bears date 1662. The pulpit of carved oak seems of the same period.

A large blue flat stone in the chancel (R), with these arms over—Three water bougets [Ross] ; impaling—A bend between an eagle displayed in chief, and a cross croset in base [Rushworth] :

Here lieth the body of William Ross late | of this place, gen^t, who departed this life | the 25 of August 1698, | and also of Elizabeth his beloved wife, | only daughter & heir | of Charles Rushworth late of Boston, | gent. | She dyed August y^e 17, | 1701.

On another stone to the south of the last (R) :

of | the Rev. William Moore | of | Carleton Scroope in this county, | by his second marriage | with Jane daughter | of |
Edward Secker, esq., of Grantham, | esteemed and beloved through life | for | every moral, social, and Christian virtue, |
he exchanged this transitory state | for a better | August
the 18, 1784, | aged 70 years. | His affectionate sister, Elizabeth Lomax, | erected this monument to the memory | of a brother not more endeared to her | by the ties of blood than | by those of esteem and friendship. (This epitaph to her uncle is said to be drawn up by y^e celebrated authoress Mrs Brooke (Gentleman's Magazine, lxix, 823).)

On a monument in the chancel next to the last with an urn over, all in white marble :

Sacred to the memory of Mrs Elizabeth Lomax | the daughter of the Rev^d Williamson Moore | late rector of Carlton Scroope in this county | and relict of M^r William Lomax | late of this place, gent., who after a long life spent | in the discharge of every moral and religious duty, | died October 18, 1793, aged 84 years. | This monument is erected by | Mr John Hutton Cooper of this town as a proof | of his affectionate regard to her name and character.

On a white marble oval beyond the last :

Below lie | the remains of | Mrs Frances Brooke | relict of the Rev^d John Brooke, D.D., | rector of Colney near Norwich, |

and daughter of the Rev. Tho^s Moore | formerly rector of Carlton Scrope | in this county. | The union of superior literary talents, | with goodness of heart, rendered her | works serviceable to the cause of those | virtues of which her life was a shining | example. | She died aged 65, Jan^y 23, 1789, | but two days after her husband | whose remains lie in | Colney chancel.

On a similar oval to the last and next to it :

Sacred | to the memory | of | the Rev^d J. M. Brooke, | clerk, A.M., | rector of Falkingham | and vicar of Helpringham | in this county. | He was son | of the late Rev^d Dr Brooke | rector of Colney in Norfolk | and Frances his wife. | He died xxiv September | MDCCXCVIII, | in the XLII | year | of his age.

On a white marble monument with two urns over (R) :

Beneath are deposited the remains of Elizabeth Mary Cooper | who died at the Hot Wells, Bristol, July 10, 1793, aged 22 years, | and of Edward Moore Cooper her only child | who died an infant, | a victim in early life to the ravages of a lingering disease. | She contemplated the approaches of death | with a fortitude | which Innocence alone could supply, | and met them with a complacency | which a mind "joyful thro' hope" | and elevated to brighter prospects | can only know. |

John Hutton Cooper erects this monument | as a just tribute to the memory | of a beloved and affectionate wife.

On a black tablet against the south side of the west end of the north aisle (C) :

To the memory | of | Mr William Lomax | who departed this life | ye 25 day of April 1761, | aged 64. | Also of William

Snarford

Notes taken in the church, 5 August, 1833—

A very handsome monument against the north side of the chapel. It reaches to the roof and must be twenty feet high. A knight in armour and a lady in black dress of the time of Queen Elizabeth are reclining on their sides, with their cheeks resting on their hands. Beneath is the figure of a young girl lying on her back, with her hands clasped; on each side of her are two niches, in one of which is an angel with torch reversed kneeling on a scull; from the other the figure is gone. The pediment is supported by four Corinthian pillars, two red and two grey marble. Above are three coats of arms: (1) the centre one—Quarterly of four, 1st, . . . , a lion rampant . . . [St Paul]; 2nd, Argent, a fess between three martlets sable [Snarford]; 3rd, Gules, on a bend argent three eagles displayed sable [Stroder]; 4th, as the 1st; the arms of Ulster on an escutcheon. (2) To the west—The aforesaid four quarterings; impaling—Ermine, a griffin segreant gules [Grantham]. (3) To the east of the centre—The four quarterings; impaling—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Azure, on a chief or three martlets gules [Wray]; 2nd and 3rd, Argent, on a chevron sable between three eagles' heads erased azure three cinque foiles argent [Jackson]. Over the centre shield is the crest of an elephant, and underneath, 'Ma Foy Ma Loy'. The top of the monument is ornamented with urns and pyramids. On the cornice of the pediment the following inscriptions in opposite compartments:

(1) Fama volat velox, nec fama est ulla perennis, | Irradiat nomen, nec tamen omen ovat | virtus non virus magnus labor, arbor honoris: | ecce labor, nec honor tempora longa manet. | (2) Nil mundi mundo [for mando], cum mundo cuncta peribunt, | Ut veniunt abeunt vitreu [for vitrea] quocunque virum | ast divina manet virtus stat sæda [for sæcla] futura | et nescit finem sydera clara colens.

The following inscription is on a black slab behind the figures under the arch:

Heere lyeth the body of Sir George Saintpaul, knight and | baronett, who was the ninth heire male by linealle descent | that hath possessed this house and lordshipp of Snarford from John Saintpaul esquire who married the daughter | and heire of S^r John Snarford, knight. This knight S^r George | married Frances Wray one of the daughters of S^r Christopher | Wray, lord chief justice of England. Hee had by her onlie | one daughter Mettathia Saintpaul who died before she | was two yeares old. Hee adopted M^r George Saintpaul | sonne and heire of John Saintpaul of Campsall, esquier, his | heire to the greatest parte of his landes, and the rest hee gave | to his nephew Phillip Terwhite esquire, and to charitable uses. | Hee builded and furnishd this house of Snarford, lived in great | honour, died in much comfort when he was LI yeares old, | and odd daies, the XXVIII of October MDCXIII.

Against the north wall of the chapel, and to the west of the last, is a marble monument. Within a circle is the bust of a man in armour, with ruff and beard, nearly a full face, and behind in profile the bust of a lady with a countess's coronet on her head. Above are these arms—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Gules, a chevron between three crosslets or [Rich]; 2nd and 3rd, Sable, on a chevron engrailed between three demi griffins argent, three martlets gules [Baldry]; impaling—1st and 4th, Azure, on a chief or three martlets gules [Wray]; 2nd and 3rd, Argent, on a chevron between three eagles' heads azure, three cinquefoils argent [Jackson]. There are two crests—the dexter, A wyvern [Rich]; the sinister, An ostrich [Wray]; the whole surmounted by an earl's coronet. The inscription is under the busts in a black panel:

(1) To the everliving memorie of the right honorable Robert Lord | Rich baron of Lees, earle of Warwicke, and of the ladie | Francis his last wife. | What monument should to thy honor'd name | The love great earle of after age upreare | When in thy life thyselfe didst build the same | In fairer forme then art can frame it heere | By virtuous action and thy noble parts | That hath entomb'd thee in our livinge hearts | (2) Religious truly church and countrie's staie | To frend most faithfull mild even to his foe | Good men and learn'd advancing every waie | In all affliction patient long agoe. | In armes thy earles sole honor Warwicke stood | But thine great Rich in being doing good | (3) Ad mortem | VIATOR cum fuit unus amor mens istis una fidesque | vixeruntque deo religione pares | fare age cur tumulus non contiget unus utrique | MORS hos quia cœlesti junxerat arce Deus. | Memoria justī non | peribit. [The words in capitals are in the margin.]

There is an old octagon font bearing emblems of the Passion—(1) crossed spear and reed with sponge, (2) [? crown of thorns], (3) [blank], (4) cross with two scourges, (5) face of Christ, (6) I.H.S., (7) foliage, (8) face of evil spirit.

At the south side of the chancel is a magnificent monument of marble, at least twelve feet high, which has once been painted, but the colours are now nearly gone. Upon a raised tomb under a canopy supported by six pillars of a fantastical shape, very much ornamented, reclines the figure of a knight, and his lady at his left hand. They are of the size of life. He is completely armed, save the head, in plate armour; round his neck is a ruff, and he wears a peaked beard and moustacheo. His right hand is across his breast and holds a book, his left grasps the hilt of his sword. His head rests on his helmet on which is a crest, viz.—An elephant passant with a tower on his back ; his feet rest on a cushion. The lady is dressed in a long plaited gown covering her feet, which rest on a cushion. She wears a ruff and a flat square cap with an edging of pearls. Her face is mutilated. Her head is supported by a pillow, and her hands are clasped over her breast and hold a book. The canopy is much ornamented within ; and above it have been eight small female figures kneeling, one of which is now gone. In the middle rises a sort of pedestal on which are the figures of a man kneeling between two females (D). In front of the pedestal looking west are these arms—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Argent, a lion rampant, double queue gules [St Paul] ; 2nd, Argent, a fesse sable between three magpies proper [Snarford] ; 3rd, Gules, on a bend argent three eaglets sable [Stroder]. Crest—An elephant passant, bearing on his back a tower. Fronting the east are these—The last mentioned quarters ; impaling—1st, Argent, a griffin segreant gules [Grantham] ; 2nd, Argent, a crescent in base, and an estoile in chief gules [Tooke] ; 3rd, Two bars [Hilton] ; 4th, A chevron between two crescents in chief and a crosslet fitch in base sable [Gegge]. Round the edge of the tomb is this inscription in Old English characters beginning at the south side :

Hic iacet dominus Thomas St Poll, miles, qui obiit vicessimo nono die Augusti | anno d'ni millesimo quingentesimo octogesimo secundo et | anno regni Reginæ Elizabethæ vicesimo quarto et requiescit in Christo. | Lector quid sim vides quid fuerim nosti futurus ipse quid sis cogita.

Below are shields of arms : on the west, St Paul impaling Grantham ; on the south, (1) St Paul impaling Snarford, and (2) St Paul impaling Stroder ; on the east, ——— impaling Grantham ; on the north, (1) Grantham impaling Tooke, and (2) Hilton impaling Gegge. The tomb is highly adorned with pilasters and garlands.

On a brass plate in the south wall in capitals, above have been arms but now gone :

cuius anime propicietur deus Amen.

A flat blue stone in the floor of the chancel, arms cut over—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Two bars between three estoiles pierced [Doughty]; 2nd and 3rd, An escocheon between eight martlets [Brownlow]; over all an escocheon—Verrey, a chief [for Tichborne]. Crest—A hand holding an estoile:

✠ | Here lies the Body of | George Brownlow Doughty | of Snarford Esq. | who died the 21st of Sep^r 1743, | Aged 58 years. | He married one of y^e Coheireses of | S^r Henry Tichborne of Tichborne | in Hampshire Bart. | by whome
he had Five Sons | and Five Daughters. | Requiescat in pace
Amen.

Another stone more to the south:

Here lie interred the remains | of M^r Arnold Knight | who departed this life at Snarford | on the 27 day of Feb^y 1731, | in the 62 Year of his Age. | Deservedly regretted by all his Acquaintance | As an Honest Man and Sincere Friend. |
Requiescat | in pace | Amen.

On a broken iron railing (D) in the chancel which seems to have once gone round the St Poll monument is an inscription in old character:

Aspice quod prodest transacti temporis æuum omne quod est nihil est præter amare deum.

The church consists of a nave and chancel, and tower at the west end.

Somerby by Grantham

Notes taken in y^e church of Somerby, 3^d October, 1839—This church consists of a nave, south aisle and chancel, a south porch, and tower at y^e west end. The nave is divided from y^e aisle by two equilateral arches with low clustered shafts, and from the chancel by a handsome Norman arch which has y^e toothed moulding.

The windows are mostly perpendicular, the eastern one a modern insertion. These arms are in a window of the nave—Argent, two bars gules, in chief three torteauxes [Threkingham]. The font is octagon and massive with ornaments of a decorated character. At the east end of y^e aisle is a piscina and bracket. The door from y^e rood loft remains in the north east corner of the nave. The tower is entered by a pointed arch, and appears by y^e exterior to be of modern date.

A brass plate in the floor of the nave (R) with these arms—Two bends between two martlets [Bradshaw]; impaling—A wolf's head erased between three bugle horns stringed [Bradford]. Crest—A hart statant under a tree :

Here lyes Peregrine Bradshaw, Esq^r, who departed | this life the 17 of August 1669; he was youngest sonne | to Anthony Bradshaw of Duffield in the county of | Derby Esq^r and was page to Queen Ann and Esq^r | to the body of Kinge
Charles the first. Here | also lyes Mrs Susanna Bradshaw his wife who depart- | ed this life May y^e 14th 1673. She was daughter to | William Bradford of Hollum in the county of | Somersett, Esq^r.

A brass plate in a stone (R) on y^e floor of y^e nave near the entrance to y^e chancel, above which has been a figure in brass, but it was removed in y^e late rector's time because it caught people's feet :

Hic iacet Robertus bawd de somerby, | Armiger et iusticiarius
pacis ac chorum | d'ni reg's in partibus de Kestewyn in comitatu |
lincoln qui obiit v^o die mensis february | a^o d'ni m^occcc^oix^o
cuius anime propicietur | deus Amen I'hu mercy lady helpe.

A small white monument of marble (R) against the north wall of the chancel, flanked by two Ionic pillars, and having these arms over in a lozenge—Or, an inescutcheon within an orle of martlets sable [Brownlow]. This inscription in capitals :

Here lyeth the body of Mrs Jane | Brownlowe eldest daughter | of S^r Richard Brownlowe, | Baronet, and of his wife Dame |
Elizabeth daughter to John | Freke Esq. of Yorn Cortney | in the county of Dorset. | She deceased the 16 yeare of | her life the 1 of June 1670. | She was of a solid serious | temper, of a competent stature, | and a fayre compleaction, whoes |
soul now is perfectly butyfyed | with the fruition of God in | Glory and whose body in his | dew time he will rais to | the injoyment of the same.

On the base also in capitals :

Epitaph. | Here lies a Virgin whose clear conscience may |
Compared with whitest vellum truly say | The spot lyes
there who clensed me wrott his name | So firm upon me I am still the same | His whilst I lived he owned mee still I'm his | Preserved by him till I enjoy true Blis.

A large and handsome monument on y^e north wall of the chancel composed of black, white, and grey marble, and ornamented with vases, wreathes of flowers, &c. these arms below—Brownlow, impaling—Or, two barrs sable, on a chief three mullets or [Freke]:

To the precious memory of | Dame Elizabeth Brownlowe, | grandchild of the late S^r Thomas Freke | of the county of Dors., kt, eldest daughter | of that worthily honored John Freke Com. præd., Esq., (by his 2^d | wife that soe noble accomplished Lady Jane Shvrley) wife | & widdow of y^e late Hon^{ble} Sir Richard Brownlowe | of Great Hvmby Com. Linc. Baronet | by whom she was y^e happy mother | of ten hopefull children, viz. 3 sons & 7 daughters, of which | she saw only her 2 sons S^r John & William survivant at | her death. She was a person whose hereditary vertues | & graceful qualifications rendered her a fair & fit | pattern for this & future ages to follow, | who, | for her sincere devotion towards God, | conjugal affection to her most oblidgingly loving husband, | maternal affection to her dear & well deserving children, | cordial kindness as well to her collateral as near relations, | Hospitality to her neighbours, charity to y^e poor & affability | to all persons, | deserves a far larger memorial than this marble can admit. | Having been continually carefull to make her calling | & election sure, so circumspectly still lived as | daily prepared to die, | Till at length weary of longer walking in the | wilderness of this world on the 2^d of Feb. 168³/₄, | & 51 year of her early autumn, piously & | peacably finished her alas! too short but well | past pilgrimage, | and having through all the paths of | virtue & honor followed so good a guide & prudent | a husband (who in y^e 40th year of his vigorous | age went fifteen years before her) | here resteth in a fiduciall hope of a glorious Resurrection. | To whose memory her two sorrowful sons & joynt | Exequitors S^r John Brownlowe 4th Bart of his family, | with his dear brother William Brownlowe Esq. | as y^e last testimonial of their dutiful observance | erected this monument.

On a white marble monument (R) against y^e north wall of the chancel flanked by two Corinthian pilasters and surmounted by an urn, these arms below—Per pale sable and gules, a saltier between three lions rampant. Crest—A lion's head erased, crowned or [for Hotchkin]:

Near this place lyeth interred the body of | John Hotchkin, clerk, rector of | Abbot's Ripton in the county of Huntingdon, | youngest son of Robert Hotchkin, Esq., | late of Bradmore in the county of Nottingham, | and Mary his wife, | who departed this life on the 8th Feb^y | in the year of our Lord 1744, | in the 73^d year of his age, | after having been rector | of Abbot's Ripton 41 years. | He married Alice the daughter of | John Hanger, gent., of Upwood | in the county of Huntingdon | by whom he had 13 children, | six of whom he left to survive him.

A black and white marble tablet (R) against the wall to the east of the last mentioned monument :

In a vault outside of the church | lie the remains of the Rev^d
John Myers, | 42 years rector of Somerby cum Humby, | born November 8th, 1764, died December 28, 1831. | The deep regret of his parishioners is the best | record of his virtues, but this stone is placed as a | memorial of grateful love by his affectionate | widow Maria Myers. | 'I know that my Redeemer liveth. | Sorrow not even as others which have no hope. | For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again | Even so them also which sleep in Jesus | will God bring with Him.'

On another below (R) :

In a vault outside of the church | lie the remains of Bridget |
relict of the late Robert Cheney Esq^r | of Meynell Langley
Hall, Derbyshire, | born at Wirksworth July 1739, | died at Somerby February 21, 1829. | Long spared to bless thy children and the poor | We thank that God who long the blessing gave | And strengthened thee with Christian Faith and Hope | To vanquish Natures terrors of the Grave. | Oh !
still around thy ready aid impart | And write 'Prepare to die' on every heart.

On another more to the east (R) :

In a vault outside of the church | lie the remains of William youngest son | of the late Robert Cheney, Esq^r, and late |
Captain in the first Regiment of Guards, | born December 2^d,
1780, died at Somerby | December 17, 1822. | Also the remains of Eliza second daughter | of the late Robert Cheney, Esq^r, |
born September 4th, 1775, died at Somerby | October 14th, 1830. | Calm is her slumber here but she shall rise | And through her Saviour gain her native skies | For she was just and good without pretence | Artless as childhood meek as Innocence | God in His mercy bade her sufferings cease | And to her gentle Spirit whisper'd Peace.

A black marble tablet below the two last (R) :

In a vault outside of the church | lie the remains of Elizabeth
Amell | who lived in the family of the late | Robert Cheney,
Esq^r, and Bridget his wife 60 years, | And died at Somerby
December 6th, 1826, aged 80. | In affectionate remembrance of her long tried service | And grateful attachment this stone is placed by | Maria Myers & Jemima Cheney. | 'Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from | henceforth Yea saith the Spirit that they | may rest from their labours and | their works do follow them.'

On a flat stone in the chancel floor in capitals (R) :

Here lyeth the body of y^e | Rev^d Joshua Clarke Master | of Arts rector of this church | and prebendary of Lincoln | who departed this life | on the 22^d of September | in the 60th year of his age | Anno D'ni 1712. | He was also Convocation |
Man for the Diocese 1700. | Here lyeth the body of | the Rev^d
Thomas Pretious, | rector of this church, who | departed this life August the 4th, | in the year of our Lord 1739, | in the 46th year of his age.

Another stone (D) partly hid by the stove commemorates ye deaths of some children of the Rev^d Tho. Pretious, but it is so effaced as to be mostly illegible.

Within y^e altar rails is a stone (D) which has had a figure and inscription in brass, both now gone ; and on y^e northern side of the altar on a slab slightly raised from y^e ground is the recumbent figure of a knight in hauberk and coif of mail, with a surcoat, and a triangular shaped shield which is broken. His hands are clasped, and at his feet is his squire, kneeling, holding his horse. The heads of both squire and horse are gone, but the saddle, stirrups, and bridle of the latter are quite visible, and the whole is a very singular design.

Sothby

Notes taken in the church, 11 October, 1840—This is a small old church containing a nave and chancel ; no tower ; the bell hung over the entrance porch.

The only inscription is on a flat stone just before the Communion table as follows in capitals :

Here lieth the body of | Mr John Porter who was | rector of this church 30 | years, and who left this | world the 13 day of March | Anno Dom. 1688^o, aged 59.

(MS x, 7.)

Spalding

Notes taken in the church, [blank]—

A white marble monument over the door on the south side of the chancel, with these arms above—Or, on a pile [vert three garbs of the field—Oldfield] ; impaling—Argent, a chevron ermine between three mullets sable [Gresham] :

Near this place lieth the body of | Dame Elizabeth Oldfeild, ye relict | of S^r Anthony Oldfeild of this town, | Bart. & daughter of S^r Edward | Gresham of Lympsfield in the | county of Surrey, kt. She departed | this life the 22 day of July 1682, | in the 58 year of her age, leaving 2 | sons & 2 daughters, viz. Sir John, | Anthony, Elizabeth, & Mary, w^{ch} said | daughters erected this monument that so | dear a mother and so good a lady may | not be forgotten when they shall be | dead that would tell her virtues ; she | was truly religious, just, chaste, | generous & charitable. | Reader consider, | ‘Goe thou and do likewise.’

On a flat stone in the middle of the chancel near the altar :

Here lies interred | the remains of the Rev. John Dinham, | 23 years minister of this parish ; | he was a truly pious and good Christian | and an ornament to his sacred profession, | a most tender and affectionate husband, | a fond and indulgent father, | a warm and sincere friend, | and an universal lover of mankind ; | add to these virtues, | he was a polite scholar and gentleman, | an able & experienced magistrate, | in which department he acted upwards of | twenty years with the strictest conformity to Justice ; | he died the 2d of April 1782, | in the 57 year of his age. | Four children died before him, viz. | John, Samuel, William, and Harriet Jackson, | and nine survived him. | Gresham Dinham | the widow and relict of the above | John Dinham | died the 17 December 1808, | aged 76 years.

On a flat stone close by, and north of the last :

In memory of | the Reverend Stephen Lyon, near forty years minister | of this place, a native of France of the city of Roan, | which place he left under the guardianship of his | mother, for the sake of the Protestant Religion there | persecuted. | He was an honor to his profession | the delight of every sensible man, | a proficient in all liberal knowledge himself, | and a great encourager of it in others, | a true lover of the constitution of England | as it was settled at the Revolution, | attached vehemently to no sect or party, | an universal lover of mankind. | He died on the 4 of February 1747, aged 70. | Also in memory of | Mrs Grace Lyon his wife the daughter of George | Lynn Esq. of Southwick in Northamptonshire, | who in the constant exercise | of every amiable quality | was an ornament to her sex, | a credit to her family, | and the joy of her husband. | She died the 16 of April 1747, aged 73. | Likewise | of two of their daughters | Mary and Susanna | who died young.

On a flat stone at the entrance to the chancel :

Mary Johnson | eldest daughter of the late | Maurice Johnson Esq. | of Ascough Fee Hall, | born 10 November 1758, | died 27 March 1829.

On the same stone :

Gresham Ambler Dinham | daughter of | the Rev^d John
Dinham | and Gresham his wife | born 21st March 1755, | died 11 November 1826.

On a stone near the above :

Here was interred | the body of | S^r Anthony Oldfield | of this town, Bart, | who departed this life | the 4th day of September | anno salutis n'ræ 1668, [anno] ætatis suæ
42.

On a lofty marble monument in the south transept with these arms—Or, a water bouget sable, on a chief of the 2d three annulets of the first, a crescent for difference [Johnson]; impaling—Argent, a chevron gules between three lions heads erased of the same, crowned or [Johnson of Pinchbeck]:

Sacred to the memory of | Mrs Jane Johnson. | Could height of beauty sence or goodnes save | Could love or friendship ransom from the grave | Had floods of tears or clouds of prayers prevailed | Which oft have with success high heaven assailed | O'er these dear relics now we should not mourn |
Nor had such precious dust adorned this urn | How few we find an equal match for pain | Or whose firm reason holds their passions rein | Who solid greatness know but false despise |
By all unless themselves accounted wise | Humble yet not demiss meek but not base | And whose well tempered mind adorns their grace | Devotion to a narrow cell confined | Is lost in shades and useless to mankind | Happy are those who like th' Angelic race | Tho' oft retired to view their Makers face | To this low world their generous cares extend |
And aid the poor and aid a virtuous friend. | Such was the saint who lies enshrined beneath | And as serene her life
she smiled on death. | Posuit charissimæ conjugii | Mæstissimus
conjux | Mauritius Johnson. (At the base of the monument) :
Nata 10 Maii | A'o D'ni 1666 | obiit 17 Julij A'o D'ni
1703.

At the west end of the south aisle is a white marble tablet, with these arms below—Argent, two lions passant guardant sable, on a chief of the first two standing cups covered azure [Worrall];
impaling—Or, an eagle displayed sable, a chief ermine :

Hic situm est | Quicquid mortale fuit | Georgii Worrall
Generosi | Qui vicesimo nono Octobris die 1771 | ætate sua
49 | Obiit | Vir juris peritus non minus tam diligens | Quam ad clientes fidelis | Et parens et maritus in conjugem et liberos | Summo amore insignis | Hoc monumentum | Patris
memoriæ optimi sacrum esse voluit | Gulielmus Henleius
Worrall | Filius superstes.

Upon another more to the east, with arms over—Ermine, on a fess gules three escallops or. Crest—On a torce gules and argent, a cock or [Ingram]:

In memory of | Captⁿ John Ingram | late of the 56th Regiment who | died August 23, 1781, aged 65 years. | Also Charles his son Ensign | in the same regiment | who died at the Havannah | August 12, 1762, aged 15 years. | Also George his son aged 6 years. | And also George his son aged 8 years. |
This monument was erected by | Stephen Sanderson Ingram, gent., | his eldest son.

Another tablet at the east end:

M.S. | Johannis et Catherinae Scotney | Parentum optimorum |
Quorum | Ille quadragesimum primum | Hæc tricesimum
septimum | Annum agens | Obiit Nov. 11, 1720, | [obiit]
March 5 1729 | Parvum hoc pietatis monimentum [sic] | Qui debut | mærens posuit.

On a flat stone at the entrance to the chancel:

Here lie deposited | the remains of the Rev^d Mr Samuel
Whiteing | who was interred March the 24^o, | 1757, | aged
48 years.

A flat stone in the south aisle:

Mrs Jane Sanderson | relict of | Fullwood Sanderson Esq. |

Stapleford

Notes taken in the church, 10 August, 1833—This is a very mean church; it consists of a modern nave and chancel, and a tower, which is old, at the west end.

On a black stone tablet lying in the chancel (R) :

In | memory of | Ann the wife of | Edward Tonge | who departed this life | on the XXII of April | MDCCCIX, | aged XXXII years. | She had few equals.

On another lying by (R) :

In | memory of | Charles Tonge | who departed this life | on the XII of Sep. | MDCCCIX | aged LIV years. | The time is short.

These stones, however, were originally outside on the wall of the church, but on its being repaired were moved inside. The old residence of the Rothwells is now but a farmhouse, and in the occupation of the Tonges; it stands between the church and the road.

Jane the wife of John Smith, | gent., interr'd June the 23,
1691. | Margery his second wife interr'd | August the 18th, 1711.

A tablet of donations from divers persons ; among them :

Thomas Bishop of Stickney, Esq.

Wm Strawson, clerk, rector of Stickney.

Edward Cocker of Stickney.

This church consists of a nave and aisles separated by four pointed arches on each side rising from low columns, a chancel, and tower at the west end, divided off by a good pointed arch, a south porch. The windows are Perpendicular. In the tower are two good windows of that era. The roof is open to the timbers, and the font is modern. In the south wall of the chancel are the remains of an arched recess, apparently a tomb (D), but it is built now almost into the east wall ; opposite, a low arched doorway blocked up. From these appearances most probably the chancel has been shortened.

Stow in Lindsey

Notes taken in the church of Stow, 4th September, 1835—This church has been so frequently described as to need nothing further here, and many of the inscriptions have been already given in the Gentleman's Magazine, 1831, part i, 492-5; and 1827, part i, 585-6. Besides the following, however, there are many inscriptions at the west end that we had not time to copy.

A white tablet against the south wall of the chancel (D):

Sacred | to the memory of Thomas Stones | late of Gainsbro' | nephew to John Torr of Stow Park. | He was born May the 29, 1766, | in the parish of Hathersage, Derbyshire. | By lifting the anchor of a ship | he broke his leg | which brought on a lockt jaw | that terminated his existence | July 1, 1795. |
This monument was erected | as a token of esteem | by his cousin Jn^o Torr of Doncaster.

On a stone in the chancel floor (D):

Here lieth | the body of Mr | Burgh Tathwell gent. | who

Stragglethorpe

Notes taken in the church, 9 August, 1833—

On a stone in the nave :

In | memory of | John Upshull | who | departed this life |
Janu^y 6, 1747, | aged 53.

On a handsome marble monument on the north side of the chancel, these arms above—Gules, three escallops in a bordure argent [Earle]; impaling—A fess between three fleur de lis [Welby]; the colours here are gone. Above the inscriptions are cherubs, and on each side a bust, one a man in flowing hair and the other a youthful face with very redundant locks and scarcely to be known whether male or female; a little cherub sits upon the ledge of the base :

Stay reader & observe Deaths partial Doom | A spreading virtue in a narrow tombe | A generous mind mingled with common dust | Like burnished Steel covered & left in rust |
Dark in the earth he lyes in whom did shine | All the divided merits of his line | The lustre of his name seems faded here |
No fairer star in all that fruitful [sic] sphere | In piety and parts extremely bright | Clear was his youth & filled with growing light | A morn that promised much yet saw no noon | None ever rose so fast & set so soon | All lines of worth were center'd here in one | Yet see he lies in shades whose life had none | But while the mother this sad structure rears | A double dissolution there appears | He into dust dissolves she into tears. | Richardus Earle Barn^{tus} | obiit
decimo tertio die Augusti | Anno Dom. 1697, ætatis suæ 24.

On a flat stone in the chancel in capitals :

Sir Richard Earle Bar | onet deceased March y^e 25, | 1667, an. ætat. 60. | Hiere ly great Sir till Good and Just | Shall reunite thy moulderd dust | And rayse thy once well tempered peice | To a more glorious edifice | If wise just chaste loyall are blest | Meane mortalls with eternall rest |
If faith Hope Charity are proved | Jesus loved | Doubt not but these same ashes shall | Rise to a frame ætheriall. | Goe reader live & learn to dy | Like him that now lives happily.

This church consists of a nave and north aisle separated by two low round arches, a chancel divided off by a screen, and a bell turret at the west end.

On an old stone in church text in the nave :

Hic jacet dominus Simon vicarius ecclesie cuius anime propicietur deus Amen. [Simon of Woodthorpe was instituted in 1350.]

On a tablet of wood is recorded that Thomas Williamson of Woodthorpe gave by his last will and testament, bearing date the 28 April 1728, lands to this parish.

On a marble monument against the east wall of the south aisle, above these arms—Argent, a lion rampant sable, in chief [gules] three [cinquefoils or] [Ballet] :

Here lyeth the body of Charles Ballett | late of Clements Inn in the county of | Middlesex, gent., deceased, which Charles | had to his first wife Elizabeth Wells | daughter of John Wells
gent. in the | county of Kent, and he had issue by her | two sons and two daughters, Charles | and Tho., Elizabeth and Sarah. | He had to his second wife Ann Tingle | late widow of William Tingle gent. | in the county of Northampton, |
by whom he had no issue. | Obiit 27 Jan. 1703, | ætatis
suæ 69.

Against the east wall of the south aisle is a small monument of alabaster stone. In a recess formed by two red Corinthian pillars with gilt capitals, is the figure of a man clothed in alderman's robes, kneeling before a desk and, opposite, his two wives in black plaited gowns. Below are the kneeling figures of seven sons dressed in cloaks, trunkhose, and jack boots, all black, one holding a skull, and two daughters whose heads are both lost. One also has a skull. Above are three shields, the principal one—Ballett ; [crest—An eagle's head issuant from a mural crown]. On the dexter side—Ballett, impaling—An escarbuncle [Garton]. The sinister shield is now gone. Below the figures is the following inscription on a black slab in capitals :

Here lieth ye body of William Ballett, Alderman of London, late of Woodthorpe in the | county of Lincoln esq., sonne and

heyre of Edward Ballett | of Vfford in y^e county of Suffolek gent., by Ursula y^e daughter | of Richard Saunders gent., wich Edward was y^e sonne & heyre | of Thomas Ballett of Ufford gent., by Alice Jay. This William | had two wives, Joan y^e eldest daughter of Francis Garton | of Billinghamurst in the county of Sussex esq., and by her | had two sonnes and one daughter, John, William, & Elizabeth, dead with | out issue. His other wife was Susanna eldest daughter of Paterick | Dethicke of Westminster in y^e county of Middlesex gent., | descended | of y^e name of Dethick called Dedick of Worcestershire ; by her he had five | sonnes & one daughter, William, George, Charles, Edward, Richard, | & Rose. William marryed Mary y^e daughter and coheir of Richard Horneby | of Tothill, Esq., by Winifred y^e daughter of Robert Peyton of Iselam in y^e | county of Cambridge esq., by Elizabeth daughter of Robert Lord | Rich, wich Willam had issue Willam, Richard, & Anne. George marryd Ellen | y^e daughter of William Thorie of Thurleby gent., by whome he had William, | Charles, George, Frauncis, Susanna, Mary, & Ann. Charles marryd Sarah | y^e daughter of Thomas Newcomen of Wythren gent., by whome he had | issue, Charles, Samuell, & Mary. This William the grandfather dyed 9 May, | 1648, being aged 99 years.

This church, which is in a miserable condition from damp and want of repair, consists of a nave and south aisle divided by four pointed arches, a chancel, and wooden tower (D) at the west end. The east end of the south aisle is enclosed by an oak screen (D) of good Decorated work. The font is also of the same character, octagonal, ornamented with a pannelling of windows. An old chest (D) of the same stile of ornament remains.

Surfleet

Notes taken in the church, 17 July, 1833—

On a flat stone in the chancel before the altar :

Here | lie the remains of | Dame Anne Fraser | daughter of | S^r Henry Heron, Knight of the Bath, | deceased, and | relict of S^r Peter Fraser, | Baronet. | This excellent Lady | died at Cressey Hall | the 25 of August 1769, | in the 92 year of her age, | full of days & good | works.

On a flat stone near the above :

Here lyeth Frances y^e | daughter of S^r William | Bampffield of y^e ancient | famyly of Poultymmer in | Devonshire, she maryed S^r | John Brooke of Heckington | in Lincolnshire who was | restored to the Barony of | Lord Cobham of Coolling | in the county of Kent, by King | Charles y^e 1st in the year | 1644. She lived a widow | 17 years 3 months and | departed this life y^e 13 | of December 1676.

On a flat stone near the above with these arms cut above—A chevron ermine between three herons. Crest—A heron's head [Heron] :

Here lieth the body of Henry | the sonne of the Hon^{ble} S^r Henry | Heron, Knight of the Bath, & | of Dorothy his wife, borne | the 12 of July & dyed the | same day 1674.

On a stone near the above :

Here lieth | S^r Henry Heron, | Knight of the Bath, | of Cressy Hall in this parish, | he was interred August 9, 1695, | aged 76.

On a stone tablet against the east wall at the end of the south aisle :

Many are the friends of the rich man | be this humble stone sacred to the memory of | the poor man's friend | Samuel Elsdale | who after a patriarchal life | spent in the exercise of christian charity | died on the 18 of February 1788, aged 83 years. | The blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon me | And I caused the widow's heart to sing for joy.

On a white and grey marble tablet against the north wall :

Sacred to the memory of | Mr John Robinson gent. | who died the 18 of September 1804, | aged 64 years, | and three of his grandchildren. | Dear wife farewell I'm gone before |
My love to you can be no more | No grief no sorrow for me make | But love my children for my sake. | Also Mrs Hannah
Robinson | widow of the above gentleman | died the 11th of
Septe^r 1821 | aged 82 years.

On a grey and white marble monument on the wall of the south aisle with these arms under—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Sable, a chevron between three crosslets fitchee argent [Buckworth]; 2nd, between three stars of six points; 3rd, [Ermine], on a canton azure a pelican or [Pell]; impaling—Azure, a chevron ermine between three martlets argent [Northon]. Crest, a demi-lion holding a battle axe :

Sacred to the memory of | Theophilus Buckworth Esq. | younger son of Everard Buckworth Esq. | by Jane Pell eldest daughter & coheiress of | Henry Pell Esq. | of Dembleby in this county. | He departed this life the 17 day of February
1801, | aged 63 years. | Also of Ann his wife the daughter of | John Northon Esq^{re} | of Holbeach in this county | who surviving her beloved husband scarcely ten months | departed this life the 12th of December 1801 | aged 55 years.

Against the wall is an atchievement of the same arms with the motto, 'Spes mea in Deo'; and another with the arms of Buckworth with those of Pell, viz.—Ermine, on a canton azure a pelican or, in an escucheon.

On a flat stone in the middle aisle :

In memory | of Robinson Elsdale, gent., | he died October the 15, 1783, | aged 38 years. | Freed from the load of life the vale of woe | The husband father friend resigned his breath |
For weeping virtue could not ward the blow | Nor prayers of thousands stop the hand of death. | Ah vain the pomp of praise the marble urn | Where pensive cherubs guard
the polished bust. | In vain they bid the careless reader mourn | O'er trophied tombs & monumental dust. | Let such proud trophies mark some other stone. | Thy worth less failing testimonies prove | The poor man's pangs the orphan's widow's moan | The sighs of friendship and the tears of love. |

 Mary Anne | daughter of the said Robinson Elsdale and
 Ann his wife | died in her infancy.

On another flat stone :

In memory of | Miss Ann Elsdale | daughter of | Samuel
 Elsdale, gent., | by Mary his wife | who departed this life |
 March 21, 1768, | aged 21. | In Troops assembled all y^e virgin train | View well this stone and if you can be vain | Ye loveliest of her fair survivors know | Not all your charms can ward the fatal blow | Virtue directs to everlasting joy |
 Which time can't interrupt nor death destroy.

On a tablet of white and grey marble against the north wall :

In a vault near this place are | deposited the remains of |
 Henry Smith, Esq., of Cressey Hall | in this county, who died the | 7th of February 1823, aged 56. | Also rest here four | children of Henry and Jane Smith | who died in their infancy.

On a flat stone close by the above monument :

Henry Smith | of Cressey Hall | died 7 February 1823, |
 aged 56.

Near to the last has been the brass of a man with an inscription but now gone, and in the chancel in a niche north of the altar is the effigy in stone, but now covered with white wash, of a knight with his legs crossed, the feet resting against a lion couchant.

A marble monument against the north wall of the chancel :

In memory of Henry Heron, Esq., | descended from an ancient and honourable family of knights ; he was | son of Sir Henry
 Heron, Knight of the Bath, of Cressy Hall in this | parish, and of Dorothy daughter of Sir James Long of Dray Court, |
 Baronet, in the county of Wilts, and in him ended in a direct | line the descendants of Sir John Heron, Knight of the Bath, | who was representative of the ancient family of Ford Castle | in Northumberland, and Privy Counsellor to King Henry | the eight. As a member of Parliament he always preferred | the interest of his country to his own, which the Borough of | Boston & this county can sufficiently testify, he having | represented them in several successive Parliaments. In the | administration of justice he acted without partiality and in | the distribution of hospitality without an equal, following | the example of his ancestors, and as he lived esteemed | so he died much lamented the 10 day of September 1730, | aged 55. | In memory of his wife Abigail Hevingham | of the ancient family of y^e
 Hevinghams of Hevingham Hall | in the county of Norfolk, a Lady of exemplary virtue | and true Christian piety died in the year 1735.

A marble monument against the wall of the north aisle :

Hic jacet | Everardus Buckworth Armig^r | Natus [anno Christi] 1693 | Mortuus anno Christi 1751. | Qui fuerim ex hoc marmore cognoscis | Qualis vero cognoscis alibi | Eo scilicet supremo tempore | Quo ipse etiam | Qualis tu fueris cognoscam | Abi viator et fac sedulo | Ut ipse tum bonus appareas. | Also the remains of Mrs Jane Buckworth | who died the 2^d of April 1770.

These arms below—Sable, a chevron between three crosslets fitchy argent [Buckworth]; the inescucheon—Ermine, on a canton azure a pelican or [Pell].

Upon a similar one more to the west with these arms below—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Buckworth; 2nd, Gules, a chevron between three mullets argent [Everard]; 3rd, Pell; an escucheon—Argent, a tower triple towered between three standing cups covered azure [for Amcotts]:

Sacred to the memory of the Rev^d | Everard Buckworth, | LL.D., | died October 3^d, 1792, | eldest son of Everard Buckworth of Spalding, Esq., | and Jane daughter & coheiress | of Henry Pell of Dembleby, Esq., | married August 2, 1754, Frances | youngest daughter of | Vincent and Elizabeth Amcotts | of Harrington, Esq., | and one of the surviving sisters and coheiresses | of Charles Amcotts, Esq., | a man of great learning, | refined by a polite education, | deeply versed in the beautiful works | of the Almighty Creator, | affectionate, benevolent, | beloved, and lamented by all. | His widow hath erected this monument | waiting until it shall please the Almighty | to reunite them in the grave | and call them to a blessed Resurrection.

On a small tablet of marble below :

Frances Buckworth | relict | of the Rev^d Everard Buckworth, LL.D., | died the 21st of April 1810, | aged 83 years, | and lies here interred.

On a flat stone in the south aisle with the top broken off and partly hid by a pew :

. | Susanna his wife who departed this | November the 13, 1729. | Also John who died April 3^d, , | four days after his birth; | here also lieth the body of Susan | a daughter who departed this | life Feb. 9, 1721, | Ann a daughter died June | ye 1st, 1723, | James a son died January | ye 21, 1723. [The burials of these people are not recorded in the Surfleet register.]

On a flat stone in the nave :

To the memory of | Mr John Robinson, gent., | who departed this life | September the 18, 1804, | aged 64 years. | And in memory of | Hannah his wife | who departed this life | September the 11, 1821, aged 82 years. | Also three grandchildren of | the above who died | in their infancy.

Upon another near the window (D):

In memory of Mr John Elsdale | interr'd June 24th, 1723, aged 29. | Also in memory of Mary the wife of | Samuel Elsdale, gent., | who died Feb. 22^d, 1757, | aged 46 years, | and of two of their children who died in their | infancy.

This church consists of a nave separated from its aisles by four pointed arches and a chancel. At the west end is a tower and spire in which is a peal of five bells. There is a fine south porch with an Early English door ornamented with the toothed moulding. The font is octagon and pannelled with quatrefoils. In a niche at the north side of the altar is the recumbent figure of a knight with his feet resting on a dog and his head on a cushion. His feet are crossed and he bears a shield on his left arm.

Sutterton

Notes taken in the church, 4 August, 1834—This church is curious; it consists of a nave divided from its aisles by six early pointed arches springing from round columns, the capitals of which are curiously moulded, a chancel, north and south transepts, and a fine tower and crocketed spire at the intersection. The arch from the nave to the tower is pointed with the toothed moulding. The east window is of five lights with curiously ramified tracery. The south porch has a singular outer arch and the north door is handsome and Norman. In the east wall of the chancel is a double arched piscina, and in the south wall a monumental arch.

Set upright against the north side of the arch from the chancel to the tower, facing the former, is a tombstone of ancient workmanship bearing a figure attired in a plaited robe with the hands clasped. The features are destroyed. Round the edge of the stone is an inscription, but from the position and damage it has suffered it could not be decyphered. It is in Saxon character.

On the side of the arch facing west is a similar stone with the figure of a priest in a stole and canonicals holding a cup in his hands. There is an inscription round the edge of the stone, but though more perfect perhaps than the last I could not decypher it.

On the south side of the arch facing east is another tomb, similar to the two former, bearing the figure of a female in a long plaited robe and wimple, with her hands clasped on her breast. The inscription here, which also runs round the edge of the tomb on similar characters to the other two, is quite illegible.

On an old flat stone within the altar rails with this inscription round the edge (D):

Here lyeth the body of Joan late wife of Thomas Estcourt of Sutterton gen. who departed this life Jan. 20, An

A flat stone to the north (D):

In | memory of | William Cash | who departed this life | July y^e 19, 1765, | aged 55 years.

On a flat blue stone in the nave (D):

Here | lieth the body of | Edward Booth, | gent., | who departed this life | April the 20, | 1720. | in y^e 61 year of his | age.

Another stone more to the west with these arms cut—A chevron between three leaves, differenced by a crescent [Shore]. The inscription round the edge in capitals (D):

Here lyeth y^e body of Ann | first wife of Robert Shore, gentleman, one of the daughters | of William [? Fretham] late of | Swineshead, gent., life y^e 15 of December | 1678.

On a flat stone more to the west (D):

Here lyeth the body of | Robert Shore, gent., who | died January y^e 20, | 1717, aged 67 years.

A stone more to the west in capitals rubbed (D):

Hope waiting upon | Faith said instantly | that henceforth . . . | him corruption dye | that is y^e Lord of life | by dying can | save men from death | and corruption. | Here lieth Rebekah | Hunn dearly love = | ing and only beloved | wife of Tho. Hunn | who dyed Novem. y^e . . . | & buried y^e . . . | in y^e 32 year of her age | 1704.

Another to the west (D):

Here | lieth the body of | The Reverend | James Whitworth, | many years resident | in this parish, | and | Curate of Algar-kirk | cum Fosdyke. | He died 13 of Sept. 1786, | aged 52.

A tablet against the wall of the south aisle at the east end (D):

Near this place | lyeth interred the body | of Beaumont Leeson | who departed this life | November the 6, | 1750, | ætatis suæ 37.

Long Sutton

Notes taken in the church of Long Sutton, 22 July, 1833—

On a white marble monument of a circular form at the east end of the north aisle (D):

Sacred | to the memory of | Sarah Delamore | daughter of Maurice and Amy Delamore | who died the xxiv of February MDCCCXXIII, | aged xc years.

On a white marble tablet against the north wall of the chancel (D) :

In memory of | Amy | the beloved wife | of Maurice Delamore gent. | and | eldest daughter of Henry Blyford gent. | and Jane his wife | of Burnham Overy | in the county of Norfolk, | who departed this life December 17, | 1735, | aged 52 years. | She had eleven children, | three only survived her | viz. | William, Henry, and Sarah.

Next to the above a white marble monument with the arms above, but scarcely visible ; they appear to be—A cross pattee flory [for Delamore] ; impaling (D) :

Sacred to the memory | of | William Delamore esq. | who died Nov. 19, 1742. | He was a man of true piety towards God | and | Benevolence to mankind | Diligent in the service of his country, | and being peaceable in his own disposition | He studiously promoted peace in his neighbourhood, | He acted in the Hon^{ble} commission of the Peace | in his neighbourhood for this county | with great prudence justice and integrity | He was an indulgent affectionate husband | A tender lover of all his relations | And friend to the poor | Which amiable qualities made his death greatly lamented | By all that knew him. | He married Sarah daugh^r of S^r Roger Jenyns knight | of Bottsham Hall in Cambridgeshire | who with y^e most affectionate and real respect | has erected this memorial of him | and now lieth interred with him. | She died the 11th of October 1761, aged 72.

On a white monument in the north aisle :

Near this place | lieth interred the body | of William Gregg | who departed this life | the 10 of December 1763, | aged 51 years, | also the body of | Robert Gregg | son of the above William Gregg | who died the 18 of April 1788, | aged 53 years.

A very handsome monument in the north aisle composed of various coloured marbles :

Near this monument are interred the remains of Nicholas Wileman | late of this parish gent. who departed this life on the 24 day of June | 1758, aged 63 years, and of Mary his wife who died in childbed November | the 30, 1740, in the 40 year of her age, after bearing him twenty two | children, of whom only Edward, Elizabeth, and Nicholas, being | the nineteenth the twentieth & the one and twentieth survived | their parents. Eighteen of their children lye here, and one at | Whittlesea, who all died very young except Anne who departed | this life on the 7 day of June 1752, aged 22 years. | Also the remains of the above Edward Wileman Esq. who | having survived Nicholas and Elizabeth died without issue May the 31, 1785, | in the 49 year of his age.

On a flat stone in the north aisle, the stone is black :

Here lieth the | body of Will. Graves jun^r gent. | interred the 12 of May 1699, aged 42 years, | and Will. Graves sen^r
gent. interred the 30 of Octob^r | 1716, aged 86. | Also Hannah the relict of Will. Graves jun^r | gent. interred the 7 of December 1724, aged 69. | To the pious memory of | Mrs Judeth Graves the wife of William Graves | gent. by whom she had issue two sons and | four daughters, whereof she left William her | son the only survivour. She was a person of | exemplary vertue, and exchanged this | life for a better on the eight day of April | Anno Dom. 1726, and in the 39 year of her age. | With these his ancestors is also interred | the said William Graves gent. the 29 of | August 1740, aged 56 years.

On a black slab in the north chancel floor with these arms cut in a lozenge above—A cross flory, an escallop in the first quarter [Delamore] (D) :

Sacred | to the memory of | Sarah Delamore | daughter of |
Maurice and Amy Delamore | who departed this life | 24
Feb. 1823, | in the 90th year | of her | age.

On a black stone in the floor before the altar with these arms—[Gules], a saltier between four bezants, a chief ermine [Hyde] ;
impaling—Two bends and three roundles in chief [for Wake] :

Here lieth interred the body of | William Hyde, clerk, vicar of this parish ; | he married | Philippa daughter of John
Wake, clerk, | by whom he had issue only two daughters, |
Philippa and Anne. | He departed this life on July 12, 1735,
aged 37.

On another flat stone near the last (D) :

Here lieth interred the | body of Anne Morden late | wife of John Morden, vicker | of Long Sutton, and daughter | of Anthony Tompson, doctor | of Divinitie, parson & vicker | of the same parish, who | deceased the twenty sixt | day of November | 1675, in the 46 year of her | age, waiting for a glorious | resurrection.

The following is round the edge of a stone much defaced (D) :

Io[hn Mord]en vicar 22 yeares of Long Sutton whoe departed this life ian. the 26 day, 1666, here vicar of life ian age.

On another flat stone :

To | the memory of | the reverend | Mr John Whinfield | who died Nov. 2, | 1757, | aged 42 years.

On an old stone in the floor of the chancel (D) :

Maria Eliz. et Maria | Scçi Germani hujus ecel . . | Maria et Eliz. hic dormiunt | quæ vita hac vix unita Jesu | meritis

cælesti decorantur | nata et Mar. Ann. 1710 |

 Clement filius Ben. et Eliz. | obiit 28 die 9^{bris} 1720. [The inscription is corrupt. Mary and Elizabeth were the daughters of Ben. and Eliz. Clement.]

In the chancel this quaint inscription on a stone :

[Here lyeth the body of John Bailey, surgeon, who was murdered in the Spring of 1794.] Alas poor Bailey | and Rebekah his wife.

At the west end of the north aisle on a black stone :

In memory of | Elizabeth wife of | Edward Waterfall who | departed this life | April y^e 5, 1750, | in the 52 year of her age.

And near the last :

In memory | of Edw^d Waterfall | who died September y^e 4,
 1774, | aged 74 years, | and of Elizabeth his wife | who died
 April y^e 5, 1750, | in the 52 year | of her age.

By a tablet at the end of the church it appears lands were bequeathed by will of Thomas Allen, dated Dec. 29, 1603, for an organist and for beautifying the church.

A black marble monument against the east wall of the south chancel, arms over—Azure, a bend or, a crescent for difference [Scrope] ; an inescutcheon bearing the same arms. Crest a plume of feathers issuing out of a ducal coronet. Motto—‘ Non hæc sed me ’ [Scrope].

This inscription on a white slab in two columns :

(1) Near this place are interred | the last remains of Mary | the beloved wife of Joshua Scrope esq. | Lord of this manor, who after a long | illness which she bore with religious | submission, patience, and fortitude, | yielded her latest breath on the | third day of February in the year of | our Lord 1795, | in the 47th year | of her age. | She was the only child and heiress | of Thomas Vivian esq. of Cornish | extraction, who was heir at law | in right of his mother to the Hydes | of Langtoft, lords of this manor. | Her mother was Mary countess | dowager of Deloraine daughter of | Gervase Scrope
 of Cockerington esq. | a lineal descendant from the | Lords Scrope of Bolton. She succeeded | to the inheritance of the estates | of that ancient family in this county | under the will of her uncle Frederick | James Scrope esq. in the year 1792.

(2) To her parents she was a pattern | of filial piety, to her husband a | bright example of conjugal affection, | to a strong understanding and cul | tivated mind she added an elegance | of manners, mildness of temper, | and liberality of sentiment, which | formed a character that at once | attracted the admiration and | affection of her relatives, friends | and acquaintance. | Accept dear wife too early doomed to die |

This grateful tribute to thy memory | Columns and laboured urns but vainly shew | An idle scene of decorated woe | The sweet companion and the friend sincere | Need no mechanick help to force the tear | In heartfelt numbers ever meant to shine | 'Twill flow for ever o'er a tomb like thine | 'Twill flow while gentle goodness has one friend | Or kindred tempers have a tear to lend. J.S.

A white marble tablet against the wall of the south aisle, arms over—A cross fleury . . . Crest—An escallop . . . [Delamore] (D) :

Sacred to the memory of | Richard Delamore esq. | twenty years commander of a | merchant ship trading to the | island of Jamaica in the | West Indies ; | he died Nov. 16, 1812, |

This church is very spacious and handsome. It consists of a nave and two aisles supported by six Norman arches ; and a chancel and two aisles. There is a triforium of Norman work, and in the window a good deal of painted glass with figures of saints etc. In one is the figure of a knight kneeling, but no arms to denote who it is. In the east window are the arms—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, A torteaux between three demy lions rampant argent [Bennett] ; 2nd and 3rd, Azure, a chevron between three lions passant argent [for Leigh] ; crest—A lion's head. The tower is at the west end on the south west angle of the south aisle ; it has a wooden spire.

Sutton St Edmund

Notes taken in the chapel, 31 August, 1836—This chapel is modern, consisting of a nave, and bow chancel of brick, with round headed windows, and tower at the west end, having a gallery for singing. Over the chancel window, on the outside, is the following in two circles : (1) Rebuilt | 1795, | Rev^d Mr Wing, | minister, | Ch. Kingston, | warden ; (2) Benj. Taylor, | Franc. Taylor, | Jn Harber, | Edw. Diggles, | feoffees. The font is small, urn-shaped, of brown marble on a pedestal.

A white and grey marble tablet against the north wall of the chancel ; it is surmounted with an urn :

Sacred | to the memory of | Jane Taylor | daughter of | Francis and Sarah Taylor, | who departed this life | on the 17 day of September 1823, | aged 41 years.

On a similar one below, to the west :

In memory of | Francis Taylor | who died the 28 July 1818, | aged 77 years. | Also of Sarah Taylor | his widow | who died the 12 of April 1825, | aged 73 years.

A smaller one more to the east :

Near this place lie the remains of | John Taylor | who died the 19 of Nov^r 1782, | aged 84 years, | and Joice his wife | who died the 31st of Dec^r 1787, | aged 38 years.

A black and white tablet to the east of the last having on the top a sarcophagus :

In memory of | Joseph Taylor | who died the 1 of Aug. 1816, | in the 71 year of his age. | Also of Frances Taylor | his widow | who died the 22 of April 1824, | aged 64 years.

A handsome tablet of grey, black, and white marble against the south wall of y^e chancel, having a blank shield at the bottom :

Near this place | lie interred the remains of | Benjamin Taylor, | one of the feoffees of this Chapel, | who died the 9th of Aug. 1804, | aged 68 years. | Also of Jane Taylor | his widow | who died the 30 of June 1821, | aged 67 years.

On a small tablet to the west of the last (R) :

To the memory | of Benjamin the son of | Benjamin and Jane Taylor | who died Oct^r the 8th, 1794, | aged 3 years. | Whatever troubles may befall | Any of us we ought to say | It is the Lord let him do what | seemeth him good.

A similar one to the west (R) :

To the memory | of Mary Jane Taylor | daughter of | Benjamin and Jane Taylor | who died July y^e 17th, 1789. | aged 13 months. | The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away | Blessed be the name of the Lord.

A neat grey and white pyramidal marble monument against the north wall of the nave (R) :

To the memory of | Adlard Squire Stukeley Esq^{re} | who died June the 18, 1768. | This benevolent gentleman left a piece of land lying in | this parish abutting on Lutton Gate east on Gedney Hill | Drain West and bounded on the north & south by the | lands of William Kirton to be let by the chapel wardens | and the rents to be applied towards beautifying this | chapel. | In gratitude for which liberal donation the chapel | warden and parishioners have erected this monu- | ment to his memory.

Another tablet more to the west surmounted by an urn :

Sacred | to the memory of | Joyce the wife of | Thomas Griffin, | (and daughter of | Francis & Sarah Taylor). | who departed this life | on the 20 of February 1819, | aged 38 years.

Sutton St James

Notes taken in the chapel, 1 September, 1836—The chapel is the chancel of the old church the nave of which has been destroyed ; (tradition says by Oliver Cromwell). It has a gallery at the east end for the sake of which the eastern window has been bricked up. The other windows, which appear to be of the Perpendicular style, have been despoiled of their tracery, and their heads blocked up, which blocking up has likewise been applied to the south door of the chancel. The tower still exists at the west end of the destroyed nave, and is a good Perpendicular erection, and has a fine moulding and arched doorway with spandrils of that style on the west side. There are some old stones which might have had inscriptions thereon lying at the eastern extremity of the nave, but the chancel as it now exists does not contain a single monumental memorial of any description.

Swaby

Notes taken of the church, 19 August, 1835—The church of Swaby is a very neat, modern, brick building, built about seven years ago. It has a west porch, nave, and chancel, divided by a pointed arch. There is a bell turret at the west end, and a cross over the gable. There is no monument or flat stone in the interior.

Swarby

Notes taken in the church, 12th August, 1834—This church consists of a nave divided from its south aisle by four elegant pointed arches springing from clustered columns, and from the north by three earlier arches with round pillars ; a chancel divided by a pointed arch, a south porch, and tower at the west end. The tower is open to the nave by a sharp pointed arch. Round the pulpit (D), which is old, is this inscription in capitals : ‘ O God my Saviour be my Sped to preach thy word Mens souls to fed ’ [the S of Sped is reversed.] Against the wall on the south west side of the arch to the chancel is a sitting figure (R) of a small size ; one of the hands is gone. In the recess of the easternmost window of the north aisle is a niche ornamented (R).

Against the wall north of the altar is a curious old monument of freestone, surmounted by an urn, and having these arms—On a bend, a lion passant [Williams]; impaling—A cinquefoyl, a chief checquy [Hobson]; and this inscription:

In | memory of Anthony Williams of Swarby gent. who was | interred here the 23 of June Anno D'ni 1681 in the | 54
yeare of his age to the great grief of Elizabeth | his wife who caused this monument to be erected.

A flat stone much rubbed within the altar rails in capitals (R):

Here lieth the . . . | M^{rs} Mary Williams | wife of | Henry
Williams | died Novem. | the 12, | A' D'ni | 166 . .

An old flat stone at the west end of the nave with this inscription round (R):

Swaton

Notes taken in the church, 27 July, 1833—

On a black tablet against the south wall of the south aisle:

In memory of | Mr John Billings | who was interred Jan. 31, 1773 | in the 77 year of his age. | God sent his Son to die for us | Die to redeem us from the cross | He took our weakness bore our load | And dearly bought us with his blood.

On flat stones in the nave:

Here lieth the body of	Here lieth the body of Elizabeth the daugh ter	Susanna the daughter of John and Eliz abeth	of John and Elizabeth
Spriggs who dyed Sep-	Spriggs of Swaton interred
tember the 6, 1702.	July y ^e 26 1699.

On a stone close by the last (D):

Here lieth y^e | body of Mary y^e | daughter of John | and
Elizabeth Spriggs | who dyed July 11th, | 1703.

On another stone:

Here | lyeth the body | of Walter Wright gent. | buried
October y^e 7th | 1702.

This is a fine cross church. The nave and aisles are supported by three lofty pointed arches springing from clustered columns. At the intersection of the transepts stands the tower which has a crocketed pinnacle at each angle. At the west end of the nave is a fine decorated four light window. The font, which is curious, is supported on a base surrounded by attached columns. The top is pannelled in squares. At the west end of the north aisle, on a tomb raised from the ground, is the recumbent figure of a woman in a gown and wimple, her hands clasped, with her head on a cushion, and feet resting on a dog. In this church are many old benches and pews. There are arms in a window of the north aisle—Quarterly, gules and or, in the first quarter a mullet argent [Vere]; another—Checquy or and azure [Warren]; a 3rd, Azure, a bend argent, cotised or, between [six lions] of the last [Bohun].

Swineshead

Notes taken in the church, [blank]

An arched monument (D) on the north side of the chancel supported by two black pillars on each side; under the arch has probably formerly been a recumbent figure, but now gone; on a bracket in the middle is a helmet. Above on a black tablet is an inscription of eight lines, but nearly illegible both from the effect of time as also from the height they are placed. What is decypherable is as follows:

Speculum Mortis

What Epitaph shall we afford this shrine | Words cannot grace [this monument of] thine | His sweet perfections [summed up] were such | As Heaven I think for Earth did think too much | [Honest] religious wise [so good a liver] | He lived to die and died to live for ever | Then let each Christian's [heart] join wth my pen | [To embalm his virtues in the minds] of Men.

On the pediment above is a recess in which is a half figure of Death with an hour glass, and the top is ornamented with cornucopias. At the base are six kneeling figures of sons, (three with skulls in their hands), in black gowns and ruffs, and one in a cradle, two daughters kneeling with skulls, and two in cradles, an inscription below on a black tablet (R):

Nere this place doth lye the boddy of S^r John Locton, |
knight, whoe departed this life in the 56th yeare of his age |
upon the 9 day of January in the year of our Redemption |
1610, whoe had by Dame Frances his wife 11 children, | three only living, William, John, and Francis, which | Dame Frances yet surviving at her own cost and | charges in token of her love and to the living memory | of her deceased husband hath erected this monument | Anno Domini | 1628.

On a flat black stone in the chancel:

On a white and grey marble monument against the south wall of the chancel (R) :

Sacred | to the memory of | Elizabeth | wife of the Rev^d W^m
Bolland M.A. | vicar of Swineshead and Frampton | and late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, | who departed this life on the 21 day of March 1817 | in the 26 year of her age | with a well grounded hope of a glorious immortality.

Another monument of white and grey marble next to it, to the west (R) :

In memory of | Sarah second wife of the | Rev^d Will. Bolland
M.A. vicar of this parish, | who entered upon her eternal rest | March 9, 1827, in the 42 year of her age. | Her only hope was the finished work of | our Lord Jesus Christ which supported her | under protracted bodily afflictions, | gave her the victory over the last enemy, | and at length brought her to the full | "fruition of the glorious Godhead : " | Three of her children who died in their | infancy are also interred with her | in a vault near | this place.

On a stone in the chancel within the altar rails (D) :

To the memory of | Thomas Maidens | who departed this life | on the 22 day of May 1802 | in the 58 year of his age. |
Since fallen man from Adam drew his breath | Sin is the cause that all must yield to death | But how are we his poison to expel | Most men reply that's done by living well | By living well presumptuous thought how vain | Live well thou never will till born again | And that is but a proof death is withstood | His dart is quenched alone by Jesu's Blood.

To the east of this on a flat stone (D) :

Sacred | to the memory of | Thomas Stephenson | who died
Feb. 19, 1813, | aged 36 years.

On a flat stone at the east end of the south aisle in capitals :

Here lyeth y^e body of | Marke Dickenson gent. | who departed this life | the first day of April | Anno D'ni 1720, | in the 66
yeare of his age.

Near this last is a blue stone which had a brass and two shields, but all gone. A very large blue stone at the east end of the nave seems to have had an inscription round, but now gone.

Two or three modern stones in the south aisle are so much rubbed as to be illegible.

One close by :

To | the memory of | Claton Stell | who departed this | life
the 23 of | December 1757 | aged 31 years |
by Sarah Salmon | only sister to the aforesaid | Claton Stell.

On an old stone in the south aisle is a cross with an inscription round the verge in Church text ; all that is legible is :

the yere of our Lord Godd MCCCCXIII of whose soules

There are two wooden tablets of benefactions, by which it appears (D) :

John Dickonson of Swineshead, gent., gave by his last will and testament land for preaching a commemoration sermon on the 27 May, and also land the profit of which to be distributed among the poor on the 27 May yearly.

Thomas Cowley, gent., of Bennington, gave a messuage the profits of which to give 20s. to the vicar for a sermon on Easter Tuesday, £2 to a schoolmaster, and two dozen of white bread, as also coals, to be distributed among the poor people.

Will. Whiting of Swineshead, jun., gave by will dated 20 March, 1726, land to the poor.

This is a very handsome church. It consists of a nave and aisles decorated on each side by six pointed arches, sharp in their points. The westernmost arch of the south aisle is blocked up, that end being used as a school. The roof of the nave is open to the timber and very lofty. The floor is boarded which conceals some flat stones. The chancel is divided from the nave by a sharply pointed arch. At the west end is a handsome tower and spire, separated by a pointed arch from the nave now blocked up. The font is a plain octagon on a basement of three steps. The windows are generally perpendicular, except the south aisle, as appears from the windows that remain in the school, and one at the east end, the tracery of the rest having been destroyed. There is a south porch, but the chief entrance is on the north side. The greatest part of the church is occupied with antient benching, some very good, but the pulpit, etc., is painted a flaring brick colour. At the east end of the north aisle is a low arch in the wall, and on the south side of the altar are three stone stalls and a piscina. North of the chancel is a small chapel divided from it by two low arches which, with the windows, seem Perpendicular, though the latter are fast falling in, being unglazed. It is now blocked up and used as a lumber room. The east window is Perpendicular of five lights ; the other windows are also of that age and good, though the lower part of them is blocked up.

Swinhope

Notes taken in the church, 23 August, 1835—

A white marble sarcophagus against the north wall of the chancel with a weeping cherub leaning over :

Sacred to Frances second daughter of | the Rev^d Marmaduke and Ann Alington of this place, | and to the Rev^d Henry Alington B.A. | of Twywell in Northamptonshire, | her beloved and betrothed cousin, | whom she survived 19 months. | Her health sunk under the efforts | made by her pious and affectionate mind | to bear and conceal the anguish of a broken heart | and to submit with cheerfulness to the will of her Creator | She died April 28, 1828, aged 28. | This memorial of their virtues and sorrows | is erected by her deeply afflicted brothers and sisters.

Against the west wall is a white marble tablet with this inscription on a black slab :

M.S. | Jonathan Field Armigeri | hic in lucem primum suscepti | A.D. MDCCXXXVII | cum apud externos vita functus esset | A.D. MDCCCXI | Huc inter majorum ossa | Ossa ejus retulerunt amici.

On a flat stone in the floor below, these arms over—[Sable], a chevron engrailed between three garbs argent [Field]. Crest—An arm couped at the elbow, holding an orb (R) :

Here lies the body of | M^r Jonathan Field son of | Da[vid] Field esq. and | Elizabeth his wife, who died | November 4th, 1732, aged 33 years. | And David son of Jonathan and | Ann his wife, aged 7 months. | Also M^{rs} Mary Chapman mother | of the said Ann Field, who | died June 1, 1729, aged 61 years. | Also Ann Field his wife who died | July 5th, 1760.

This church, which was the chancel, and rebuilt by M^r Alington, consists of a nave, and tower at the west end, with a small chancel. The font is an ancient circular one.

Swinstead

Notes taken in the church of Swinestead, 26 July, 1833—

of her garments; on the other side is an angel pointing to heaven:

In the opposite vault lie the remains of | the most noble Brownlow Bertie | fifth and last Duke of Ancaster and Kesteven, Marquis of Lindsey, | Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of the county of Lincoln and | city of Lincoln and county of the same, and | Recorder of the Borough of Boston. | He had represented the county of Lincoln in several Parliaments. | He departed this life at Grimsthorpe Castle on the 8 of February 1809, | in the 79 year of his age. | His first wife was Harriet daughter of George Morton Pitt esq. | She died in April 1763. | His second was Mary Anne daughter of Major Layard | who died on the 13 of January 1804, leaving an only daughter | Mary Elizabeth, | married Thomas Charles Colyear, Viscount Milsington. | She died on the 10 of February 1797, leaving an only child | Brownlow Charles Colyear | who died at Rome on the 18 of February 1819, | in the 23 year of his age | and was interred at Weybridge in Surrey.

Against the north wall of the chancel is an atchievement: Bertie, impaling—Gules, a chevron between two estoiles or in chief, and a crescent argent in base, on a chief azure three estoiles of the 2nd [Layard]; the motto and supporters of Bertie.

Another atchievement contains two lozenges: the dexter—Azure, three escucheons argent, bordered or, a canton of Ulster [for Burrell, Lord Gwydir]; on an inescucheon—Quarterly, the arms of Bertie and Willoughby; the sinister lozenge has the arms of Bertie and Willoughby quarterly. Over each is a baron's coronet, and they have the Bertie supporters.

Against the wall of the chancel are two hatchments (D): (1) Gules, on a chevron between three wolves' heads argent, three apple trees fruited proper [Colyear, earl of Portmore]; on an escocheon the arms of Bertie; a viscount's coronet; supporters—Dexter, a wolf proper, and sinister a wild man proper wreathed about the middle vert; motto 'Avance'. (2) Bertie impaling Layard; supporters, a crest, and motto of Bertie, with a duke's coronet.

On a black stone tablet against the wall of the south aisle (D):

In memory of | Mr Thomas Richardson | late steward to the Right Honourable | Lord Brownlow Bertie | who died the 8th day of May 1773 | in the 63 year of his age. | He was greatly beloved by his said master | for his long and faithful services | and highly esteemed by all his acquaintance | for his many good and useful qualities | his most sorrowful and affectionate widow | (who wanted no monument to remember him by) | erected this that others might not forget him. | For they rest from their labours and their works | do follow him.

This church consists of a nave and two aisles, supported on three pointed arches rising from plain piers, a chancel, and tower at the west end. South of the altar in the wall is a range of three ogee arches ; and in the vestry, set upright against the wall, much obscured by white wash, is the figure of a knight in mail and a long surcoat, having his legs crossed and on his left arm a shield.

the parish of Tallington | such as he & his | heirs shall nominate & appoint | for ever.

The church is small. On the singing gallery are painted the Royal arms and the arms and crest of Bertie; on a hatchment also are the arms of the same family (D).

(MS i, 45-49.)

Tathwell

Notes taken in the church, 16 August, 1833—

On the north side of the chancel a handsome monument about fifteen feet high. Above are these arms in the centre—Quarterly of four, 1st, Azure, three helmets or [Hamby]; 2nd, Per Pale or and gules, three mullets counterchanged [Auford]; 3rd, Argent, a cross engrailed gules, and an annulet of the second [Green]; 4th, Or, semee of crosslets, and a chevron sable [Sleight]; crest—A falcon, rising or. On a smaller shield to the west—Hamby, impaling—Gules, on a bend argent three shovellers sable [Reade]. On a small shield to the east, the four quarterings of Hamby repeated. Beneath is the following inscription on a black slab in two columns:

(1) Would plenteous store would hospitality | Would pious pittie liberallity | Have lengthned life and freed from common fate | Then mightst have liv'd a long and endlese date | It is the comon voyce of young and old | A worthy worthy man is layd in mold.

(2) One good to poore and to his kindred kind | One that to racke his rents bare no such mind | Such men from God for good of men are sent | Such men deserve a lasting monument | Such men although they ly and rot in grave | There soules with God in Heaven a mansion have.

Underneath these lines between a scull and an hour glass is the following short inscription in semi-circular black slab :

Gulielmus Hambye armiger | septuagesimum secundis [sic]
ætatis | suæ annum ingresus placide | obdormiuit in Domino |
vigesimo et quinto die | Ianuarii 1626.

And beneath a gentleman in a black robe kneeling at a desk with a book ; still lower on the monument are the figures also of a gentleman and lady kneeling at a desk, and on each side are three shields of arms. On the left side : (1) A shield charged with the crest, a falcon rising or ; (2) Hamby, with a crescent difference ; (3) the four quarters of Hamby with a crescent difference. On the right side—(1) The crest of a shoveller [Reade] ; (2) Reade ; (3) Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Reade ; 2nd and 3rd, A bend or. At the back of the figures is a white marble slab evidently of much later erection with this inscription :

Here lyes inter'd Jno. Chaplin, Esq., | son & heir of S^r Fran.
Chaplin, | Lord Mayor of London, and | Eliz. his wife, only daughter & | heiress of S^r John Hamby. He | dy'd ye 11
Nov. 1714, aged 56 years, | and had by ye said Eliz. four | sons & one daughter | Porter, Fran., Jno., & Thomas | and Ann.

At the base of the monument is the following epitaph to Ed. Hamby, whose obviously are the figures above :

Eduardus Hamby generosus uxorem duxit | Elizabetham
Read filiam et hæredem | Francisci Read de Wrangle generosi
ex qua | numerosam suscepit prolem septem filios et sex | filias non multo post utriq : parentes concesserunt fati alter sexagenarius decimo octauo | die Decembris 1626 (rectius 1616) altera quadragesima [sic] | et quintum agens annum
decimo [sic] sexto die | Novembris 1601. | The knot of love which twixt these two was knit | It held full fast tell death untied it | Who so in true and honest love do live | To such the Lord especiall grace doth give | Well may we hope they come to blessed end | Whom for their truth and love we may commend.

On one side of this inscription are six sons kneeling, the three first youths, the fourth a boy with a skull in his hand, the fifth a youth with a skull, the sixth a youth. On the opposite side the seven daughters. The three first bear skulls ; the fourth is a baby in swaddling clothes and lying in a cradle ; the three last without skulls. The monument is about seven feet wide.

Over the Communion table is a white marble monument. The figure of a female weeping over an urn ; in the back ground an obelisk inscribed O.M., and surmounted by a winged hour glass ; and over all these arms—Ermine, on a chief vert three eagles' heads erazed or [Chaplin]; crest (D)—An eagle's head erazed or. The inscription is on the base (R):

Memoriæ sacrum | Thomæ Chaplin armigeri | Viri humani et innocentis | Qui felici usus fortuna | et omnibus vitæ officiis probe perfunctus | Condi se voluit hic loci | Inter proavorum reliquias | Quorum simplicitatem moribus expressit | Nec
famæ suæ posteros pæniteat | Si ejus habeantur similes. |
Natus est A.D. 1684 | Excessit A.D. 1747. Prince Hoare
Fecit, Bath. [He was uncle of the artist of the same name.]

The church of Tathwell consists of a nave, chancel, and west tower, beneath which is the entrance. It is very neat within, but contains no other memorials but the previous two. Its situation is very beautiful on the brow of a steep hill.

Tetney

Notes taken in the church, [blank]—

On an old stone at the east end of the north aisle (R):

Orate pro animabus domini | Thome Jekyl vicarii | parentum
et parochæanorum suorum quorum animabus | propicietur
Deus. Amen.

On the side of the second pillar reckoning from the west and facing the north aisle:

Hoc opus factum est aº dº mºcccº lxºiiiº Dominus Robertus Day tunc vicarius.

At the west end of the north aisle are written or printed these words (D):

This church was new pew'd and floor'd and otherwise repaired in the year 1778 and 1779. The Rev. I. Searle, clerk, being vicar, Maurice Searle, Thomas Hinch, churchwardens.

At the east end of the south aisle there are cut out of the back of the pew, close to the wall, the following words in capital letters:

Though Lacons fade away ther gifts remain | To feed the poor and good works to maintain. [Edward Lacon, by his will, dated 25 October, 1612, bequeathed £5 for the poor of Tetney, 20s. for the repair of the church, and 40s.] for mending the highways.

In the north aisle is a flat stone (R) to the memory of:

Thomas Borman who died Jan. 1, 1760, æt. 38, of John his brother who died December 14, 1769, æt. 62, of Allan another brother who died July 31, 1783, æt. 67, and of Mary the wife of Allan who died Aug. 12, 1789, æt. 69.

Another flat stone (R) is to the memory of :

Ann wife of Richard Borman who died Feb. 22, 1819, æt. 63, of Richard Borman who died Dec. 6, 1828, æt. 79, and of Hutching Borman grandson of Richard who died æt. 11 months.

A third stone (R) is to the memory of :

Elizabeth daughter of Richard and Ann Borman who died May 10, 1812, æt. 16, and of Frances her sister who died Oct. 28, 1818, æt. 21.

In the south aisle is a stone to the memory of :

Susanna Borman wife of Thomas Borman of North Cotes, who died 17 May 1816, æt. 52, and of Thomas Borman who died March 6, 1829, æt. 75.

Another stone in the south aisle to the memory of :

Maurice Searle who died 2 Oct. 1813, æt. 39, and of John his brother who died Oct. 19, 1828, æt. 47.

Another stone to the memory of :

Maurice Searle who died 19 March 1809, æt. 79, and of Jane wife of Maurice Searle who died June 25, 1826, æt. 89.

At the bottom of the first window of the south aisle, reckoning from the east, is an old stone (R) in which is this inscription in church text :

✠ Hic jacet Robertus de | Elkyngton et X'piana uxor eius |
et obiit X'piana die Sancti Cle | mentis anno domini MCCCXXII | et Rob. die Concepcionis | Beate Marie anno et mense eodem.

Collateral to this is another to the east with an inscription also in church text (R) :

Hic jacent Willelmus de | Elkyngton et Alicia uxor eius |
& obiit Willelmus die Sancti Luce | anno domini Millesimo
ccc | xxviiiº & Alicia in | crastino Pasce anno eodem.

A flat stone (D) in the nave with these arms cut over—A chevron between three doves ; crest—A greyhound sejant [Searle]. Round the shield, 'Vive hodie ut nunquam te imparatum Mors inveniet' ; below 'Bona fide' :

In memory | of | the Rev^d John Searle | vicar of Tetney and Holton le Clay | died Sept. 26, An^o Dom. | 1798, | ætatis
suæ | 78.

On a brass plate let into the same stone is this inscription (D) :

Reader if thou art desirous to know what | manner of man he was whose remains rest | under this stone, the best sculptor can give | no information in that matter, but the day | will come when the secrets of all hearts shall | be revealed and the righteous judgements of God | will determine who will render to every man | according to his deeds. Rom. 2, v. 6.

On a flat brown stone more to the west :

Beneath rest the remains | of Rebecca the wife of | the Rev^d
John Searle | vicar of Tetney, she died | 23 of January 1777, |
aged 70 years. | Also | Penelope the second wife | of the Rev^d
John Searle | and daughter of the Rev^d | Sir Richard Temple, | who departed this life | May 30, 1793, in the 61 |
year of her age.

In the south aisle is a flat stone to the memory of :

Radcliffe Searle vicar of Tetney died [January 1757. Margaret his widow died] July 26, 1764, aged 63. Charlotte Searle, spinster, died Nov. 7, 1798, aged 26. Frances Searle, spinster, died Nov. 29, 1799, aged 29.

This church consists of a nave and two aisles resting on five pointed arches, a chancel and north aisle, with a handsome screen, a fine tower at the west end.

IN THE SOUTH CHAPEL

At the east end of the south aisle is a chapel enclosed by a handsome carved screen enriched by armorial bearings. The first shield—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Two bars with five roundles in chief [Angevin]; 2nd and 3rd, A chevron between three roundles, each charged with a mullet [for Hildyard]. The other shield—A chevron between three roundles, charged with mullets; these arms are often repeated interspersed with other shields charged with a plain cross.

In this chapel are the following monumental remains:

A brass of a knight in the floor with his hands clasped and this inscription:

Hic jacet Robertus Hayton Armiger qui obiit | xxv die
mensis Februarii Anno d'ni millesimo | cccc^o vicesimo quarto cujus anime propicietur deus amen.

Above are two shields of arms—[Vert, a lion passant or within a bordure billetty—Hayton].

On an old stone this inscription partly effaced :

. . . . fuit Rogerus de Hagneby | qui obiit | vij idus Marcii
a' d'ni

In an old stone this brass of arms—Angevin, impaling Hildyard. There have been figures of a knight and his lady, as well as an inscription round the edge, now all gone.

On a black stone :

Here lyeth the body of Richard | Pilkington esq. who departed this | life April 23 Anno D'ni 1729 in the | 54 year of his age.

Next to it is the following :

Here lyeth the body of Ann the wife | of Richard Pilkington
esq. who | departed this life Jan^y 5 Anno Domini | 1728-9 in the 45th year of her age.

There is a screen enclosing a chapel at the end of the north aisle, but the only shield except those charged with plain crosses is on the south side and bears the arms of Hildyard. There are no inscriptions here.

In the chancel are the following atchievements : (1) Quarterly, Newcomen and Brown ; crest—A lion's paw erazed sable [for Nicholas Newcomen junior]. (2) The four quarterings of Bertie, with a dexter shield of the same, and the arms of Brown on an escutcheon ; and a sinister shield the same, impaling Marshall ; the Bertie crest [for Charles Bertie]. (3) The four quarterings of Bertie, impaling Brown, and Brown also on an escutcheon [for Mary Browne, first wife of C. Bertie]. (4) Newcomen, impaling Brown.

NOTE

¹ Andrew Carpentière (d. 1737) was a well-known sculptor, who was much employed by the Duke of Chandos at Canons, Middlesex. He executed the statue of Queen Anne at the Moot Hall, Leeds.

Theddlethorpe St Helen

Notes taken in the church of East Theddlethorpe, 15 August, 1833—

A marble monument with an urn over it against the north wall of the chancel :

Sacred | to the memory of | Henry Cracroft Marshall esq. | who died | on the ninth day of June 1789 | in the thirty first year of his | age.

Next to the last is a white stone in the north wall of the chancel (R):

Near this stone | lieth interred the | remains of Joseph Parish | who departed this life | March the 3rd, 1794, | aged 44 years.

On a flat stone (R):

Here lieth the body of | Mr John Marshall, who de | parted this life the 10 day | of January 1698 in the 26th | yeare of his age. Hee was | the second sonn of Ralph | Marshall of the parish of St | Paul, Covent Garden, within | the liberties of the citty | of Westminster esq. who | was borne in this parrishh | the 23 day of January 1636, | whose father and grand | father were alsoe named | Ralph and were buried | successively in one grave | in the middle isle | of this church.

A grey marble pyramidal monument, south of the arch entering the chancel, surmounted by a sarcophagus, these arms over—Barry of six argent and sable; crest—An armed man proper [Marshall]. This inscription in capitals:

Sacred | to the memory of | William Marshall esquire | who died on the third day | of October 1770 in the forty | seventh year of his age, | and of Grace Marshall | his widow, daughter of | Robert Cracroft of Hackthorn | in this county esquire, | who died on the third day | of June 1790 in the fifty | sixth year of her age.

Below in the floor is a flat stone (D) to the same person.

The church consists of a nave separated from the north aisle by three pointed arches, and from the south by four of the same, a chancel, and a tower at the west end. At the east end of the north aisle is a canopied recess or shrine in which is the figure of our Saviour on the cross. The roof is very curious and the beams are supported by carved figures.

North Thoresby

Notes taken in the church, [blank]—

Round the outside of an old pew in the north aisle on the upper moulding in old characters (D):

Iste [sic] est sedes Annæ Awdbeii dominæ [lady of the manor of Autby] uxoris Tristrami Smith Thoresbeiensis Ecclesie Patroni.

On the eastern side the inscription is partly gone; what remains is ' . . . of Christopheri Smith & A . . . ' ; a little lower down is the date 1630; and on the shield in the middle of the first inscription are—Three roaches in pale [for Roche]. On the northern post are carved these bearings—Quarterly, 1st, Per bend indented, three crosses flory [Smyth]; 2nd, A cross flory, over all a bend [Willoughby]; 3rd, Barry of six, three mullets in chief [Otteby]; 4th, Three water bougets, impaling—Quarterly, 1st, Three roaches in pale, a crescent for difference [Roche]; 2nd, On a bend, three fleur de lis between six mullets [Beseby]; 3rd, A scoop between six leaves [Scupholme]; 4th, On a fess three fleur de lis [Disney]; the last quarter much defaced.

At the west end is an old stone (D) having an inscription round it, now broken, and what remains is ‘octagesimo secundo cuius anime propicietur’. Another fragment of the stone is by the north door, having “Millesimo” on it.

On a flat stone in the chancel (D):

In memory of | the Rev. Miles Myers | who departed this life | July the 9th, 1797, | aged 40 years. | Also of | George Myers | brother of the above | who died Oct. the 10, 1828, |
aged 71 years.

This church consists of a nave, north aisle, chancel, south porch, and embattled tower at the west end. The aisle is parted off from the nave by three pointed arches, and is continued to the chancel from which it is separated by another pointed arch. A similar one divides the nave from the chancel. The south porch has a cross mutilated over the gable, and under it a shield bearing a cross, charged with a fleur de lis, and the letters T D. South of the altar is a piscina, and in a window of the north aisle are three figures of saints rather defaced (R); one appears to be St Andrew by his saltier. There remains a great quantity of old benching which occupies nearly the whole of the church, bearing the initials of those who formerly occupied them; and mostly the date 1630. Under the altar is an old stone which formerly has had two brass plates, but both now gone.

On a flat stone in the nave (D):

Here lyeth y^e body of | John y^e son of Thomas and | Letitia
Haworth who de | parted this life June | y^e 21, Anno Dom.
1713.

On an old stone in the nave to the west of the last much rubbed, round the verge in old character (D) :

Ke . . an quondam obiit xxx die mens. Julii anno d'ni M anime

This inscription (R) is carved in oak on a pew in the north aisle, in old character :

In the yere yat all the stalles | in thys chyrch was mayd, |
Thomas Kyrkbe, Jhon Skre | by, Hew Roston, Jhon Smyth, |
Kyrk Mastars in the yer of | oure lorde god MCCCCXXXII.

This is a handsome spacious church consisting of a nave, two aisles, chancel, and west tower. The aisles are divided from the nave by four arches, the columns are clustered which support them, and on the south side are handsomely ornamented especially on the middle and two end ones. The chancel is lofty and spacious, with a piscina on the south side, and there has been an entrance to it on the north side now blocked up. There is a south porch and an old door. The font is early Norman, supported on a shaft clustered by four pillars. The top is square of black marble, sculptured with beasts on its four sides.

Thornton Abbey

Notes taken of the excavated floor of Thornton Abbey, 31 August, 1835—

On a stone at the west end (D), round the verge :

Hic iacet Johannes Bemort et Agnes uxor eius.

To the east of this (D), in lines :

Hic iacent | Johannes | M Isabell | uxor eius.

To the north of the last, a broken stone (D) :

. quondam marrescall' hujus monast. q . . o
. propicietur deus.

To the east of this (D), round the verge :

. is de Gouxhill.

North of the preceding is a stone (D), round the verge of which :

. Halton et Alicia uxor eius quorum animabus propitietur deus.

On another to the south (D), round the verge :

. Maria uxor propitietur deus amen.

On another stone more to the east (D) ; a tree now lies over it which prevents the inscription being so accurately read, but we have since compared it with Mr Heselden's note :

Hic iacet Rob't' humanis fuerit nat. p'och. | quondam iacet |
ut sit saluatus Xp'm funde peccatus | Hunc prostrat . . .

In the north transept is a stone (D), on which is the figure of a priest, and the following round the verge :

Hic iacet dominus obiit XIV die mensis Septembris anno domini salvatoris millesimo quadringentesimo vicesimo nono cuius propicietur deus amen.

On a loose stone of cofined shape (D) ; part is now broken off, but the inscription is made perfect from Mr Heselden's notes :

Hic iacet Lisbet Rosse filia Rob'ti Rosse | gent. cuius anime
propicietur deus.

Near to the last but one is a blue cofined stone with a florid cross upon it, but no inscription (D).

In the transept also there lies a large blue stone which had a brass, inscription now gone (D).

In the north transept also is a stone (D) not much excavated on account of a tree which grows near. The following two words however appear beautifully cut and as fresh as the day they were done, 'Monaster' cuius'.

In the north transept is a stone coffin, partly excavated, with the top off (D).

There is also a stone in the chancel :

Hic iacet Joh'is Gastryck | primo die decem.
. MCCCCLXII.

There is a large blue stone (D) which has had an inscription, and across it a crosier.

Threckingham

Notes taken in the church, [blank] August, 1831—This church is curious. The chancel has a Norman east window. In the north aisle are three large stone coffins which are said to be of three Danish kings killed near here, but by the inscription lately existing on the coffins this account has been found to be incorrect.

In the most eastern window of the north aisle are three shields of arms in stained glass (D) : (1) Threckingham, viz.—Argent, two bars gules, in chief three torteauxes, (2) Or, two chevrons within a bordure gules [Clare]. (3) Gules, three water bougets argent [Ros].

Near the entrance to the chancel on a slab (R), a little raised from the ground, are the effigies of a knight and his lady, the former having his legs crossed. The arms on the knight's shield are—Two bars, in chief three roundles, over all a bend.

A handsome marble monument at the east end of the north aisle with these arms above—Azure, a fess indented between three lioncels passant argent [for Fisher]; impaling—Argent, on a chevron sable three quatrefoils patee or [Eyre]. Crest—An anchor, and on it, 'Crux anchora nobis':

This monument is erected | to the memory of William Fyssher, eldest son of Francis | and Susanah, who died the 6th of October 1675 | in the 33rd year of his age. | Also to the memory of his | brother Robert Fyssher and Elizabeth his wife. | Elizabeth died June 16, 1710, | aged 65, | [Robert Feb. 14th, 1711, aged 61,] with 5 of there children who died young, viz. | William, Octavia, Susanah, Daniell, and Mary; | also Lucy who died May the 25th, 1710, | in the 24 year of her age, | all whose remains | lie interred near this place in expectation of a joyful resurrection.

On a black and white marble tablet at the east end of y^e south aisle:

Near | this place | lie interred | the body of | John Warren | who departed this life | the 4th of April 1800, | aged 77 years.

On a black marble tablet near the south door:

In memory of | John Quincey, Esq., | surgeon to his Majesty's forces, | eldest son of Jeremiah Quincey, many years of | in this parish, who died in London the 5th of October 1827 | aged 38 years. | His remains are deposited in the church of | St Gregory by St Paul's Cathedral.

On a stone tablet (R) against the west pillar of the nave with an urn over, and underneath 'Memento Mori':

Sacred to the memory of | Mary the wife of | Jeremiah Quincey who died the 29 of April 1797 | aged 36 years. | Also of Jeremiah their son | who died the 19 of Sept. 1791 aged 16 months.

[On another slab adjoining the last:]

Also of | Jeremiah Quincey | who died the 1st of January 1829, | in the 83 year of his age.

On a flat stone near the same pillar (R):

Hic jacet | Elizabetha Wainewright | Quæ satur dierum | Huic maligno valedixit mundo | Spe lætæ resurrectionis | 12^o Augusti | A^o Dom. 1719.

On another flat stone in the nave (D):

Maria Johannis Seagrave quæ fuit | Uxor | in terra hic dormit sub pedibus | jacet | ob. 22^o May 1711^o.

On another stone (R) more to the north almost entirely effaced:

Johannes Seagrave | de Stow Green, | Gent., |

On another more to the east (R) :

In memory of | Catherine eldest daughter of | Richard &
Catherine | Hough | who departed this life | June 30th, 1820, |
aged 39 years.

On another more to the east (R) :

Here | lieth the body of | Mr Richard Hough | who departed this life | Oct. 14, 1801, | aged 51 years.

On another to the north (R) :

In memory of | Catherine the wife of | Mr Richard Hough |
who departed this life | April 25, 1820, | aged 65.

On another more to the west (R) :

To the memory of | Elizabeth Morton | widow of | Mansell
Morton | who departed this life | April 30, 1790, aged 76
years.

On another more to the south (R) :

Here lieth the body of | Eleanor daughter of | Mr Richard &
Catherine Hough | who departed this life | April 6th, 1800, |
aged 16 years.

On another stone more to the north (R) :

Here lieth the body of Mr | Richard Hough who died February |
the 22, 1786, | aged 67.

On another more to the north :

In memory | of Sarah the wife of | Richard Hough | who departed this life April 12, 1764, | aged 48 years.

There is a flat stone (D) almost covered by the pulpit, the inscription of which appears to be cut in old characters and round the stone; what remains is, ' qui obiit primo die Martis cc '

On a black tablet in the south aisle :

To the memory of | Mr Edward Dawson | who departed this life | April the 4th, 1787, | aged LVIII years. | Also to the memory of | Eleanor the wife of the | late Edw^d Dawson | who died Dec. 24, 1801, aged 75 years.

On a flat stone at the east end of the south aisle :

Here lieth the body | of John Cragg | who departed this life |
March the 10, 1758, | aged 53.

On a flat stone at the entrance of the chancel with the inscription cut round (D) :

Here lyeth | Octavian Fisher gent. who depar= | ted this life |
the 4th of December Anno Domini 1610, | in the 70 year of his age.

The following inscription, (copied 28 July 1834), is on a white marble tablet against the east wall of the south aisle in capitals :

This tablet | is erected to the memory of | John Cragg, gentleman, | late of this parish, | who as land agent for many years | possessed the confidence of several | noble and distinguished families. | He departed this life on | Tuesday the 27 November 1832, | aged 71 years.

Tydd St Mary

Notes taken in the church, 1 September, 1836—This is a large and handsome church, standing in a churchyard surrounded by fine timber. It consists of a nave and aisles resting on each side on five slightly pointed arches which spring from circular columns. The westernmost arch on the south side is blocked up to form a vestry. There are on each side five small clerestory windows, and the other windows of the church are small. The chancel is spacious of the decorated style, and is separated by an arch of that character from the nave. The windows also are of the same character. The east one has its head blocked up. On the south wall are two stone stalls and a double piscina, very handsome; the 3^d stall usually to be found is gone. At the west end is a tower and spire of decorated character, formed of a mixture of stone and brick. There is a south porch, and the font is of octagon shape having figures of angels thereon holding shields charged with the instruments of the crucifixion; but they and the font are vilely daubed with paint. The top is a heavy looking carved oak one of the style of the 17th century. On a wooden tablet in the chancel is the following:

This church | repewed in virtue | of a faculty A.D. 1823. |
John Halford, Thomas Abbott, | Joiners; Rev^d John Bouverie, Rector; Rev^d Charles Ashe, Curate; John Sharp, church-warden.

On a piece of old pewing preserved in the chancel is the following inscription in capitals, This framed and sat vp by Iames Ackars carpintvr 1632.

Against the east wall of the north aisle is a large marble slab set upright. It was formerly (as the clerk informed us) lain with its face to the ground, but at the repewing of the church was taken up and found to be of beautiful white marble, but by the agency of some thickheaded churchwarden it has been smeared over nearly an inch thick with whitewash, and the figure of a knight which was engraven thereon has just been made visible by an outline of black lead. Round the edge is an inscription in the old character, but so entirely filled up with the wash that but little to be made out. [Holles gives the inscription, which shews it is in memory of Sir William de Tidde and Margaret his wife.]

On the wall of the north aisle towards the eastern end are three handsome monuments of white marble. The centre one is flanked by two cherubs, with a cornice and pediment above, on which is a shield of arms, viz. Argent, a griffin segreant gules [Trafford]. This inscription in capitals:

Juxta hunc | locum jacet corpus | Johannis Trafford | armigeri
qui fuit hujus | manerii dominus. uxorem duxit | Margaretam

filiam et unicam | Hæredem Simonis Wood armigeri | ex qua plures | liberos suscepit. |
 filius ejus | Sigismundus Trafford | armiger | hoc monumentum |
 posuit | Anno Domini | MDCCXIX.

The monument to the east of the last is adorned with festoons of flowers, and a drapery hanging above incloses a medallion bust of a gentleman. Below is a shield of arms much defaced, but they appear to be—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Sable, three horse-shoes argent [Boheme]; 2nd and 3rd, Gules, a lion rampant per pale argent and or [Dilke]; impaling—Ermine, three hurts charged with a cross or [Heathcote]:

Here are deposited the remains | of | Sigismund Trafford
 esq. | whose plain & exemplary character | Was this : | He was tender & indulgent to his wife | Kind & affectionate to his relations | Easy & humane to his dependants | Hospitable & friendly to his neighbours | A lover of his country & of all mankind. | In a word | He was in all respects an honest & a worthy man. | In testimony of which truths | And under a grateful sense of their real force | his widow | has caused this monument | to be erected. | He departed this life Feb^y ye 1st, 1740–1, aged 47.

The westernmost monument of the three is plain, and is surmounted with this crest—On a helmet a husbandman vested quarterly gules and argent, holding a flail with a cap of the same, and these words issuing from his mouth on a label, ‘ Now THVS ’ [Trafford] :

In a vault beneath | are deposited the remains | of Sir Clement
 Trafford, knight, | of Dunton Hall | in the county of Lincoln |
 Lord of this Manor, | who married | Miss Jane Southwell | daughter of | Edward Southwell esquire | of Wisbech, | by whom he had issue, | Clement who died an infant, | Sigismund
 & Jane now living, | and departed this life | on the 1st of January | 1786, | in the 48th year of his age.

A brown stone tablet against the east wall of the south aisle, arms below—Sable, a pelican vulned proper [for Pell] :

Thomas Sharpe died May 21, | 1781, aged 66 years. | Jane wife of Thomas Sharpe | died 27 August 1768, aged 36 years. |
 John their son | died 8 February 1810, aged 49 years. | Thomas their son | died 14 November 1762, aged 5 years. | Bridget their daughter | died 15 Sept^r 1762, aged 10 years. | Also
 Jane and Sarah their | daughters who died in their infancy. |
 This monument is erected | by Edmund Pell Sharp of | London
 (Supervisor of Excise) | in love and respect to his | family.

A stone below commemorates Henry Sharp died 11 Nov. 1738,
 æt. 34.

A flat blue stone in the nave with these arms cut over—Ermine, on a bend, three escallops [Wensley]; impaling—An eagle displayed . . . Crest—A Saracen's head erased in profile . . . :

Here lieth interred | Mary | the wife of Robert Wensley esq^e | and | relict of Clement Boheme esq. | She died vij of Septe^r MDCCLXVIII, | aged LVIII years. | Here also lieth interred | Robert Wensley esq. | who was born at Walsoken | in the county of Norfolk. | He died at Wisbeach | in the county of Cambridge | on the XXVI day of May MDCCLXXVIII, | aged LXIX years.

Another (R) to the west of the last. Arms—On a lozenge . . . a chevron, . . . between three boars' heads [Evans]:

Here lieth interred | Susanna Evans | daughter of Hill Evans of Petersburg | in Russia, merch^t, and Mary his wife. | She died Nov. 28, MDCCLX, | aged 32 years. | Near this place lieth the remains of | William Evans | son of Hill Evans, merch^t, and Mary his wife, | who died Dec^r 7, MDCCLVII, aged 20 years. | Beneath are deposited the remains of | Mary Evans | daughter of Hill Evans, merchant, | and Mary his wife. | She died May 22, MDCCCVII, | aged LXXVIII years.

Another to the west of the last, these arms cut over—Ermine, on a canton a pelican proper, vulned . . . ; crest—On a helm and torse a pelican [Pell]:

P.M.S. | Edmundi Pell gent. | Qui obiit tertio die Februarii | Anno Dom. | MDCCXXVII | Ætat. 39 | Posuerunt | Executores et Fiduciarii testamenti | Tho : Peirson & Tho. Towers gent.

On common flat stones near the font, all much rubbed, are inscriptions to the memory of:

John Scrimshire died 16 Nov^r 1738, æt. 50.

Anne Scrimshire died 3 July 1774, æt. 37.

Elizabeth Clapon died Dec^r 1737, æt. 34, and two of her grandchildren daurs of Thomas and Anne Scrimshire died in infancy.

A stone near the south door much rubbed, in capitals:

Here lyeth in hope of | a joyful Resurrection | the body of Mr William | Bennet, senior, who departed | this life the 10th day of | November in the yeare of | our Lorde 1680, aged | fortie five yeares.

On a flat stone in the chancel:

Here lyeth the bodie | of Robert Whitaker | M^r of Arte, & rector | of Tyd St Marie nine | yeares, departed this | life the 23 of Novemb. | 1675.

Another more to the east in capitals:

Here lies interred the | body of Mr William | Thurlby who departed | this life y^e 5th of August | 1689.

More to the east a stone to :

Elizabeth wife of Thomas Howard died 28 Dec^r 1747,
æt. 46.

A large blue stone to the east of the last :

To the pious memory | of the Reverend Mr Thomas Adderley |
curate of this parish who exchanged | this life in hopes of a better on the | 25 day of May in the year of our Lord | 1736, | and in the 54 year of his age

On a brown stone more to the north :

Here lyeth the body | of | Katherine Moore | who dyed
Nov^r 12, 1737, | aged 13. | She was the daughter of | the Rev^d Tho^s Moore | and Mary his wife | of Carlton Scroope | in this county.

An old stone near the altar rails :

Mr Richard Harris as I remember | died the 30th of November. | He was second soone of Anthony Harris | borne at Bridgstock and died in this parrish | Anno D'ni 1653.

A large blue stone to the north of the last :

Sacred to the memory of | Roger Stevens clerk, LL.B., | who after having faithfully | discharged the ministerial duties | of this parish for upwards of 46 years | departed this life deservedly lamented | Dec^r 16, 1779, aged 75 years. |
Near this place also | lie interred the mortal remains | of Sarah his justly beloved wife | who departed this life May 8th, 1756, | aged 57 years.

Another stone to the memory of :

Uffington

Notes taken in the church, [blank] July, 1831—This church is large and handsome. On the cieling of the chancel is a representation of St Cecilia with her attributes, etc.

There is a hatchment on the north wall of the chancel of the arms of Bertie, impaling—Gules, a chevron between two estoiles in chief and a crescent in base or, on a chief azure two escallops or [Tryon]. In the east window are several shields of arms—(1) Gules, three water bougets argent [Ros]. (2) The same, impaling—Or, a chevron gules [Stafford]. (3) Bertie, with this inscription under, 'The Hon^{ble} Charles Bertie of Uffington maryd Mary daughter of Peter

Tryon, of Haringworth com. Northampton, esq., Sept. 4, 1674.' Under a canopy of stone in the north wall of the chancel is the effigy of a knight, with his head resting on his helm, and his feet on a lion; there is no inscription. [On his jupon is a bend sinister; he is said to be Richard de Schropshire.]

On the south side of the chancel is a splendid mural monument on which, in recesses supported by two Corinthian pillars, kneel the figures of two knights armed save the head, with an altar before them. On the entablature a large shield of arms between two small ones. On the larger shield are these arms—Quarterly, 1st, Or, two bars azure, on a chief quarterly of the second and gules, in the 1st and 4th a fleur de lis or, and in the 2nd and 3rd a lion passant guardant of the last [Manners]; 2nd, Ros; 3rd, Gules, three wheels argent [Espec]; 4th, Azure, a wheel or [Belvoir]; 5th, Gules, a fess between six crosslets or [Beauchamp]; 6th, Checquy or and azure, a chevron ermine [Newburgh]; 7th, Gules, a chevron between ten crosses patee argent [Berkeley]; 8th, Or, a fesse between two chevrons vert [Lisle]; 9th, Gules, a lion passant guardant argent [Gerard de Lisle]; 10th, Gules, three lions passant guardant or, over all a bend argent [Plantagenet, earl of Kent]; 11th, Argent, a saltire gules [Tiptoft]; 12th, Or, a lion rampant gules [Charlton]; 13th, Argent, a fesse between two gemelles gules [Badlesmere]; 14th, Checquy gules and argent [Vaux]; 15th, Gules, an eagle displayed within a bordure argent [Toden]; 16th, Or, two chevrons within a bordure gules [Albini]. Crest—Upon a cap of maintenance a peacock displayed proper. The smaller shield at the east end bears the first quarter of the large shield, impaling—Argent, six fleur de lis azure, a chief indented or [Paston]. On that to the west—Or, two bars azure, a chief gules [Manners, ancient]; impaling—Fretty argent and azure, on a chief or a crescent gules [St Leger]. Under the shields is this inscription:

In Rogerum Manners armigerum et virum nobilem qui obit xi De. 1607.

Over the figures is this inscription in two compartments:

(1) See here the Patern of true noble blood | Thy honor by thy vertues was made good | Godly thy life thy dealings
wyse & juste | Thy kyn & frends y^t unto the did truste |
Whose vertues in y^e eyes of vertuous shyne | And thou maiest |
bovste y^t boothe were truely thyne | Thy purse was open alwaies to y^e poore | Founde the still kinde & tasted of thy store.

(2) Thy howse in plentie ever was mayntaynd | The stranger,
& y^e prisoner, had relief | Thy servants, schollers, & some poore have gaynd | y^t lyves wth them, though they lyve
now with grief | These be thy workes, of vertue left behind |
w^{ch} ay will last, though thou lye under stone | Briefely towcht

here y^t men of vertuous mynde | May [passing by] thy losse

Under the figure to the east :

Here lyes Roger Manneres | Esquier to the bodye of | Queene
Marye and Queene | Elizabethe and therd | sonne to Thomas late | Erle of Rutland Anno | Domini 1597.

Under the other figure :

Here lyes Olyver Manneres | the 6th sonne of the said late |
Erle and served our Queene | Elizabeth in her warres at |
Newhaven and ther fell | sicke and died of the | same sicknes
Anno Dom. [1563].

Ellis in his history of Shoreditch says this Oliver Manners died at Shoreditch of this sickness & y^e burial is in y^e Register there Sept. 6 1563, æt. 20. He queries if he was buried at Uffington but removed there by a faculty.

A very handsome marble monument to the west of the last mentioned on which, in a recess supported by two Corinthian pillars, kneel the figures of a man in a black gown and ruff, and a woman in like costume, behind each of them kneels a child habited in the same manner. Above, on the top of the monument, is a shield with these arms—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Verry argent and sable, on a dexter canton gules a cross patee fiche or [Stanton]; 2nd and 3rd, Or, a lion rampant sable. On another shield below—Per pale azure and gules, the Virgin enthroned with the Child in chief, and in base two lions passant or [See of Lincoln]; impaling the first shield. Over the man's head is this shield of arms—The 1st quarter of the large shield; over the woman's head—Or, three torteauxes, a label for difference [Courtenay]; between both, the two last shields impaled. Under the man is this inscription :

On a handsome mural monument to the north of the Communion table, with the shield of arms above—Argent, three battering rams proper headed azure, hooped and armed or [Bertie]; impaling—Azure, a fess crenelle between six mullets or [Tryon]. Crest—An old man's head, coupéd at the shoulders, and crowned proper, issuing out of a ducal coronet or [Bertie]:

Here lies | the Hon^{ble} | Charles Bertie Esq. | fifth son of Montague Earl of Lindsey | Ld Great Chamberlain of England | by Martha Countess of Holderness his wife | who, having qualified himself for the service of his country | by his early travels into France, Spain, Italy, Germany, Holland. | Flanders, Denmark, Sweedland, & Poland, did first signalize his | valour by his attendance on George Duke of Albemarle, Gen^l | to King Charles y^e second, in y^e two great battles fought against y^e Dutch | at sea anno 1666, and was afterwards prefer'd to be one of the Captains in his | Maj^{tis} Regiment of Guards, whence his Maj^{ty} was pleased to command him | his envoy extraord^y to Christian y^e 5th King of Denmark to adjust the | difference about the flagg Anno 1671, in which negociation having | succeeded to his Mat^{ies} great satisfaction, he returned home in | Anno 1672, waited on his R. Highness y^e Duke of York to sea, & was | personally with him in that engagement off Sold Bay Anno 1673. | He was advanced to be secretary of the treasury under the Rt Hon^{ble} | Thomas Earl of Danby, then Ld High Treasurer of England, in y^e | year 1680, was again commissioned his Maj^{ties} envoy extraord^y | to severall Electors & other Princes of Germany, & last of all | in the year 1681 was made Treasurer & Pay master of his Maj^{ties} | Office of Ordnance in which he served near 20 years under three | severall reigns, & served 30 years in Parliament as Burgess of | Stamford wherein he acquitted himself with unspotted reputation. | He left 2 children, Elizabeth who married to y^e Right Hon^{ble} Charles | Ld Fitz Walter, & Charles his son & heir. | He departed this life y^e 22 day of March | 1710, in the 71 year of his age & lyes underneath interred together | with Mary his most dear wife.

On the base of the monument is this inscription :

Who amongst his other acts of charity did | in his life time at his own charges repaire and | beautify this church & at his death gave fifty | pounds to the poor of this parish. | He also repaired a marble erected at Wesel | in Germany in memory of y^e birth of Perigrine | Lord Willoughby of Eresby his great grandfather.

On a handsome marble monument against the north wall of the chancel, with the arms of Bertie impaling—Azure, a fess crenelle between six mullets or [Tryon]:

Underneath are deposited the mortall remaines of | the Hon^{ble} Mary daughter of Peter Tryon | of Harringworth in the county of Northampton | esq. wife of the Hon^{ble} Charles Bertie | of Uffington in the county of Lincolne, fifthe | son of Montague Earl of Lindsey Lord Great | Chamberlaine of England, by whom he had issue | Elizabeth, Thomas, Maria de Salina, & Charles, | the first & last whereof God hath been pleased | by an equal repartition to leave for com = | forts to their father, having taken the other | two unto himself to bee early partakers of | their mother's felicity. Shee was exemplary in her piety | amiable in her person & obliging | in her conversation to all, but most dear to | her husband who erected this marble | as a monument of her great vertue | and his intire affection.

On the base :

She dyed the 13th day of | January 167⁸, in the 25th | year of her age.

A black marble tablet to the north of the entrance to the chancel (R) :

Below this in two columns are the following verses in separate stanzas:

(1) Ætherii si Patris amor si candida vita | Mens humilis necnon dives et alta simul | si pietas erga proprios castissima conjux | cura inopum meritis semper aperta manus | omnia post mortem famam meruere perennem | auguror hæc famâ digna perennis erat.

Scilicet Oglorum quamvis de Sanguine Claro | et multa insignis nobilitate fuit | cum sciret nullo cælos ab honore parari | virtute æternas illa petebat opes | regna poli petiit quo [? votula] plurima misit | mortua sed votis jam subit ipsa suis. Vivat ibi æternum tua mens tuq. ipsa dolorem | Hunc nostrum exequias despice (diva) tuas | præcipue amissam væ lachrymantur egeni | quid tamen hæ lachrymæ quid dolor iste valet | Nos miseri non te sed nos et nostra fleamus | [? eternum] Christi regna beata tenes.

(2) If zeale to God if Innocence of Lyfe | An humble soule an understanding heart | If love to kindred and a loyall wife | Towards poorest pity, bounty to desart | In death may challenge an immortal fame | This lady then may well deserve the same.

And though an Ogle and of Noble race | She was to honoured families allyed | She knowing honours gain no saving grace | Did labour for the good that should abide | Heavens Kingdom whither she her vows did send | And after followed at her latter end.

Where live for ever happy soule and view | How we thy want dear ladye do bewaile | But worst the poor who thy great loss do rue | In Washingborough but what do tears avail | Oh weepe we for ourselves and not for the | Who livst with Christ to all eternitye.

At the bottom is this:

Ut tecum Christe resurgam	Revived 1699	Revived 1808	dedicated
---------------------------	-----------------	-----------------	-----------

as a monument to her memory | to her honour by both her executors Adlard Pury and Mary Brownloe.

Between the columns are five shields of arms, viz.—1st, Ogle, impaling—Lozengy, argent and gules [Fitzwilliam]; 2^d, Ogle, impaling—Azure, a chevron between three cinquefoils or [for Cooke]; 3^d, Ogle, impaling—Sable, a fesse argent; 4th, Ogle, impaling—Sable, a fesse engrailed between three fleurs de liz argent [for Welby]; 5th, Ogle, impaling—Paly of six argent and gules, over all a bend wavy or, a chief sable.

A flat stone in the south aisle with inscription round in old character:

Hic iacet Gulielm' | Garratt generosus de Heighington qui

This church is very handsome. It consists of a nave with aisles supported by four very lofty pointed arches with high octagon columns. The clerestory windows are four, of the perpendicular style, and very large of three lights and a transom. The other windows are decorated. The body of the church is very lofty, but the chancel is modern about half the height of the rest, and blocking up half of a fine pointed arch from the nave. At the west end is a tower and spire crocketed. The south porch is handsome ; on each side of the outer arch is a niche crocketed, and one over it tabernacled, in which has been a representation of the Crucifixion, but it is now much mutilated. The font is modern inscribed, 'The gift of John Welby esq. Anno Dom. 1733. W^m Julian fecit'. Between each clerestory window are two arches in the wall.

Whaplode Drobe

Notes taken in the chapel, 31 March, 1836—This chapel is modern and built about 20 yards from the site of the old chapel, and to the east of it. It consists of a nave without aisles, having a bow for a chancel and a small turret for three bells at the west end. The windows are quite plain sash ones ; a gallery at the west end.

On a wooden tablet against the north wall of the nave is the following :

This chapel was rebuilt and | enlarged in the year 1820 by subscrip | tion & rate, by which means two | hundred additional sittings | have been obtained, of which number one | hundred and thirty are hereby | declared free and unappropriated | for ever, in consequence of a grant | from the Society for promoting the | enlargement and building of Churches | and Chapels, and in addition to | forty formerly provided. |
James Blundell, Minister | William Blake, Chapel Warden.

On a grey and white marble monument against the wall south of the bow to the chancel :

Near this place | was buried the body of | John Kelk late of Postland esq. | Feoffee for this Chapel | who died July 25,
1795, | in the 63^d year of his age.

At the bottom :

And also the body of | Levina Kelk daughter of the said |
John Kelk & Mary his wife | who died in her infancy.

A black tablet against the wall on the north side of the arch :

Erected by voluntary contributions | to the memory of the | Rev^d John Dinham A.B. | Minister of this Chapel | who departed this life Oct^r 14, 1811, | aged 50 years. | Near half an age with every good mans Praise | Among his Flock the Shepherd passed his days | The Friend the comfort of the rich and Poor | Want never knocked unheeded at his door |

 All mourn his death his virtues long they tried. | They knew not how they loved him till he dyed. | Peculiar Blessings did his life attend | He had no foe to all he was a friend.

On a flat stone (R) in the chancel of the old Chapel, now exposed to the air, but remaining in its old position. The inscription in capitals :

Wickenby

Notes taken in the church, 15 October, 1840—The church consists of a nave, south aisle, and chancel which is separated from the nave by an old screen, much decayed, by which are hung up two ancient halberts (D) which were found in a heap of rubbish in the church.
 In the window of the south aisle is this shield in old glass—Azure, a lion rampant between fleur de lis or, over all a bend gobony argent and gules [Beaumont].

Against the east wall of the south aisle is a brass plate on which above is this shield of arms engraved—A chevron between three bridle bits [Millner]; [below lies a figure in a shroud]; and on each side is a scull crowned with laurel in a cup, underneath this inscription :

Behold thy selfe by me | Such one was I as thou | And thou in time shall be | Euen dust as I am now. | Here lyeth y^e

body of Henry Millner | gent. who departed this life the |
31th day of Ivly, Anno nativitatis 65 | Anno Domini 1635.

On an old stone in the chancel is this inscription (D) :

Here lieth the body | of Sr Edm. Cooper | knight four times |
Lord Mayor of York. | He died April . . , 1650, | W. Reresby being | then rector of this | parish.

On another stone close by (R) :

Here lieth y^e body of y^e | Rev^d Samuel Batchelor | Rector of this church | who departed this life | May the ninth, 1741, | aged 33 years. | Here also lieth the body | of Mary Batchelor his wife | who departed this life | November the 8, 1790, |
aged 85 years.

There is also another stone (D) inscribed to Theresa Hoyland daughter of Sarah Hoyland who died April 15, 1770, aged 42.

Wigtoft

Notes taken in y^e church, 12 September, 1839—This church is principally of y^e decorated order. It consists of a nave, aisles, and chancel, south porch, and tower and spire at y^e west end. The nave and aisles rest upon four decorated arches springing from handsome clustered shafts. The arch to y^e chancel has been blocked up when y^e church was repaired in 1816, and a fine wooden screen of decorated work, barbarously cut away to make room for the pulpit stairs, which pulpit (R) is stuck right in y^e middle of the nave with its back to y^e altar in y^e modern fashion. The windows of y^e church are all decorated except those of the chancel which are perpendicular, of which style is, I think, the clerestory. The south aisle windows are very good. The eastern window is a square modern disfigurement. In one of y^e windows of y^e north aisle is a shield of arms, being—France and England quarterly. One of the corbels (R) of the timber roof is very singular, being a figure of a man with his head between his legs. The font is a modern stone trough. The church is regularly pewed and has quite a modern appearance inside. The tower is Norman for its three lower stages, and has a very curious window on the western side adorned with y^e toothed and chevron mouldings, and having shafts at y^e side of a singular form thus :

The upper story of the tower, which is a short one, is perpendicular. The south porch is Early English and curious, having y^e cornice of y^e sides supported by a range of low round-headed arches like y^e Norman work we see occasionally on y^e cornices of walls.

A common stone tablet with cherubs, &c., against the east wall of the chancel (D):

Near | this place lieth | y^e body of Edward | son of Edw^d
James | clerk by Martha | his wife who | died Decemb^r | y^e 2^d, 1722.

A flat stone in y^e floor near y^e entrance to the chancel:

Hic jacet | D: Jesu expectans Epiphaniam Gulielmus
Smyth | Ecclesiæ hujus Pastorum | unus et nemini secundus |
Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ membrum vere orthdoxum. | Idem
ex | Vera Pietate in Deum | Summa Integritate in amicos |
Egregio amore in Suos | Nota Probitate in omnes | insigniter
celebris | Vero omnium cum luctu | E Vita migravit 27^o
Octob: | Ætatis 45^o | anno Dom. 1717.

A black stone in the north aisle, lying crossways north and south (R):

In memory | of | John Dickinson gentleman | who departed this life the 5th day | of June 1740, aged 53. | He was a tender husband, an indulgent | and provident parent, a peaceable & neighbour, a sincere friend, In | all his dealings honest & upright, | in his faith and practise a sound pious & charitable
Christian. | Go reader and do thou likewise.

Another to the south of the last (R):

In memory of Mary the wife | of Mr William Taylor who de | parted this life June y^e 27th, | 1738, ætatis suæ 64. |
Thomas Abbott Wright son | of Noble Thomas Wright gent. | who died in his infancy | was under this stone with his | grandmother Mrs Taylor | interred Feby 26th, 1741.

Another more to the south in y^e nave (R):

M : H : P : S : | Brigidæ | Rev^d Trubshaw Bates, A.B., |
uxoris | ob : an : Æt. suæ 38 | Sal : suæ 1740.

Another more to the south (R):

In memory of | Mr Henry Conington | citizen of London | and late a linnen draper | in Cheepside and | free of y^e Fish-mongers Company. | He was grandson to the late | Mr Thomas
Wright | and departed this life | Dec^r the 4th, 1770, | aged 45
years.

Another more to the south of the last mentioned inscription (R):

In memory of John Wright | son of Thomas Wright gent. |
by Mary his wife departed | this life February y^e 17, 173³, |
in the 22 year of his age.

Another still more to the south (R):

Here lyeth the body of | Thomas Wright | gent. interred
October | the 1st, 1723, | aged 50 years | And also Mary his | daughter. | In the same Grave | with his father sleep |

 the remains of Noble | Thomas Wright, gent., | who exchanged
 this | life for a blessed | immortality May y^e | 1st, in y^e 29
 year of | his age and of our | Redemption 1743.

In the south aisle is a flat stone which has had an inscription round y^e edge in old character, but it is now illegible.

A flat stone in y^e north aisle :

Here lieth y^e body | of William y^e son of | Thomas Wright
 gent. | by Mary his wife, | who departed this life | Jan^y y^e
 22, Anno D'ni | 1697.

 wife of Joseph Dell | of the city of Lincoln esq. | the only daughter | of John Becke esq. and Judith his wife | who died on the 16 September 1795, | aged 55 years. | This tablet | was erected by her only child | Mary Judith | the wife of Henry Hutton esq. | This marble | is also intended to keep alive | the like remembrance of | Joseph Dell esq. | above named, who died on the 8 day of May 1807, | aged 74 years, | and whose remains are also interred | in the vault beneath this chapel.

On a white and grey marble monument at the east end of the nave in the form of a sarcophagus with these arms under—Argent, on a fess three bucks' heads cabossed or [Hutton] ; on an escutcheon—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Dell ; 2nd and 3rd, Becke ; Crest—A sheaf of three arrows azure pointed or, feathered argent passed through a ducal coronet or :

To the much loved memory of | Mary Judeth the wife of Henry Hutton esq. | who died on the 23 day of August 1809, | in the 42 year of her age. | This marble in honor of her many virtues & of the high character | she uniformly maintained in the relative situations of | Daughter, Wife, and Mother | is deservedly erected by her surviving husband.

On a handsome white marble monument against the north wall of the chancel, arms over—Becke; crest—A fox's head (R):

Here repose the remains | of Thomas Becke of Lincoln, esq., | the founder and patron of this church, | whose experienced abilities in the profession | of the law | and unparalleled industry | enabled him to acquire a fortune | (without the sordid means of avaricious parsimony) | in times to whose extravagance few patrimonys | sufficed, | who had so much endeared himself to his intimates | by his meritorious conduct in the several relations | of Husband, Father, and Friend | that his death | at an age to which Temperance alone can extend | vitality | seemed to them as immature as it was sudden. | He was born 29 March 1690, dyed 19 Oct. 1757. | John Becke, esq., | erected this monument in pious veneration | to the memory of his father. | John Becke, esq. | only son of the said Thomas Becke | died 17 December 1763 | aged 51. | Thomas Kellet Becke esq. | only son of the said John Becke | died 7th April 1780, aged 35. | Judith Becke | widow of the said John Becke | died 30 January 1791, aged 75.

Below:

This monument was repaired and additions made to it | by Henry Hutton esq., and Mary Judith his wife | great granddaughter of the said Thomas Becke | A.D. 1799.

This church is modern and consists of a nave with a bay for a chancel, and a bell turret at the west end.

Wispington

Notes taken in the church, 17 October, 1840—The church is an old building with a brick tower; and the nave communicates with the chancel by three low arches.

Over the entrance to the chancel on an oval tablet (R):

Sacred | to the memory of | the Reverend John Martinson late vicar of this | church and rector of Screamby who departed | this life the 16 of July 1788, aged 51 years.

On an old stone (R) in the chancel, very much rubbed, on which has been the figure of a priest with his head reclining on a cushion and this inscription round the edge:

[Hic | jacet dominus Jo | hannes Hetsete] quondam Rector
[istius] ecclesie | qui obiit | . . . mensis | anno d'ni M^oCCCCCLXXX OCTAVO | Cuius anime propicietur
deus | Amen.

On a flat black stone in the chancel, the upper part of which is hid by a pew (R):

[Here lyeth the body of] Robert Phillips gentleman | who departed this life the | 24 day of June 1668.

And underneath is added:

On the south side of this | stone, close to it, lyes the body | of Phillips Glover esq.

On a tablet against the wall on the north side of the chancel with these arms—Azure, a chevron between three falcons argent [Phillips]. Crest—A demi falcon argent :

To the memory | of | John Phillips esq. | this monument is dedicated | by his nephew & heir | Phillips Glover esq. | He was the 2nd & last surviving | son of Robert Phillips esq. | who lyes buried in this chancel. | He dyd unmarried on the 19th of | February 1719 : 20, aged 62, | and in him his family was extinct. | In memory of | Phillips Glover, esq. | He married Mary the daughter | and heiress of Richard Lee esq. | of Winslade in Devonshire, and left | 2 children, Phillips and Mary. | He died June 18, MDCCXLV. | Veri cultor et libertatis. | This inscription is by his order.

On a tablet on the south side of the chancel with the same arms as the last :

Witham on the Hill

Notes taken in the church, 20 July, 1833—

Upon a brass plate against the wall north of the altar, this in capitals :

Hic jacent Robertus Harington Armiger et | Alicia uxor ejus qui quidem Robertus obiit | Quarto die Ianuarii Anno D'ni 1558, et anno | Regni Elizabethæ Dei gracia Angliæ Frauncæ et | Hiberniæ Reginæ fidei defensoris etc. primo. | Eademque Alicia obiit 23 die Novembris Anno | D'ni 1565, et Anno dictæ Reginæ octavo.

A white marble pyramidal tablet against the north wall of the chancel in capitals :

Sacred | to the memory of | the Rev^d Woolsey Johnson clerk | who died April 21 1756 | in the sixtieth year of his age, | and Jane his wife daughter of | Richard Russell esq. of Warwick, | who died February 9 1759 in the | fifty second year of her age. | Also of George William Johnson, esq. | eldest son of the above Woolsey | Johnson and Jane his wife | who died February 8, 1814, | in the seventy fourth year of his age. | Through life beloved.

On another tablet more to the west :

Sacred to the memory of | the Rev^d Robert Augustus Johnson | rector of Wistanstow in the county of Salop, | and of Hampstall Redware in the county of Stafford | Born October the 21, 1745, | Married January 21, 1773, Anna Rebecca | sister to William Lord Craven | by whom he left issue 3 sons & four daughters. | Died at Bath January 8, 1799. | Beloved, Esteemed, Lamented.

An atchievement (D) against the north wall of the chancel bears these arms—Argent, a chevron sable between three lions' heads, erased gules, crowned or [Johnson]. Crest—On a torse of his colours, a lion's head as in arms. Motto—Spes mea in Deo.

On a flat stone in the nave near the west end (D) :

In | memory of | Henry Goodlad | who departed this life | October the 10th, 1781, | in the 49th year of | his age.

Upon another to the east (D) :

In | memory of | Henry Goodlad | who departed this life | Feb. 11th, 1795, | aged 59 years.

This church consists of a nave, separated from the north aisle by four pointed arches, and from the south by four Norman ones. A fine Norman arch to the chancel (D). There is a north transept, and a tower and spire which are both modern at the south side. The west window is large. The church has lately been repaired. The vicar is the Rev^d [John] Cheales.

North Witham

Notes taken in the church, 16 August, 1837—

On a brass plate in the chancel, from whence a figure in brass has been removed, this in old character :

Hic jacet Will'us Mistarton de North Witham | armiger, dominus de Swæffelde qui obiit xxi | die mensis Januarii Anno domini mill'imo | cccc vicesimo quinto cuius anime propicietur deus.

A black marble monument against y^e north wall of chancel, arms over, nearly effaced, apparently—A chevron between five fleur de lys or [for Johnson]. The inscription, being on a black ground, is very difficult to decypher :

P.M.S. | Thome Johnson | de North Witham in Com. Linc. Arm. | Willielmi Johnson Armig. | et Angeletæ Filii | mortem secularem obiit ut in vitam æternam iniret | 6^o kal. Sept. Anno salutis 1697 | Ætatis 51. | Hanc tabellam marmoream | Aureæ vice qua dignius erat curatam | illibati semper amoris pignus | uxor mærentissima | Maria Johnson | posuit.

A brass plate below in capitals :

Here lyeth the body | of Thomas Johnson esq. | deceased
August the 27th | 1697.

A black tablet against the south wall of the chancel :

Nere this place lieth the body of | Richard Garnon | Master of Arts and | rector of North Wytham, who was | descended from the Garnons | of Brant | Broughton in the county of | Lincoln ; he died the fifth day of | February in the year of our Lord 1688 | And in the sixty fourth year of his age.

Below are these arms—A stag's head cabossed, a mullet for difference [Garnon] ; impaling—Three boars' heads [query for Clarke] ; above are the arms of Garnon only.

In the north wall of the chancel is a low pointed arch under which is a slab of alabaster stone with a cross cut thereon, and across the stone the following inscription in old characters much effaced :

Hic iacet Nicholaus | . . ie cuius anime propicietur deus amen. [No doubt the tomb of Nicholas Tye, died 1410, who desired to be buried in the chancel.]

A tablet against the south wall of the chancel :

Near this place | lieth interred the body of | the Rev^d Mr
John Plumpton | rector of this parish who | after a long & painful illness | died May the 9th, 1766, | aged 46 years.

A stone tablet (R) against the outside of the south wall of the chancel near the west end :

Near this place lye | the bodys of Nicolas Troughton | and
Elizabeth his wife. | He dyed the 17 | day of Sep- | tember
1703 | in the 78th year | of his age. | She dyed the 28th | day of March | 1689 about the | 52 year of her | age.

In the churchyard is an altar tomb which apparently has had a brass plate thereon, but it is now gone ; on y^e north side of it is a shield bearing—A fesse vaire between three eagles displayed [Kinardesley]. At y^e end a crest of a greyhound sejant under a tree [Kinardesley] ; and at the west end a shield bearing a lion rampant.

Another altar tomb bears the arms—A chevron between three boars' heads ; crest—A bugle horn. Another has a stag's head cabossed, a mullet for difference [Garnon]. Neither of these have any inscription apparent at y^e present time.

This church consists of a nave, and a chancel which has once had a north aisle or chapel attached to it, and an Early English tower and spire at the west end. The south porch is also of that style. The font is circular pannelled with a series of arches and pillars. There is a Norman north door adorned with the chevron moulding. There are preserved in the church two old oak bench fronts, bearing arms cut upon them as follows—Quarterly, 1st, A fess dance between six billets [De la Launde]; 2nd, a lion rampant, double queueé [Welles]; 3rd, A cross between four eagles' heads [Tye]; 4th, Ermine, a fess between three crosslets fitchée [for Wyke]. Crest—On a helm and mantling, a lion passant guardant; supporters—Two eagles. The other shield bears the same arms except that the third is the same as the second quarter, and the crest is a lion rampant.

[There are also monuments to Johnson, Frankland, and Sherard.]

[See also Jeans, 46-7.]

(MS ix, 115-119.)

South Witham

Notes taken in y^e church, 16 August, 1837—This church consists of a nave and aisles, resting on y^e north side on two Norman arches having plain columns with sculptured capitals, and on y^e south side on two decorated arches with octagonal pillars, y^e eastern one having its capital foliated. Two transepts; in y^e north, a perpendicular window. There is no chancel. At y^e west end is a turret containing two bells, on y^e larger of which is this inscription: 'Although my voice be shrill & small | I shall be heard aloud to call | Intactum sileo. percutē dulce cano | 1785 Nottingham'. On y^e least bell is y^e same Latin inscription and date. Two arches (D) are on each side supporting y^e tower, or rather turret, one behind y^e other, y^e foremost a pointed sharp arch y^e hinder Norman. Y^e font is octagonal having fleur de lys cut on y^e sides apparently unfinished.

A monument against y^e east wall, north of y^e altar (R):

Juxta hunc tumulum jacet | corpus Dominæ Elizabethæ | uxor Caroli Halford | Armigeri filia et cohæres | Tho. Mitchel de South | Witham in comitatu | Lincolnæ Armigeri obiit | decimo septimo die | Februarii Anno Dom. | MDCXCIV, Ætatis | suæ LXIII.

A stone tablet (R) against y^e east wall of y^e north aisle, with these arms below—Three cinquefoyles, a chief [Stone]; impaling—On a chevron between three swans a crescent [Mitchell]. Above y^e monument a crest of a griffin's head and wings issuing from a ducal coronet, and a motto all that could be decyphered of which was, 'Tantum Mors corporum edax'.

Beneath y^s monument lyes y^e body | of Ann eldest daughter & coheire of | Tho. Mitchell esq. by Kath. his wife, both | interred in y^e church, who had issue 3 sons | & 3 daughters all borne in y^s parish & 4 | buried as aforesaid. | She was first married to Luke Norton esq^r | who had issue Lettice & Katharine, both | dead, y^e former in y^e 4th year of her age

& | was buried in y^s church A'no 1668 as hir | father before A'no 1666. | Her second husband was Hen^y Stone late | of Skellingthorpe in y^s county esquire | who dedicates y^s memorial. | She was borne in April A'no 1623 and | dyed December y^e 2d, 1673. | All flesh is grasse &c.

On a brass plate (R) in y^e wall under y^e last monument these arms—A fret [Harrington]; . . . impaling—Barry of eight . . . and gules, in chief a greyhound currant [Skipworth]. This inscription in capitals :

Here lyeth buried Elizabeth | wife to Thomas Harrington of | South Witham esq. and one of the | daughters of Henry Skipworth of | Kethorpe in the county of | Leicester esq. who dyed the x of | Februarye 1597.

On a brass plate (R) in y^e east pillar of y^e north aisle in old character :

Margery seconde wyffe of Frauncys Harryngton | esquier dyed 16 Aug. 1577, 19 Eliz., | and left issue betwene them two sonnes | Edward and Fraunceys & one daughter Lucy.

A stone monument (R) against y^e east wall of y^e north transept arms over—Two bars in chief, three stags' heads cabossed [Wimberley]; impaling—A horse's head coupé [Marsh]. This inscription in two columns :

(1) Near this place | lieth the body of | Will^m Wimberley | gent. who died July 23, | 1751, aged 85.

(2) Beneath | this monument | lyeth the body of | Catherine the wife of | William Wimberley | who deceased Jan^y | the 19 day of 17⁴⁶/₇ | aged 44 years. | Also | the body of William | Wimberley the son of the | abovesaid William and Catharine | who departed this life | December the 25, 1722, | aged 22 years.

A stone tablet (R) to the south of the last :

Near | this place | lyeth the body of | Sherard Wimberley | gent. who died Oct. 17th, 1751 | aged 53. | Likewise the body of | Mrs Frances Wimberley | wife of the said | Sherard Wimberley | gent. She died Dec^r y^e 20, 1754, | aged 52.

A square marble tablet surmounted by an urn against y^e west wall of y^e north transept (R) :

Sacred to the memory of | Margaret wife of Rich^d Lluellyn | esquire who after a life spent in the | exercise of every Christian virtue | died on the 15th of January 1822 | in the 81st year of her age. | And | in the same vault near the altar with his | beloved wife are intombed the remains | of Richard Lluellyn esq. who died Jan^y 5, | 1829 in his 89 year sincerely lamented.

Wootton

Notes taken in the church of Wotton, 31 August, 1835—This church consists of a nave and aisles, resting on three pointed arches on each side, a chancel, and a tower at the west end, and a south porch. The arch between the nave and chancel is pointed, but the pulpit (D) now stands in the middle of it. The chancel was rebuilt by the late Lord Yarborough. The font (R) is ancient and round.

A white marble tablet (R) against the east wall of the chancel south of the altar :

Near this monument lies interred y^e body of | Francis Ellis
gent. third son of | Richard Ellis late Alderman of Hull. | He departed this life y^e fifth of August | 1759 in the sixtieth year of his age.

In the chancel are flat stones to the memory of :

Mary wife of John Steel 29 May 1797, æt. 43.

John Robert their son died 17 Nov. 1819, æt. 25.

Samuel Steel died 26 June 1792, æt. 80.

Ann his wife died 11 May 1812, æt. 96.

Mr John Faulding died 8 Feb. 1761, æt. 69 (D).

On an old stone at the west end of the south aisle much rubbed :

Depositum Samuelis filius 3 | Johannis Uppleby et Barbaræ |
uxoris ejus de Wotton qui | sepultus fuit 20 die Aprilis |
salutis reparatæ 1680 Annoque | Ætatis suæ 10. | Nil

A marble monument over the north door surmounted by a cherub; arms—Azure, six martlets argent, on a chief argent three bucks' heads proper [Bentley]:

Near this monument lies interred the body | of Ann the wife of John Uppleby esq. daughter | of Christopher Bentley of Hatchliffe gent. | She departed this life the 18 of April 1768 | in the thirty second year of her age. | Also the body of the said John Uppleby who | died the 15 of May 1786 in the fifty second | year of his age. | Also of Elizabeth his second wife who died | the 9th of January 1813 aged 67 years.

A white marble tablet against the wall west of the north door, these arms over—Three lions passant [Giffard]; crest—A demy lion holding a branch; second crest—An arm couped above the elbow, holding a banner:

In a vault beneath | lie the remains of | Ann the beloved wife of | the rev^d James Giffard M.A. | she died 9 October
1827 | also of Elizabeth his revered mother | who died 15
February 1830.

Wragby

Notes taken in the church, [blank].—There are no monuments or flat stones in this church whatever.

Against the end of the north aisle is this achievement—Ermines, a cross voided argent, charged with four millrinds sable [Turnor]; impaling—Argent, two lions passant azure [Hanmer]. Crest—A lion passant argent holding a millrind sable (D).

The church consists of a nave and north aisle, resting upon four Norman arches rising from round columns, a chancel, and a tower at the west end. In the east window are the arms of King Charles, and these two shields below—(1) Ermine, a griffin segreant gules [Grantham]; impaling—Sable, a chevron between three leopards' faces or [Wentworth]; (2) The coats just mentioned, quartered. Crest—On a torse argent and gules, a blackamoor's head proper; motto—Comme Dieu Garrantit [Grantham]. Over the second—On a torse or and gules a griffin passant argent; motto—En Dieu est tout [Wentworth].

Wykeham Chapel

Notes taken in the chapel of Wykham, September 19, 1837—

This chapel, which is now in ruins, must once have been a very beautiful one. It is small in length, there being no division into nave, aisles, or chancel. On each side are three large windows, the two opposite ones nearest y^e west end are bricked, the middle one on y^e south side is decorated, very fine, y^e others appear to be perpendicular. The east and west windows are of larger size, the eastern perpendicular, but much broken; y^e western is bricked up. In the east wall, north and south of y^e place where y^e altar has been, are two very beautiful ogee arched niches, canopied with crockets and finials of decorated character; they are yet very perfect and very elegant specimens of y^e style.

At y^e south west corner is a small turret with a circular staircase to the top, and on y^e outside near y^e summit is carved y^e 'Harrington Knot', and a date which I [A. L.] could not make out being so high, but was informed by y^e person who shewed y^e chapel that it was 1580, which it appeared like, though of course y^e place must have been built much earlier. The font basin remains; it is circular octagonal of a simple style. The floor is overgrown with grass and weeds, but a few flat stones yet remain legible.

Towards the east end is a stone from which two brasses of inscriptions have been removed and a shield. At the bottom is carved a shield of arms—A fret [for Harrington], with this inscription:

Here lyeth interr'd y^e Body of | James Harrington esq^r sonne | to John Harrington of Wickham | in y^e county of Lincolne esq.
he | departed this life the 24 day of | July Anno Domini 1688,
in the 68th | year of his age.

A stone to the north of the last, broken in parts:

George Ravenscroft esq. | was interred under this stone |
July 26th 1752 | and | John his son March 20 1747. | To whose memory the above monument | was erected.

This monument, which is now gone, appears to have been on y^e north wall of y^e chapel; the base of it is yet left.

A flat stone at the west end:

In memory of | William Cash gent. who | departed this life
the 16th of May | 1735, aged 81 years | in hopes of a joyful Resurrection.

On a black stone to y^e north of y^e last, nearly covered with earth, is commemorated Rebecca wife of William Cash gent., who died 25 April 1747, æt. 65.

Another stone to Mary wife of William Bailey died 2^d June 1759, aged 37 years, to whom she left two children William and Elizabeth.

The description in the Lincolnshire Magazine, ii, 488, was taken about 1790, and much more then remained. Most of the monuments were then entire, and the inscriptions are fortunately there inserted. The date near the Harrington knot is there said to be 1690.

Yarborough

Notes taken in the church, 24 August, 1835—

On a flat stone in the chancel:

Here lie the bodies | of the Rev^d William Weightman | rector of this place, | who died December 13 1760 | aged 47 years | and of Elizabeth his wife | who died June 3 1784 aged 68. |
Interred near them lies the body | of his mother Alice | who died May 5, 1766, aged 80.

On a flat stone at the west end of the north aisle:

In memory of | Rev^d John Crichton | who departed this life | Feb^y the 3 1814 | aged 62 | after being 36 years | Curate of this parish | and Grainthorpe.

This church consists of a nave and north aisle, separated by four pointed arches springing from octagonal columns, a chancel, and a tower at the west end. The arch between the nave and chancel is pointed, but the head is blocked up. There is also a screen of old oak. The east window of the north aisle is filled with modern stained glass representing the principal miracles of our Saviour, the centre compartment being the Resurrection. It was presented by the late Rev^d Wolley Jolland, vicar of Louth, who is buried in the churchyard under the window. The colours and figures are nearly effaced. The font is a plain octagon. The tower of this church is perpendicular in character and it has a very beautiful door, squareheaded, with a moulding of quatrefoyls running round. In the spandril of the arch is a representation of Adam and Eve standing before the tree. On the other spandril are two shields, the one bearing the emblems of the Crucifixion and the other apparently the Paschal Lamb. The inner moulding of the arch is very beautiful, of pomegranites and leaves, and it has had an inscription running round, but unfortunately so defaced that it has become undecypherable. These words appear to remain:

Wo so looks thys work opon
Pray for all yat [yt be gun].
